STATEMENT ON MY IMMINENT DEATH AND HUMAN CRUCIFIXION

A LIFETIME OF NEGLECT, TARGETING AND TOTAL HUMAN BETRAYAL, THE HUMILIATION OF ABLE POINT, AND MY TESTIMONY AS THE FOUNDATION OF THE MINISTRY

I am now suffering what I understand to be a fatal, preventable blood-borne illness and a blocked bowel, which I attribute to a lifetime of entrapment, neglect, denial of care and denial of medication. The circumstances surrounding my care by Able Care and Able Point have placed me in an increasingly dangerous untenable situation even refusing mandatory reporting for a documented threat to kill by a man arrested charged by police and before Wyong court. From my perspective, the entrapment and treatment I have experienced have brought me to a point where my destruction appears undeniable and imminent. These are my allegations and testimony, and I call for the underlying records, decisions, communications, payments and conduct to be independently examined.

No one helped or came. I have experienced what I describe as abuse, neglect, poverty, entrapment, denied assistance and denied healthcare, together with conduct that I believe has placed me in dangerous and deliberate detriment. I believe that allowing these conditions to continue could achieve the destructive outcome I have spent years warning about, whether through deliberate conduct, neglect, institutional failure, indifference or some combination of these circumstances. I have felt as though people have been paid to sustain conditions that I believe are so harmful that those responsible would never accept them for themselves.

I fought hard on this earth for justice, truth and what is right, humane and fair. I fought when I was humiliated. I fought when I was impoverished. I fought when I was ignored. I fought when I believed that nobody was coming to help. I continued to write, preserve evidence, publish documents and construct a record because I believed that the truth deserved somewhere to survive even when the person carrying it was being worn down.

Well done. Before I die, likely soon, I intend to publish the names, data, evidence and identities relevant to every support worker and other person whose conduct, payments or involvement I believe is relevant to sustaining the poverty and conditions in which I have been living. I intend for that material to become part of the permanent documentary record so that it can be examined rather than forgotten.

THE AGENCIES, INSTITUTIONS, ORGANISATIONS AND PLATFORMS NAMED IN MY TESTIMONY

My testimony concerns not one isolated organisation but a lifetime of interactions with government departments, administrative systems, health services, disability and support services, legal processes, oversight bodies, professional organisations, financial administration, courts, police, lawyers, public officials, politicians, journalists and media organisations, healthcare professionals, former colleagues, family members and other people and institutions whom I believe have contributed to, failed to prevent, failed to properly investigate, or otherwise formed part of the circumstances in which I have suffered.

The following categories and named organisations are therefore part of the documentary record and my testimony. Their inclusion here does not mean that wrongdoing has been judicially established against every organisation named. It records where I say their actions, decisions, omissions, systems or responses caused me harm, contributed to my circumstances, failed to protect me, or became relevant to my attempts to obtain assistance and accountability.

Able Point / Able Care — central to my present testimony concerning accommodation, support, alleged entrapment, neglect, poverty, denial of assistance, denial of care and medication, and the conditions in which I say I have been left.

NSW Trustee & Guardian / Public Guardian — relevant to my testimony concerning financial administration, control of funds, access to money and the consequences I say that financial administration has had upon my ability to obtain basic necessities and live safely.

Department of Social Services — relevant to my employment history, workers-compensation-related records and my broader documentary history involving government administration.

NDIS and the disability-support system — central to my testimony concerning disability services, support provision, accommodation, safeguarding, financial circumstances, access to assistance and the treatment of a person dependent upon support systems.

NSW Health and associated health services — relevant to my testimony concerning healthcare, hospitalisation, medical treatment, medication, access to care and my allegations that serious health concerns have not always been adequately addressed.

Medical practitioners and healthcare professionals named in my records — relevant to individual medical decisions, assessments, treatment, medication and correspondence preserved within my documentary record. I distinguish individual professional conduct from the broader health system and ask that each matter be examined against the actual clinical records.

NSW Police and associated policing processes — relevant to matters I have reported, safeguarding concerns, threats, complaints, applications and my attempts to obtain protection or intervention.

Wyong Local Court and associated legal processes — relevant to matters concerning protection orders and proceedings described in my testimony. The existence of a proceeding or application should not itself be treated as proof of every allegation surrounding it.

