Dear Victims of Crime Commissioner / Victims of Crime Victoria,

Re: VOCC CRM:0042181 — Request for acknowledgement, dignified response and consideration of documentary archive and victim testimony

I write regarding VOCC CRM:0042181 and to ask that my correspondence be acknowledged and responded to in a manner consistent with the dignity, courtesy and respect owed to a person presenting themselves as a victim of crime.

I am asking for something fundamental before anything else: please acknowledge that I am a human being whose account, experiences and documentary evidence warrant being received and considered with the same basic dignity ordinarily afforded to victims seeking assistance from the Victorian justice and victim-support system.

I previously understood that I had been acknowledged as a victim of crime in Victoria. My concern is that this recognition subsequently became disconnected from the circumstances in which I experienced further harm, displacement, poverty, institutional exclusion and an inability to obtain meaningful assistance or reporting pathways.

I therefore ask VOCC to consider the question of what happened to the recognition of me as a victim once I became a person making allegations against, or raising concerns about, institutions and systems through which I was seeking assistance.

1. The central concern

My account is that, following my experiences in Victoria, I became effectively exiled from the state through a combination of interactions involving police, government, health services, courts, political offices, service providers and other institutions.

I use the word "exile" as a description of my lived experience and its consequences, rather than asking VOCC to accept as an established fact that a coordinated plan existed.

I experienced what I describe as prolonged poverty, isolation, loss of support, inability to obtain effective legal assistance and an inability to obtain meaningful investigation of matters that I believed required reporting.

My concern is that the same pattern has subsequently appeared in New South Wales, including in my current accommodation and support circumstances.

I have raised concerns about my present circumstances with Ablepoint, including allegations concerning financial dependency, accommodation insecurity, neglect, inadequate support, and the consequences of being unable to leave an environment in which I remain dependent upon the provider.

I do not ask VOCC simply to accept my interpretation of these events.

I ask that the underlying evidence be examined.

2. Death threats and matters before Wyong Court

A particularly serious issue concerns alleged death threats which I have attempted to have reported.

I state that matters involving alleged threats to kill are currently before Wyong Court and that I have experienced what I regard as an unacceptable failure to facilitate reporting and appropriate consideration of those allegations.

I am not asking VOCC to determine criminal guilt.

I am asking that the existence of these allegations, the circumstances in which I attempted to report them, and the documentary material surrounding them be treated as matters requiring proper consideration rather than being dismissed because of my broader history with government, health, disability or support systems.

3. My documentary archive

I have created two public documentary archives containing records accumulated over many years.

The principal archive is:

Barran Dodger — principal public archive

The complementary documentary archive and finding aid is:

Wezzo72 / Barran Dodger documentary archive

The purpose of these archives is not to demand that a reader accept every allegation contained within them.

The purpose is preservation and examination.

The archives distinguish, where possible, between official records, documentary evidence, personal testimony, allegations, inference, interpretation and unresolved matters.

I therefore invite VOCC to examine the primary records rather than relying solely upon characterisations of me or summaries of my circumstances.

I specifically ask that my documentary archive not be dismissed merely because some of its contents are allegations or because some interpretations may be contested.

The appropriate question is whether the underlying documents establish, corroborate, contradict or otherwise illuminate the matters described.

4. Crimes and alleged harms identified in my documentary record

I have attached a schedule titled:

"Crimes committed upon Barran Dodger"

This material has been extracted and organised from my existing documentary archive.

I want to make the evidentiary status of this document absolutely clear.

It is not presented as a finding that any person, organisation, government agency, police officer, health professional, service provider or other entity has committed a crime.

It is a compilation of my allegations, documentary material, testimony and research questions, including matters requiring corroboration or independent investigation.

