Dear Dr McLean

Thank you for your complaint about the Australian Financial Complaints Authority (AFCA).

You told us that;

- You were denied your right to justice by an AFCA employee and banned from contacting AFCA by phone or email.
- You want compensation for the detriment you suffered.

AFCA - Out of Jurisdiction

Your concern about the AFCA relating to an AFCA employee is not within our scope to consider. You may wish to seek your own advice in relation to this matter.

CDDA Scheme

You may be able to seek compensation for the financial loss you have suffered as a result of the detriment you have suffered.

The Scheme for Compensation for Detriment caused by Defective Administration (CDDA) is an administrative scheme established to allow Australian Government agencies to provide compensation where there is a moral rather than a legal obligation to do so.

Guidance on how the CDDA scheme operates, the criteria to be applied and the calculation of payments is set out under the attached CDDA guidelines. Further information on CDDA can also be found at: <http://www.finance.gov.au/resource-management/discretionary-financial-assistance/>

Yours sincerely

DD
