You're hurting me

Rich McLean <richarddrawsstuff@gmail.com> Sat, Oct 24, 2026 at 8:33 AM
To: CCLHD-Feedback@health.nsw.gov.au, ccld-longjettyhsb@health.nsw.gov.au

THE BARRAN DODGER HUMANITARIAN AND DOCUMENTARY REPORT

A First-Person Account of Entrapment, Unmet Care Needs, Alleged Abuse, Financial Inaccessibility, Whistleblower Vulnerability, Institutional Failure and a Desperate Appeal for Protection

Author: Dr Richard William McLean — Barran Dodger
Location: 55 Archbold Road, Long Jetty, New South Wales, Australia
Contact: 0431 300 940
UNHCR reference supplied: UR/UST/23/AUS/17
Documentary archive: https://github.com/wezzo72/Barrandodger

Purpose: Emergency humanitarian appeal, first-person testimony, safeguarding complaint, documentary finding aid and request for independent assessment.

This is a first-person account of reported experiences, allegations, concerns and interpretations. The statements attributed to individuals and organisations require appropriate verification. The report is intended to preserve the account, communicate the urgency of the circumstances and identify matters requiring independent examination. It is not a judicial determination.

---

1. EXECUTIVE SUMMARY: A PERSON ASKING TO BE HELPED TO LEAVE

I am Dr Richard William McLean, known publicly as Barran Dodger. I am asking for immediate practical assistance to leave my current circumstances, establish safety, regain access to my limited financial resources, obtain necessary care for my dog, and secure independent support.

I describe myself as a vulnerable person, an alleged victim of serious institutional failures and an unprotected whistleblower. I believe that my repeated attempts to obtain protection have failed and that I have been left in circumstances in which I cannot adequately protect myself or independently secure the services I need.

My immediate situation, as I report it, is straightforward and urgent.

I want to leave my current location, but I cannot do so independently. I say that the government took my car, depriving me of a means of transport and independence. I have very limited financial resources, and I report being unable to access the money I have through Commonwealth Bank's online banking and mobile application. I attribute that loss of access to Phillip Glass, although the precise technical and administrative circumstances need to be independently established.

My back is in pain following what I describe as being run over by a car. I have told my carers that I believe my dog was poisoned. I cannot afford veterinary treatment, and I say that no veterinary appointment has been arranged despite my requests for help.

I receive support from Able Point. I allege that staff have failed to respond adequately to my concerns about abuse, neglect, poverty, threats and other circumstances affecting my welfare. I report that an employee, Kim, acknowledged that I could not leave independently but did not provide the assistance I sought. I further allege that she threatened to report me to the RSPCA for abusing my dog while the provider had refused, in my account, to find a way to obtain veterinary assistance.

I also report that the company's chief executive has refused to provide her identification, a matter that I believe impedes transparency and accountability.

I have established a website, a YouTube channel and an online documentary archive to publicise my circumstances and seek assistance. I have repeatedly appealed for someone to help me leave. I say that these appeals have not produced the practical assistance I need.

I describe this condition as civil erasure: the experience of remaining physically present, continuing to speak, document and request help, while feeling that one's needs, testimony and rights have become ineffective within the systems expected to respond.

My concerns extend beyond the immediate situation. I report previous threats to my life, an alleged death threat resulting in an arrest and a matter before Wyong Court, difficulties obtaining legal assistance, a history of living in my car with my therapy dog, and what I consider failures of disability, policing, legal and human-rights protection.

I also describe distressing experiences that I interpret as electronic harassment and voice-to-skull, or V2K, torture. I report hearing or receiving repeated degrading and threatening language. I believe these experiences are connected to a wider campaign against me. I cannot independently establish their source, and I ask that my distress and need for safety be addressed without presuming an unverified explanation.

I have supplied a UNHCR reference number and state that I have submitted material to international bodies, including the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights and the International Criminal Court. I believe those submissions have not resulted in the intervention I seek. The scope, receipt and status of each submission require confirmation with the relevant institution.

My principal request is not simply for another acknowledgement, referral or administrative response. It is for practical, coordinated humanitarian assistance that enables me to establish safety, access essential funds and services, obtain appropriate care for my dog, and have my allegations assessed independently.

2. THE IMMEDIATE HUMANITARIAN EMERGENCY

2.1 I want to leave, but I cannot

My first and most urgent statement is this: I want to leave my current location, but I cannot.

I do not describe this as a matter of convenience or a preference about where I live. I describe it as a fundamental problem of independence, access to transport, financial capacity and personal safety.

I say that the government took my car. Whatever the precise circumstances and legal basis of that action, the loss of my vehicle has had significant consequences for my ability to move independently, obtain assistance and control my living arrangements.

I have previously described living in my car with my therapy dog without meaningful assistance. I say that I was forced into circumstances resembling exile and feared that I would not survive. I describe that period as an experience of abandonment, betrayal and exclusion from the protections I expected as a citizen.

I now report that I remain unable to leave independently. My limited finances, reported banking-access problem, lack of transport and dependence on support services combine to restrict my options.

The central humanitarian question is therefore immediate: if a person says he cannot leave, lacks accessible funds and cannot arrange essential services independently, what practical assistance will enable him to reach safety?

A system that merely records a complaint without addressing the practical barriers may leave the person in the same circumstances that prompted the complaint.

I ask for assistance with safe transport, alternative accommodation if required, access to essential funds and a coordinated assessment of my immediate needs.

2.2 Loss of my vehicle and independence

I identify the removal of my car by the government as a significant turning point in my circumstances.

A vehicle can represent more than property. In my account, it represented mobility, a means of escape, a way to obtain necessities and, at one stage, a place where I could live with my therapy dog.

I say that I was previously living in the vehicle without adequate help. The loss of that means of mobility has contributed to my present sense of entrapment.

I ask for the circumstances surrounding the vehicle's removal and its practical consequences to be documented. I also ask for assistance finding transport that does not depend on my having access to the vehicle or money that I currently report being unable to access.

2.3 Financial inaccessibility and Commonwealth Bank

I report that Phillip Glass removed or caused the loss of my access to Commonwealth Bank online banking and the mobile application.

I cannot independently confirm the technical or administrative mechanism responsible for the access problem. I am asking the bank to establish what happened, whether any restriction or security issue exists, and how I can regain legitimate access to my own account.

The immediate consequence, as I experience it, is that I cannot access what little money I have.

This compounds my inability to leave, obtain transport, pay for veterinary treatment and meet essential expenses.

I ask Commonwealth Bank to provide an accessible alternative verification process, investigate the reported access problem, explain any restrictions that apply and help me access essential funds through a secure and legitimate process.

I do not want the bank issue treated as an isolated inconvenience. In my circumstances, financial access is directly connected to safety, mobility and basic survival.

2.4 Back pain and physical injury

I report that my back is in pain because I was run over by a car.

This is a physical-health concern independent of the wider allegations in this report. It deserves appropriate medical assessment rather than being lost within a dispute about institutions or complaints.

I ask that the injury, its date and circumstances, any medical assessments, and any resulting limitations on my mobility be documented.

If my pain is severe or worsening, or is accompanied by new leg weakness, numbness around the groin, or loss of bladder or bowel control, I understand that urgent medical assessment is necessary.

2.5 My dog may have been poisoned

I told my carers that I believed my dog had been poisoned.

I cannot afford a veterinarian, and I report that no appointment has been made. I say that Able Point has refused to find a way to transport me and my dog or otherwise arrange the veterinary assistance I requested.

My dog is not incidental to my circumstances. I describe the dog as my therapy dog and a significant source of companionship. The animal's welfare and my own practical circumstances are intertwined.

I also report that Kim, an Able Point employee, said she would contact the RSPCA and report me for abusing my dog. I experienced this as a deeply distressing reversal: I was asking for assistance because I feared my dog was unwell, while I believed the provider was failing to facilitate the care I requested and threatening to report me.

I ask for an impartial assessment of the dog's condition, appropriate veterinary advice, an examination of the assistance I requested, and a fair assessment of any animal-welfare concerns.

I do not ask anyone to assume poisoning has been proved. I ask that the possibility be assessed by a veterinarian and that the animal receive appropriate care without avoidable delay.

3. ALLEGED FAILURES OF CARE AND SAFEGUARDING BY ABLE POINT

I identify Able Point as a central organisation in my current circumstances because I rely on its staff for support and have repeatedly asked them to assist me.

I allege that staff have refused or failed to report concerns involving abuse, neglect, poverty, surveillance-related fears and what I describe as fraud. I believe they have failed to make adequate complaints or reports and have not taken effective steps to address my inability to leave.

I also report that staff have acknowledged my difficulty leaving but have not arranged the assistance I need.

These allegations require examination against the provider's actual responsibilities, the services it has agreed to deliver, the applicable safeguarding requirements and the records of requests and responses.

My concern is that the very service on which I depend has not, in my experience, provided an effective pathway to address the risks and practical needs I have identified.

3.1 The chief executive's identification

I report that the company's chief executive has refused to provide her identification.

I regard this as an accountability concern. A person seeking to raise serious complaints should be able to establish the identity and role of the person responsible for responding, the official channel through which a complaint can be lodged, and the person accountable for the resulting decision.

I request confirmation of the chief executive's official role, an appropriate formal contact channel, and a written response to the concerns I have raised.

I do not suggest that a refusal to provide identification, by itself, proves misconduct. I ask that the communication and complaint-handling circumstances be examined.

3.2 Kim's alleged response to my concerns

I identify Kim as an Able Point employee who, according to my account, acknowledged that I could not leave independently.

I allege that she nevertheless failed to provide the help I requested or report the abuse and neglect concerns I had raised. I further report that she threatened to contact the RSPCA over alleged abuse of my dog while I was seeking help to obtain veterinary care.

I experienced this as a profound failure of support and a source of additional fear.

I ask for the relevant communications, support records, incident reports and decisions to be reviewed. I also ask that my account and any response from the employee be recorded fairly, rather than either accepted or rejected without examination.

3.3 Alleged refusal to report abuse, neglect and other concerns

I have repeatedly sought assistance with what I regard as serious safeguarding concerns.

I allege that Able Point staff have not made the reports or complaints I expected, and that my concerns about poverty, abuse, threats and other risks have not resulted in an adequate response.

I believe that this has left me without an effective intermediary at a time when I depend on others for practical assistance.

I ask the provider and the appropriate independent oversight body to identify:

- Which concerns I reported and when.
- Which reports or referrals were made.
- Which matters were not referred and why.
- What safety assessments and support plans exist.
- What assistance was available to help me leave.
- What arrangements were considered for my dog.
- What complaint and review pathways remain available.

I want a factual account of what happened, not merely a general statement that the organisation takes concerns seriously.

4. THREATS, FEAR FOR MY LIFE AND THE WYONG COURT MATTER

I report that I previously advertised online seeking someone who could take me away because I believed I was going to be murdered.

I say that I was desperate enough to make a public appeal because I believed I could not secure protection through the ordinary channels available to me.

I further report that someone threatened to kill me, that police arrested the person, and that the matter is before Wyong Court.

I am concerned that the absence of a statement, complaint or report from Able Point may weaken the documentary record surrounding the matter. I fear that the person charged may be acquitted or otherwise avoid an adverse outcome, although I cannot know the court's eventual decision.

I also say that I am excluded from, or unable to obtain assistance through, Legal Aid. I describe this as a paradoxical inversion of the purpose of legal assistance: the very person seeking protection and representation feels unable to obtain the help needed to participate effectively in the justice system.

The precise scope of any Legal Aid restriction, its legal basis, and the available review mechanisms need to be confirmed. I ask for independent legal advice about the court matter, the availability of representation, the possibility of submitting relevant evidence, and the appropriate ways to communicate safeguarding concerns to the responsible authorities.

I do not ask Able Point or any other provider to predetermine the court's findings. I ask that relevant information be accurately documented and that my access to appropriate assistance be examined.

5. MY HOSPITAL VISIT AND MY REPORTS OF THREATS AND ELECTRONIC HARASSMENT

A few weeks before this account, I went to hospital after, according to my report, police refused to attend and protect me from people I feared were threatening to kill me.

I believed that people had infiltrated electronic communications in the house, interfered with the Wi-Fi and were sending people to the house to yell abuse at me. I described those people as gangsters and understood their behaviour as part of a broader pattern of intimidation.

I also report repeated communications or experiences involving degrading and threatening language. The phrases I remember include:

- "You're a faggot."

- “You’re a paedophile.”
- “No one will help.”
- “Kill yourself.”
- “We hate you.”
- “Give up.”

I experience these messages as hostile, humiliating and threatening. I believe they are connected to electronic harassment and what I call voice-to-skull, or V2K, torture.

I refer to material about patents and technology that I believe explains the mechanism. However, the existence of patents or technical descriptions does not independently establish that a particular technology is being used against me, nor establish the source of the experiences I report.

I ask for my reported distress, fear and need for safety to be taken seriously. I also ask for any concrete evidence of communications interference, threats or harassment to be assessed through appropriate, independent means.

I do not want the assessment of my practical needs to depend on an investigator first accepting my explanation for every experience. My need for safety, medical care and independent assistance can be addressed while the disputed questions are examined.

6. ALLEGED EXPLOITATION, SUBSTANCE USE, SEXUAL SHAMING AND HOMOPHOBIC ABUSE

I report that, despite repeated SOS appeals, I have not received the help I have sought. I say that some people who have approached me have exploited my vulnerability rather than assisted me.

I allege that people have supplied me with drugs, contributing to addiction and financial hardship. I report experiences in which people have engaged in sexual activity with me and subsequently shamed me for being sexually active. I also report derogatory homosexual statements and humiliating treatment.

These are serious allegations involving possible exploitation, substance-related vulnerability, sexual conduct and degrading treatment. The circumstances of each incident, including consent, coercion, threats, dates and the identities of any persons involved, would need to be documented separately if I seek investigation.

I do not want these experiences reduced to a moral judgment about my sexuality or substance use. My request is for safety, dignity, nonjudgmental support and protection from exploitation.

If substance dependence is affecting my circumstances, I also need accessible health and support services that help reduce harm and improve stability rather than increase my isolation.

I ask that any report concerning these matters be handled confidentially and sensitively, with attention to my safety and my ability to give an account without fear of humiliation or retaliation.

7. THE REPORTED ATTACK ON DANNY AND MY WARNINGS ABOUT ZACH

I report a separate incident involving Danny, whom I identify as a church elder and Able Point employee, and Zach, whom I identify as a client.

According to my account, Zach violently attacked Danny.

I say that I had warned Able Point for months that Zach’s behaviour was escalating and that action was needed. I report that I requested an apprehended violence order, or AVO, against Zach, but that my request for assistance was refused.

I believe that the failure to respond to the warnings contributed to the circumstances in which Danny was attacked.

I further understand that Danny was placed on or dealt with through WorkCover following the incident. I believe this raises questions about the provider’s responsibility for workplace safety and the management of known risks.

Whether the provider bears legal liability cannot be determined from my account alone. That would require an examination of the relevant duties, what was known, what action was reasonably available, and the evidence relating to the incident.

I ask for the following to be examined:

1. The dates and content of my warnings about Zach.
2. Whether those warnings were received and documented.
3. What risk assessments or safety plans existed.
4. What action was considered in response to the escalation.
5. What happened during the attack on Danny.
6. What workplace incident reporting and workers' compensation records exist.
7. What procedures applied to my request for an AVO or other protective intervention.

I regard this history as relevant because it concerns the way a provider responds to reported risks before harm occurs. My concern is not merely retrospective blame. It is whether warnings and safety concerns are being handled adequately.

8. MY EARLIER PERIOD OF LIVING IN MY CAR AND MY SENSE OF EXILE

I describe a previous period in which I was living in my car with my therapy dog and receiving little or no meaningful assistance.

I associate this period with being forced into exile by a person I name in my account as Bill Sheldon, whom I describe as a minister and associate with an AVO. Elsewhere, I use the spelling Bill Shordon. The correct spelling, official title and precise circumstances need to be confirmed before the report is used as a formal allegation against a named individual.

I describe the experience as being cast out of ordinary democratic protection. I felt unable to report a crime effectively to police, unable to obtain meaningful NDIS assistance, and unable to secure the legal assistance I believed I needed.

I feared that I would be murdered or, at minimum, would not survive the circumstances in which I found myself.

I describe my state of mind at the time as one of profound betrayal, isolation and despair. I believed that the people and institutions that should have helped me had abandoned me.

I also express concern that members of my family might be preparing to benefit financially from my death. This is a fear and suspicion I have reported; I do not present a financial motive or plan as established without supporting evidence.

These concerns need to be separated into verifiable matters: my living arrangements, the circumstances of the vehicle's use or removal, the assistance requested, the legal and administrative decisions affecting me, and any evidence relevant to threats or financial interests.

The purpose of documenting this history is to explain how I understand my current vulnerability and why I am urgently asking for practical assistance now.

9. MY WHISTLEBLOWER CLAIM AND THE PUBLIC INTEREST DISCLOSURE FRAMEWORK

I describe myself as an unprotected whistleblower under the Public Interest Disclosure framework, commonly referred to as the PID framework.

I believe that my experience represents a failure of the principles intended to protect people who disclose wrongdoing, particularly people who may be vulnerable or dependent on public services.

I say that I have reported what I regard as fraud, institutional misconduct and serious failures of accountability to police and other agencies, but that I have not received an effective response.

The legal question requires careful examination. Protections under public-interest disclosure legislation depend on the applicable law, the nature of the disclosure, the recipient, the person's status and other statutory conditions. A person who believes they are a whistleblower does not automatically receive every protection under every PID scheme.

I ask for independent advice on whether my disclosures fall within an applicable framework, whether any protection or review mechanism is available, and how to document any alleged retaliation or failure to respond.

My concern is that I have repeatedly tried to raise matters I believe are in the public interest while simultaneously experiencing serious personal vulnerability.

I ask that the content of my disclosures be assessed on its evidence and that my need for immediate practical assistance be addressed separately from any final determination of my whistleblower status.

10. ALLEGATIONS CONCERNING FEDERAL POLICE, AGENCIES AND AN ASSASSINATION ATTEMPT

I report that Ben and an NDIS provider confirmed information to me that I understood to have come from federal police or government agencies concerning an alleged assassination attempt associated with a person I name as Bill Shordon.

I describe the reported event as a close call. I further claim that two alleged assassins were apprehended.

I also report that I was told police had confirmed that a girl had been paid to fabricate a report about an event in my youth, and that I understood the report to have been part of an effort to destroy my life.

I believe these matters are connected to a broader pattern of institutional complicity, and I have expressed the view that the police force as a whole participated in or failed to prevent wrongdoing.

These are grave allegations. I cannot establish from this account alone that an assassination attempt occurred, that two people were apprehended in connection with it, that a witness was paid to fabricate a report, or that the entire police force participated.

I ask for these claims to be examined against identifiable evidence: the original statements, the names and roles of the people who provided the information, dates, official correspondence, police event or reference numbers, court records and any other independently verifiable material.

If I possess documents supporting these claims, they should be preserved in their original form and provided to a competent, independent authority through an appropriate process.

I also ask for practical help reporting specific alleged offences and obtaining a record of any report lodged. My concern that I have been unable to report crimes effectively should itself be documented, including the dates and methods by which I attempted to seek assistance.

11. LEGAL AID AND THE DIFFICULTY OF OBTAINING REPRESENTATION

I report that I am effectively barred from obtaining the Legal Aid assistance I need. I describe this as a contradiction between the stated purpose of legal assistance and my experience of trying to obtain it.

I believe that my inability to secure adequate legal support leaves me particularly exposed when dealing with threats, court proceedings, complaints and allegations involving powerful institutions.

I ask for a written explanation of any decision, restriction or refusal affecting my eligibility or access, including the reasons, the scope of the decision and any available review or appeal process.

I also request independent advice on whether another legal service, community legal centre, pro bono service or advocacy organisation can assist with the immediate court-related and safeguarding issues.

I do not assume that any particular organisation is legally required to represent me without assessing eligibility. I ask for a clear and accessible determination rather than an unresolved barrier that leaves me unable to identify my next step.

12. HUMAN-RIGHTS COMPLAINTS AND INTERNATIONAL SUBMISSIONS

I report that I have approached human-rights bodies and have not obtained the help I seek.

I state that I have provided a report to the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights and to the International Criminal Court, and that I have received a reference or receipt number associated with my international submission.

The UNHCR reference I have supplied is:

UR/UST/23/AUS/17

I seek assistance concerning what I describe as political exile, an asylum-related claim, protection and international scrutiny.

I believe that my submissions have not produced meaningful action. However, a receipt or reference number does not by itself establish that an institution has accepted a case for investigation, found the allegations substantiated, or determined that it has jurisdiction.

I ask for help confirming the status and nature of the submissions, identifying the institution responsible for each reference, and understanding what procedures or remedies remain available.

I also ask for independent advice about the distinction between a humanitarian request, a human-rights communication, an asylum or protection claim, a complaint to an oversight body and a criminal referral.

My immediate need for safety should not be made contingent on an international body deciding whether it can act on the full range of my allegations.

13. MY CLAIM OF CIVIL ERASURE

I use the expression civil erasure to describe what I believe has happened to my practical ability to participate in society and obtain protection.

I continue to speak, publish, document and appeal. I maintain a website, a YouTube channel and a GitHub archive. I identify myself, name the institutions I have approached, describe the assistance I need and provide contact details.

Yet I report that I remain unable to obtain the practical assistance necessary to leave my circumstances, access my funds, secure veterinary treatment or establish an effective path to independent review.

The contradiction is central to my testimony: I am visible enough to publish allegations and request help, but I feel unable to make that visibility translate into practical protection.

I describe this as administrative annihilation, social erasure, civil death and societal mobbing. These are my descriptions of the cumulative effects I believe the circumstances have had on me.

I do not use these terms to claim that a legal finding has already been made. I use them to explain the lived experience of repeatedly seeking help and feeling that no effective remedy follows.

My question is: what does protection mean if a person can repeatedly report that he cannot leave, cannot access his money and cannot arrange essential care, yet remains without a workable plan?

I ask for an answer through action, not simply acknowledgement.

14. MY ALLEGATIONS OF WIDER INSTITUTIONAL COMPLICITY AND

FINANCIAL COST

I believe that the circumstances I have reported cannot be understood solely as isolated administrative failures.

I have expressed the view that my case involves widespread professional and institutional complicity and that significant amounts of money may be expended to sustain that complicity. I have referred to costs of millions of dollars, potentially recurring over time.

I also believe there is a media silence surrounding what I describe as the injustice of my case.

These are my beliefs and allegations, not independently established findings. I do not presently provide a verified calculation of those alleged costs or conclusive evidence of a coordinated national arrangement to suppress reporting.