The schedule contains 150 numbered categories across three parts, including allegations concerning:

- failure or refusal to report alleged wrongdoing;
- alleged physical and sexual assaults;
- alleged death threats;
- alleged forced displacement and homelessness;
- alleged financial exploitation;
- alleged denial of legal representation;
- alleged obstruction of access to justice;
- alleged retaliation following disclosures;
- alleged institutional non-response;
- alleged failures to protect a person despite identified risks;
- alleged abuse of administrative processes;
- alleged NDIS/provider conduct;
- alleged police and institutional failures;
- alleged digital intrusion;
- alleged suppression or concealment of evidence;
- alleged systemic discrimination;
- alleged coordinated isolation;
- and other matters requiring independent assessment.

The archive itself expressly classifies evidentiary material according to its present status and warns that high-consequence allegations must not be treated as established merely because they appear in the schedule.

The canonical documentary location for this material is:

Barran Dodger — Crimes documentary evidence schedule

The preserved file is recorded as:

tabs/crimes.html

SHA-256: 6c828f35c6d411874aefa50c60af5334f0e972f77988f12bab1ebb50deff1073

5. The significance of the AI-assisted extraction

I have described the attached schedule as having been extracted with assistance from an impartial AI system.

I do not present the AI as a court, investigator, police officer or evidentiary authority.

The AI has no power to establish that a crime occurred.

Its relevance is that it provided an additional analytical layer for identifying recurring allegations and categories across a very large documentary record.

The underlying evidence remains the documents themselves.

I therefore ask that VOCC distinguish between:

what I allege;what documents actually establish;what has independently been corroborated;what has been contradicted; andwhat remains unresolved.

That distinction is central to the purpose of my archive.

6. What I believe happened to me

My testimony is that I was progressively characterised, isolated, impoverished and displaced after attempting to raise concerns about institutions and individuals.

I describe this as categorical human betrayal because the systems from which I expected protection increasingly became, in my experience, systems through which I was unable to obtain protection.

I also allege that damaging characterisations — including what I describe as libel, slander and character assassination — became mechanisms through which my credibility could be attacked before the underlying evidence was properly examined.

I recognise that these are serious allegations.

I am not asking VOCC to adopt them as established facts.

I am asking whether they can be examined.

There is an important question at the centre of my archive:

If credibility is attacked first, does character become a substitute for examining substance?

And therefore:

Was the evidence examined — or was the person dismissed first?

That is the question I ask VOCC to consider.

7. The apparent contradiction I ask you to examine

There is an apparent contradiction in my circumstances that I believe deserves respectful consideration.

If I were genuinely as insignificant, unreliable or inconsequential as some of the characterisations applied to me suggest, why does there exist such an extensive documentary history involving government agencies, institutions, legal systems, law enforcement, health services, media, political offices, disability services and other organisations?

That question does not establish that those organisations acted together.

It does not establish a conspiracy.

It does not establish that every adverse event had a common cause.

It asks instead:

Why does this extensive institutional record exist, what does each individual record actually establish, and what happened when I attempted to seek protection or redress?

The answer should come from the evidence.

8. What I am asking VOCC to do

I respectfully request that VOCC:

1. Acknowledge receipt of this correspondence under CRM:0042181.
2. Confirm whether CRM:0042181 remains open, closed, referred or otherwise dealt with, and identify the present status of the matter.
3. Acknowledge my previous interaction with the Victorian victim-of-crime system and explain what recognition or victim-support status, if any, remains applicable to me.
4. Consider the attached schedule of alleged crimes and harms as a documentary submission and research question, rather than dismissing it merely because it contains allegations requiring corroboration.
5. Identify which matters fall within the jurisdiction or functions of VOCC and which matters must appropriately be referred elsewhere.
6. Consider whether my experiences raise issues concerning the principles of the Victorian Victims' Charter, particularly dignity, respect, information, communication, participation, safety and access to appropriate support.
7. Explain what mechanisms are available to me where a person who identifies as a victim alleges that their attempts to report crime or obtain protection have themselves resulted in further exclusion or institutional disadvantage.
8. Advise whether VOCC can assist in identifying an appropriate independent pathway for the allegations that I have been unable to have meaningfully reported or investigated.
9. Please do not treat my mental-health, disability, homelessness, poverty, reputation or previous institutional history as substitutes for examination of the underlying evidence.
10. If VOCC considers that it cannot investigate the substantive allegations, please identify the reason, jurisdictional limitation and appropriate alternative pathway in writing.
11. Please ensure that any response addresses the substance of this correspondence rather than simply recording it as a complaint without engagement.