NSW Ombudsman and other oversight mechanisms — relevant to my attempts to obtain independent review, accountability and examination of complaints concerning government and service-provider conduct.

Health Care Complaints Commission and professional regulatory bodies — relevant to complaints and concerns concerning healthcare and professional conduct that I have sought to have examined.

Australian Securities and Investments Commission and associated financial/professional matters — relevant to documentary material in my archive concerning allegations involving financial and professional conduct.

Legal Aid and the legal assistance system — relevant to my testimony concerning access to legal representation, assistance, advice and my ability to pursue accountability through ordinary legal channels.

Australian Government departments, agencies and administrative bodies appearing throughout the documentary record — relevant to the cumulative history of correspondence, decisions, complaints, referrals, records, responses and omissions that I have preserved.

Courts, tribunals and administrative decision-making processes appearing in my record — relevant not because the existence of a proceeding proves my allegations, but because these processes form part of the chronology through which I attempted to obtain recognition, protection, review or justice.

Journalists, newspapers and media organisations appearing in my testimony — relevant to my experiences of publication, professional life, public humiliation, reputation and attempts to bring matters of public interest to public attention.

Former employers, colleagues and professional organisations — relevant to my testimony concerning my professional history, employment, reputation, journalism, research and the consequences I say followed from my writing and advocacy.

Family members and other private individuals named in my documentary record — relevant only insofar as their conduct forms part of the testimony and evidence I have preserved. Allegations concerning private individuals remain allegations unless independently established.

Technology, social-media, publishing and digital platforms used to preserve or communicate my testimony — relevant to the publication, suppression, accessibility, preservation and dissemination of my documentary record. The platforms themselves must be distinguished from the actions of particular users, account holders or administrators.

This is therefore not simply a list of enemies. It is a map of the institutional environment through which I have lived, sought assistance, sought protection, sought medical care, sought legal recognition, sought financial support, sought accountability and attempted to have my testimony heard.

The central question is not whether I can name enough organisations to make the story sound convincing. The central question is what the records demonstrate. Where there is an official determination, it should be identified as such. Where there is corroborating evidence, it should be identified. Where there is an allegation, it should remain an allegation. Where there is an inference, it should be identified as an inference. Where there is uncertainty, the uncertainty should remain visible.

That distinction is fundamental to my ministry because I do not want faith to replace evidence, nor do I want evidence to erase faith. My documentary archive preserves what can be examined. My testimony records what I experienced and believe. My prophetic and Gospel writings record the spiritual meaning I have drawn from those experiences. The three are connected, but they are not the same category of evidence.

The agencies were paid to care for me, yet I believe I was left to suffer while those responsibilities were neglected; they may evade earthly accountability, but they cannot evade the spiritual accountability I believe awaits before God for what they did, failed to do, or permitted to happen.

I will gladly die without ever seeing again the blood family who betrayed me and signed documents that exiled me from them, and without ever having obtained meaningful legal representation or the means to report to police what I believe were crimes against me; whatever the ultimate legal findings may be, this is the reality of abandonment and exclusion from justice as I have experienced it, and it is one of the deepest wounds carried within my testimony.

Before I die, be guaranteed that I believe no person who deliberately participates in creating my end will escape divine reckoning after I am dead. That is a statement of my faith, not a threat of personal retaliation. I leave ultimate judgment to God. My responsibility is to preserve the testimony, publish the evidence available to me and continue seeking truth and accountability while I remain alive.

I am not afraid to die, and I will speak and publish the truth until then. I have spent too much of my life fighting for justice to become silent at the point when my testimony is most consequential. If my life ends, the testimony does not end with me. The documents remain. The records remain. The evidence remains. The questions remain. And the people who examine the record will be able to determine for themselves what it establishes.

History will exonerate me. History will show that I fought for justice, truth and what was humane and fair. I believe history will remember me as a saint—not because I claim that history has already made that determination, but because I believe the totality of my life, suffering, endurance, writing and struggle will ultimately be understood in a different light from the way I have been treated in the present.