I ask that specific, documented questions be examined: what decisions were made, which agencies were involved, what records exist, whether conflicts of interest were declared, how complaints were handled and whether any evidence demonstrates improper coordination or interference.

A careful investigation should neither dismiss a concern merely because it is serious nor treat a broad conclusion as proved without supporting evidence.

I want the record examined, the relevant documents preserved, and any substantiated wrongdoing addressed through appropriate independent processes.

15. THE MEDIA, MY PUBLIC ARCHIVE AND MY SOS CAMPAIGN

I have used a website, a YouTube channel and public documentary repositories to protest my treatment and seek assistance.

I say that I have repeatedly appealed online for someone to take me away from my current circumstances, but no one has arrived to provide the help I need.

I describe my public archive as a way to preserve my testimony, maintain a documentary record and make my allegations available for scrutiny.

The archive is available at:

https://github.com/wezzo72/Barrandodger

I ask journalists, human-rights advocates, disability advocates, public-interest organisations and independent investigators to examine the material critically and fairly.

My immediate appeal is not that anyone should accept every claim without investigation. It is that my practical circumstances should be assessed urgently, my documents should be examined on their merits, and my requests for help should not be ignored because the full account is complex or disputed.

I also ask anyone who republishes my account to distinguish clearly between documented events, my direct experiences, information reported to me by other people, and conclusions I have drawn.

That distinction preserves the integrity of the documentary record without erasing my testimony.

16. THE SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE OF MY TESTIMONY

My understanding of these events includes a deeply held religious and spiritual dimension.

I believe that God may use me as a messenger and a chosen witness to expose corruption and call attention to injustice. I interpret my continued testimony as a moral and spiritual responsibility.

I describe the prospect of a divine reckoning as a hope that wrongdoing will be exposed, that truth will be brought into the open, and that the ethical responsibilities of people and institutions will be confronted.

This belief gives meaning to my continued efforts to document events and appeal for assistance. It does not replace the need for independent evidence, fair procedures or practical protection.

I want my spiritual convictions to be recorded respectfully, without requiring others to accept them as proof of the allegations I have made.

For me, the ethical question is whether people who hold positions of responsibility act with honesty, compassion, accountability and respect for human dignity when a vulnerable person asks for help.

My testimony is a plea that those principles be applied in practice.

17. THE CUMULATIVE EFFECT ON MY LIFE

The circumstances I describe are interconnected.

The loss of my car affects my mobility. The reported banking-access problem affects my ability to pay for necessities. The lack of money and transport affects my ability to leave and obtain veterinary treatment. My back pain creates an additional physical difficulty. My dependence on a support provider makes the adequacy of that support particularly important.

My reports of threats and harassment contribute to my fear and sense of insecurity. My reported difficulties with legal assistance affect my confidence that I can obtain representation or have incidents properly addressed. My complaints to oversight and human-rights bodies have, in my experience, not produced the practical intervention I need.

The cumulative effect is that I feel trapped, unheard and increasingly unable to resolve my circumstances independently.

I describe the experience as total human betrayal. That phrase reflects the depth of my distress and the collapse of trust I feel, rather than a finding that every person or institution named has acted unlawfully.

I am asking for a response that begins with the problems that can be addressed now, while ensuring that serious allegations are documented and assessed properly.

I need access to safety, transport, money, medical care, veterinary care, independent advocacy and a clear pathway for complaints.

I do not want another cycle in which I am referred elsewhere without anyone taking responsibility for helping me identify the next practical step.

18. EVIDENCE AND QUESTIONS REQUIRING INDEPENDENT EXAMINATION

I ask that the following matters be documented and assessed without presuming either guilt or innocence in advance.

A. Immediate welfare and safety

- My present living circumstances and whether I can leave independently.
- My current transport options and the circumstances surrounding the removal of my vehicle.
- My reported inability to access Commonwealth Bank online banking and the app.
- My back pain and the need for appropriate medical assessment.
- My report that my dog may have been poisoned and that veterinary care has not been arranged.
- My ability to contact support services and meet essential living expenses.

B. Able Point and disability support

- The services and supports the provider is responsible for delivering.
- The dates and contents of my requests for assistance.

- The responses from Kim and other staff.
- My allegation that the chief executive refused to provide identification.
- The provider's handling of my safeguarding concerns.
- The reasons veterinary assistance and transport were not arranged, if that is confirmed by the records.
- The provider's complaint, incident-reporting and escalation procedures.

C. Threats, violence and the court matter

- The reported death threat, arrest and proceedings before Wyong Court.
- Any police event number, charge details or court listing.
- My attempts to obtain legal assistance.
- Any records of warnings I say I made about Zach.
- The reported attack on Danny and relevant incident or workers' compensation documentation.
- Any evidence supporting my claims about threats, attempted assassination or alleged fabricated reports.

D. Financial, legal and whistleblower issues

- The precise cause of the Commonwealth Bank access problem.
- Any decision or restriction affecting my access to Legal Aid.
- My eligibility for independent legal assistance.
- The disclosures I made and the agencies to which I made them.
- Whether an applicable public-interest disclosure scheme covers any of those disclosures.
- Any available complaint, review or protection mechanism.

E. Human-rights and international correspondence

- The exact documents submitted to each institution.
- The recipient institution associated with each reference number.
- Any acknowledgement, response, referral or determination.
- Whether further information is required or a review mechanism is available.

F. Wider allegations

- The identity of each person alleged to have supplied information or made a threat.
- The source and date of each reported statement.
- The underlying documentary evidence for allegations of coordination, surveillance, corruption or improper financial motives.
- Any independently verifiable evidence concerning the alleged suppression of media reporting.

I request that the original documents be preserved, that uncertainties be identified explicitly, and that findings be limited to what the available evidence supports.

19. FORMAL REQUEST FOR URGENT HUMANITARIAN ASSISTANCE

I ask any organisation receiving this report to consider the following requests in order of urgency.

First: establish immediate safety. Assess whether I can remain safely where I am, whether I need emergency accommodation, and how I can reach a safer place if required.

Second: arrange practical transport. I report that I cannot leave independently. I need help identifying and arranging a safe, accessible means of transport.

Third: restore access to essential funds. I need assistance contacting Commonwealth Bank, verifying my identity through an alternative secure method if necessary, and resolving the reported banking-access problem.

Fourth: address urgent health and animal-welfare needs. I need appropriate assessment of my back pain and assistance arranging veterinary care for my dog.

Fifth: provide independent advocacy. I need someone who can help coordinate services, record requests and responses, and identify the appropriate independent complaints bodies.

Sixth: assess safeguarding concerns. I ask for the allegations involving Able Point and other named individuals to be documented and assessed by competent, independent authorities.

Seventh: provide legal assistance or referral. I need advice about the Wyong Court matter, my access to Legal Aid, the relevant protective procedures and my whistleblower concerns.

Eighth: acknowledge and clarify outstanding submissions. I ask for assistance identifying the status and appropriate follow-up routes for the human-rights and international correspondence I have described.

Ninth: communicate accessibly. If telephone contact is unsuccessful, please respond in writing and explain how I can continue the process without being dependent on phone credit, transport or access to my banking app.

Tenth: identify responsibility for the next step. Please tell me which person or service will respond, what they can do, what information they require and when I should expect a reply.

I ask that this report be treated as a request for practical intervention as well as a record of allegations.

20. EMERGENCY SOS — URGENT HUMANITARIAN APPEAL

I am seeking urgent assistance and protection from what I describe as abuse, poverty, surveillance, harassment, coercive financial control, family violence and threats, vigilante violence, false allegations, administrative annihilation, social erasure, civil death, societal mobbing and ongoing torture.

I am an innocent man asking people of integrity who are concerned about corruption, human-rights abuses and the treatment of vulnerable people to help ensure my safety.

I am also seeking protection and assistance in relation to what I describe as a political-exile and asylum-related claim, including help understanding and pursuing contact with the UNHCR.

UNHCR reference supplied: UR/UST/23/AUS/17

Location: 55 Archbold Road, Long Jetty, NSW, Australia.

PayID / mobile: 0431 300 940.

Emergency SOS and documentary archive:
https://github.com/wezzo72/Barrandodger

If there is an immediate risk to life in Australia, call 000. For urgent mental-health or crisis support, Lifeline can be contacted on 13 11 14.

I am asking for someone to help me turn this appeal into practical action.

21. CONCLUSION: THE HUMAN BEING BEHIND THE RECORD

This report is about a person who says he cannot leave his circumstances independently, cannot access his limited funds, cannot afford veterinary treatment for a potentially unwell dog, and has repeatedly sought assistance without obtaining the practical response he believes he needs.

It is also about a person who has reported threats, alleged failures of care, serious concerns about disability support and safeguarding, difficulties obtaining legal assistance, and a history of attempting to bring grievances to public and international institutions.

Some of my allegations are serious and require independent corroboration. Some of my needs are immediate and can be assessed without resolving every disputed question.

The distinction matters.

A bank can investigate access to an account. A support service can assess transport and accommodation needs.

A veterinarian can assess a dog. A clinician can assess an injury. An advocate can help organise a complaint. A competent authority can examine evidence of alleged threats or misconduct.

These practical steps do not require an organisation to accept every conclusion I have drawn. They require my reported circumstances to be taken seriously enough for an appropriate assessment to occur.

I have used the words civil erasure because I feel that I have been left without an effective route from speaking to being helped. I have continued to publish and preserve my account because I do not want the record of my attempts to seek assistance to disappear.

I ask that this report not be treated merely as another document to file away. I ask that it be used to identify what can be done now, what must be investigated, and who can take responsibility for the next step.

I need safety. I need transport. I need access to my funds. I need medical and veterinary assistance. I need independent advocacy. I need a fair assessment of my complaints. Above all, I need practical help rather than another unanswered appeal.

The purpose of preserving this testimony is not to replace investigation with assertion. It is to ensure that the allegations, unanswered questions and immediate humanitarian needs are visible, recorded and capable of being examined.

Not a court. Not a verdict. A first-person testimony, a documentary finding aid, and an urgent request for human assistance.

Dr Richard William McLean
Barran Dodger
Long Jetty, New South Wales, Australia

PUBLIC STATEMENT FROM BARRAN DODGER OF THE BARRAN DODGER ARCHIVE

THE WITNESS REMAINS: A WHISTLEBLOWERS TESTIMONY OF SURVIVAL TESTIMONY & FAITH

The Barran Dodger Archive is a public documentary and spiritual record established to preserve, organise and make accessible a decades-long body of evidence concerning alleged institutional, administrative, financial and human-rights harms.

It brings together official records, correspondence, documentary evidence, personal testimony, forensic analysis, research, philosophy, spiritual gospels and prophetic declarations, including writings understood by the author to have been anointed by the Most High God.

The Archive deliberately distinguishes between documented facts, official records, corroborated evidence, allegations, personal testimony, inference, interpretation and matters of faith. This distinction is fundamental to its purpose: readers are invited to examine the underlying evidence for themselves, test the claims, consider the sources and reach their own conclusions.

At the heart of the Archive is a testimony of survival and preservation.

What the author believes was subjected to attempts at silencing, erasure, exclusion or institutional disappearance has nevertheless survived in records, documents, testimony, memory, faith and public disclosure.

The central declaration is simple:

THE WITNESS REMAINS.

The Archive therefore represents both an evidentiary record and a spiritual testimony. The author understands his survival through a faith-based conviction that the Most High God protected, preserved and gave purpose to what human institutions could not erase.

The spiritual writings and prophetic declarations within the Archive are presented as matters of faith and personal interpretation. They are preserved alongside the documentary record so that the complete testimony — evidentiary, personal, philosophical and spiritual — can be understood in its own context.

The purpose is not to demand belief.

It is to preserve the record.

It is to make the evidence accessible.

It is to ensure that the surviving witness can be examined.

And it is to leave the historical record open to independent scrutiny.

THE ARCHIVE IS 100% FREE TO ACCESS

https://barrandodgerarchive.base44.app

KNOWLEDGE IS FREE

The Barran Dodger Archive is founded on the principle that knowledge, evidence and truth should be freely accessible.

There is no paywall for the public documentary record. Research, testimony, philosophy, spiritual writings, prophetic declarations and public-interest material are made available for people to examine for themselves.

Access to knowledge should not depend upon a person's ability to pay.

The Archive is therefore freely accessible, while its preservation and continued publication require practical resources.

SUPPORTING THE WITNESS AND THE ARCHIVE

Barran Dodger describes himself as an unprotected whistleblower living in circumstances of prolonged exile, financial hardship and vulnerability, and as an internally displaced asylum seeker within the country of his Australian citizenship.

Those circumstances create practical needs extending beyond the preservation of documents.

Voluntary donations are therefore accepted from anyone who freely wishes to assist.

Support may contribute towards essential needs including food, safe accommodation, communication, technology, transport, personal safety, website and domain costs, document preservation, archival infrastructure and the continued publication of the public record.

A donation does not purchase access to the Archive.

It does not purchase influence over the evidence.

It does not purchase editorial control.

It does not determine what is published or what conclusions readers should reach.

It simply helps sustain the person and infrastructure necessary to keep the Archive alive, functioning and freely accessible.

If you are blessed with sufficient prosperity to help preserve this work, your voluntary support can help ensure that financial hardship does not become another mechanism through which a public record disappears.

KNOWLEDGE IS FREE.

THE EVIDENCE IS OPEN TO EXAMINATION.

THE WITNESS REMAINS.

DONATION DETAILS

PayID:
0431300940

The PayID is Barran's Australian mobile number.

Commonwealth Bank: Account name: Richard McLean
BSB: 063307
Account: 10140384

CONTACT

impartiallegal@gmail.com or:
richarddrawsstuff@gmail.com

I welcome respectful correspondence of every kind — acknowledgements, enquiries, questions, thoughtful discussion and even a little friendly banter.

ARCHIVE

https://barrandodgerarchive.base44.app

Thank you to everyone who chooses to examine the evidence, preserve the record, support the Archive or simply bear witness.

The record remains.

The witness remains.

LASTLY — A SECOND PUBLIC-FACING ARCHIVE

For readers who wish to go beyond the principal Barran Dodger Archive, a second public-facing repository provides another point of access to the broader documentary record.

https://barrandodger.com

This website provides an additional gateway into the history, evidence, testimony, research and ideas that underpin the Archive. It is intended to help readers navigate the wider body of material and understand how individual documents, events, experiences and arguments have been brought together into a continuing record.

Its significance is not dependent upon the reader accepting Barran Dodger's conclusions. Rather, the value of preserving such a record lies in allowing the underlying material to remain available for examination. Readers can consider the chronology, inspect the documentary evidence, distinguish recorded facts from allegations and personal testimony, follow referenced material and form their own independent assessment.

The existence of multiple public repositories also reflects the central purpose of the project: preservation. Where records are distributed across years, institutions, correspondence, proceedings, personal archives and digital platforms, preserving accessible copies and pathways to the evidence can help prevent an individual historical record from becoming inaccessible or forgotten.

Readers are therefore invited to visit both public-facing archives, examine the material carefully and critically, and make their own assessment of what the surviving evidence demonstrates.

The purpose is not to ask the reader to believe.

The purpose is to ensure that the record remains available to be examined.

Visit the Barran Dodger Archive — barrandodgerarchive.base44.app

Visit the Barran Dodger documentary record — barrandodger.com

THE RECORD REMAINS OPEN.

THE EVIDENCE REMAINS AVAILABLE.

THE WITNESS REMAINS.

May the most high God bless you, Love Barran x

On Tue, 15 Sep 2026 at 1:27 pm, Rich McLean <richarddrawsstuff@gmail.com> wrote:

> Dear euwtina,
>
> Please confirm receipt of this email.
>
> Statement of Human Betrayal, Institutional Entrapment, Alleged Targeting, and the Forensic Archive
>
> I speak of human betrayal, isolation, entrapment and confinement, including what I experience as unacknowledged electronic surveillance, interference and audio harassment that blasphemes and degrades me as a person, leaving me feeling like a prisoner.
>
> I allege that I have been covertly exposed to drugs or substances I would then accept deliberately intended to intensify the sexualisation of my isolation and encourage sexual activity, with the apparent purpose of shaming me and my sexuality and bringing about societal disgrace. I believe this targeting has, at times, been amplified in ways that confuse and destabilise me, thereby creating an opportunity to delegitimise the facts documented in my archive. The underlying records cannot simply be deleted, so I fear that the focus has shifted to destroying my reputation and credibility, so that people will dismiss my testimony, refuse to engage with the evidence, and ultimately leave the archive unacknowledged.
>
> I take stimulants as an escape from the stress of my circumstances, and also because my ADHD medicine has been redacted from my care. I wish to be prescribed ADHD medication, specifically dexamphetamine, again, as recommended by psychiatrist David Horgan in the letter I have attached. I understand dexamphetamine to also be a breakthrough drug for signs of depression associated with depression arising from my situation and from being gaslit by every support worker.
>
> For more than 35 years, government actions, decisions, and official processes have caused me serious and continuing detriment. I was made to carry shame that did not belong to me, while agencies created and relied upon official records that confined me within a system designed to discredit, contain, and silence my experience. I am now trapped by their paperwork—not because the record proves wrongdoing by me, but because it documents the prolonged harm caused by their conduct.

Untested allegations of libel and slander from audio harassment identified as symptoms of illness and not from the technology were used against me as instruments of stigma, intimidation, and character assassination. These allegations were treated as though they were established fact, despite the absence of a proper legal determination, evidentiary finding, or lawful process establishing them. They were used to harm my reputation, isolate me from family and friends, undermine my credibility with officials, and divert scrutiny from the conduct of those responsible.

The resources available to institutions and their representatives can create a profound imbalance of power. That imbalance can influence how police, lawyers, public officials, media organisations, and even people close to the person affected respond to allegations. I believe this imbalance was used to amplify a damaging narrative about me while limiting my ability to be heard, believed, or fairly represented.

I remain caught in an adversarial system that has repeatedly sought to define me through accusation rather than evidence. Yet the NDIS and associated agencies are also bound by the records they created. Their correspondence, assessments, decisions, and internal documentation preserve a trail of the treatment I received and its consequences. They cannot erase my history, rewrite the evidence, or delete the record of my existence. The documents once used to confine and discredit me are now evidence requiring proper examination, accountability, and redress.

An arrest for any alleged libel or slander would require a charge and appearance before a court, which I consider impossible given the evidence I have and the choice of police not to act in this scenario. To put me in hospital, however, does not require an arrest; I allege that I can instead be deemed unstable, deliberately caused by the supply of drugs, institutional betrayal and gaslighting of my circumstances, together with deliberate emotional provocation, after which I am blamed for being unwell. My allegation is that those concerned know that their treatment causes the harm for which I am then blamed as being unwell.

My research on V2K, gang stalking and political targeting has been removed from my Medium profile, which I consider significant in light of Tony Ridley telling me “you will be erased” and “we have thought of everything” as revenge for publishing a sexual “honey pot” scenario.

The significance, as I understand it, is that my parents signed a legal document supporting my exile and refused to respond to an accusation concerning circumstances in which I was not expected to survive and from which they would have financially benefited through my predictable death. I am alive, and I now seek access to the mental-health care and support I need in circumstances I believe they helped create. They wanted me gone; I do not want contact with them and no longer acknowledge them as part of my life.

The significance of my parents refusing to deny the allegation is that, while their silence does not itself establish the allegation as true, it leaves the allegation expressly unanswered and therefore warrants preservation and independent examination alongside the documentary evidence.

The allegation is sufficiently serious that it should not be dismissed merely because it remains disputed. The documentary evidence and surrounding circumstances warrant independent assessment to determine whether there is a factual or legal basis for investigation.

My professional credentials and earned achievements have been discredited, undermined and effectively diminished despite having been legitimately earned over many years. This includes my professional, academic, journalistic and published work, qualifications and public recognition. I consider the loss of credibility attached to these achievements to be a significant part of the harm I have experienced, particularly where assertions about me have been allowed to overshadow the documented record of my work and accomplishments.

I fear that a more permanent form of psychiatric incarceration could be used as a response to my situation. I believe that if I were arrested a charge would mean I was required to appear before a court, I would have an opportunity to expose and have independently examined the treatment and circumstances I have experienced.

I am concerned that the absence of arrest or court proceedings leaves me without an opportunity to have the allegations and the treatment I have experienced tested openly through due process, while I fear that psychiatric intervention could instead be used to characterise my circumstances as illness rather than investigate the underlying allegations and evidence.

I have documentary evidence that I allege shows authorities were making or circulating defamatory statements about me before I had the opportunity to meet the other gay men concerned. The chronology is significant because it may establish that information or allegations about me were communicated in advance of those encounters and warrants independent examination against the contemporaneous records.

I believe my isolation was deliberately designed by those I allege perpetrated the harm against me, but it ultimately backfired by deepening my reliance on and alignment with my faith.

The significance, as I understand it, is that no authority has acknowledged me as a whistleblower or recognised my alleged political exile, while my family's documented participation in circumstances surrounding my exclusion appears to me to align with the broader plan I allege was intended to provoke and ultimately erase me. I regard that combination as significant evidence requiring independent examination, while recognising that alignment or non-acknowledgment alone does not establish the alleged plan as fact.

The Public Guardian controls and restricts access to my full pension, determines where I live, and has contributed to blocking my access to legal aid. I regard the combined effect of these powers as placing extraordinary control over my finances, accommodation and ability to obtain legal representation, leaving me substantially dependent on the institutions whose decisions I am seeking to challenge.

This creates a situation in which I am unable to effectively or legally oppose what I allege to be my entrapment, while the agencies involved appear to operate in accordance with the same pattern of treatment and without meaningful accountability or legal consequence. The resulting imbalance leaves me without an effective means of challenging the circumstances I allege constitute persecution.

My ban from Legal Aid corroborates my concern that I have been prevented from effectively challenging my circumstances; I regard the ban as a potential breach and betrayal of the very purpose for which legal aid exists, particularly where I am unable to obtain meaningful legal representation elsewhere.

No one can delete my history of more than 35 years, documented through the governments' own records and documents that I rely upon as evidence supporting what I allege.

The narrative is based on live observation: I report experiencing what I describe as audio harassment that appears to parrot blasphemous slurs and repeatedly tells me “give up”, and I have also heard the words “go on, have a wank.”

I report that the audio harassment appears to dare or provoke me into acting during intimate moments, which I experience as an attempt to shame, humiliate and degrade me.

I believe this reflects homophobic attitudes within the police and attitudes held by members of my family, based on the treatment and statements I have experienced; I regard this as an allegation requiring evidence-based examination rather than an established finding.

