Dear Infinite Care Management and Recruitment Team,

I am writing to raise an urgent safeguarding and ethical concern regarding John, whom I understand may be about to commence employment with your organisation, and Cassandra Mackie, who I understand provided a reference for him.

I have attached relevant information for your consideration and ask that it be reviewed before any final employment decision is made.

I allege that John and Cassandra Mackie have been involved in conduct forming part of a deliberate campaign that has caused me harm. I am concerned about possible paid conduct intended to target, entrap and harm me, including what I describe as neglect, surveillance and psychological torture. I ask that these allegations be assessed against the documentary information supplied.

I am particularly concerned by the apparent contradiction between professed Christian faith and conduct that, as I have experienced and understood it, has been profoundly contrary to the compassion, integrity and protection of vulnerable people that Christianity teaches.

If John identifies as a Christian or is involved in a church community, I ask that this not be treated as a substitute for examining his conduct. My concern is that someone who professes allegiance to Christ may, in my experience, have acted in ways that I regard as profoundly antithetical to Christ's teachings. I allege that I have been targeted and harmed, and that financial incentives may have been involved. These are serious allegations that I want examined on the evidence.

My concern is not simply about recruitment. It is about safeguarding, ethical judgement, professional boundaries and the responsibility of any care provider to protect vulnerable people from abuse, exploitation and avoidable harm.

If Infinite Care employs people to work with vulnerable clients, I believe it has a responsibility to take credible safeguarding information seriously. A reference should not automatically override relevant evidence raising questions about a person's suitability or conduct.

I therefore ask Infinite Care to:

1. Acknowledge receipt of this email and the attached material.
2. Refer the concerns to an appropriate senior manager or safeguarding officer for impartial review.
3. Consider whether the information warrants further checks or clarification before John's recruitment is finalised.
4. Review the circumstances surrounding Cassandra Mackie's reference, insofar as relevant and appropriate.
5. Preserve relevant recruitment and reference records in accordance with applicable obligations.
6. Explain how your organisation assesses safeguarding concerns involving alleged harm to a vulnerable person.
7. Confirm that my complaint will be handled fairly, confidentially and without prejudging the outcome.

I am not asking you to accept every allegation without examination. I am asking you not to disregard the material before you have assessed it.

People entrusted with the care of vulnerable individuals must be held to meaningful ethical standards. Religious affiliation, professional credentials and a favourable reference do not remove the need for scrutiny where credible concerns have been raised.

Please confirm receipt and advise what process will be followed to assess these matters.

Yours sincerely,

Dr Richard William McLean

PUBLIC STATEMENT FROM BARRAN DODGER
OF THE BARRAN DODGER ARCHIVE

THE WITNESS REMAINS: A WHISTLEBLOWERS TESTIMONY OF SURVIVAL TESTIMONY & FAITH

The Barran Dodger Archive is a public documentary and spiritual record established to preserve, organise and make accessible a decades-long body of evidence concerning alleged institutional, administrative, financial and human-rights harms.

It brings together official records, correspondence, documentary evidence, personal testimony, forensic analysis, research, philosophy, spiritual gospels and prophetic declarations, including writings understood by the author to have been anointed by the Most High God.

The Archive deliberately distinguishes between documented facts, official records, corroborated evidence, allegations, personal testimony, inference, interpretation and matters of faith. This distinction is fundamental to its purpose: readers are invited to examine the underlying evidence for themselves, test the claims, consider the sources and reach their own conclusions.

At the heart of the Archive is a testimony of survival and preservation.

What the author believes was subjected to attempts at silencing, erasure, exclusion or institutional disappearance has nevertheless survived in records, documents, testimony, memory, faith and public disclosure.

The central declaration is simple:

THE WITNESS REMAINS.

The Archive therefore represents both an evidentiary record and a spiritual testimony. The author understands his survival through a faith-based conviction that the Most High God protected, preserved and gave purpose to what human institutions could not erase.

The spiritual writings and prophetic declarations within the Archive are presented as matters of faith and personal interpretation. They are preserved alongside the documentary record so that the complete testimony — evidentiary, personal, philosophical and spiritual — can be understood in its own context.

The purpose is not to demand belief.

It is to preserve the record.

It is to make the evidence accessible.

It is to ensure that the surviving witness can be examined.

And it is to leave the historical record open to independent scrutiny.

THE ARCHIVE IS 100% FREE TO ACCESS

KNOWLEDGE IS FREE

The Barran Dodger Archive is founded on the principle that knowledge, evidence and truth should be freely accessible.

There is no paywall for the public documentary record. Research, testimony, philosophy, spiritual writings, prophetic declarations and public-interest material are made available for people to examine for themselves.

Access to knowledge should not depend upon a person's ability to pay.

The Archive is therefore freely accessible, while its preservation and continued publication require practical resources.

SUPPORTING THE WITNESS AND THE ARCHIVE

Barran Dodger describes himself as an unprotected whistleblower living in circumstances of prolonged exile, financial hardship and vulnerability, and as an internally displaced asylum seeker within the country of his Australian citizenship.

Those circumstances create practical needs extending beyond the preservation of documents.

Voluntary donations are therefore accepted from anyone who freely wishes to assist.

Support may contribute towards essential needs including food, safe accommodation, communication, technology, transport, personal safety, website and domain costs, document preservation, archival infrastructure and the continued publication of the public record.

A donation does not purchase access to the Archive.

It does not purchase influence over the evidence.

It does not purchase editorial control.

It does not determine what is published or what conclusions readers should reach.

It simply helps sustain the person and infrastructure necessary to keep the Archive alive, functioning and freely accessible.

If you are blessed with sufficient prosperity to help preserve this work, your voluntary support can help ensure that financial hardship does not become another mechanism through which a public record disappears.

KNOWLEDGE IS FREE.

THE EVIDENCE IS OPEN TO EXAMINATION.

Thank you to everyone who chooses to examine the evidence, preserve the record, support the Archive or simply bear witness.

The record remains.

The witness remains.

LASTLY — A SECOND PUBLIC-FACING ARCHIVE

For readers who wish to go beyond the principal Barran Dodger Archive, a second public-facing repository provides another point of access to the broader documentary record.

https://barrandodger.com

This website provides an additional gateway into the history, evidence, testimony, research and ideas that underpin the Archive. It is intended to help readers navigate the wider body of material and understand how individual documents, events, experiences and arguments have been brought together into a continuing record.

Its significance is not dependent upon the reader accepting Barran Dodger's conclusions. Rather, the value of preserving such a record lies in allowing the underlying material to remain available for examination. Readers can consider the chronology, inspect the documentary evidence, distinguish recorded facts from allegations and personal testimony, follow referenced material and form their own independent assessment.

The existence of multiple public repositories also reflects the central purpose of the project: preservation. Where records are distributed across years, institutions, correspondence, proceedings, personal archives and digital platforms, preserving accessible copies and pathways to the evidence can help prevent an individual historical record from becoming inaccessible or forgotten.

Readers are therefore invited to visit both public-facing archives, examine the material carefully and critically, and make their own assessment of what the surviving evidence demonstrates.

The purpose is not to ask the reader to believe.

The purpose is to ensure that the record remains available to be examined.