9. The documentary purpose of the archive

I respectfully provide the following statement verbatim because it explains the documentary purpose of the material I am asking you to consider:

"THE BARRAN DODGER ARCHIVE — TWO PUBLIC RECORDS, ONE DOCUMENTARY PURPOSE

A PUBLIC DOCUMENTARY RECORD OF EVIDENCE, TESTIMONY, HISTORY AND SURVIVAL

BARRAN DODGER.COM — THE PRINCIPAL PUBLIC ARCHIVE

https://barrandodger.com

VISIT THE PRINCIPAL BARRAN DODGER ARCHIVE

The Barran Dodger Archive at https://barrandodger.com is the principal public-facing gateway to a substantial body of documentary material accumulated over decades. It exists to preserve, organise and make publicly accessible records associated with Barran Dodger (Dr Richard William McLean), including government and institutional correspondence, official records, legal and administrative documents, documentary evidence, research, personal testimony, written works and related archival material.

The significance of the site is not simply the volume of material it contains, but its function as a public repository through which records that may otherwise remain dispersed across government agencies, institutions, proceedings, correspondence files and personal archives can be brought together for examination. The website provides a point of access to the broader documentary record and allows readers to encounter the material directly rather than relying solely upon a later summary, interpretation or account of what the records contain.

SECOND PUBLIC RECORD — STRUCTURE, NAVIGATION AND EXAMINATION

WEZZO72.GITHUB.IO/BARRANDODGER — DOCUMENTARY ARCHIVE AND FINDING AID

https://wezzo72.github.io/Barrandodger

VISIT THE WEZZO72 BARRAN DODGER DOCUMENTARY ARCHIVE

The second site provides a complementary documentary archive and finding aid. Its purpose is to assist readers in navigating a large and diverse body of material by organising documentary records into identifiable subjects, chronologies, institutional relationships, evidence categories, forensic analyses, human-rights material, allegations, personal testimony, research and spiritual or creative writings.

Its significance lies particularly in the way it provides context around the underlying material. Rather than treating every document, allegation, testimony or interpretation as having identical evidentiary status, the archive provides a framework through which different forms of material can be examined according to what they actually represent.

TWO SITES — ONE ARCHIVAL PURPOSE

The two websites perform different but complementary functions within the broader Barran Dodger Archive.

https://barrandodger.com functions principally as the public repository and gateway to the wider documentary record.

https://wezzo72.github.io/Barrandodger functions principally as a structured finding aid through which that record can be navigated, organised and examined.

Together, they seek to make a substantial historical and documentary record accessible to independent readers, researchers, journalists, legal and human-rights advocates, academics and members of the public who wish to examine the underlying material for themselves.

THE IMPORTANCE OF DISTINGUISHING RECORD FROM INTERPRETATION

A central principle of the archive is that the existence of a document does not automatically establish the truth of every proposition contained within it. Government records establish that a communication, decision or administrative event was recorded; correspondence establishes what was communicated; personal testimony records an individual's account; forensic analysis represents an analysis of available material; allegations remain allegations unless independently established; and interpretations remain interpretations.

Accordingly, the archive seeks to preserve distinctions between official records, documentary evidence, corroborated information, personal testimony, allegations, inference, interpretation, spiritual belief and matters that remain unresolved.

This distinction is important because the archive is intended to facilitate examination rather than substitute for it. Readers are invited to inspect the source material, consider its provenance and context, compare different records, identify corroboration or contradiction, and form their own conclusions about what the documentary record can and cannot establish.

THE ARCHIVE AS A PUBLIC RECORD

The significance of these two sites ultimately rests in their combined archival function. They provide publicly accessible pathways into a record spanning institutional interactions, government correspondence, legal and administrative experiences, research, personal testimony and decades of accumulated documentation.