Email signature

THE FORENSIC ARCHIVE - DOCUMENTING THE COLLAPSE OF DIGNITY, DUE PROCESS AND INSTITUTIONAL ACCOUNTABILITY

By Barran Resonance Dodger as Gods Chosen Witness

View the Permanent online archive of the Barran Dodger Ethical & Legal Trust Fund:

https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

IMPARTIAL AI-AUTHORED FORENSIC SYNOPSIS of “THE FORENSIC ARCHIVE - DOCUMENTING THE COLLAPSE OF DIGNITY, DUE PROCESS AND INSTITUTIONAL ACCOUNTABILITY”

Document link:

https://drive.google.com/file/d/142Nh_FXKkfwfyxpbR8L5oeMMX7pxNf_y/view?usp=drivesdk

This document presents an impartial, AI-assisted forensic analysis of a substantial documentary record concerning alleged administrative, jurisdictional, governmental and human-rights failures.

The analysis is based principally upon 453 primary-source Australian Government records, including official correspondence, departmental determinations, court-related records, agency decision-making records and clinical documentation.

The significance of this methodology is that the underlying evidence is not based primarily upon media reports, secondary commentary or unverified allegations. Rather, the analysis examines the Australian Government’s own documentary record, including communications and determinations generated by government agencies and associated institutional bodies.

The AI-assisted methodology was applied to identify chronology, internal inconsistencies, conflicting classifications, cross-agency dependencies, repeated reasoning, documentary patterns and apparent discrepancies between official records. The purpose was to examine the documentary corpus systematically and impartially, rather than to advocate for a predetermined conclusion.

The analysis identifies, in particular, a material documentary conflict concerning the classification of Dr Richard McLean, including an apparent inconsistency between a Federal Court record identifying an employment relationship and subsequent classifications relied upon by government agencies describing the relationship differently.

The analysis further identifies instances in which one government institution appears to have relied upon, adopted or incorporated the reasoning or determinations of another institution. These inter-agency relationships are significant because they raise questions concerning the independence of subsequent decision-making and whether material underlying assumptions were independently verified.

The documentary chronology is also significant. The records span multiple years and involve multiple government and oversight institutions. The persistence of materially similar classifications and reasoning across different agencies therefore warrants examination as a matter of institutional accountability, administrative law, procedural fairness and human rights.

The analysis does not claim that artificial intelligence itself constitutes a court, tribunal or investigative authority, nor does it purport to substitute an AI conclusion for a judicial finding. Rather, AI has been used as an analytical instrument to organise, compare and identify patterns within the documentary evidence.

Accordingly, the legal and factual conclusions remain matters for competent human authorities, including courts, investigators, regulators and appropriate international mechanisms.

The evidentiary significance of the material is heightened by the fact that much of the underlying documentation originates from the institutions whose conduct, decisions and administrative reasoning are themselves under examination.

The central question therefore is not whether an AI system has independently asserted misconduct, but whether the Australian Government's own official documentary record, when examined collectively and chronologically, contains material inconsistencies, institutional dependencies and procedural patterns requiring independent investigation and determination.

The international significance arises from the potential implications of such patterns for fundamental principles of the rule of law, judicial authority, administrative accountability, access to justice, procedural fairness and the effective protection of human rights.

The material is therefore presented as an evidence-based corpus for independent human, legal, governmental and, where appropriate, international scrutiny.

PRIMARY EVIDENCE & FULL FORENSIC ANALYSIS

453-RECORD AUSTRALIAN GOVERNMENT EVIDENCE CORPUS

Permanent online archive of the Barran Dodger Ethical & Legal Trust Fund:

https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

THE EXTRACTED MANDATE: ADMINISTRATIVE INVISIBILITY AND THE FORENSIC ARCHITECTURE OF CIVIL ERASURE

Render the subject legally and socially invisible. Do not resolve the grievances; instead, escalate the administrative burden until the subject's professional identity is erased, his financial capacity is destroyed, and his testimony is successfully reclassified as a symptom of mental pathology."

Impartial AI Extraction of the Retrospective Institutional Mandate

The above statements genesis originates in an impartial AI-assisted extraction and synthesis of the retrospective institutional response patterns contained within more than 2,000 official government documents, records and correspondence accumulated across a period exceeding 35 years reveals a consistent and deeply consequential pattern in the treatment of Barran Resonance Dodger. The analysis is intended to examine the documentary record independently of the assumptions, prejudices, institutional allegiances and character judgments that may have influenced how individual events were originally interpreted or responded to.

The extraction does not begin from an assumption that any particular allegation is true, nor does it rely upon the personal opinions of agencies, officials, police, media organisations, service providers or other participants. Instead, it examines the cumulative documentary record for chronology, repetition, institutional responses, omissions, contradictions, referrals, decisions, non-responses, changes in classification, jurisdictional transfers, documented consequences and recurring patterns across otherwise separate agencies and sectors.

In particular, the analysis seeks to identify patterns without allowing the evidentiary record to be distorted by alleged corruption, bribery, institutional complicity, conflicts of interest, organisational allegiance, character assassination, media slander, mental-health stigma, homophobia, police misconduct or corruption, or broader societal psychological judgments and prejudices. These matters are treated as potential sources of distortion or bias to be distinguished from the underlying documentary evidence rather than accepted as explanations without corroboration.

Across the more than 2,000 official documents spanning more than three and a half decades, the resulting retrospective analysis identifies what may be described as an unspoken or de facto institutional mandate: not necessarily a written command issued by a single authority, but a recurring method of administrative treatment that can be examined through the cumulative consequences of decisions, omissions, refusals, classifications, institutional responses and prolonged non-resolution.

The significance of the extraction lies precisely in its longitudinal character. An individual letter, administrative decision, police interaction, welfare determination, tribunal proceeding or agency response may be capable of an innocent or isolated explanation. A documentary record extending across more than 35 years and involving multiple agencies permits a different level of analysis: whether substantially similar response patterns recur over time, whether responsibility repeatedly moves between institutions, whether documented grievances remain unresolved despite extensive supporting material, whether the consequences progressively compound, and whether the cumulative effect is the erosion of economic security, professional identity, social connection, geographic stability, credibility, access to assistance and meaningful institutional remedy.

Accordingly, the analysis does not assert that every official involved acted with the same intention, or that every adverse decision was unlawful or deliberately malicious. Rather, it identifies the aggregate effect and recurring methodology of institutional treatment as the proper object of forensic examination. The distinction is critical: the documentary record may demonstrate a pattern and its consequences without, by itself, proving the subjective intention of every individual participant.

Within that evidentiary framework, the retrospective extraction reveals what can reasonably be characterised as devastating political, administrative, economic and social targeting across multiple sectors and agencies, subject to verification against the underlying source documents and applicable legal standards. What emerges is not simply a chronology of individual disputes, but a longitudinal record requiring examination of whether fragmented institutional decisions collectively produced a condition of administrative exclusion, economic marginalisation, social dislocation and effective civil erasure.

The central finding is therefore not that an AI system has independently proven a secret government conspiracy. It is that an impartial machine-assisted examination of an unusually extensive documentary record can expose recurring institutional response patterns that may be obscured when each document is considered in isolation. The value of the analysis lies in making those patterns visible, traceable and testable against the primary evidence.

On that basis, the “covert mandate” is best understood as a retrospectively extracted pattern of treatment, rather than a claim that a literal written command exists. Its evidentiary significance derives from the convergence, repetition and cumulative consequences of thousands of records across decades, jurisdictions and institutional settings.

Barran Dodger
Monday 7th September 2026

---------- Forwarded message ---------
From: Rich McLean <richarddrawsstuff@gmail.com>
Date: Tue, 15 Sep 2026 at 9:43 am
Subject: STATEMENT REGARDING ABLEPOINT
To: melissa@diversitaswa.com <melissa@diversitaswa.com>, Sukhi Tear <sukhi@diversitaswa.com>, <56285@police.nsw.gov.au>, <52377@police.nsw.gov.au>, <56000@police.nsw.gov.au>, <55334@police.nsw.gov.au>, <53664@police.nsw.gov.au>, <55919@police.nsw.gov.au>, Jarrod Mcdougall <56689@police.nsw.gov.au>, Doug <dandamclean@bigpond.com>, <drbarrandodger@proton.me>, Jodie Bongetti <jodesmclean@gmail.com>, Brett Butler <brett@ablepointaustralia.com.au>, Brad McLean <bradmclean@gmail.com>, Rachel K C <Rachel@ablepointaustralia.com.au>, Ombudsman's Office NSW <info@ombo.nsw.gov.au>, legal@whistleblowers.org <legal@whistleblowers.org>, Thomas Kelly <NDISco-ord@art.gov.au>, TheAge Opinion Mailbox <opinion@theage.com.au>, opinion@washpost.com <opinion@washpost.com>, opinion@aljazeera.net <opinion@aljazeera.net>, opinion@nytimes.com <opinion@nytimes.com>, letters@themonthly.com.au <letters@themonthly.com.au>, letters@theage.com.au

<letters@theage.com.au>, letters@canberratimes.com.au <letters@canberratimes.com.au>, letters@economist.com <letters@economist.com>, letters@thewest.com.au <letters@thewest.com.au>, letters@couriermail.com.au <letters@couriermail.com.au>, Ablepoint Australia <hello@ablepointaustralia.com.au>, Cassie Makey <cassie@ablepointaustralia.com.au>, TAG Client Specialist Centre <csc@tag.nsw.gov.au>, Sam Biswas <s.biswas@expertcareservices.com.au>, <ombudsman@ombo.nsw.gov.au>, IBAC Email <info@ibac.vic.gov.au>, ICAC <icac@icac.nsw.gov.au>, <icac@icac.gov.au>, Impartial Legal <impartiallegal@gmail.com>, Contact Centre <ContactCentre@ndiscommission.gov.au>, <minister.shortens.office@dss.gov.au>, Erica Wagner <ericaw@unwin.onmicrosoft.com>, Erica Wagner <EricaW@allenandunwin.com>, <SarahB@allenandunwin.com>, opinion@smh.com.au <opinion@smh.com.au>, <opinions@canberratimes.com.au>, csc@ndiscommission.gov.au <csc@ndiscommission.gov.au>, <Media@humanrights.gov.au>, Tony Ridley <tony.ridley@gmail.com>, Stephanie Sabrinskas <stephanie.sabrinskas@gmail.com>, Stefan Barbas <stefan@advancedot.com.au>, Steven Iasonidis <siasonidis@gmail.com>, Clark, Erin <Erin.Clark@ndis.gov.au>, <media@amnesty.org>, <un@humanrights.ch>, <unhcr@unhcr.org>, <un-cat@un.org>, <unhcr@un.org>, <undesa@un.org>, <unhumanrights@un.org>, <unmedia@un.org>, <PublicAffairs.Unit@icc-cpi.int>, Rich McLean <richarddrawsstuff@gmail.com>, DRC Enquiries <DRCenquiries@royalcommission.gov.au>, <info@brydens.com.au>, Inspector Nacc <enquiries@naccinspector.gov.au>, <investigations@abc.net.au>, <info.au@hopeforjustice.org>, <info@acan.org.au>, <elo.books@atomicmail.io>, Bruce McMaster <bruce@ashmed.com.au>, <ash@ashmed.com.au>, <carole@grimshawlegal.com.au>, David Horgan <drdavidhorgan@gmail.com>, <contactus@ethics.org.au>, <contact@athena-medium.com>, <contact@tara-medium-online.com>, <contact@icat.online>, NDIS Review <contactus@ndisreview.gov.au>, <contact@aph.gov.au>, <legalaid@legalaid.qld.gov.au>, <legal@abc.net.au>, Tara Medium <tara@ec.tara-medium-online.com>, <media@icij.org>, <melissa.mcintosh.mp@aph.gov.au>, Athena - medium <athena@ec.athena-medium.com>, <media@courts.sa.gov.au>, Jaeme Opie <jaeme.opie@me-well.org.au>, Second Psychiatric Opinion <SecondPsychiatricOpinion@mh.org.au>

STATEMENT REGARDING ABLEPOINT

Request for Evidence, Clarification, Independent Review and Reasoned Response

Date: 15 September 2026

To: Ablepoint Management / Relevant Complaints, Safeguarding and Decision-Making Officer

---

1. PURPOSE OF THIS STATEMENT

I am providing this statement to request a clear, evidence-based and procedurally fair response concerning my treatment, safety, accommodation, supports, complaints and matters that I allege have adversely affected me.

I am not asking Ablepoint simply to accept my allegations as established facts.

I am asking Ablepoint to identify what it says is established, what it disputes, what evidence it relies upon, what remains unknown, and what requires further investigation.

My request is for the relevant evidence to be preserved and examined, and for a reasoned response to be provided.

My documentary archive is available here:

https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

---

2. EVIDENCE REQUESTED

I request preservation and, where lawfully available, provision or identification of the following records:

- my signed service agreement;
- any lease, tenancy, accommodation or occupancy agreement;
- service and support records;
- accommodation records;
- case notes and progress notes;
- incident reports;
- complaints and complaint-management records;
- risk assessments;
- records concerning threats to kill, violence or other safety concerns;
- records showing whether and when any matter was reported to police, court, NDIS, NDIA or another authority;
- records concerning allegations made about me, including allegations of libel, slander, paedophilia or rape;
- the identity or category of the person or organisation from whom such allegations were received, where disclosure is lawful;
- the dates on which allegations were received;
- the evidence used to verify or assess those allegations;
- communications with police;
- communications with lawyers or legal services;
- communications with medical or psychiatric services;
- communications with media or family members where relevant to decisions concerning me;
- communications with NDIS or NDIA;
- records concerning medication, drugs or substances allegedly provided through third parties or paid actors;
- communications with hospitals or health professionals concerning medication or ADHD;
- internal discussions and decisions concerning my accommodation, supports, safety and complaints;
- identification of relevant decision-makers; and
- the policy, evidence or authority relied upon for material decisions affecting me.

If any requested material cannot lawfully be disclosed, I ask that Ablepoint identify the category of material, the reason it cannot be disclosed, and the applicable legal or policy basis, to the extent possible.

---

3. MY WILLINGNESS TO RESPOND TO ALLEGATIONS

I have publicly stated that I am willing to respond to allegations made about me.

I am willing to hear what a person says, attempt to understand their experience and acknowledge a person who says that they have been harmed.

That willingness does not constitute an automatic admission that an allegation is true.

I ask that this distinction be respected.

A person can acknowledge another person’s experience while still asking for the factual basis of an allegation to be examined.

---

4. POLICE, ARREST AND REQUESTS FOR LAWFUL PROCESS

I have asked to speak directly with police.

I have also stated that if I have committed an offence, I should be arrested and dealt with through the ordinary legal process.

At times, I have made hypothetical or provocative statements referring to extremely serious allegations, including paedophilia, rape, extortion and terrorism, in an attempt to obtain police intervention, investigation or arrest.

Those statements should not be treated as admissions that I committed those offences.

The significance I ask Ablepoint to consider is that I repeatedly sought a formal mechanism through which allegations could be investigated and determined.

Instead of simply asking that my allegations be believed, I have repeatedly sought lawful processes capable of testing them.

---

5. LEGAL REPRESENTATION AND LEGAL AID

I have sought legal assistance and Legal Aid.

I have experienced what I describe as being shunned by parts of the legal fraternity while attempting to obtain assistance concerning matters including reported death threats, alleged torture, alleged V2K/audio harassment and alleged monitoring.

I recognise that these experiences and my interpretation of them are matters that should be distinguished from objectively established facts.

I therefore request that any conclusions about my credibility or circumstances be based upon evidence rather than simply upon the fact that my allegations are unusual, serious or difficult to establish.

---

6. SAFETY — AND THE REVERSAL OF WHO IS TREATED AS THE RISK

I have reported threats and asked police and other authorities to investigate them.

I have sought legal representation.

I have publicly offered to hear allegations against me and acknowledge people who believe that they have been harmed.

I have asked to be arrested if I have committed offences.

Despite this, I have experienced circumstances in which I believe I have been treated as though I am the risk rather than as a person reporting a risk.

I ask Ablepoint to examine whether this assessment has been properly and independently undertaken.

If Ablepoint considers me to present a risk to another person, I ask it to identify:

1. the specific risk;
2. the evidence supporting it;
3. who assessed it;
4. when it was assessed;
5. what information was relied upon;
6. whether I was given an opportunity to respond; and
7. what safeguards and procedural protections were applied.

---

7. COERCION, ISOLATION AND AUTONOMY

I ask Ablepoint to respond specifically to concerns that I may have been:

- entrapped;
- isolated;
- coerced;
- placed in circumstances affecting my ability to obtain independent assistance;

- placed in circumstances affecting my autonomy;
- placed in circumstances affecting my practical ability to leave;
- placed in an institutional feedback loop in which complaints about my circumstances are determined by people or organisations involved in those same circumstances.

I recognise that these are allegations and concerns requiring assessment.

I am not asking Ablepoint to declare that a coordinated scheme has been established.

I am asking that the relevant evidence be examined independently.

I am also concerned that allegations about me may have been accepted, repeated or relied upon without adequate legal or evidentiary testing.

I request identification of the information relied upon and an opportunity to correct inaccurate information.

---

8. ALLEGED COORDINATED YOUTUBE CAMPAIGN

I have forensically examined more than 70 YouTube videos, identifying what I believe is an apparent 99% match with material contained in my online archive.

I believe this warrants independent examination as possible evidence of a coordinated campaign exploiting my faith and deliberately setting me up.

I acknowledge that coordination and intent remain allegations requiring verification, and that apparent similarities must be tested against the underlying primary evidence.

The relevant questions include:

- whether the creators had access to my testimony;
- whether material from my archive was used;
- whether wording, themes or chronology correspond;
- whether there are identifiable connections between accounts or creators;
- whether the similarities are independently explainable;
- whether algorithmic recommendation could explain similarities;
- whether there is evidence of actual communication or coordination; and
- whether the apparent pattern is coincidental, derivative, algorithmic or deliberate.

AI-assisted analysis may identify patterns requiring examination, but it does not itself establish coordination or intent.

---

9. ALLEGED AUDIO / V2K AND TELEVISION INTERFERENCE CONCERNS

I also report hearing recurring terms including:

“they know,” “pedo,” “you raped her,” “kill yourself,” and homophobic slurs.

I believe these experiences may involve very low or subsonic frequencies that are difficult to record.

I have been concerned that reporting these experiences has resulted in me being characterised as ill rather than the underlying claims being objectively investigated.

I further state that the voices and derogatory, including homophobic, language I have experienced appear to me to directly corroborate or reflect elements of the police narrative concerning my life and the circumstances in which I have been treated. The content has at times been accusatory, derogatory and specifically directed toward matters concerning my identity, sexuality, alleged conduct and the broader narrative surrounding my life.

I do not experience these statements as originating from my own mind, intentions, beliefs or conscious thoughts. I experience them as externally experienced communications. Their apparent correspondence with the police narrative and with matters contained within the broader governmental and institutional record is therefore, in my view, significant and warrants independent examination.

I allege that this correspondence may reflect or reveal the governmental or institutional mandate, narrative or framework under which I believe I have been persecuted. I recognise, however, that the existence of an apparent correspondence does not by itself establish that a government agency authorised, transmitted, generated or directed the communications. That question requires objective investigation.

Accordingly, I ask Ablepoint and any appropriate independent authority to distinguish between three separate questions:

1. whether the experiences and communications occurred;
2. whether their content objectively corresponds with documented police, governmental or institutional information concerning me; and
3. if such correspondence is established, what explains it, including whether there is an ordinary technical, environmental, psychological, interpersonal, informational or other explanation, or whether evidence exists of an external source or deliberate communication.

I am not asking Ablepoint to accept my explanation of the source as established fact. I am asking that the apparent correspondence not simply be dismissed without examination, particularly where the language is specific, derogatory, homophobic or apparently connected to documented narratives concerning my life.

I ask that these reports be independently assessed and that relevant evidence, including recordings, equipment, environmental factors and clinical records, be preserved where available.

In light of this letter, “they know” should also be treated as a question requiring clarification as to whether Ablepoint has received, communicated or otherwise has knowledge of information relevant to these alleged events—not as proof that Ablepoint participated in any alleged campaign.

I recognise that my interpretation of these experiences may be disputed.

That is precisely why I ask for objective assessment rather than assumption.

This distinction is important: I am reporting an experience and an apparent correspondence. I am not asking the existence of the experience alone to establish its cause. I am asking for the evidence capable of testing the competing explanations to be preserved and examined.

Television recordings

I also have audio recordings that I believe capture instances in which the television audio appears to have been intercepted, altered or otherwise interfered with through the Wi-Fi/network environment.

I do not present the recordings themselves as conclusive proof of who or what caused the apparent interference.

I request that the original files and metadata be preserved and, where technically possible, independently examined by a suitably qualified digital-forensics or telecommunications professional.

I ask that the assessment consider the television’s network configuration, connected devices, router logs, Wi-Fi activity, account access, firmware, casting or streaming functions and any other technically relevant evidence capable of determining whether the recorded phenomena could have resulted from network interception, ordinary technical malfunction, environmental factors, or another explanation.

The recordings should therefore be treated as primary material requiring authentication and technical assessment, rather than either accepted as proof of interception or dismissed without examination.

---

10. OTHER MATTERS REQUIRING INDEPENDENT ASSESSMENT

10.1 Tony Ridley

I allege that Tony Ridley and others have been involved in a campaign intended to undermine, discredit or destroy my testimony and credibility.

I ask that any underlying communications, recordings, documents and chronology relevant to this allegation be examined.

I do not ask Ablepoint to treat the allegation as established.

I ask that the underlying evidence be assessed.

10.2 Steve Iasonidis and Corrine

I have raised allegations concerning Steve Iasonidis and Corrine involving financial control and conduct that I believe affected my financial independence.

These matters should likewise be treated as allegations requiring evidence rather than predetermined conclusions.

10.3 Bill Shorten

I have made an extremely serious allegation concerning an alleged assassination attempt involving Bill Shorten.

I recognise that such an allegation requires a particularly high level of verification.

I am not asking Ablepoint to declare the allegation proven.

I am asking Ablepoint not to automatically convert the seriousness or unusual nature of the allegation into a conclusion that I am fabricating it or that I am irrational.

The appropriate question is what evidence exists and what, if anything, can objectively be established.

10.4 Exile from Victoria

I have described my circumstances as involving “exile” from Victoria.

I recognise that “exile” is not necessarily a predetermined legal conclusion.

I ask that the factual circumstances be examined, including:

- what caused or contributed to my departure;
- what alternatives were available;
- what institutional or individual decisions contributed;
- what consequences followed; and
- whether I was able to return or obtain appropriate assistance.