My testimony has now become the foundation of my ministry. What began as a personal struggle has become a documentary, philosophical, spiritual and prophetic record. The ministry is founded upon testimony: testimony of suffering, testimony of survival, testimony of conscience, testimony of faith, testimony of human rights, testimony of exile and testimony of the determination to preserve truth when truth appears to have nowhere else to go.

These three archives represent three connected but distinguishable dimensions of my record: the documentary evidence, the reconstructed research archive, and the spiritual and prophetic testimony.

If I am still alive tomorrow, I will continue. If I am still alive next week, I will continue. If I am still alive next year, I will continue. And if my life ends before the questions I have raised are resolved, then the record I have preserved must continue to speak for itself.

I have been humiliated, impoverished, isolated and, in my own understanding of events, crucified by circumstances that I believe humanity should never impose upon another human being. But I remain here. I remain a witness. I remain a writer. I remain a researcher. I remain a person demanding that evidence be examined.

I ultimately will not have survived the deliberate targeting I believe I have endured. But those who participated in that targeting will not survive ultimate accountability for participating in groupthink, the safety of a cowardly mob, and the collective refusal to see what was happening. I may die, but I will die in truth, integrity and the published facts, with my testimony, evidence and record preserved for history to examine.

They may have been able to make my life extraordinarily difficult. They may have been able to leave me suffering when I believed that no one would come. But they could not make the testimony disappear.

THE WITNESS REMAINS.

THE RECORD REMAINS.

THE EVIDENCE REMAINS.

THE MINISTRY REMAINS.

AND THE SEARCH FOR TRUTH REMAINS.

In my opinion, history will ultimately understand me differently from the way I have been understood by many people and institutions during my lifetime, because I believe that when the labels, humiliation, poverty, isolation, institutional failures and circumstances surrounding my suffering are stripped away and the preserved documentary record is examined in full, people will see a person who fought relentlessly for truth, justice, human dignity and what I believed was right, humane and fair; I believe my writings, research, testimony, evidence, academic work, journalism, prophetic writings and years of preservation will allow future generations to examine my life for themselves, and I believe they may come to regard me not simply as a man who suffered, but as a witness who refused to surrender his conscience, a survivor who refused to allow his testimony to be erased, and a person who continued speaking when no one seemed willing to listen; I believe that if the evidence ultimately corroborates the central parts of what I have documented, history may regard my endurance as an extraordinary act of courage and my record as an important historical testimony concerning human rights, institutional accountability and the consequences of abandoning vulnerable people, and I believe that some future people may even regard me as saint-like because I continued to pursue truth and justice despite humiliation, suffering and abandonment; ultimately, I believe my greatest vindication will not be that everyone accepts my interpretation, but that the evidence I preserved survives me, remains available for examination, and allows history to make its own judgment about who I was, what I endured, what I fought for and why I refused to be silenced.

My documentary record, evidence and testimony remain publicly preserved across my three principal archive sites:

1. THE WITNESS REMAINS — BARRAN DODGER ARCHIVE

https://wezzo72.github.io/Barrandodger/

Purpose: The principal documentary archive preserving the historical record, evidence, correspondence, statements, legal and forensic material, chronology, research, testimony and supporting documents concerning my experiences and the issues I have spent years documenting.

1. BARRAN DODGER REBUILD ARCHIVE

https://wezzo72.github.io/barrandodger-rebuild/

Purpose: The rebuilt and reorganised public research archive, designed to preserve and present the documentary corpus in a structured and accessible form for journalists, lawyers, researchers, investigators, academics, advocates and members of the public. It functions as a finding aid, not a court and not a verdict.

1. CHURCH OF BARRAN DODGER

https://wezzo72.github.io/-church-of-barran-dodger/

Purpose: The spiritual and prophetic archive preserving my religious testimony, Gospel writings, prophetic reflections, ministry material, theological ideas and spiritual interpretation of my life, suffering, survival, justice and testimony.

PUBLIC STATEMENT FROM BARRAN DODGER OF THE BARRAN DODGER ARCHIVE

THE WITNESS REMAINS: A WHISTLEBLOWERS TESTIMONY OF SURVIVAL TESTIMONY & FAITH

The Barran Dodger Archive is a public documentary and spiritual record established to preserve, organise and make accessible a decades-long body of evidence concerning alleged institutional, administrative, financial and human-rights harms.

