NOTICE TO THE VICTIM - IMPORTANT INFORMATION

This is your copy of the report made to police - please keep it.

Your insurer may require a copy of this if you lodge an insurance claim for stolen or damaged property.

The police will do their best to find the person responsible. Police investigations can take some time to complete. The police will ask you if you wish to be kept informed about the progress of your case. This may include if you are charged, outcomes of bail applications and court results. You should let the police know if you have any concerns for your safety.

Advice

Referral

The Victims of Crime Helpline is a free service to assist victims to manage and recover from the effects of a crime.

Helpline staff can:

- refer you to the most appropriate support agency for your needs

For the TTY service phone (hearing impaired).

The police should provide "A Victim's Guide to Support from the Criminal Justice System" (www.victimsofcrime.vic.gov.au) in PDF file format.

- contact other agencies on your behalf
- arrange a translator for non-English speaking callers.

Please ensure you type 'V' in the search engine to download the booklet.

This booklet contains useful information on how and where to get help with the criminal justice system after a crime.

After a Crime

After a serious crime, you may feel:

- emptiness
- anxiety
- sleeplessness
- exhaustion
- depression
- guilt
- anger
- grief
- feeling deserted
- symptoms of illness

Everyone reacts and deals with the aftermath in their own way.

The following are some tips that may help you:

- talk about how you feel with someone you trust
- eat regularly and nutritiously
- make sure you get physical activity
- limit the use of alcohol and drugs

Victims Assistance Program (VAP)

The Victims Assistance Program (VAP) is a network of services operating throughout Victoria to provide victims, their families or anyone affected by violent crime with access to information and support.

To be eligible for VAP services, you must be an individual who has experienced or witnessed a violent crime or who has had a relative die as a result of violent crime that occurred in Victoria, reported to the police. You are eligible if you are a:

- primary victim of a violent crime (or a related victim in the case of homicide) or a family member of a victim within the past two years and has been reported to police
- victim of family violence who has been granted an intervention order by a Victorian court within the past two years.

The VAP agencies are co-located in many Police Stations throughout the state and also provide the following services:

- Information about the criminal justice system and process
- Support with practical needs such as transport, security, appointments
- Help completing forms, submissions, victim impact statements
- Referral to legal services, courts, VOCAT
- Referral to other specialist services (counselling, housing, children's, health)

Call the Victims of Crime Helpline on 1800 819 817 for your

Victims of Crime Assistance Tribunal (VOCAT)

As a victim of a violent crime, you may incur a range of expenses. You may be entitled to financial assistance to help with these costs through VOCAT.

To be an eligible applicant for VOCAT, the violent crime must:

- have taken place in Victoria
- have been reported to police, and
- have taken place in the past two years (except for some childhood sexual crime)

Urgent financial assistance may be available by applying to VOCAT for an Interim Award.

For further information, please contact VOCAT on 1800 882 752 or www.vocat.vic.gov.au

The Victims' Charter Act 2006

The Victims' Charter Act 2006 outlines your rights as a victim of crime and how you can access criminal justice agencies and support services.

The Victims' Charter Act recognises the impact of crime on you and your family. You can access about specialist support services to help you recover from the effects of the crime.