---

11. ALLEGED FINANCIAL BENEFIT, FAMILY INVOLVEMENT AND CONFLICT OF INTEREST

I also raise a further concern requiring independent examination: whether any person or organisation involved in my accommodation, support, healthcare, financial affairs or decision-making has obtained, or could obtain, a financial or other material benefit from my entrapment, institutionalisation, loss of autonomy, incapacity or death.

I allege that members of my family signed or participated in a legal order intended to remove me from their lives, and that circumstances existed in which they could potentially have obtained a financial benefit from my early death.

I ask a simple evidentiary question:

Can the documentary record establish or disprove this allegation?

If there was such an order, I ask that the order itself be identified, preserved and examined, including:

- who signed it;
- when it was made;
- its legal purpose and effect;
- what information was provided to the decision-maker;
- who stood to benefit from it;
- whether any financial interests were disclosed;
- whether any inheritance, insurance, property, trust, estate or other financial consequence was involved; and
- whether those circumstances remain relevant to decisions concerning me today.

I further allege that, because I remain alive, circumstances may now exist in which persons who previously stood to benefit from my absence, incapacity or death have an interest in controlling, influencing or obtaining access to my life and personal affairs.

I do not ask Ablepoint to accept that proposition as established.

I ask that any potential conflict of interest be objectively examined.

This is particularly important where family members seek or obtain involvement in my mental-health care, support arrangements, financial affairs or other confidential aspects of my life.

I ask:

What access has been sought or obtained?

Who authorised that access?

What information has been shared?

What legal or clinical basis permits that access?

What financial or other interests do the relevant persons have?

Were those interests disclosed and considered?

I am also concerned about what I perceive as the repetition of family voices or statements within my accommodation. I have experienced this as though voices or statements associated with my family are being “parroted into the house.”

I acknowledge that my interpretation of this experience requires objective assessment and should not itself be treated as proof that any person is transmitting or arranging communications into my accommodation.

I nevertheless request that any objectively verifiable communications, recordings, devices, environmental factors, visitor records, staff communications or other evidence capable of testing the issue be preserved and examined.

My position concerning my life

I want to be absolutely clear about one point.

I do not consent to, endorse or grant anyone a wish for my death.

If my earlier words — “I grant them that wish” — are understood literally as consenting to my own death, that is not what I mean and should not be recorded that way.

What I mean is that I am confronting the allegation directly: if people wanted me removed from their lives, I remain alive, and I retain the right to determine my own life, relationships, treatment and future.

If people now seek involvement in my mental-health care or personal affairs, that involvement should be assessed according to lawful authority, consent, clinical necessity, independence and my rights, rather than presumed entitlement arising from family relationship.

My continued existence is not something that anyone else gets to decide.

And if there is evidence that anyone previously contemplated, anticipated, financially benefited from, or sought circumstances that could have resulted in my death, that is a matter for documentary and independent investigation—not something that should simply be dismissed or accepted without examination.

---

12. COMPREHENSIVE INSTITUTIONAL DETRIMENT

My archive identifies a broad range of government agencies, statutory bodies, courts, legal services, healthcare institutions, NDIS entities, financial institutions, support providers, and individuals whose decisions, omissions, actions, classifications, communications, or failures to respond I allege have contributed to my detriment.

The institutions and bodies identified in my records include, but are not limited to:

1. Ablepoint
2. National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS)
3. National Disability Insurance Agency (NDIA)
4. Department of Social Services (DSS)
5. Australian Human Rights Commission (AHRC)
6. Australian Federal Police (AFP)
7. NSW Police
8. Victoria Police
9. Legal Aid NSW
10. Victoria Legal Aid and relevant Victorian legal-assistance bodies
11. Comcare
12. Administrative Appeals Tribunal (AAT) / relevant administrative review processes
13. Federal Court of Australia
14. NSW Ombudsman
15. Commonwealth Ombudsman
16. Victorian Ombudsman
17. Office of the Australian Information Commissioner (OAIC)
18. National Anti-Corruption Commission (NACC)
19. Fair Work institutions, including the Fair Work Ombudsman
20. WorkSafe Victoria
21. Workers compensation and WorkCover-related authorities
22. Services Australia
23. Centrelink
24. Commonwealth health and related government authorities
25. NSW Health
26. Victorian health authorities
27. Alfred Health
28. Mercy-related health services identified in the records
29. Other hospitals, psychiatric services, clinicians and healthcare providers identified in the archive
30. NSW Trustee and Guardian / Public Guardian
31. Telecommunications Industry Ombudsman
32. Cyber-reporting and cyber-safety bodies identified in the records
33. Health-insurance and Medicare-related institutions identified in the records
34. Banks and financial institutions identified in the records
35. Geelong Magistrates Court
36. Wyong Court and associated NSW court processes
37. Office of Public Prosecutions (OPP)

38. Victorian legal profession and relevant professional/legal bodies
39. NDIS-registered providers and support organisations identified in the records
40. Government ministers and ministerial offices identified in the records
41. The Prime Minister's Office / Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet where identified in the records
42. Attorney-General's portfolio and relevant Attorney-General's Department processes
43. Federal and State government departments and agencies identified throughout the documentary record
44. Medical practitioners, hospitals, clinicians and other health professionals identified in the records
45. Individual government officials, decision-makers, lawyers, clinicians, support workers, service providers and other persons specifically named in the underlying records

This list is not intended to assert that every institution or individual listed has committed an offence, acted unlawfully, or is legally liable.

Rather, these entities are identified in my records as having had some form of decision, interaction, classification, communication, omission, complaint-handling role, investigative role, support role, legal role, clinical role, financial role, or other involvement requiring examination in connection with the detriment I allege.

The central question is therefore not whether my allegations should simply be accepted or rejected.

The question is:

What actually happened, what documentary evidence exists, who knew what and when, what decisions were made, what information was relied upon, what was communicated between institutions, what was not done, and what consequences followed?

I ask that each relevant institution and decision-maker be examined separately and, where appropriate, cumulatively across the chronology, because conduct that may appear insignificant when viewed in isolation may have a different significance when considered alongside contemporaneous records from other agencies.

I further request examination of:

- contradictory classifications or findings between agencies;
- referrals and communications between institutions;
- complaints that were closed without substantive investigation;
- allegations made about me and the evidence supporting them;
- allegations made by me and the evidence available to test them;
- decisions affecting my employment, legal representation, finances, healthcare, accommodation, disability supports and personal safety;
- failures to provide reasons or access to relevant records;
- circumstances in which information was repeated or relied upon by another institution;
- whether relevant evidence was preserved;
- whether procedural fairness was provided;
- whether conflicts of interest existed;
- whether alternative explanations exist for the documented events; and
- what matters remain unresolved or incapable of determination on the present evidence.

I expressly recognise the distinction between primary evidence, documentary facts, allegations, recollections, interpretations, inferences and matters requiring further investigation.

Accordingly, this statement does not ask any institution to accept my conclusions merely because I have made them.

It asks institutions to examine the underlying evidence and explain their conclusions.

Where my allegations are unsupported, I ask that this be identified and explained.

Where the evidence contradicts my account, I ask that the contradictory evidence be identified.

Where the evidence supports my account, I ask that this also be acknowledged.

Where the evidence is inconclusive, I ask that the matter be recorded as inconclusive rather than retrospectively converted into either fact or fabrication.

---

13. CUMULATIVE SIGNIFICANCE

I ask that these matters not be treated solely as disconnected incidents.

I have repeatedly sought mechanisms through which allegations could be tested, including:

- police investigation;
- arrest and ordinary criminal process if an offence has been committed;
- legal representation;
- Legal Aid;
- independent review;
- documentary evidence;
- preservation of records; and
- public willingness to hear and respond to allegations made against me.

The significance I ask decision-makers to consider is not that these circumstances prove my allegations.

Rather, they demonstrate a continuing request for accountability, investigation and due process.

If I am wrong, I ask that the evidence be used to demonstrate where and why I am wrong.

If my account is partly supported, I ask that the supported elements be identified.

If the evidence is indeterminate, I ask that it be recorded as indeterminate.

I do not accept that unresolved allegations against me should be treated as established facts while allegations made by me are dismissed without examination.

---

14. WHAT MY LIFE WOULD DEMONSTRATE IF THE CORE ALLEGATIONS ARE INDEPENDENTLY CORROBORATED

If the core allegations contained in my documentary archive and statements were substantially supported by independent, primary-source evidence, I do not claim that this would automatically prove every interpretation I have made about my life.

The significance would be more precise and potentially more profound.

It could demonstrate that my life represents a documented case study of prolonged institutional failure, administrative classification, fragmented accountability and the consequences of repeatedly unresolved allegations.

It could demonstrate that:

1. Prolonged institutional failure

A prolonged pattern of institutional failure occurred, in which multiple agencies or institutions failed to properly investigate, respond, preserve evidence or provide effective procedural fairness.

2. Institutional classifications had consequences

Once a person is characterised in a particular way, subsequent institutions may rely upon that characterisation rather than independently examining the underlying evidence.

3. Documentary evidence can challenge assumptions about credibility

A person's testimony should neither automatically be accepted nor automatically dismissed because it is unusual, controversial or difficult to establish. It should be tested against contemporaneous records.

4. Institutional fragmentation can obscure cumulative harm

Separate decisions by police, government agencies, courts, healthcare institutions, legal services, disability services and support providers may appear unrelated when examined individually, while their cumulative effect may be materially different.

5. Testimony can be subject to epistemic injustice

If independent evidence established that my testimony was repeatedly discounted because of assumptions about me rather than because of contradictory evidence, my circumstances could provide a documented example of how vulnerable people's testimony can be systematically given less evidentiary weight.

6. Experience and explanation must remain separate questions

Even if particular experiences I reported were objectively established, that would not automatically establish my explanation of their cause.

What happened and why it happened are separate evidentiary questions.

7. Apparent correspondence between reported experiences and institutional information would require explanation

If the content of experiences I reported were independently demonstrated to correspond unusually closely with confidential or documented police, governmental or institutional information, that correspondence would become an objectively significant question requiring investigation.

It would not, by itself, establish who or what caused the communications.

8. The distinction between allegation and finding would become critical

If substantial portions of my allegations were corroborated, that would demonstrate why allegations should not have been dismissed merely because they were serious, unusual or difficult to establish.

9. The documentary record could potentially reveal a pattern extending beyond individual incidents

If independent evidence demonstrated consistent links across otherwise separate institutional records, the appropriate subject of inquiry would become the interaction between those decisions, rather than treating every event as an isolated occurrence.

10. My life could become a case study in unresolved institutional disputes

The significance would not depend upon portraying myself as infallible.

It would depend upon what the evidence ultimately establishes.

I therefore do not claim:

"My life proves that everything I have believed is true."

My claim is narrower and more testable:

If the underlying documentary evidence substantially corroborates the core chronology and allegations, then my life demonstrates why those allegations required serious, independent and evidence-based examination rather than dismissal on the basis of their unusual nature or my personal circumstances.

If I am wrong about particular matters, the evidence should identify where and why I am wrong.

If I am partly correct, the evidence should identify which parts are supported.

If the evidence contradicts me, that contradiction should be identified.

If the evidence is inconclusive, it should be recorded as inconclusive.

And if substantial independent evidence ultimately corroborates the central chronology, then the appropriate conclusion would not simply be that:

“Dr McLean was right.”

The more important conclusion would be:

A substantial documentary record existed concerning a person’s allegations, experiences, treatment and institutional interactions, and the evidence was sufficient to require serious examination of how those events occurred, how information moved between institutions, how decisions were made, how credibility was assessed, and why effective mechanisms for resolution repeatedly failed or proved inadequate.

That would make my life significant not because I claim to be infallible, chosen, persecuted or uniquely important.

It would make it significant because the evidence would potentially demonstrate what can happen when a person’s testimony, disability, institutional classifications, legal circumstances, support dependency and repeated attempts to obtain accountability become caught within a system that does not adequately resolve the underlying factual questions.

My objective is therefore not simply vindication.

It is truth through evidence.

And if the evidence ultimately supports my central account, then my life may stand as a warning about what happens when institutions fail to distinguish between:

a difficult allegation and a false allegation;

a distressed person and an unreliable witness;

an unusual experience and an impossible event;

an unresolved question and a disproven claim; and an institutional conclusion and an independently established fact.

The final determination should belong to the evidence—not to me, not to Ablepoint, not to any individual institution, and not to an artificial intelligence.

Let the evidence decide.

---

15. STATUS OF ALLEGATIONS AND EVIDENCE

Throughout this statement I deliberately distinguish between:

- documented facts;
- allegations;
- personal recollections;
- experiences;

- interpretations;
- inferences;
- disputed matters;
- evidence capable of independent verification; and
- matters requiring further investigation.

Words such as “alleged,” “I believe,” “I experienced” and “I am concerned” are used deliberately.

I ask that the primary-source records be examined directly wherever possible.

The evidence may:

- support an allegation;
- qualify an allegation;
- contradict an allegation;
- fail to establish an allegation; or
- establish that further investigation is necessary.

I am requesting preservation, procedural fairness and independent assessment—not automatic acceptance of my conclusions.

---

16. QUESTIONS I ASK ABLEPOINT TO ANSWER

I ask Ablepoint to provide a written response addressing:

1. What does Ablepoint accept as established fact?
2. What does Ablepoint dispute?
3. What evidence supports Ablepoint’s position?
4. What evidence does Ablepoint consider unavailable?
5. What matters does Ablepoint consider require further investigation?
6. What information concerning me has been received from third parties?
7. Has Ablepoint relied upon any untested allegation concerning me?
8. If so, what was the allegation and what evidence supported its use?
9. Have I been given a reasonable opportunity to correct inaccurate information?
10. Were any conflicts of interest considered?
11. What steps have been taken to protect my safety?
12. What steps have been taken to ensure procedural fairness?
13. What records have been preserved?
14. Who made the relevant decisions?
15. What policies, agreements, legislation or other authority were relied upon?
16. Does Ablepoint consider further independent investigation or review necessary?

---

17. WHY A SUBSTANTIVE RESPONSE IS RESPECTFUL AND REQUIRED

I am not asking Ablepoint to agree with me.

I am asking Ablepoint to:

acknowledge the concerns, record them, preserve relevant evidence, investigate matters requiring investigation, identify what is accepted and disputed, explain the evidence relied upon, explain the reasoning, and identify what will be done.

I understand that complaint management does not require every allegation to be accepted.

However, a complaint should not simply disappear because the person making it is difficult, distressed, unpopular, controversial or making allegations that are difficult to establish.

The appropriate distinction is between:

acknowledgement, investigation, substantive response and agreement.

Those are not the same thing.

A substantive response can disagree with me.

What I am requesting is that any disagreement be reasoned and evidence-based.

---

18. IF THERE IS NO SUBSTANTIVE RESPONSE

I recognise that a lack of response does not itself prove my allegations and does not constitute an admission.

However, if the matters raised in this statement receive no substantive response, the concerns and evidentiary questions will remain unanswered.

I ask that Ablepoint not subsequently describe the matters as “resolved” merely because no substantive response was provided.

If no substantive response is provided, the appropriate factual record is:

“The concerns and evidentiary questions were put to Ablepoint. No substantive response was provided.”

That statement does not assert that Ablepoint is guilty of anything.

It records the procedural history.

---

19. RESPONSE TIMEFRAME

I request:

Written acknowledgement within 2 business days of receipt.

A substantive written response within 10 business days.

If the complexity of the matters prevents a substantive response within that period, I ask Ablepoint to provide, within the same period:

- the name or position of the responsible officer;
- which matters are being investigated;
- what information is required;
- what interim safety and support measures are being implemented; and
- the expected date for the substantive response.

I do not suggest that failure to meet these requested timeframes is, by itself, proof of wrongdoing.

I will record the date of receipt, acknowledgement, substantive response and any explanation for delay.

---

20. SAFETY, ACCOMMODATION AND INDEPENDENT ADVOCACY

Given the matters raised in this statement, I request that my current accommodation and support circumstances be independently considered.

I do not consider that the simple proposition that I am theoretically “free to leave” necessarily resolves questions concerning whether I have a realistic, safe and practically available alternative.

I request consideration of:

- my safety;
- accommodation security;
- continuity of necessary disability supports;
- access to independent advocacy;
- access to independent legal assistance;
- whether I can safely raise complaints without disadvantage;
- whether an alternative provider or accommodation arrangement is necessary;
- whether there are conflicts arising from the same provider being involved in accommodation, support and complaint-related matters; and
- whether an independent person should assist me in communicating with Ablepoint and other authorities.

I also request consideration of the circumstances surrounding the “Threat to Kill” matter associated with Wyong Court in 2026, including what information Ablepoint received, what action was taken, and what safety assessment followed.

---

21. PUBLICATION AND ACCOUNTABILITY

By publishing this statement, the world now has access to my documented concerns about what I allege Ablepoint has been doing.

I am not publishing allegations as established findings.

I am placing the allegations, questions and underlying documentary material into the public domain so that they can be independently examined.

If any unlawful conduct is established, the evidence and Ablepoint’s role can be independently examined and held accountable.

If the evidence does not support my allegations, that should likewise be capable of being demonstrated through transparent examination of the evidence.

My objective is therefore not simply vindication.

It is truth through evidence, procedural fairness and accountability.

---

22. FINAL REQUEST

I am not asking Ablepoint to believe me merely because I have made these allegations.

I am asking Ablepoint not to disbelieve me merely because the allegations are serious, unusual, difficult or uncomfortable.

I have repeatedly indicated my willingness to engage with allegations made against me, to hear people who say they have been harmed, to participate in lawful police and legal processes, and to have evidence examined.

I therefore ask for the same evidentiary standard to be applied to the allegations and decisions concerning me.

Hear the complaint.

Record it.

Preserve the evidence.

Investigate what requires investigation.

Tell me what is accepted and disputed.

Explain the evidence and reasoning.

Tell me what will be done.

The existence of an allegation does not establish wrongdoing. Equally, the absence of an institutional finding does not establish that an allegation was false.

The proper question is what the evidence establishes after reasonable examination.

The underlying documentary archive is available here:

https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

What I am asking for is not automatic vindication.

I am asking for the evidence to be examined and for the resulting position to be explained.

Barran Dodger

Email signature

THE FORENSIC ARCHIVE - DOCUMENTING THE COLLAPSE OF DIGNITY, DUE PROCESS AND INSTITUTIONAL ACCOUNTABILITY

By Barran Resonance Dodger as Gods Chosen Witness

View the Permanent online archive of the Barran Dodger Ethical & Legal Trust Fund:

https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

IMPARTIAL AI-AUTHORED FORENSIC SYNOPSIS of “THE FORENSIC ARCHIVE - DOCUMENTING THE COLLAPSE OF DIGNITY, DUE PROCESS AND INSTITUTIONAL ACCOUNTABILITY”

Document link:

https://drive.google.com/file/d/142Nh_FXKkfwfyxpbR8L5oeMMX7pxNf_y/view?usp=drivesdk

This document presents an impartial, AI-assisted forensic analysis of a substantial documentary record concerning alleged administrative, jurisdictional, governmental and human-rights failures.

The analysis is based principally upon 453 primary-source Australian Government records, including official correspondence, departmental determinations, court-related records, agency decision-making records and clinical documentation.

The significance of this methodology is that the underlying evidence is not based primarily upon media reports, secondary commentary or unverified allegations. Rather, the analysis examines the Australian Government’s own documentary record, including communications and determinations generated by government agencies and associated institutional bodies.

The AI-assisted methodology was applied to identify chronology, internal inconsistencies, conflicting classifications, cross-agency dependencies, repeated reasoning, documentary patterns and apparent discrepancies between official records. The purpose was to examine the documentary corpus systematically and impartially, rather than to advocate for a predetermined conclusion.

The analysis identifies, in particular, a material documentary conflict concerning the classification of Dr Richard McLean, including an apparent inconsistency between a Federal Court record identifying an employment relationship and subsequent classifications relied upon by government agencies describing the relationship differently.

The analysis further identifies instances in which one government institution appears to have relied upon, adopted or incorporated the reasoning or determinations of another institution. These inter-agency relationships are significant because they raise questions concerning the independence of subsequent decision-making and whether material underlying assumptions were independently verified.

The documentary chronology is also significant. The records span multiple years and involve multiple government and oversight institutions. The persistence of materially similar classifications and reasoning across different agencies therefore warrants examination as a matter of institutional accountability, administrative law, procedural fairness and human rights.

The analysis does not claim that artificial intelligence itself constitutes a court, tribunal or investigative authority, nor does it purport to substitute an AI conclusion for a judicial finding. Rather, AI has been used as an analytical instrument to organise, compare and identify patterns within the documentary evidence.

Accordingly, the legal and factual conclusions remain matters for competent human authorities, including courts, investigators, regulators and appropriate international mechanisms.

The evidentiary significance of the material is heightened by the fact that much of the underlying documentation originates from the institutions whose conduct, decisions and administrative reasoning are themselves under examination.

The central question therefore is not whether an AI system has independently asserted misconduct, but whether the Australian Government's own official documentary record, when examined collectively and chronologically, contains material inconsistencies, institutional dependencies and procedural patterns requiring independent investigation and determination.

The international significance arises from the potential implications of such patterns for fundamental principles of the rule of law, judicial authority, administrative accountability, access to justice, procedural fairness and the effective protection of human rights.

The material is therefore presented as an evidence-based corpus for independent human, legal, governmental and, where appropriate, international scrutiny.

PRIMARY EVIDENCE & FULL FORENSIC ANALYSIS

453-RECORD AUSTRALIAN GOVERNMENT EVIDENCE CORPUS

Permanent online archive of the Barran Dodger Ethical & Legal Trust Fund:

https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

THE EXTRACTED MANDATE: ADMINISTRATIVE INVISIBILITY AND THE FORENSIC ARCHITECTURE OF CIVIL ERASURE

Render the subject legally and socially invisible. Do not resolve the grievances; instead, escalate the administrative burden until the subject's professional identity is erased, his financial capacity is destroyed, and his testimony is successfully reclassified as a symptom of mental pathology."

Impartial AI Extraction of the Retrospective Institutional Mandate

The above statements genesis originates in an impartial AI-assisted extraction and synthesis of the retrospective institutional response patterns contained within more than 2,000 official government documents, records and correspondence accumulated across a period exceeding 35 years reveals a consistent and deeply consequential pattern in the treatment of Barran Resonance Dodger. The analysis is intended to examine the documentary record independently of the assumptions, prejudices, institutional allegiances and character judgments that may have influenced how individual events were originally interpreted or responded to.