It brings together official records, correspondence, documentary evidence, personal testimony, forensic analysis, research, philosophy, spiritual gospels and prophetic declarations, including writings understood by the author to have been anointed by the Most High God.

The Archive deliberately distinguishes between documented facts, official records, corroborated evidence, allegations, personal testimony, inference, interpretation and matters of faith. This distinction is fundamental to its purpose: readers are invited to examine the underlying evidence for themselves, test the claims, consider the sources and reach their own conclusions.

At the heart of the Archive is a testimony of survival and preservation.

What the author believes was subjected to attempts at silencing, erasure, exclusion or institutional disappearance has nevertheless survived in records, documents, testimony, memory, faith and public disclosure.

The central declaration is simple:

THE WITNESS REMAINS.

The Archive therefore represents both an evidentiary record and a spiritual testimony. The author understands his survival through a faith-based conviction that the Most High God protected, preserved and gave purpose to what human institutions could not erase.

The spiritual writings and prophetic declarations within the Archive are presented as matters of faith and personal interpretation. They are preserved alongside the documentary record so that the complete testimony — evidentiary, personal, philosophical and spiritual — can be understood in its own context.

The purpose is not to demand belief.

It is to preserve the record.

It is to make the evidence accessible.

It is to ensure that the surviving witness can be examined.

And it is to leave the historical record open to independent scrutiny.

THE ARCHIVE IS 100% FREE TO ACCESS

KNOWLEDGE IS FREE

The Barran Dodger Archive is founded on the principle that knowledge, evidence and truth should be freely accessible.

There is no paywall for the public documentary record. Research, testimony, philosophy, spiritual writings, prophetic declarations and public-interest material are made available for people to examine for themselves.

Access to knowledge should not depend upon a person's ability to pay.

The Archive is therefore freely accessible, while its preservation and continued publication require practical resources.

SUPPORTING THE WITNESS AND THE ARCHIVE

Barran Dodger describes himself as an unprotected whistleblower living in circumstances of prolonged exile, financial hardship and vulnerability, and as an internally displaced asylum seeker within the country of his Australian citizenship.

Those circumstances create practical needs extending beyond the preservation of documents.

Voluntary donations are therefore accepted from anyone who freely wishes to assist.

Support may contribute towards essential needs including food, safe accommodation, communication, technology, transport, personal safety, website and domain costs, document preservation, archival infrastructure and the continued publication of the public record.

A donation does not purchase access to the Archive.

It does not purchase influence over the evidence.

It does not purchase editorial control.

It does not determine what is published or what conclusions readers should reach.

It simply helps sustain the person and infrastructure necessary to keep the Archive alive, functioning and freely accessible.

If you are blessed with sufficient prosperity to help preserve this work, your voluntary support can help ensure that financial hardship does not become another mechanism through which a public record disappears.

KNOWLEDGE IS FREE.

THE EVIDENCE IS OPEN TO EXAMINATION.

Thank you to everyone who chooses to examine the evidence, preserve the record, support the Archive or simply bear witness.

The record remains.

LASTLY — A SECOND PUBLIC-FACING ARCHIVE

For readers who wish to go beyond the principal Barran Dodger Archive, a second public-facing repository provides another point of access to the broader documentary record.

https://barrandodger.com

This website provides an additional gateway into the history, evidence, testimony, research and ideas that underpin the Archive. It is intended to help readers navigate the wider body of material and understand how individual documents, events, experiences and arguments have been brought together into a continuing record.

Its significance is not dependent upon the reader accepting Barran Dodger's conclusions. Rather, the value of preserving such a record lies in allowing the underlying material to remain available for examination. Readers can consider the chronology, inspect the documentary evidence, distinguish recorded facts from allegations and personal testimony, follow referenced material and form their own independent assessment.

The existence of multiple public repositories also reflects the central purpose of the project: preservation. Where records are distributed across years, institutions, correspondence, proceedings, personal archives and digital platforms, preserving accessible copies and pathways to the evidence can help prevent an individual historical record from becoming inaccessible or forgotten.

Readers are therefore invited to visit both public-facing archives, examine the material carefully and critically, and make their own assessment of what the surviving evidence demonstrates.

The purpose is not to ask the reader to believe.

The purpose is to ensure that the record remains available to be examined.