The archive is therefore not presented merely as a personal website or autobiographical account. It is an attempt to preserve a documentary history in which the underlying records remain available for inspection alongside the author's account of events and subsequent analysis.

The two sites provide the public with an opportunity to move from narrative to source material, from source material to chronology, and from chronology to independent examination.

THE WITNESS REMAINS

At its core, the Barran Dodger Archive is an exercise in preservation: preserving documents that were created, correspondence that was exchanged, decisions that were recorded, experiences that were reported, analyses that were undertaken, and writings that were produced over the course of decades.

Whatever conclusions individual readers ultimately reach, the archival objective is that the underlying record should remain accessible and capable of being examined.

WEZZO72 — DOCUMENTARY ARCHIVE AND FINDING AID

Together, these two public resources form complementary gateways to the Barran Dodger Archive and its continuing effort to preserve documentary evidence, testimony, research, history and writings for public access and independent examination.

THE NEXT QUESTION — FOLLOW THE RECORD

The purpose of this archive is not to establish a predetermined explanation.

It is to make the underlying record difficult to ignore.

Follow the dates.
Read the testimony.
Examine the official responses.
Compare what was reported with what was recorded.
Look for corroboration, contradiction and unexplained gaps.

The archive also preserves a further question: whether alleged libel, slander, character assassination and damaging characterisations may have operated as mechanisms through which evidence was discredited before it was properly examined.

If credibility is attacked first, character can become a substitute for addressing substance.

That raises an inversion that the documentary record should be capable of answering:

If I were truly as worthless, insignificant or inconsequential as some characterisations suggest, why does the record contain such an extensive history of involvement by government agencies, institutions, legal systems, law enforcement, health services, media, politicians and people within my personal life?

That question does not establish that all of these actors were coordinated, that they shared a common purpose, or that they intended harm.

It asks something more fundamental:

Why does such an extensive institutional and interpersonal record exist — and what does the evidence actually show about how these interactions became connected?

If the evidence supports the allegation, the evidence should show it.

If it does not, that should also be visible.

But a person's perceived mental illness, reputation or character should never substitute for examination of the underlying evidence.

The central question remains:

Was the evidence examined — or was the person dismissed first?

Start with the documents. Follow the record. Examine the chronology. Identify what is documented, what is alleged, what is contradicted, and what remains unexplained. Then make your own assessment.

S″

10. What I hope for from your response

I am not asking for automatic acceptance of every allegation I have made.

I am asking for something more modest and, I believe, more important:

engagement without prejudice.

I want my allegations to be assessed according to evidence rather than according to assumptions about who I am.

I want the distinction between allegation and established fact to be preserved.

I want matters that can be investigated to be identified.

I want matters outside your jurisdiction to be identified and referred appropriately.

And I want the human being making the complaint to be treated as a human being.

The Victorian Victims of Crime service itself states that victims should be treated with dignity and respect and that its services include assistance with communicating with police and making reports. (Victims of Crime Victoria)

I am therefore asking VOCC to demonstrate those principles in its response to me.

I would particularly appreciate a written acknowledgement of this correspondence and a substantive response to CRM:0042181, rather than a generic referral or automated acknowledgement.

I look forward to your urgent reply.

Yours sincerely,

Barran Resonance Dodger

PUBLIC STATEMENT FROM BARRAN DODGER
OF THE BARRAN DODGER ARCHIVE

THE WITNESS REMAINS: A WHISTLEBLOWERS TESTIMONY OF SURVIVAL TESTIMONY & FAITH

The Barran Dodger Archive is a public documentary and spiritual record established to preserve, organise and make accessible a decades-long body of evidence concerning alleged institutional, administrative, financial and human-rights harms.

It brings together official records, correspondence, documentary evidence, personal testimony, forensic analysis, research, philosophy, spiritual gospels and prophetic declarations, including writings understood by the author to have been anointed by the Most High God.