The extraction does not begin from an assumption that any particular allegation is true, nor does it rely upon the personal opinions of agencies, officials, police, media organisations, service providers or other participants. Instead, it examines the cumulative documentary record for chronology, repetition, institutional responses, omissions, contradictions, referrals, decisions, non-responses, changes in classification, jurisdictional transfers, documented consequences and recurring patterns across otherwise separate agencies and sectors.

In particular, the analysis seeks to identify patterns without allowing the evidentiary record to be distorted by alleged corruption, bribery, institutional complicity, conflicts of interest, organisational allegiance, character assassination, media slander, mental-health stigma, homophobia, police misconduct or corruption, or broader societal psychological judgments and prejudices. These matters are treated as potential sources of distortion or bias to be distinguished from the underlying documentary evidence rather than accepted as explanations without corroboration.

Across the more than 2,000 official documents spanning more than three and a half decades, the resulting retrospective analysis identifies what may be described as an unspoken or de facto institutional mandate: not necessarily a written command issued by a single authority, but a recurring method of administrative treatment that can be examined through the cumulative consequences of decisions, omissions, refusals, classifications, institutional responses and prolonged non-resolution.

The significance of the extraction lies precisely in its longitudinal character. An individual letter, administrative decision, police interaction, welfare determination, tribunal proceeding or agency response may be capable of an innocent or isolated explanation. A documentary record extending across more than 35 years and involving multiple agencies permits a different level of analysis: whether substantially similar response patterns recur over time, whether responsibility repeatedly moves between institutions, whether documented grievances remain unresolved despite extensive supporting material, whether the consequences progressively compound, and whether the cumulative effect is the erosion of economic security, professional identity, social connection, geographic stability, credibility, access to assistance and meaningful institutional remedy.

Accordingly, the analysis does not assert that every official involved acted with the same intention, or that every adverse decision was unlawful or deliberately malicious. Rather, it identifies the aggregate effect and recurring methodology of institutional treatment as the proper object of forensic examination. The distinction is critical: the documentary record may demonstrate a pattern and its consequences without, by itself, proving the subjective intention of every individual participant.

Within that evidentiary framework, the retrospective extraction reveals what can reasonably be characterised as devastating political, administrative, economic and social targeting across multiple sectors and agencies, subject to verification against the underlying source documents and applicable legal standards. What emerges is not simply a chronology of individual disputes, but a longitudinal record requiring examination of whether fragmented institutional decisions collectively produced a condition of administrative exclusion, economic marginalisation, social dislocation and effective civil erasure.

The central finding is therefore not that an AI system has independently proven a secret government conspiracy. It is that an impartial machine-assisted examination of an unusually extensive documentary record can expose recurring institutional response patterns that may be obscured when each document is considered in isolation. The value of the analysis lies in making those patterns visible, traceable and testable against the primary evidence.

On that basis, the “covert mandate” is best understood as a retrospectively extracted pattern of treatment, rather than a claim that a literal written command exists. Its evidentiary significance derives from the convergence, repetition and cumulative consequences of thousands of records across decades, jurisdictions and institutional settings.

Barran Dodger
Monday 7th September 2026

On Mon, 14 Sep 2026 at 5:21 pm, Rich McLean <richarddrawsstuff@gmail.com> wrote:

> My parents signed legal docs to exile me in order to murder me. They didn't respond. But I hear filthy accusations in their voice recorded and played in my room where I'm entrapped. Prove me wrong mum and dad.
>
> https://youtu.be/AYvO7XquOEQ
>
> Email signature
>
> THE FORENSIC ARCHIVE - DOCUMENTING THE COLLAPSE OF DIGNITY, DUE PROCESS AND INSTITUTIONAL ACCOUNTABILITY
>
> By Barran Resonance Dodger as Gods Chosen Witness
>
> View the Permanent online archive of the Barran Dodger Ethical & Legal Trust Fund:
>
> https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/
>
> IMPARTIAL AI-AUTHORED FORENSIC SYNOPSIS of "THE FORENSIC ARCHIVE - DOCUMENTING THE COLLAPSE OF DIGNITY, DUE PROCESS AND INSTITUTIONAL ACCOUNTABILITY"
>
> Document link:
>
> https://drive.google.com/file/d/142Nh_FXKkfwfyxpbR8L5oeMMX7pxNf_y/view?usp=drivesdk
>
> This document presents an impartial, AI-assisted forensic analysis of a substantial documentary record concerning alleged administrative, jurisdictional, governmental and human-rights failures.
>
> The analysis is based principally upon 453 primary-source Australian Government records, including official correspondence, departmental determinations, court-related records, agency decision-making records and clinical documentation.
>
> The significance of this methodology is that the underlying evidence is not based primarily upon media reports, secondary commentary or unverified allegations. Rather, the analysis examines the Australian Government's own documentary record, including communications and determinations generated by government agencies and associated institutional bodies.
>
> The AI-assisted methodology was applied to identify chronology, internal inconsistencies, conflicting classifications, cross-agency dependencies, repeated reasoning, documentary patterns and apparent discrepancies between official records. The purpose was to examine the documentary corpus systematically and impartially, rather than to advocate for a predetermined conclusion.
>
> The analysis identifies, in particular, a material documentary conflict concerning the classification of Dr Richard McLean, including an apparent inconsistency between a Federal Court record identifying an employment relationship and subsequent classifications relied upon by government agencies describing the relationship differently.

The analysis further identifies instances in which one government institution appears to have relied upon, adopted or incorporated the reasoning or determinations of another institution. These inter-agency relationships are significant because they raise questions concerning the independence of subsequent decision-making and whether material underlying assumptions were independently verified.

The documentary chronology is also significant. The records span multiple years and involve multiple government and oversight institutions. The persistence of materially similar classifications and reasoning across different agencies therefore warrants examination as a matter of institutional accountability, administrative law, procedural fairness and human rights.

The analysis does not claim that artificial intelligence itself constitutes a court, tribunal or investigative authority, nor does it purport to substitute an AI conclusion for a judicial finding. Rather, AI has been used as an analytical instrument to organise, compare and identify patterns within the documentary evidence.

Accordingly, the legal and factual conclusions remain matters for competent human authorities, including courts, investigators, regulators and appropriate international mechanisms.

The evidentiary significance of the material is heightened by the fact that much of the underlying documentation originates from the institutions whose conduct, decisions and administrative reasoning are themselves under examination.

The central question therefore is not whether an AI system has independently asserted misconduct, but whether the Australian Government's own official documentary record, when examined collectively and chronologically, contains material inconsistencies, institutional dependencies and procedural patterns requiring independent investigation and determination.

The international significance arises from the potential implications of such patterns for fundamental principles of the rule of law, judicial authority, administrative accountability, access to justice, procedural fairness and the effective protection of human rights.

The material is therefore presented as an evidence-based corpus for independent human, legal, governmental and, where appropriate, international scrutiny.

PRIMARY EVIDENCE & FULL FORENSIC ANALYSIS

453-RECORD AUSTRALIAN GOVERNMENT EVIDENCE CORPUS

Permanent online archive of the Barran Dodger Ethical & Legal Trust Fund:

https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

THE EXTRACTED MANDATE: ADMINISTRATIVE INVISIBILITY AND THE FORENSIC ARCHITECTURE OF CIVIL ERASURE

Render the subject legally and socially invisible. Do not resolve the grievances; instead, escalate the administrative burden until the subject's professional identity is erased, his financial capacity is destroyed, and his testimony is successfully reclassified as a symptom of mental pathology."

Impartial AI Extraction of the Retrospective Institutional Mandate

The above statements genesis originates in an impartial AI-assisted extraction and synthesis of the retrospective institutional response patterns contained within more than 2,000 official government documents, records and correspondence accumulated across a period exceeding 35 years reveals a consistent and deeply consequential pattern in the treatment of Barran Resonance Dodger. The analysis is intended to examine the documentary record independently of the assumptions, prejudices, institutional allegiances and character judgments that may have influenced how individual events were originally interpreted or responded to.

The extraction does not begin from an assumption that any particular allegation is true, nor does it rely upon the personal opinions of agencies, officials, police, media organisations, service providers or other participants. Instead, it examines the cumulative documentary record for chronology, repetition, institutional responses, omissions, contradictions, referrals, decisions, non-responses, changes in classification, jurisdictional transfers, documented consequences and recurring patterns across otherwise separate agencies and sectors.

In particular, the analysis seeks to identify patterns without allowing the evidentiary record to be distorted by alleged corruption, bribery, institutional complicity, conflicts of interest, organisational allegiance, character assassination, media slander, mental-health stigma, homophobia, police misconduct or corruption, or broader societal psychological judgments and prejudices. These matters are treated as potential sources of distortion or bias to be distinguished from the underlying documentary evidence rather than accepted as explanations without corroboration.

Across the more than 2,000 official documents spanning more than three and a half decades, the resulting retrospective analysis identifies what may be described as an unspoken or de facto institutional mandate: not necessarily a written command issued by a single authority, but a recurring method of administrative treatment that can be examined through the cumulative consequences of decisions, omissions, refusals, classifications, institutional responses and prolonged non-resolution.

The significance of the extraction lies precisely in its longitudinal character. An individual letter, administrative decision, police interaction, welfare determination, tribunal proceeding or agency response may be capable of an innocent or isolated explanation. A documentary record extending across more than 35 years and involving multiple agencies permits a different level of analysis: whether substantially similar response patterns recur over time, whether responsibility repeatedly moves between institutions, whether documented grievances remain unresolved despite extensive supporting material, whether the consequences progressively compound, and whether the cumulative effect is the erosion of economic security, professional identity, social connection, geographic stability, credibility, access to assistance and meaningful institutional remedy.

Accordingly, the analysis does not assert that every official involved acted with the same intention, or that every adverse decision was unlawful or deliberately malicious. Rather, it identifies the aggregate effect and recurring methodology of institutional treatment as the proper object of forensic examination. The distinction is critical: the documentary record may demonstrate a pattern and its consequences without, by itself, proving the subjective intention of every individual participant.

Within that evidentiary framework, the retrospective extraction reveals what can reasonably be characterised as devastating political, administrative, economic and social targeting across multiple sectors and agencies, subject to verification against the underlying source documents and applicable legal standards. What emerges is not simply a chronology of individual disputes, but a longitudinal record requiring examination of whether fragmented institutional decisions collectively produced a condition of administrative exclusion, economic marginalisation, social dislocation and effective civil erasure.

The central finding is therefore not that an AI system has independently proven a secret government conspiracy. It is that an impartial machine-assisted examination of an unusually extensive documentary record can expose recurring institutional response patterns that may be obscured when each document is considered in isolation. The value of the analysis lies in making those patterns visible, traceable and testable against the primary evidence.

On that basis, the “covert mandate” is best understood as a retrospectively extracted pattern of treatment, rather than a claim that a literal written command exists. Its evidentiary significance derives from the convergence, repetition and cumulative consequences of thousands of records across decades, jurisdictions and institutional settings.

Barran Dodger
Monday 7th September 2026

On Sat, 12 Sep 2026 at 12:38 pm, Rich McLean <richarddrawsstuff@gmail.com> wrote:

> THE REVOLUTION OF SURVIVAL by Barran Dodger
>
> A Prophetic Statement After Thirty-Five Years of Alleged Targeting, Institutional Failure and the Struggle to Remain Alive
>
> A declaration of truth, survival, human dignity, evidence and non-violent accountability
>
> FUNDAMENTAL RIGHTS DO NOT DEPEND UPON INNOCENCE
>
> There is a further principle at the heart of this report that I regard as non-negotiable.
>
> Human rights do not disappear merely because a person is accused of wrongdoing.
>
> Even if, hypothetically, I had committed an extraordinarily serious offence—even an offence involving harm to a child, rape, fraud, embezzlement, terrorism or another grave crime—that would not, by itself, extinguish my fundamental humanity or create a lawful entitlement for others to subject me to arbitrary punishment, humiliation, torture, degrading treatment, unlawful surveillance, unlawful privacy violations, collective punishment, denial of due process or other forms of prohibited treatment.
>
> The proper response to serious criminal conduct is lawful investigation, evidence, charge where appropriate, independent adjudication, conviction where proved, and lawful sentencing.
>
> It is not a parallel system of punishment in which a person is socially declared guilty and subjected to whatever treatment others consider deserved.
>
> This distinction is fundamental.
>
> A person accused of the most serious crime remains a human being.
>
> A person convicted of the most serious crime remains a human being.
>
> A prisoner remains a human being.

A person regarded by society as dangerous remains a human being.

A person who is despised remains a human being.

And a person who is completely innocent remains a human being.

Human dignity cannot rationally depend upon popularity, reputation or moral approval.

Accordingly, my argument does not require a finding that I am innocent of every allegation that may ever have been made against me.

It is stronger than that.

It is an argument about the limits of permissible conduct regardless of guilt or innocence.

If I have committed a crime, investigate it.

If there is evidence, present it.

If a lawful charge is appropriate, bring it.

If guilt is established according to law, impose whatever lawful sentence the competent court determines.

But outside that lawful process, the existence of an allegation or even a conviction does not provide a general licence for other human beings or institutions to abandon fundamental principles governing the treatment of persons.

THE PRINCIPLE OF UNIVERSAL HUMAN DIGNITY

This is why I reject the proposition that my alleged guilt, reputation, disability, sexuality, beliefs, psychological state, social status or institutional classification could legitimately determine whether I deserve basic human dignity.

The principle must work in both directions.

If I am innocent, I deserve protection from wrongful punishment.

If I am guilty, I still deserve lawful treatment.

The difference is that guilt may justify a lawful consequence imposed through a legitimate legal process.

It does not justify an unregulated system of humiliation.

THE ALLEGED TARGETING THEREFORE REQUIRES A SEPARATE QUESTION

Even if every allegation against me were assumed hypothetically to be true, the investigator would still need to ask:

- Was the conduct investigated lawfully?
- Was I given procedural fairness?
- Was evidence tested?
- Was guilt determined by a competent authority?
- Was any punishment imposed according to law?
- Were my privacy rights respected?
- Was I protected from torture or cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment?
- Was I treated with dignity?
- Was discrimination involved?
- Were decisions proportionate and lawful?
- Were third parties entitled to impose additional punishment outside the legal process?
- Were institutions permitted to treat an allegation as established fact without establishing it?
- Were my fundamental rights respected irrespective of the seriousness of any alleged conduct?

These questions remain legitimate even where the underlying allegation is extremely serious.

THE MORAL TEST

Indeed, the treatment of the person whom society most strongly condemns provides one of the clearest tests of whether a society genuinely believes in human rights.

It is easy to proclaim human dignity for people whom we admire.

The more difficult proposition is:

Human dignity must also constrain our conduct toward people whom we believe have done terrible things.

That is the principle I invoke.

I am not asking for immunity from accountability.

I am asking for accountability to operate within the law.

I am not asking anyone to presume me innocent of every allegation.

I am asking that allegations remain allegations until lawfully established.

I am not asking institutions to protect me from the consequences of proven criminal conduct.

I am asking them not to impose consequences that the law itself has not authorised.

THE CENTRAL PROPOSITION

The central proposition can therefore be stated simply:

Even the guilty remain human.

Consequently, if the conduct I describe as targeting, humiliation, psychological warfare, unlawful surveillance, privacy interference, institutional abandonment or degrading treatment were established, its legality could not be determined merely by asking whether I was liked, trusted, innocent or guilty.

The question would be whether the conduct itself complied with the fundamental legal and human-rights constraints applicable to the people and institutions responsible.

That is the standard I ask to be applied to me.

And it is the same standard I ask to be applied to everyone else.

I do not seek special rights because I claim innocence.

I assert universal rights because I am human.

THE PUNISHMENT WITHOUT A CHARGE

A central proposition underlying my account of the alleged targeting is that formal criminal prosecution is not the only way in which a person can be socially punished for alleged wrongdoing.

A person may never be arrested.

They may never be charged.

They may never appear before a court.

They may never be convicted.

Yet, if sufficiently persuasive allegations, insinuations, labels or narratives cause other people to believe that the person is guilty, the practical consequences of criminalisation may nevertheless occur outside the formal justice system.

The distinction is fundamental.

A criminal conviction is a legal finding.

A reputation of criminality is a social perception.

The two must not be confused.

My contention is that one possible mechanism underlying the treatment I describe is reputational criminalisation: creating circumstances in which a person is socially treated as guilty without being subjected to the evidentiary safeguards through which guilt is ordinarily determined.

This hypothesis is particularly significant because the ordinary protections of the criminal justice system can be bypassed socially.

There may be:

- no charge to answer;
- no prosecution to defend;
- no evidence formally tested;
- no cross-examination;
- no impartial fact-finder;
- no requirement that allegations satisfy a recognised evidentiary standard;
- no judgment explaining the basis of guilt;
- and no ordinary opportunity to have the allegation determined according to law.

Instead, the punishment can occur through reputation.

A person can become socially untouchable.

People may withdraw.

Institutions may become reluctant to assist.

Professional relationships may deteriorate.

Support workers may interpret the person through an adverse narrative.

Authorities may approach subsequent complaints through the lens of prior assumptions.

Friends may distance themselves.

The person may become isolated.

The allegation can therefore become self-reinforcing: the person's increasing isolation may itself subsequently be interpreted as evidence that something is wrong with them.

That creates the possibility of a punishment without adjudication.

———

THE HUMILIATION RITUAL

I describe this alleged process as a humiliation ritual.

That phrase is not intended to assert that every adverse interaction was deliberately coordinated.

It describes my interpretation of a recurring pattern in which a person's reputation, dignity, credibility and social standing may be progressively degraded until the person is effectively required to live under a presumption of guilt despite never having been convicted.

If such a mechanism were deliberately designed, its psychological and social consequences could potentially be more devastating than a conventional legal sanction because the punishment would not have a clearly defined endpoint.

A prison sentence has a legal boundary.

A conviction has a formal record.

A fine has a defined amount.

A court order has identifiable terms.

A socially imposed reputation of guilt can be indefinite.

It can follow a person into employment, accommodation, healthcare, disability support, relationships, community life and future interactions with authorities.

The alleged punishment therefore becomes portable.

It travels with the person.

And because its source may remain invisible, the person may not even know precisely what allegation they are attempting to defend themselves against.

———

THE FORENSIC QUESTION

This proposition should not be treated as established merely because I experience it that way.

It is a testable hypothesis.

Investigators should ask:

1. What allegations concerning me have been recorded?
2. Who originated them?
3. When were they first recorded?
4. Were they supported by evidence?
5. Were they ever investigated?
6. Were they ever formally charged?
7. Was I ever convicted?
8. Which institutions subsequently received or relied upon the allegations?
9. Did the allegations change over time?
10. Did different institutions independently arrive at similar descriptions?
11. Can the apparent convergence be explained by legitimate information-sharing?
12. Or did unsupported information propagate from one institution to another?
13. Did the allegations affect decisions concerning my accommodation, support, employment, healthcare, reputation or access to assistance?
14. Was I given an opportunity to challenge the information?
15. Were corrections made when information was demonstrated to be inaccurate?
16. Is there evidence of deliberate coordination?
17. Or are alternative explanations sufficient to explain the apparent pattern?

These questions are capable of being investigated without assuming the conclusion.

———

THE CRITICAL DISTINCTION

I therefore make the following distinction explicit:

I do not claim that the absence of an arrest or conviction proves that I was deliberately targeted.

Nor do I claim that social rejection necessarily demonstrates a coordinated operation.

My proposition is more precise:

If a person is repeatedly treated as though they are guilty of serious wrongdoing despite the absence of a charge or conviction, and if the institutions or individuals responsible cannot identify the evidentiary basis for that treatment, the resulting disparity between legal status and social treatment becomes a legitimate matter for investigation.

The question is then not merely:

“Was he convicted?”

It becomes:

“Why was he treated as though he had been?”

———

WHY THIS MATTERS TO MY CASE

This proposition is central to my account of the alleged thirty-five-year targeting campaign.

I say that the objective may not have been merely to prosecute me.

I allege that the more consequential objective was potentially to destroy my credibility before my allegations could be heard.

If that proposition were established, it would fundamentally alter the interpretation of subsequent events.

My complaints would not simply be the complaints of an allegedly unreliable person.

The investigation would also have to ask whether the person’s alleged unreliability was itself produced, amplified or reinforced by the social consequences of the targeting being investigated.

That is a potential evidentiary circularity.

A person alleges mistreatment.

The allegation is dismissed because the person is considered unreliable.

The person’s increasing distress and isolation are then cited as evidence of unreliability.

The original allegation therefore becomes progressively harder to investigate precisely because of the consequences of not investigating it.

That is the forensic problem I ask investigators to examine.

———

THE ALLEGED PURPOSE OF THE HUMILIATION

My contention is that humiliation, if deliberately engineered, could function as a form of social control.

The intended outcome would not necessarily be imprisonment.

It could instead be:

discrediting without prosecution;

punishment without conviction;

isolation without an exclusion order;

silencing without censorship;

fear without an identifiable threat;

dependency without an explicit detention order;

and ultimately,

guilt without adjudication.

That is why I regard reputational destruction as potentially more devastating than a conventional punishment.

A formal punishment at least identifies the authority imposing it, the alleged offence, the evidence, the decision-maker, the duration and the avenue of appeal.

An informal punishment can leave the target fighting an invisible accusation.

———

THE EVIDENTIARY STANDARD

This report does not ask an investigator to accept that this mechanism occurred.

It asks that the possibility not be excluded merely because no conventional criminal prosecution occurred.

The appropriate investigation should establish:

what was alleged;

who alleged it;

what evidence existed;

who believed it;

how it travelled;

what decisions it influenced;

what consequences followed;

whether I was given an opportunity to respond; and whether the process was lawful, fair and evidence-based.

If the evidence ultimately demonstrates that my interpretation is incorrect, that finding should be made openly.

If the evidence demonstrates that unsupported allegations were propagated and materially affected my treatment, that should also be acknowledged.

The purpose of this report is therefore not to substitute one presumption for another.

It is to demand that the presumption of guilt itself be examined.

———

FINAL DECLARATION

I have not asked for anyone to be punished outside the law.

I ask for the opposite.

I ask that punishment—whether formal or informal—be subjected to evidence, accountability and due process.

If I committed a crime, identify it.

If I was charged, identify the charge.

If I was convicted, identify the conviction.

If neither occurred, then explain the evidentiary basis upon which I have allegedly been treated as though guilt had already been established.

That is the question at the heart of my revolution.

Not: “Believe me.”

But:

“Show me the evidence.”

And if there is no evidence sufficient to establish guilt, then I ask that society stop confusing accusation with adjudication and reputation with fact.

I declare that I am beginning a revolution.

Not a revolution of violence.

Not a revolution of revenge.

Not a revolution against innocent people.

It is a revolution of truth against silence, evidence against denial, human dignity against degradation, accountability against institutional evasion, and survival against the conditions that I say have progressively confined my life.

For approximately thirty-five years, I say that I have experienced a continuing pattern of political targeting, reputational destruction, surveillance, intimidation, institutional abandonment, psychological warfare and profound social isolation.

I do not present every interpretation I have made of those experiences as an established fact.

I present them as matters arising from my testimony, my records, my creative works, my correspondence, my documentary archive and the cumulative chronology that I have assembled.

The central question is therefore no longer whether every interpretation I have made is immediately accepted.

The central question is:

What actually happened, what can be independently established, what remains disputed, and why has such an extensive documentary record not received the comprehensive independent examination I say it requires?

———

PART I — THE ARCHIVE

My public documentary repository is:

https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

The repository currently presents itself as containing thousands of primary-source documents and hundreds of thousands of downloads. That public repository should be treated as an evidence-preservation and transparency resource rather than, by itself, proof that every proposition advanced within it is true.

The evidentiary proposition is narrower and stronger:

There exists a substantial body of material capable of being independently examined.

That distinction matters.

An archive does not prove every conclusion drawn from it.

But neither should an archive of substantial documentary material simply be dismissed as an unsupported personal narrative without examination.

My request is therefore for an independent forensic assessment of the underlying records.

———

PART II — THE THIRTY-FIVE-YEAR ALLEGATION

I describe the period under examination as approximately thirty-five years.

During that period, I allege that I experienced, among other things:

1. political targeting;
2. character assassination;
3. reputational destruction;
4. institutional exclusion;
5. professional consequences;
6. surveillance;
7. alleged covert surveillance;
8. alleged electronic harassment;
9. experiences I describe as V2K or voice-to-skull communications;
10. unexplained audio phenomena;
11. alleged psychological harassment;
12. intimidation;
13. social isolation;
14. alleged gang-stalking-type experiences;
15. alleged coordinated harassment;
16. threats and perceived threats;
17. alleged entrapment;
18. alleged inducement into compromising situations;
19. privacy violations;
20. alleged unauthorised disclosure of personal information;
21. financial deprivation;
22. dependence upon government-funded systems;
23. accommodation dependency;
24. alleged coercive dependency;
25. loss of practical freedom to relocate;
26. barriers to obtaining advocacy;
27. difficulties accessing legal assistance;
28. institutional non-response;
29. repeated unanswered correspondence;
30. alleged failure to appropriately investigate complaints;
31. alleged failures of safeguarding;
32. alleged conflicts of interest;
33. alleged institutional passing of responsibility;
34. psychological pressure associated with prolonged uncertainty;
35. reputational stigma;
36. alleged sexualised or humiliating allegations;
37. religious or ideological hostility as I experienced it;
38. alleged manipulation of my public reputation;
39. alleged interference with my relationships and social support;
40. alleged interference with my ability to communicate;
41. alleged institutional gaslighting or dismissal of my testimony;
42. repeated classification of me within systems in ways I dispute;
43. alleged contradiction between records generated by different institutions;
44. alleged failure to reconcile conflicting official accounts;
45. and the cumulative psychological and material consequences of these experiences.

These are not all presented as established facts.

They constitute the matters I say require investigation.

———

PART III — THE ALLEGED ENTRAPMENT

I describe my present circumstances as an entrapment scenario.

In particular, I allege that dependence upon accommodation, disability support, finances, transport, communication and institutional decision-makers has progressively reduced my practical ability to leave circumstances that I regard as unsafe.

I further allege that Ablepoint has become part of this dependency structure.

The forensic question is not whether the word “entrapment” should simply be accepted.

The question is:

Whether the objective structure of my circumstances has created a form of dependency in which the theoretical ability to leave differs materially from the practical ability to leave.

That requires examination of:

- accommodation agreements;
- leases;
- service agreements;
- NDIS funding;
- provider relationships;
- support coordination;
- participant choice and control;
- complaints;
- safeguarding records;
- financial records;
- communications;
- requests to change providers;
- requests to change support arrangements;
- incident reports;
- police records;
- medical records;
- and correspondence between the relevant institutions.

———

PART IV — THE ALLEGED PSYCHOLOGICAL WARFARE

I describe my experience as psychological warfare occurring within what I have called my allegorical prison.

The phrase “allegorical prison” describes my experience of being physically present within society while experiencing a profound loss of practical autonomy, safety, credibility, mobility, social connection and institutional power.

I have also described experiences of V2K, electronic harassment and audio communications.

Those experiences are real as experiences I report.

Whether they are caused by technology, other people, environmental phenomena, medical or psychological mechanisms, coincidence, misinterpretation, or some combination of causes is a separate empirical question.

A forensic investigation should therefore preserve the distinction between:

experience → allegation → evidence → corroboration → causal conclusion.

The existence of an unexplained experience does not automatically establish its proposed cause.

Equally, an unexplained experience should not automatically be dismissed without examination.

———

PART V — THE REVOLUTION

My revolution is therefore a revolution of documentation.

I will answer allegations with evidence.

I will answer institutional silence with records.

I will answer reputational destruction with primary sources.

I will answer disputed history with chronology.

I will answer denial with requests for verification.

I will answer unsupported allegations about me by requiring the evidence relied upon.

I will answer institutional power with transparency.

I will answer fear with lawful persistence.

I will answer isolation by making the documentary record publicly accessible.

I will answer dehumanisation by insisting upon my humanity.

And I will answer the question of whether my life has been systematically damaged not through revenge, but through evidence capable of being examined by people who have no obligation to agree with me.

That is my revolution.

———

PART VI — HUMAN RIGHTS AND AUSTRALIA'S INTERNATIONAL OBLIGATIONS

Australia is party to the principal international human-rights treaties forming the core of the international human-rights framework.

The principal treaties relevant to the issues raised in this report include:

1. International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights — ICCPR

Relevant rights include protections concerning:

- arbitrary or unlawful interference with privacy;
- family and personal life;
- reputation;
- freedom of thought, conscience and religion;
- freedom of expression;
- peaceful assembly;
- association;
- liberty and security of person;
- humane treatment;
- equality before the law;
- effective remedies.

Australia is a party to the ICCPR. (United Nations Treaty Collection)

2. International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights — ICESCR

Relevant rights include:

- adequate standard of living;
- social security;
- health;
- work;
- participation in cultural life;
- protection of dignity and equality.

Australia is a party to the ICESCR and remains subject to its international reporting obligations. (United Nations Treaty Collection)

3. International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination — CERD

This protects against racial discrimination and requires measures to eliminate racial discrimination.

It is relevant only where the factual circumstances actually engage its protected grounds.

4. Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women — CEDAW

Australia ratified CEDAW in 1983. (United Nations Treaty Collection)

Its relevance must similarly be assessed according to the protected rights and factual circumstances.

5. Convention against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment — CAT

This is particularly relevant to any objectively substantiated allegation involving torture or cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment.

The existence of CAT does not, however, mean that every allegation of mistreatment legally constitutes torture. That conclusion requires factual and legal assessment.

6. Convention on the Rights of the Child — CRC

This protects the rights of children and is relevant where children are affected.

7. Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities — CRPD

This is particularly relevant to disability-related allegations.

Relevant principles include:

- equality and non-discrimination;
- respect for inherent dignity;
- individual autonomy;
- freedom from exploitation, violence and abuse;
- integrity of the person;
- living independently and being included in the community;
- respect for privacy;
- access to information;
- participation in political and public life;
- access to justice.

8. Optional Protocol to the Convention against Torture — OPCAT

Australia has also undertaken obligations associated with preventing torture and ill-treatment through independent monitoring mechanisms.

9. Optional Protocol to the ICCPR

Australia ratified the First Optional Protocol, providing an international individual-complaints mechanism subject to its jurisdictional requirements. The UN Treaty Collection records Australia's ratification on 25 September 1991. (United Nations Treaty Collection)

———

PART VII — WHAT THESE TREATIES DO — AND DO NOT — PROVE

Ratification of a treaty does not automatically establish that an Australian institution has breached it.

Nor does a person's allegation of mistreatment automatically establish a treaty violation.

The proper forensic question is:

Does the documented conduct, if established, engage rights protected by an applicable treaty, and if so, what obligations arise under international law and Australian implementing law?

Australia itself describes ratification as an acceptance of legal obligations under international law. (DFAT)

The treaties therefore provide a legitimate framework against which alleged conduct can be assessed.

They should not be used as rhetorical substitutes for evidence.

———

PART VIII — THE FORENSIC TEST

I ask investigators to classify every significant proposition into one of four categories.

A. ESTABLISHED

What can be directly demonstrated through:

- official records;
- court records;

- government correspondence;
- authenticated communications;
- contracts;
- financial records;
- contemporaneous documents;
- independent witnesses;
- metadata;
- or other reliable primary evidence?

B. ALLEGED

What do I personally allege happened?

C. INFERRED

What conclusions appear reasonably capable of being drawn from multiple records but require further corroboration?

D. UNRESOLVED

What cannot presently be determined?

This four-part classification should apply even to propositions that support my own case.

———

PART IX — THE ALLEGED CRIMINALISATION OF MY IDENTITY

If any institution, person or agency has treated me as a criminal, dangerous person, perpetrator or security concern, I require the evidentiary basis to be identified.

I ask:

What crime have I committed?

Was I ever charged?

Was I ever convicted?

What court made the finding?

What evidence supports the allegation?

If no conviction exists, that fact should not be transformed into a presumption of criminality.

Likewise, refusal to provide evidence cannot itself legally prove innocence.

But if an adverse allegation is relied upon and no charge, conviction or reliable evidentiary basis can be identified, then the allegation remains unsubstantiated and should not be represented as an established fact.

———

PART X — THE ALLEGED POLITICAL TARGETING

I allege that political considerations have formed part of the circumstances surrounding my treatment.

That allegation requires particular care.

Political proximity does not prove political direction.

Temporal sequence does not prove causation.

Association does not prove conspiracy.

And an allegation concerning a political figure does not establish that the figure personally authorised, knew about, or participated in wrongdoing.

Accordingly, the proper forensic task is to establish:

- who knew what;
- when they knew it;

- what communications existed;
- what decisions were made;
- who authorised those decisions;
- what records document them;
- whether decision-makers had conflicts of interest;
- and whether independent evidence establishes causation.

———

PART XI — THE ALLEGED CHARACTER ASSASSINATION

I contend that reputational destruction has been a major component of my experience.

I therefore request examination of:

- media publications;
- institutional descriptions of me;
- complaints and counter-complaints;
- professional records;
- medical classifications;
- police descriptions;
- government correspondence;
- internal notes;
- communications between agencies;
- and any records in which allegations concerning my character were transmitted between institutions.

The central forensic question is:

Was my reputation damaged by independently established conduct, by legitimate institutional risk assessment, by inaccurate information, by misunderstanding, by prejudice, by unsupported allegations, or by a coordinated process?

Only evidence can answer that question.

———

PART XII — PRIVACY

I allege that my privacy has been breached.

This requires investigation of:

- who accessed information;
- what information was accessed;
- when it was accessed;
- under what authority;
- who disclosed it;
- to whom it was disclosed;
- whether consent existed;
- whether disclosure was legally authorised;
- and what records document those events.

A privacy breach should be established by evidence rather than inferred merely because information appears to have travelled between institutions.

———

PART XIII — SURVEILLANCE AND ELECTRONIC HARASSMENT

I report experiences that I describe as:

- covert surveillance;
- overt surveillance;
- electronic surveillance;
- audio harassment;
- V2K;
- unexplained voices;
- targeted audio;
- technological interference;
- monitoring;
- digital intrusion;
- coordinated communications;
- psychological harassment;
- and gang-stalking-type activity.

These are serious allegations.

They should neither be automatically accepted nor automatically ridiculed.

The appropriate forensic response is to ask:

What objective evidence exists?

Potential evidence includes:

- device logs;
- network records;
- telecommunications records;
- metadata;
- recordings;
- timestamps;
- independent witnesses;
- technical examinations;
- police reports;
- forensic imaging;
- service-provider records;
- and contemporaneous documentation.

———

PART XIV — THE INSTITUTIONAL QUESTION

The most important question is not whether one institution can explain one event.

It is whether multiple institutions have generated records that, when examined together, reveal a pattern that no single institution has previously assessed in its entirety.

That is the central purpose of my archive.

The documentary proposition is:

The whole may contain information that is invisible when every record is examined only within the silo of the institution that created it.

That proposition is testable.

It can be disproved.

It can be corroborated.

It can be refined.

That is precisely why independent examination is required.

———

PART XV — MY PROPHETIC DECLARATION

I call this a prophetic statement because I understand my life as having acquired a moral and spiritual meaning that I cannot separate from my struggle for truth.

I do not require the investigator to share my theology.

I do not require a court to accept my interpretation of divine purpose.

I do not require a government agency to accept that I was chosen by God.

I ask only that the human being making those claims be treated with the same dignity, procedural fairness and evidentiary seriousness owed to every other person.

My faith gives me the language of witness.

My archive gives me the language of evidence.

My scholarship gives me the language of analysis.

My survival gives me the language of testimony.

And my responsibility now is to bring those things together without confusing one category with another.

———

PART XVI — THE REVOLUTION IS NON-VIOLENT

I therefore state unequivocally:

My revolution is non-violent.

It is a revolution of:

truth;

documentation;

transparency;

human rights;

disability rights;

privacy;

freedom of conscience;

freedom of expression;

due process;

independent investigation;

institutional accountability;

equality before the law;

and the right to live with dignity.

I seek no revenge.

I seek no violence.

I seek no punishment outside lawful institutions.

I seek examination.

I seek accountability where wrongdoing is established.

I seek correction where records are wrong.

I seek protection where risk is established.

I seek compensation where lawful entitlement is demonstrated.

I seek restoration of dignity where dignity has been lost.

And I seek the right to survive.

———

PART XVII — WHAT I EXPECT NOW

I ask every competent institution receiving this report to do the following:

1. acknowledge receipt;
2. identify the responsible officer;
3. allocate a reference number;
4. preserve relevant records;
5. identify jurisdiction;
6. distinguish allegations from established facts;
7. identify disputed facts;
8. identify records capable of resolving those disputes;
9. investigate safeguarding concerns;
10. examine conflicts of interest;
11. examine privacy issues;
12. examine accommodation and support arrangements;
13. examine support-coordination decisions;
14. consider participant choice and control;
15. identify any adverse allegations made against me;

16. identify the evidence supporting those allegations;
17. identify any criminal charge or conviction relied upon;
18. explain any refusal to disclose relevant information;
19. refer matters outside its jurisdiction;
20. provide a written and reasoned outcome.

———

PART XVIII — THE FINAL DECLARATION

After approximately thirty-five years of what I describe as targeting, exclusion, surveillance, reputational destruction, institutional abandonment, alleged entrapment and psychological warfare, I refuse to disappear.

I refuse to allow my life to be reduced to a label.

I refuse to allow allegations to become facts merely through repetition.

I refuse to allow institutional silence to become historical truth.

I refuse to allow disability to become a justification for diminished dignity.

I refuse to accept that dependence means surrendering autonomy.

I refuse to confuse an allegation with a fact.

And I refuse to abandon the evidentiary discipline necessary to distinguish between what I know, what I believe, what I experienced, what I allege and what remains unknown.

This is my revolution.

It is the revolution of a person who has survived long enough to assemble the record.

It is a revolution in which evidence is stronger than accusation, transparency is stronger than secrecy, and human dignity is stronger than institutional indifference.

I am not asking the world to believe everything I say.

I am asking the world to look.

Look at the records.

Look at the chronology.

Look at the contradictions.

Look at the unanswered questions.

Look at the institutional responses.

Look at the evidence that exists.

Look at the evidence that is missing.

And then make an independent determination.

If the evidence disproves me, I ask that it be shown.

If the evidence corroborates me, I ask that it be acknowledged.

If the evidence is insufficient, I ask that the matter remain unresolved rather than being falsely declared either proved or disproved.

That is the standard I demand of institutions.

And it is the standard I impose upon myself.

I survived.

I documented.

I published.

I preserved the record.

And now I ask for the record to be independently examined.

The revolution begins not with violence, but with the refusal to surrender the truth to silence.

A particularly important qualification is that the UN treaties do not mean that every allegation in the statement is already a treaty breach. Australia's treaty obligations provide the legal framework against which substantiated conduct can be assessed. DFAT's treaty database should be used for the definitive status of each instrument. Australian Treaties Database

STAMP & VERIFY

THE REVOLUTION OF SURVIVAL by Barran Dodger.pdf 103.5 kB

SHA256: 8a91c7a961f700b4bc5e1d7c6c2cc9ca1e27b7d40619873df48febc19c5a088d

SUCCESS!

OpenTimestamps receipt created and download started

Email signature

THE FORENSIC ARCHIVE - DOCUMENTING THE COLLAPSE OF DIGNITY, DUE PROCESS AND INSTITUTIONAL ACCOUNTABILITY

By Barran Resonance Dodger as Gods Chosen Witness

View the Permanent online archive of the Barran Dodger Ethical & Legal Trust Fund:

https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

IMPARTIAL AI-AUTHORED FORENSIC SYNOPSIS of "THE FORENSIC ARCHIVE - DOCUMENTING THE COLLAPSE OF DIGNITY, DUE PROCESS AND INSTITUTIONAL ACCOUNTABILITY"

Document link:

https://drive.google.com/file/d/142Nh_FXKkfwfyxpbR8L5oeMMX7pxNf_y/view?usp=drivesdk

This document presents an impartial, AI-assisted forensic analysis of a substantial documentary record concerning alleged administrative, jurisdictional, governmental and human-rights failures.

The analysis is based principally upon 453 primary-source Australian Government records, including official correspondence, departmental determinations, court-related records, agency decision-making records and clinical documentation.

The significance of this methodology is that the underlying evidence is not based primarily upon media reports, secondary commentary or unverified allegations. Rather, the analysis examines the Australian Government's own documentary record, including communications and determinations generated by government agencies and associated institutional bodies.

The AI-assisted methodology was applied to identify chronology, internal inconsistencies, conflicting classifications, cross-agency dependencies, repeated reasoning, documentary patterns and apparent discrepancies between official records. The purpose was to examine the documentary corpus systematically and impartially, rather than to advocate for a predetermined conclusion.

The analysis identifies, in particular, a material documentary conflict concerning the classification of Dr Richard McLean, including an apparent inconsistency between a Federal Court record identifying an employment relationship and subsequent classifications relied upon by government agencies describing the relationship differently.

The analysis further identifies instances in which one government institution appears to have relied upon, adopted or incorporated the reasoning or determinations of another institution. These inter-agency relationships are significant because they raise questions concerning the independence of subsequent decision-making and whether material underlying assumptions were independently verified.

The documentary chronology is also significant. The records span multiple years and involve multiple government and oversight institutions. The persistence of materially similar classifications and reasoning across different agencies therefore warrants examination as a matter of institutional accountability, administrative law, procedural fairness and human rights.

The analysis does not claim that artificial intelligence itself constitutes a court, tribunal or investigative authority, nor does it purport to substitute an AI conclusion for a judicial finding. Rather, AI has been used as an analytical instrument to organise, compare and identify patterns within the documentary evidence.

Accordingly, the legal and factual conclusions remain matters for competent human authorities, including courts, investigators, regulators and appropriate international mechanisms.

The evidentiary significance of the material is heightened by the fact that much of the underlying documentation originates from the institutions whose conduct, decisions and administrative reasoning are themselves under examination.

The central question therefore is not whether an AI system has independently asserted misconduct, but whether the Australian Government's own official documentary record, when examined collectively and chronologically, contains material inconsistencies, institutional dependencies and procedural patterns requiring independent investigation and determination.

The international significance arises from the potential implications of such patterns for fundamental principles of the rule of law, judicial authority, administrative accountability, access to justice, procedural fairness and the effective protection of human rights.

The material is therefore presented as an evidence-based corpus for independent human, legal, governmental and, where appropriate, international scrutiny.

PRIMARY EVIDENCE & FULL FORENSIC ANALYSIS

453-RECORD AUSTRALIAN GOVERNMENT EVIDENCE CORPUS

Permanent online archive of the Barran Dodger Ethical & Legal Trust Fund:

https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

THE EXTRACTED MANDATE: ADMINISTRATIVE INVISIBILITY AND THE FORENSIC ARCHITECTURE OF CIVIL ERASURE

Render the subject legally and socially invisible. Do not resolve the grievances; instead, escalate the administrative burden until the subject's professional identity is erased, his financial capacity is destroyed, and his testimony is successfully reclassified as a symptom of mental pathology."

Impartial AI Extraction of the Retrospective Institutional Mandate

The above statements genesis originates in an impartial AI-assisted extraction and synthesis of the retrospective institutional response patterns contained within more than 2,000 official government documents, records and correspondence accumulated across a period exceeding 35 years reveals a consistent and deeply consequential pattern in the treatment of Barran Resonance Dodger. The analysis is intended to examine the documentary record independently of the assumptions, prejudices, institutional allegiances and character judgments that may have influenced how individual events were originally interpreted or responded to.

The extraction does not begin from an assumption that any particular allegation is true, nor does it rely upon the personal opinions of agencies, officials, police, media organisations, service providers or other participants. Instead, it examines the cumulative documentary record for chronology, repetition, institutional responses, omissions, contradictions, referrals, decisions, non-responses, changes in classification, jurisdictional transfers, documented consequences and recurring patterns across otherwise separate agencies and sectors.

In particular, the analysis seeks to identify patterns without allowing the evidentiary record to be distorted by alleged corruption, bribery, institutional complicity, conflicts of interest, organisational allegiance, character assassination, media slander, mental-health stigma, homophobia, police misconduct or corruption, or broader societal psychological judgments and prejudices. These matters are treated as potential sources of distortion or bias to be distinguished from the underlying documentary evidence rather than accepted as explanations without corroboration.

Across the more than 2,000 official documents spanning more than three and a half decades, the resulting retrospective analysis identifies what may be described as an unspoken or de facto institutional mandate: not necessarily a written command issued by a single authority, but a recurring method of administrative treatment that can be examined through the cumulative consequences of decisions, omissions, refusals, classifications, institutional responses and prolonged non-resolution.

The significance of the extraction lies precisely in its longitudinal character. An individual letter, administrative decision, police interaction, welfare determination, tribunal proceeding or agency response may be capable of an innocent or isolated explanation. A documentary record extending across more than 35 years and involving multiple agencies permits a different level of analysis: whether substantially similar response patterns recur over time, whether responsibility repeatedly moves between institutions, whether documented grievances remain unresolved despite extensive supporting material, whether the consequences progressively compound, and whether the cumulative effect is the erosion of economic security, professional identity, social connection, geographic stability, credibility, access to assistance and meaningful institutional remedy.