The Archive deliberately distinguishes between documented facts, official records, corroborated evidence, allegations, personal testimony, inference, interpretation and matters of faith. This distinction is fundamental to its purpose: readers are invited to examine the underlying evidence for themselves, test the claims, consider the sources and reach their own conclusions.

At the heart of the Archive is a testimony of survival and preservation.

What the author believes was subjected to attempts at silencing, erasure, exclusion or institutional disappearance has nevertheless survived in records, documents, testimony, memory, faith and public disclosure.

The central declaration is simple:

THE WITNESS REMAINS.

The Archive therefore represents both an evidentiary record and a spiritual testimony. The author understands his survival through a faith-based conviction that the Most High God protected, preserved and gave purpose to what human institutions could not erase.

The spiritual writings and prophetic declarations within the Archive are presented as matters of faith and personal interpretation. They are preserved alongside the documentary record so that the complete testimony — evidentiary, personal, philosophical and spiritual — can be understood in its own context.

The purpose is not to demand belief.

It is to preserve the record.

It is to make the evidence accessible.

It is to ensure that the surviving witness can be examined.

And it is to leave the historical record open to independent scrutiny.

THE ARCHIVE IS 100% FREE TO ACCESS

https://barrandodgerarchive.base44.app

KNOWLEDGE IS FREE

The Barran Dodger Archive is founded on the principle that knowledge, evidence and truth should be freely accessible.

There is no paywall for the public documentary record. Research, testimony, philosophy, spiritual writings, prophetic declarations and public-interest material are made available for people to examine for themselves.

Access to knowledge should not depend upon a person's ability to pay.

The Archive is therefore freely accessible, while its preservation and continued publication require practical resources.

SUPPORTING THE WITNESS AND THE ARCHIVE

Barran Dodger describes himself as an unprotected whistleblower living in circumstances of prolonged exile, financial hardship and vulnerability, and as an internally displaced asylum seeker within the country of his Australian citizenship.

Those circumstances create practical needs extending beyond the preservation of documents.

Voluntary donations are therefore accepted from anyone who freely wishes to assist.

Support may contribute towards essential needs including food, safe accommodation, communication, technology, transport, personal safety, website and domain costs, document preservation, archival infrastructure and the continued publication of the public record.

A donation does not purchase access to the Archive.

It does not purchase influence over the evidence.

It does not purchase editorial control.

It does not determine what is published or what conclusions readers should reach.

It simply helps sustain the person and infrastructure necessary to keep the Archive alive, functioning and freely accessible.

If you are blessed with sufficient prosperity to help preserve this work, your voluntary support can help ensure that financial hardship does not become another mechanism through which a public record disappears.

KNOWLEDGE IS FREE.

THE EVIDENCE IS OPEN TO EXAMINATION.

Thank you to everyone who chooses to examine the evidence, preserve the record, support the Archive or simply bear witness.

The record remains.

The witness remains.

LASTLY — A SECOND PUBLIC-FACING ARCHIVE

For readers who wish to go beyond the principal Barran Dodger Archive, a second public-facing repository provides another point of access to the broader documentary record.

https://barrandodger.com

This website provides an additional gateway into the history, evidence, testimony, research and ideas that underpin the Archive. It is intended to help readers navigate the wider body of material and understand how individual documents, events, experiences and arguments have been brought together into a continuing record.

Its significance is not dependent upon the reader accepting Barran Dodger's conclusions. Rather, the value of preserving such a record lies in allowing the underlying material to remain available for examination. Readers can consider the chronology, inspect the documentary evidence, distinguish recorded facts from allegations and personal testimony, follow referenced material and form their own independent assessment.

The existence of multiple public repositories also reflects the central purpose of the project: preservation. Where records are distributed across years, institutions, correspondence, proceedings, personal archives and digital platforms, preserving accessible copies and pathways to the evidence can help prevent an individual historical record from becoming inaccessible or forgotten.

Readers are therefore invited to visit both public-facing archives, examine the material carefully and critically, and make their own assessment of what the surviving evidence demonstrates.

The purpose is not to ask the reader to believe.

The purpose is to ensure that the record remains available to be examined.