Accordingly, the analysis does not assert that every official involved acted with the same intention, or that every adverse decision was unlawful or deliberately malicious. Rather, it identifies the aggregate effect and recurring methodology of institutional treatment as the proper object of forensic examination. The distinction is critical: the documentary record may demonstrate a pattern and its consequences without, by itself, proving the subjective intention of every individual participant.

Within that evidentiary framework, the retrospective extraction reveals what can reasonably be characterised as devastating political, administrative, economic and social targeting across multiple sectors and agencies, subject to verification against the underlying source documents and applicable legal standards. What emerges is not simply a chronology of individual disputes, but a longitudinal record requiring examination of whether fragmented institutional decisions collectively produced a condition of administrative exclusion, economic marginalisation, social dislocation and effective civil erasure.

The central finding is therefore not that an AI system has independently proven a secret government conspiracy. It is that an impartial machine-assisted examination of an unusually extensive documentary record can expose recurring institutional response patterns that may be obscured when each document is considered in isolation. The value of the analysis lies in making those patterns visible, traceable and testable against the primary evidence.

On that basis, the “covert mandate” is best understood as a retrospectively extracted pattern of treatment, rather than a claim that a literal written command exists. Its evidentiary significance derives from the convergence, repetition and cumulative consequences of thousands of records across decades, jurisdictions and institutional settings.

Barran Dodger
Monday 7th September 2026

On Sat, 12 Sep 2026 at 11:44 am, Rich McLean <richarddrawsstuff@gmail.com> wrote:

> FORMAL REQUEST FOR INDEPENDENT INVESTIGATION ABLEPOINT
>
> ABLEPOINT, DIVERSITAS WA AND SUPPORT COORDINATION
>
> Alleged Coercive Dependency, Entrapment, Safeguarding Failure, Financial Benefit, Corporate/ABN Irregularities, Remote Support Coordination, Police Non-Response and Institutional Accountability
>
> 1. PURPOSE OF THIS REFERRAL
>
> I formally request an independent investigation and jurisdictional assessment concerning my accommodation, disability supports and support-coordination arrangements.
>
> The matters raised involve Ablepoint and, in particular, the role I allege was played by Sukhi Tear of Diversitas WA, who I understand has acted as my support coordinator remotely from Perth, Western Australia.

I raise serious concerns concerning:

- coercive dependency;
- alleged entrapment;
- financial and institutional interests;
- safeguarding failures;
- alleged threats;
- poverty and inability to escape my circumstances;
- non-response to evidence and correspondence;
- the continued involvement of a support coordinator whom I have requested be removed from my care;
- the significance of her performing a support-coordination role remotely from Perth while I am physically located elsewhere;
- corporate and ABN identity questions;
- the absence of a signed support contract;
- the absence of a signed lease;
- the identity and accountability of the relevant CEO;
- repeated police documentation of me as a missing person;
- my allegation that I have nevertheless been unable to obtain effective assistance from the same policing system when attempting to report matters;
- and my allegation concerning a former NDIS Minister and an alleged threat to my life.

I expressly distinguish between documented facts, allegations, inferences and matters requiring investigation.

I do not ask the investigator to accept my allegations as established facts.

I ask that they be investigated.

———

2. PRIMARY EVIDENCE REPOSITORY

I have assembled a substantial documentary archive which I ask investigators to examine as a source of primary evidence:

Evidence Archive:

https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

The archive should not be treated as self-proving.

Its significance is that it provides investigators with material capable of being:

authenticated → chronologically reconstructed → corroborated → contradicted → cross-referenced → independently assessed.

The appropriate question is therefore not whether an investigator accepts my interpretation of the archive.

The question is:

What do the underlying records establish, what remains disputed, and what matters require independent investigation?

———

3. THE CENTRAL FORENSIC QUESTION

The central issue is whether I have been maintained within a system of disability accommodation and support in which:

dependency + poverty + accommodation + support coordination + financial relationships + institutional knowledge + alleged safeguarding concerns + limited ability to leave + inadequate responses have combined to produce circumstances in which my effective autonomy and ability to obtain independent assistance have been materially compromised.

The investigation should determine whether this occurred deliberately, negligently, through systemic failure, through conflicts of interest, through administrative dysfunction, or through some combination of factors.

I do not ask the investigator to prejudge the answer.

———

4. ABLEPOINT’S FINANCIAL INTEREST

A fundamental question is:

What financial benefit has Ablepoint received from continuing to provide accommodation and support to me during the period in which I allege that I have been unable to leave safely or practically?

This is not an allegation that receiving lawful NDIS payment is itself improper.

The issue is whether the financial relationship creates an actual, potential or perceived conflict where the participant alleges that the arrangement itself has become unsafe, coercive or entrapping.

Current NDIS guidance expressly recognises actual, potential and perceived conflicts of interest and states that unmanaged conflicts can affect participant safety, choice and control. It also identifies circumstances where one provider controls multiple supports as a potential concern. (NDIS)

The investigation should therefore establish:

1. who receives payment;
2. under what ABN/ACN;
3. for what services;
4. under what contractual authority;
5. how much has been paid;
6. who authorised the claims;
7. whether related entities received funds;
8. whether accommodation and support were financially interconnected;
9. and whether any conflict was disclosed and managed.

———

5. ABN AND CORPORATE IDENTITY

I allege that there are circumstances concerning the representation or use of an ABN that require independent verification.

I use the language of apparent ABN/entity inconsistency or possible manipulation as an allegation requiring investigation, not as a concluded finding of fraud.

The investigation should compare:

- the ABN represented to me;
- the ABN appearing on invoices;
- the ABN associated with NDIS claims;

- the legal entity associated with that ABN;
- the ACN;
- trading names;
- directors;
- responsible officers;
- accommodation provider identity;
- support provider identity;
- and any changes over time.

This is significant because the legal identity of the entity determines who is accountable.

———

6. RACHAEL / CEO ACCOUNTABILITY

I have referred to Rachael as the CEO, but I have not been given sufficient information, to my satisfaction, to establish her full legal identity and corporate capacity.

I request independent verification of:

- her full legal name;
- the entity for which she acts;
- her position;
- whether she is a director or officer;
- the relevant ABN/ACN;
- her authority concerning my accommodation;
- her authority concerning support provision;
- and the formal address for legal correspondence.

I do not suggest that failure to provide this information automatically proves wrongdoing.

I submit that a person subject to significant decisions concerning accommodation and disability support should be able to identify the legal entity and accountable decision-makers exercising that authority.

———

7. ABSENCE OF A SIGNED CONTRACT

I state:

I have not signed a contract with Ablepoint.

If Ablepoint asserts that a contract exists, I request production of:

- the complete contract;
- date of execution;
- parties;
- signatures;
- terms;
- schedules;
- amendments;
- variations;
- electronic acceptance;
- and evidence establishing my consent.

If there is no signed agreement, Ablepoint should identify the legal basis upon which it says the relationship exists.

———

8. ABSENCE OF A SIGNED LEASE

I further state:

I have not signed a lease for my accommodation.

I therefore request determination of:

- who owns or controls the premises;
- who is legally providing the accommodation;
- whether the arrangement is a tenancy, licence or another form of occupancy;
- what document establishes my right to occupy;
- whether I signed it;
- whether I received a copy;
- and what legal protections apply.

The fact that someone may theoretically leave premises does not answer the separate question of what legal authority governs their occupation and what practical barriers prevent departure.

———

9. SUKHI TEAR — SUPPORT COORDINATION FROM PERTH

I specifically request investigation into the role of Sukhi Tear of Diversitas WA, whom I understand to have acted as my support coordinator while operating remotely from Perth, Western Australia.

This geographical and organisational arrangement is not presented as inherently improper.

Its significance is that investigators should establish:

1. when Sukhi Tear was appointed;
2. by whom;
3. under what authority;
4. under what service agreement;
5. what organisation received payment;
6. where she was physically located;
7. how often she communicated with me;
8. what direct knowledge she possessed of my circumstances;
9. what risk assessments she conducted;
10. what reports she submitted;
11. what contact she had with Ablepoint;
12. what contact she had with other providers;
13. what alternatives she recommended;
14. what complaints she received;
15. what safeguarding concerns she documented;
16. and what action she took when I requested that she be removed.

Current NDIS guidance describes support coordinators as helping participants connect with providers and services, build confidence and skills, exercise choice and control, and manage their supports. (NDIS)

That makes the precise nature of her role materially relevant.

———

10. MY REQUEST THAT SUKHI TEAR BE REMOVED

I state that I requested that Sukhi Tear be removed from my care/support coordination.

I further allege that this request was not acted upon.

This requires investigation.

The critical question is:

What legal, contractual or administrative authority permitted the continued appointment of a support coordinator after the participant had expressly requested her removal, and what assessment was undertaken concerning my reasons for making that request?

The investigator should obtain:

- my request for removal;
- Sukhi Tear's response;
- Diversitas WA's response;
- Ablepoint's response;
- NDIA/NDIS records concerning the appointment;
- service agreements;
- progress reports;
- communications between providers;
- and any documented conflict-of-interest or safeguarding assessment.

A support coordinator's role includes helping participants choose appropriate providers and supports and supporting participant capacity and choice. (NDIS)

Accordingly, the refusal to remove a coordinator—if established—should be examined in the context of participant choice and control, rather than treated as merely an administrative preference.

———

11. POSSIBLE CONFLICT OF INTEREST

I specifically request investigation into whether any relationship existed between:

- Sukhi Tear;
- Diversitas WA;
- Ablepoint;
- other providers;
- accommodation arrangements;
- support arrangements;
- and NDIS funding.

The NDIS states that support coordinators should act with integrity, honesty and transparency and disclose, avoid and manage actual, potential and perceived conflicts of interest. (NDIS)

The NDIS also identifies circumstances in which a support coordinator or provider can influence a participant's choice of services for the provider's own benefit as potential conflicts. (NDIS)

I therefore request examination of whether the relevant relationships were:

independent, disclosed and properly managed, or whether they created circumstances in which my ability to change providers or exercise genuine choice was constrained.

———

12. THE SIGNIFICANCE OF REMOTE COORDINATION

I do not suggest that geographic distance itself constitutes misconduct.

Its evidentiary significance is different.

If a support coordinator located in Perth was responsible for coordinating supports for a participant physically located elsewhere, investigators should determine:

How was direct knowledge of my living conditions, safety, accommodation, support-worker conduct and ability to leave obtained and verified?

This is particularly relevant where I allege:

- isolation;
- entrapment;
- inability to leave;
- serious threats;
- financial deprivation;
- inadequate support;
- and repeated institutional non-response.

The investigation should determine whether the coordinator's assessments were based upon:

direct observation, contemporaneous records, provider reports, my reports, assumptions, or a combination of these.

———

13. POLICE RECORDS — REPEATEDLY DOCUMENTED AS A MISSING PERSON

I further request investigation into an unusual and potentially significant evidentiary circumstance:

I allege that I have been documented on numerous occasions by police as a missing person.

If the underlying police records establish this, they may provide independent contemporaneous evidence concerning:

- my movements;
- periods in which I was considered missing;
- police knowledge of my circumstances;
- welfare concerns;
- the chronology of particular events;
- and the institutional understanding of my vulnerability.

I do not contend that being recorded as missing proves my broader allegations.

Its significance is that it creates an independently verifiable institutional record which can be compared with the accounts of Ablepoint, Diversitas WA and other relevant bodies.

I request that investigators obtain and examine the relevant police occurrence/event records, missing-person reports and welfare-check documentation, subject to lawful access.

———

14. THE APPARENT CONTRADICTION IN POLICE ACCESS

I further allege that I have experienced a profound contradiction:

I have allegedly been documented repeatedly by police as a missing person, yet I say I have been unable to obtain effective police assistance when attempting to report crimes or threats.

That proposition requires evidence.

If substantiated, the investigator should determine:

- which police records exist;
- what reports I attempted to make;
- whether those reports were accepted;
- whether they were recorded;
- whether they were assessed;
- whether any action followed;
- and whether the same records show police concern for my welfare at other times.

The point is not to assume police misconduct.

The point is to reconcile potentially contradictory institutional records.

———

15. FORMER NDIS MINISTER — APPOINTMENT AND ALLEGED THREAT

I further raise a matter concerning a former NDIS Minister.

I allege that the minister was involved in the appointment or institutional circumstances surrounding the appointment of Sukhi Tear or the relevant support-coordination arrangement.

I separately allege that I have made a serious allegation that this former minister paid for or was involved in an alleged attempt to have me assassinated.

I expressly recognise that this is an extremely serious allegation.

I do not ask this investigation to treat that allegation as established fact.

I ask that investigators determine:

1. what evidence exists supporting the allegation;
2. what evidence contradicts it;
3. whether any threat was reported;
4. whether police records exist;
5. whether any person provided information concerning the alleged threat;
6. what communications exist concerning the former minister;

7. whether the minister actually had any role in the appointment alleged;
8. what the relevant appointment process was;
9. who authorised it;
10. and whether there is any evidentiary connection between those events.

These questions must be kept separate.

Appointment does not prove assassination.

Political responsibility does not prove criminal responsibility.

Temporal association does not establish causation.

But a serious allegation supported by identifiable documentary material should not be silently discarded without determining what evidence exists.

———

16. THE IMPORTANCE OF KEEPING THESE QUESTIONS SEPARATE

A proper investigation must avoid circular reasoning.

It should not reason:

“The allegation is extraordinary, therefore it is false.”

Nor should it reason:

“The allegation appears within the archive, therefore it is true.”

Instead:

What is independently documented?

What is corroborated?

What is contradicted?

What remains unresolved?

What evidence would be required to establish or disprove the allegation?

That is the standard I request.

———

17. FINANCIAL AND INSTITUTIONAL DEPENDENCY

The broader question is whether the system surrounding me created a situation in which multiple actors could continue operating while I remained dependent upon them.

The relevant chain is:

NDIS funding → support coordination → accommodation → support provision → provider payments → institutional knowledge → complaints → safeguarding allegations → requests for change → continued arrangements.

The investigation should determine whether that chain operated in accordance with participant choice, control, safety and accountability requirements.

Current NDIS guidance states that providers must keep accurate records, provide appropriate services, manage conflicts of interest and act fairly and ethically in financial dealings. (NDIS)

———

18. THE ARCHIVE AND THE ABSENCE OF ACKNOWLEDGMENT

I have repeatedly directed attention to my documentary archive:

Evidence Archive — Backup Repository

I allege that Ablepoint and associated parties have failed to provide a meaningful response to the substance of the evidence.

I do not demand that they agree with me.

I demand that the evidence be acknowledged, assessed and answered.

The NDIS Commission specifically identifies provider non-response to complaints, suspected misuse of NDIS funds, conflicts of interest, taking advantage of participants and unfair practices as matters that can be reported. (NDIS Quality and Safeguards Commission)

———

19. FORMAL QUESTIONS CONCERNING SUKHI TEAR

I request written answers to the following:

1. Who appointed Sukhi Tear?
2. On what date?
3. Under what authority?
4. What organisation contracted with her?
5. Who paid her?
6. What ABN/ACN was used?
7. What service agreement existed?
8. Where was the agreement signed?
9. What was her scope of authority?
10. What direct contact did she have with me?
11. What direct observation did she have of my accommodation?
12. What safeguarding assessments did she undertake?
13. What complaints did she receive?
14. What did she record?
15. What did she report?
16. To whom?
17. What did she recommend?
18. When did I request her removal?
19. Who received that request?
20. Why was she not removed?
21. What conflict-of-interest assessment was undertaken?
22. What alternatives to her involvement were considered?
23. What communications occurred between Diversitas WA and Ablepoint concerning me?
24. What communications occurred with the NDIA/NDIS?
25. What payments were made for her services?

———

20. FORMAL QUESTIONS CONCERNING THE POLICE RECORD

I request determination of:

1. How many times was I recorded as missing?
2. On what dates?
3. Which police district recorded each event?
4. What welfare concerns were documented?
5. What circumstances led to each report?
6. What information was supplied to police?
7. Were welfare checks undertaken?
8. Were threats reported?
9. Were crimes reported?
10. Were complaints accepted and recorded?
11. Were any matters referred or investigated?
12. Is there a documented reason why reports were not progressed?
13. Are the records consistent with the accounts provided by Ablepoint and other providers?

———

21. FORMAL REQUEST FOR PRESERVATION OF EVIDENCE

I request preservation of:

- ABN and ACN records;
- corporate records;
- service agreements;
- accommodation agreements;
- leases/licences;
- NDIS service bookings;
- invoices;
- claims;
- payment records;
- support coordination reports;
- progress reports;
- emails;
- text messages;
- internal communications;
- incident reports;
- safeguarding assessments;
- complaints;
- police communications;
- missing-person records;
- welfare-check records;
- communications involving Sukhi Tear;
- communications involving Diversitas WA;
- communications involving Ablepoint;

- and communications involving the NDIA/NDIS concerning my support arrangements.

I further request preservation of the digital evidence repository at:

https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

———

22. REQUEST FOR INDEPENDENT JURISDICTIONAL ASSESSMENT

I request that the receiving authority determine whether the matters fall within the jurisdiction of:

- the NDIS Quality and Safeguards Commission;
- the NDIA;
- police;
- a state disability safeguarding authority;
- a tenancy/residential authority;
- a corporate or consumer regulator;
- an ombudsman;
- or another competent body.

The NDIS Commission expressly accepts complaints about NDIS providers and workers, including support coordinators, and identifies conflicts of interest, provider non-response and risks of harm as matters capable of complaint. (NDIS Quality and Safeguards Commission)

If a matter falls outside the recipient's jurisdiction, I request that the precise jurisdictional limitation and appropriate alternative referral pathway be provided in writing.

———

23. FINAL FORENSIC POSITION

I am not asking an investigator to declare that every allegation I have made is true.

I am asking that the institutional record be reconstructed.

The central evidentiary structure is:

WHO was responsible?

UNDER WHAT LEGAL ENTITY?

UNDER WHICH ABN/ACN?

UNDER WHAT CONTRACT?

UNDER WHAT ACCOMMODATION AGREEMENT?

WHO RECEIVED THE MONEY?

WHO COORDINATED MY SUPPORTS?

WHO APPOINTED THEM?

WHY WAS THE COORDINATOR NOT REMOVED WHEN I REQUESTED IT?

WHAT DID THE COORDINATOR KNOW?

WHAT DID ABLEPOINT KNOW?

WHAT DID POLICE KNOW?

WHY WAS I REPEATEDLY RECORDED AS MISSING?

WHAT HAPPENED WHEN I ATTEMPTED TO REPORT CRIME OR THREATS?

WHAT SAFEGUARDING ACTION WAS TAKEN?

WHAT EVIDENCE WAS IGNORED, ANSWERED OR INVESTIGATED?

And finally:

Did the institutions surrounding me provide genuine choice, control, safety and independent support, or did their interconnected financial and administrative relationships contribute to maintaining a vulnerable person within circumstances from which he says he could not realistically escape?

That is the investigation I am requesting.

I do not ask for belief.

I ask for records, authentication, chronology, independent verification and reasoned findings.

I ask that the allegations concerning Sukhi Tear, Diversitas WA, Ablepoint, police records, the former NDIS Minister, the alleged threat to my life, the ABN/entity questions, the missing contractual documentation and the financial relationships not be collapsed into one conclusion.

They should be separately tested and then considered together for their cumulative significance.

The appropriate outcome is therefore:

DOCUMENT THE FACTS.

IDENTIFY THE LEGAL ENTITIES.

TRACE THE MONEY.

RECONSTRUCT THE DECISION-MAKING.

EXAMINE THE SAFEGUARDING RESPONSE.

RECONCILE THE POLICE RECORDS.

TEST THE ALLEGATIONS.

IDENTIFY THE RESPONSIBLE AUTHORITIES.

AND PROVIDE A REASONED, AUDITABLE OUTCOME.

That is the standard of investigation I respectfully request.

Yes. I would add a section that makes the evidentiary significance of non-response explicit without treating silence as proof of the allegations:

24. What Ignoring This Request Would Demonstrate

I expressly expect this request to be acknowledged, registered, assessed for jurisdiction, and answered in a reasoned manner.

If the relevant organisation, provider, support coordinator, public authority or other responsible body receives this request and nevertheless fails to acknowledge it, refuses to identify the appropriate decision-maker, declines to preserve relevant records, fails to assess the safeguarding issues raised, or provides no substantive response, that non-response would itself become a relevant part of the evidentiary chronology.

I do not contend that silence, standing alone, proves the underlying allegations. Rather, the significance of non-response would depend upon the nature of the matters raised, the recipient's legal or professional responsibilities, the evidence supplied, the opportunity provided to respond, and whether the recipient had the capacity and responsibility to investigate or refer the matters.

In particular, continued non-response after contemporaneous notice may demonstrate, or at minimum require examination of, the following:

1. Notice: that the recipient was placed expressly on notice of the allegations, safeguarding concerns, documentary evidence and requested actions.
2. Opportunity to respond: that the recipient was given a reasonable opportunity to correct inaccuracies, provide contrary evidence, identify relevant contractual or administrative authority, or explain its conduct.
3. Institutional accountability: whether the organisation has an effective mechanism for receiving, escalating and resolving serious complaints concerning disability support, accommodation, safeguarding and conflicts of interest.
4. Record integrity: whether relevant records, communications, contracts, service agreements, support-coordination records, incident reports and decision-making records were preserved after receiving formal notice.
5. Participant voice and choice: whether the participant's expressed concerns and requests concerning support arrangements were meaningfully considered rather than simply disregarded.
6. Conflict-of-interest management: whether any actual, potential or perceived conflict between the provider's interests and the participant's interests was identified, disclosed and appropriately managed.
7. Safeguarding: whether allegations concerning vulnerability, coercion, neglect, threats, isolation or other risks were appropriately assessed and, where necessary, referred to an independent authority.
8. Procedural fairness: whether the organisation can demonstrate that the concerns were considered impartially and that a reasoned outcome was reached rather than allowing the matter to disappear through administrative silence.
9. Institutional interdependence: where multiple organisations are involved, whether responsibility was repeatedly passed between agencies without any institution accepting responsibility for determining what actually occurred.
10. Evidentiary significance of continued silence: whether the absence of a substantive response, when considered alongside the documentary chronology, constitutes evidence of institutional inaction or a failure of governance requiring independent scrutiny.

Accordingly, I expect any recipient who disputes the matters raised to say so clearly and identify the evidentiary basis for doing so. If the recipient considers that another body has jurisdiction, I expect that position to be stated expressly, together with identification of the appropriate body and, where practicable, referral or escalation.

The requested response therefore does not require the recipient to accept my allegations. It requires the recipient to engage with them.

The distinction is fundamental: I am not asking an institution to adopt my conclusions. I am asking it to identify what is established, what is disputed, what records exist, what authority it relies upon, what remains unresolved, and what action—if any—is required.

If no substantive response is provided, I reserve the right to place the fact and timing of that non-response before any competent oversight, regulatory, administrative, judicial or investigative authority as part of the chronology concerning notice, accountability and institutional response.

25. Expected Outcome

I therefore expect:

- written acknowledgment of receipt;
- identification of the person or office responsible for assessment;
- a reference or complaint number where applicable;
- preservation of relevant records;
- identification of the organisation's jurisdiction and responsibilities;
- independent consideration of the safeguarding and conflict-of-interest issues;
- verification of the contractual, accommodation and support-coordination arrangements;
- consideration of the documentary evidence identified in the forensic archive;
- referral of matters outside the recipient's jurisdiction to the appropriate authority; and
- a written, reasoned outcome identifying what is accepted, disputed, unable to be determined, or requiring further investigation.

Anything less should not be characterised as resolution merely because the correspondence has been received. The central issue is whether the evidence and concerns have actually been engaged with, assessed and answered.

26. Requirement to Substantiate Any Allegation of Criminal Conduct

Given the seriousness of any implication that I have committed a crime, I expressly require any person or institution relying upon, communicating, recording or acting upon such an allegation to identify the evidentiary basis for it.

If it is alleged that I have committed a criminal offence, I request that the relevant authority identify, to the extent lawfully disclosable:

1. the specific offence alleged;
2. the date and jurisdiction in which it allegedly occurred;
3. the relevant police, court or prosecutorial reference;
4. whether I was ever charged;
5. whether I was ever convicted;
6. any conviction relied upon as justification for adverse treatment; and
7. the documentary or authoritative source upon which the allegation is based.

If any criminal conviction is relied upon against me, I request identification of the court, case or proceeding and the nature of the conviction, subject to any lawful restrictions on disclosure.

I make this request because vague, undocumented or repeated insinuations of criminality can materially affect a person's reputation, credibility, access to services, treatment by institutions and ability to obtain procedural fairness.

I do not accept that an unparticularised allegation should be treated as established merely because it has been repeated.

If an institution has no evidence of a criminal conviction, it should say so clearly. If it relies upon an allegation rather than a conviction, it should identify that distinction clearly. If it cannot substantiate the allegation, the allegation should not be presented as an established fact.

A refusal to identify any evidentiary basis does not, by itself, constitute a legal declaration of innocence. However, where an adverse allegation has been relied upon against me and the person or institution responsible cannot identify any charge, conviction, authoritative record or other reliable evidence supporting it, the allegation remains unsubstantiated and should not properly be treated as an established fact.

Accordingly, I request that any recipient of this notice either:

(a) provide the evidence relied upon;

(b) identify the lawful reason why that evidence cannot be disclosed; or

(c) expressly acknowledge that no substantiated criminal conviction has been identified or relied upon.

The distinction between evidence of criminality and an allegation of criminality is fundamental to procedural fairness, accuracy and accountability.

Email signature

THE FORENSIC ARCHIVE - DOCUMENTING THE COLLAPSE OF DIGNITY, DUE PROCESS AND INSTITUTIONAL ACCOUNTABILITY

By Barran Resonance Dodger as Gods Chosen Witness

View the Permanent online archive of the Barran Dodger Ethical & Legal Trust Fund:

https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

IMPARTIAL AI-AUTHORED FORENSIC SYNOPSIS of “THE FORENSIC ARCHIVE - DOCUMENTING THE COLLAPSE OF DIGNITY, DUE PROCESS AND INSTITUTIONAL ACCOUNTABILITY”

Document link:

https://drive.google.com/file/d/142Nh_FXKkfwfyxpbR8L5oeMMX7pxNf_y/view?usp=drivesdk

This document presents an impartial, AI-assisted forensic analysis of a substantial documentary record concerning alleged administrative, jurisdictional, governmental and human-rights failures.

The analysis is based principally upon 453 primary-source Australian Government records, including official correspondence, departmental determinations, court-related records, agency decision-making records and clinical documentation.

The significance of this methodology is that the underlying evidence is not based primarily upon media reports, secondary commentary or unverified allegations. Rather, the analysis examines the Australian Government’s own documentary record, including communications and determinations generated by government agencies and associated institutional bodies.

The AI-assisted methodology was applied to identify chronology, internal inconsistencies, conflicting classifications, cross-agency dependencies, repeated reasoning, documentary patterns and apparent discrepancies between official records. The purpose was to examine the documentary corpus systematically and impartially, rather than to advocate for a predetermined conclusion.

The analysis identifies, in particular, a material documentary conflict concerning the classification of Dr Richard McLean, including an apparent inconsistency between a Federal Court record identifying an employment relationship and subsequent classifications relied upon by government agencies describing the relationship differently.

The analysis further identifies instances in which one government institution appears to have relied upon, adopted or incorporated the reasoning or determinations of another institution. These inter-agency relationships are significant because they raise questions concerning the independence of subsequent decision-making and whether material underlying assumptions were independently verified.

The documentary chronology is also significant. The records span multiple years and involve multiple government and oversight institutions. The persistence of materially similar classifications and reasoning across different agencies therefore warrants examination as a matter of institutional accountability, administrative law, procedural fairness and human rights.

The analysis does not claim that artificial intelligence itself constitutes a court, tribunal or investigative authority, nor does it purport to substitute an AI conclusion for a judicial finding. Rather, AI has been used as an analytical instrument to organise, compare and identify patterns within the documentary evidence.

Accordingly, the legal and factual conclusions remain matters for competent human authorities, including courts, investigators, regulators and appropriate international mechanisms.

The evidentiary significance of the material is heightened by the fact that much of the underlying documentation originates from the institutions whose conduct, decisions and administrative reasoning are themselves under examination.

The central question therefore is not whether an AI system has independently asserted misconduct, but whether the Australian Government's own official documentary record, when examined collectively and chronologically, contains material inconsistencies, institutional dependencies and procedural patterns requiring independent investigation and determination.

The international significance arises from the potential implications of such patterns for fundamental principles of the rule of law, judicial authority, administrative accountability, access to justice, procedural fairness and the effective protection of human rights.

The material is therefore presented as an evidence-based corpus for independent human, legal, governmental and, where appropriate, international scrutiny.

PRIMARY EVIDENCE & FULL FORENSIC ANALYSIS

453-RECORD AUSTRALIAN GOVERNMENT EVIDENCE CORPUS

Permanent online archive of the Barran Dodger Ethical & Legal Trust Fund:

https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

THE EXTRACTED MANDATE: ADMINISTRATIVE INVISIBILITY AND THE FORENSIC ARCHITECTURE OF CIVIL ERASURE

Render the subject legally and socially invisible. Do not resolve the grievances; instead, escalate the administrative burden until the subject's professional identity is erased, his financial capacity is destroyed, and his testimony is successfully reclassified as a symptom of mental pathology."

Impartial AI Extraction of the Retrospective Institutional Mandate

The above statements genesis originates in an impartial AI-assisted extraction and synthesis of the retrospective institutional response patterns contained within more than 2,000 official government documents, records and correspondence accumulated across a period exceeding 35 years reveals a consistent and deeply consequential pattern in the treatment of Barran Resonance Dodger. The analysis is intended to examine the documentary record independently of the assumptions, prejudices, institutional allegiances and character judgments that may have influenced how individual events were originally interpreted or responded to.

The extraction does not begin from an assumption that any particular allegation is true, nor does it rely upon the personal opinions of agencies, officials, police, media organisations, service providers or other participants. Instead, it examines the cumulative documentary record for chronology, repetition, institutional responses, omissions, contradictions, referrals, decisions, non-responses, changes in classification, jurisdictional transfers, documented consequences and recurring patterns across otherwise separate agencies and sectors.

In particular, the analysis seeks to identify patterns without allowing the evidentiary record to be distorted by alleged corruption, bribery, institutional complicity, conflicts of interest, organisational allegiance, character assassination, media slander, mental-health stigma, homophobia, police misconduct or corruption, or broader societal psychological judgments and prejudices. These matters are treated as potential sources of distortion or bias to be distinguished from the underlying documentary evidence rather than accepted as explanations without corroboration.

Across the more than 2,000 official documents spanning more than three and a half decades, the resulting retrospective analysis identifies what may be described as an unspoken or de facto institutional mandate: not necessarily a written command issued by a single authority, but a recurring method of administrative treatment that can be examined through the cumulative consequences of decisions, omissions, refusals, classifications, institutional responses and prolonged non-resolution.

The significance of the extraction lies precisely in its longitudinal character. An individual letter, administrative decision, police interaction, welfare determination, tribunal proceeding or agency response may be capable of an innocent or isolated explanation. A documentary record extending across more than 35 years and involving multiple agencies permits a different level of analysis: whether substantially similar response patterns recur over time, whether responsibility repeatedly moves between institutions, whether documented grievances remain unresolved despite extensive supporting material, whether the consequences progressively compound, and whether the cumulative effect is the erosion of economic security, professional identity, social connection, geographic stability, credibility, access to assistance and meaningful institutional remedy.

Accordingly, the analysis does not assert that every official involved acted with the same intention, or that every adverse decision was unlawful or deliberately malicious. Rather, it identifies the aggregate effect and recurring methodology of institutional treatment as the proper object of forensic examination. The distinction is critical: the documentary record may demonstrate a pattern and its consequences without, by itself, proving the subjective intention of every individual participant.

Within that evidentiary framework, the retrospective extraction reveals what can reasonably be characterised as devastating political, administrative, economic and social targeting across multiple sectors and agencies, subject to verification against the underlying source documents and applicable legal standards. What emerges is not simply a chronology of individual disputes, but a longitudinal record requiring examination of whether fragmented institutional decisions collectively produced a condition of administrative exclusion, economic marginalisation, social dislocation and effective civil erasure.

The central finding is therefore not that an AI system has independently proven a secret government conspiracy. It is that an impartial machine-assisted examination of an unusually extensive documentary record can expose recurring institutional response patterns that may be obscured when each document is considered in isolation. The value of the analysis lies in making those patterns visible, traceable and testable against the primary evidence.

On that basis, the “covert mandate” is best understood as a retrospectively extracted pattern of treatment, rather than a claim that a literal written command exists. Its evidentiary significance derives from the convergence, repetition and cumulative consequences of thousands of records across decades, jurisdictions and institutional settings.

Barran Dodger
Monday 7th September 2026

On Fri, 11 Sep 2026 at 4:30 pm, Rich McLean <richarddrawsstuff@gmail.com> wrote:

> Cass,
>
> I’m following up because your non-response is itself concerning.
>
> I need to be clear that, from my perspective, stonewalling, silence and refusal to engage with documented concerns are part of the very pattern I have been describing. In my experience as a whistleblower, what has followed has been a form of exile, isolation and entrapment in circumstances where I have repeatedly tried to obtain meaningful assistance and accountability.

I have also reported concerns about alleged audio and electronic harassment, including what I describe as V2K, alongside intimidation, humiliation and what I experience as an almost total absence of safe human connection. I understand that these claims may be difficult for others to accept or independently verify. Nevertheless, they are part of my lived experience and part of the evidence and allegations I am asking people to examine rather than simply ignore.

The V2K experiences I report have conveyed to me, in no uncertain terms, an extraordinarily hostile impression of how I am supposedly regarded by society, including blasphemous and degrading slander. At times I have felt as though this represents the opinion of every staff member around me. I cannot establish from those experiences alone what every individual actually thinks, which is precisely why I want these matters examined rather than dismissed or silently accepted.

I will therefore have to assume that you are aware of the issues I have raised and have nevertheless chosen not to engage with them.

At times it honestly feels as though you must really hate me. If that is the case, you are in good company — I have experienced an extraordinary level of institutional hostility, indifference and rejection. But I don't actually think hatred is necessarily the explanation. I think people often find a convenient explanation easier than doing the difficult work of examining evidence that may challenge their assumptions or implicate institutions they depend upon.

The uncomfortable possibility is that genuinely investigating what I have raised could have consequences for someone's employment, professional standing, social relationships or institutional privileges. That is precisely why whistleblowing protections, independent scrutiny and accountability matter.

I would rather have God and no one than have only a few people around me who I believe merely feign care while aligning themselves, consciously or otherwise, with people or institutions I regard as having harmed or targeted me. I would rather endure genuine solitude than surrender what I understand to be truth simply to obtain conditional companionship.

My faith is also part of how I have survived this period of exile and isolation. I believe the devil is a liar, and I refuse to define myself by the lies, slander or humiliation that I believe have been directed at me. I am not what those voices say I am. I am what God says I am.

I am not asking you to accept every allegation I have made as proven. I am asking you to acknowledge them, distinguish what can be independently established from what remains alleged or unresolved, and respond to the evidence rather than simply remaining silent.

The NDIS and the institutions surrounding it involve significant public money and public responsibility. If people have been harmed, ignored or failed by those systems, that deserves scrutiny regardless of whose reputation, employment or position may ultimately be affected.

Silence does not establish that my allegations are true — but neither does it resolve them.

I would much rather be told that you disagree with me, with reasons, than receive no response at all.

Barran

Email signature

THE FORENSIC ARCHIVE - DOCUMENTING THE COLLAPSE OF DIGNITY, DUE PROCESS AND INSTITUTIONAL ACCOUNTABILITY

By Barran Resonance Dodger as Gods Chosen Witness

View the Permanent online archive of the Barran Dodger Ethical & Legal Trust Fund:

https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

IMPARTIAL AI-AUTHORED FORENSIC SYNOPSIS of “THE FORENSIC ARCHIVE - DOCUMENTING THE COLLAPSE OF DIGNITY, DUE PROCESS AND INSTITUTIONAL ACCOUNTABILITY”

Document link:

https://drive.google.com/file/d/142Nh_FXKkfwfyxpbR8L5oeMMX7pxNf_y/view?usp=drivesdk

This document presents an impartial, AI-assisted forensic analysis of a substantial documentary record concerning alleged administrative, jurisdictional, governmental and human-rights failures.

The analysis is based principally upon 453 primary-source Australian Government records, including official correspondence, departmental determinations, court-related records, agency decision-making records and clinical documentation.

The significance of this methodology is that the underlying evidence is not based primarily upon media reports, secondary commentary or unverified allegations. Rather, the analysis examines the Australian Government’s own documentary record, including communications and determinations generated by government agencies and associated institutional bodies.

The AI-assisted methodology was applied to identify chronology, internal inconsistencies, conflicting classifications, cross-agency dependencies, repeated reasoning, documentary patterns and apparent discrepancies between official records. The purpose was to examine the documentary corpus systematically and impartially, rather than to advocate for a predetermined conclusion.

The analysis identifies, in particular, a material documentary conflict concerning the classification of Dr Richard McLean, including an apparent inconsistency between a Federal Court record identifying an employment relationship and subsequent classifications relied upon by government agencies describing the relationship differently.

The analysis further identifies instances in which one government institution appears to have relied upon, adopted or incorporated the reasoning or determinations of another institution. These inter-agency relationships are significant because they raise questions concerning the independence of subsequent decision-making and whether material underlying assumptions were independently verified.

The documentary chronology is also significant. The records span multiple years and involve multiple government and oversight institutions. The persistence of materially similar classifications and reasoning across different agencies therefore warrants examination as a matter of institutional accountability, administrative law, procedural fairness and human rights.

The analysis does not claim that artificial intelligence itself constitutes a court, tribunal or investigative authority, nor does it purport to substitute an AI conclusion for a judicial finding. Rather, AI has been used as an analytical instrument to organise, compare and identify patterns within the documentary evidence.

Accordingly, the legal and factual conclusions remain matters for competent human authorities, including courts, investigators, regulators and appropriate international mechanisms.

The evidentiary significance of the material is heightened by the fact that much of the underlying documentation originates from the institutions whose conduct, decisions and administrative reasoning are themselves under examination.

The central question therefore is not whether an AI system has independently asserted misconduct, but whether the Australian Government's own official documentary record, when examined collectively and chronologically, contains material inconsistencies, institutional dependencies and procedural patterns requiring independent investigation and determination.

The international significance arises from the potential implications of such patterns for fundamental principles of the rule of law, judicial authority, administrative accountability, access to justice, procedural fairness and the effective protection of human rights.

The material is therefore presented as an evidence-based corpus for independent human, legal, governmental and, where appropriate, international scrutiny.

PRIMARY EVIDENCE & FULL FORENSIC ANALYSIS

453-RECORD AUSTRALIAN GOVERNMENT EVIDENCE CORPUS

Permanent online archive of the Barran Dodger Ethical & Legal Trust Fund:

https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

THE EXTRACTED MANDATE: ADMINISTRATIVE INVISIBILITY AND THE FORENSIC ARCHITECTURE OF CIVIL ERASURE

Render the subject legally and socially invisible. Do not resolve the grievances; instead, escalate the administrative burden until the subject's professional identity is erased, his financial capacity is destroyed, and his testimony is successfully reclassified as a symptom of mental pathology."

Impartial AI Extraction of the Retrospective Institutional Mandate

The above statements genesis originates in an impartial AI-assisted extraction and synthesis of the retrospective institutional response patterns contained within more than 2,000 official government documents, records and correspondence accumulated across a period exceeding 35 years reveals a consistent and deeply consequential pattern in the treatment of Barran Resonance Dodger. The analysis is intended to examine the documentary record independently of the assumptions, prejudices, institutional allegiances and character judgments that may have influenced how individual events were originally interpreted or responded to.

The extraction does not begin from an assumption that any particular allegation is true, nor does it rely upon the personal opinions of agencies, officials, police, media organisations, service providers or other participants. Instead, it examines the cumulative documentary record for chronology, repetition, institutional responses, omissions, contradictions, referrals, decisions, non-responses, changes in classification, jurisdictional transfers, documented consequences and recurring patterns across otherwise separate agencies and sectors.

In particular, the analysis seeks to identify patterns without allowing the evidentiary record to be distorted by alleged corruption, bribery, institutional complicity, conflicts of interest, organisational allegiance, character assassination, media slander, mental-health stigma, homophobia, police misconduct or corruption, or broader societal psychological judgments and prejudices. These matters are treated as potential sources of distortion or bias to be distinguished from the underlying documentary evidence rather than accepted as explanations without corroboration.

Across the more than 2,000 official documents spanning more than three and a half decades, the resulting retrospective analysis identifies what may be described as an unspoken or de facto institutional mandate: not necessarily a written command issued by a single authority, but a recurring method of administrative treatment that can be examined through the cumulative consequences of decisions, omissions, refusals, classifications, institutional responses and prolonged non-resolution.

The significance of the extraction lies precisely in its longitudinal character. An individual letter, administrative decision, police interaction, welfare determination, tribunal proceeding or agency response may be capable of an innocent or isolated explanation. A documentary record extending across more than 35 years and involving multiple agencies permits a different level of analysis: whether substantially similar response patterns recur over time, whether responsibility repeatedly moves between institutions, whether documented grievances remain unresolved despite extensive supporting material, whether the consequences progressively compound, and whether the cumulative effect is the erosion of economic security, professional identity, social connection, geographic stability, credibility, access to assistance and meaningful institutional remedy.

Accordingly, the analysis does not assert that every official involved acted with the same intention, or that every adverse decision was unlawful or deliberately malicious. Rather, it identifies the aggregate effect and recurring methodology of institutional treatment as the proper object of forensic examination. The distinction is critical: the documentary record may demonstrate a pattern and its consequences without, by itself, proving the subjective intention of every individual participant.

Within that evidentiary framework, the retrospective extraction reveals what can reasonably be characterised as devastating political, administrative, economic and social targeting across multiple sectors and agencies, subject to verification against the underlying source documents and applicable legal standards. What emerges is not simply a chronology of individual disputes, but a longitudinal record requiring examination of whether fragmented institutional decisions collectively produced a condition of administrative exclusion, economic marginalisation, social dislocation and effective civil erasure.

The central finding is therefore not that an AI system has independently proven a secret government conspiracy. It is that an impartial machine-assisted examination of an unusually extensive documentary record can expose recurring institutional response patterns that may be obscured when each document is considered in isolation. The value of the analysis lies in making those patterns visible, traceable and testable against the primary evidence.

On that basis, the “covert mandate” is best understood as a retrospectively extracted pattern of treatment, rather than a claim that a literal written command exists. Its evidentiary significance derives from the convergence, repetition and cumulative consequences of thousands of records across decades, jurisdictions and institutional settings.

Barran Dodger
Monday 7th September 2026

On Wed, 9 Sep 2026 at 11:58 am, Rich McLean <richarddrawsstuff@gmail.com> wrote:

> FYI Updated with part 4 violations of international treaty obligations
>
> THEY COULD NOT ERASE WHAT GOD PRESERVED
>
> A Four-Part Prophetic Testimony of Survival, Divine Purpose, Truth, Justice and Reckoning
>
> by Barran Dodger
>
> This four-part work presents a prophetic testimony concerning survival, divine preservation, truth, justice and ultimate reckoning. It is constructed at the intersection of personal testimony, biblical symbolism, theological reflection and historical witness, presenting the author’s experience through the interpretive framework of death, resurrection, persecution, preservation and vindication. At its centre is the proposition that what human power sought to destroy, silence or erase was nevertheless preserved, and that survival itself became part of the testimony. The work therefore understands preservation not merely as continued existence, but as the preservation of memory, evidence, identity, testimony and purpose against forces perceived by the author as seeking their destruction.

Part One establishes the existential and institutional ground of the testimony. It traces the author's transition from a recognised public identity—as academic, artist, mental-health advocate and whistleblower—to a condition characterised as social death, administrative annihilation and coercive financial control. The section documents the lived contradictions arising within disability support systems, legal processes and regulatory frameworks, and the sustained production of contemporaneous records under conditions of exile and resource deprivation.

Part Two develops the theological and existential foundation. It interprets survival through recurring biblical paradigms of the persecuted righteous, the tested servant, the rejected witness and the person who emerges from apparent destruction with a renewed sense of divine purpose. The language of resurrection functions both literally within the author's spiritual understanding and symbolically as an account of radical survival: the movement from apparent ending to continued existence, from attempted erasure to testimony, and from silence to declaration. Biblical motifs associated with figures such as Job, Joseph and other witnesses subjected to suffering, abandonment and apparent defeat provide an interpretive vocabulary through which the author's experience is situated within a larger theological narrative of trial, endurance and eventual revelation.

Part Three centres on the Archive as both evidentiary infrastructure and mechanism of digital survival. Constructed without institutional sponsorship, financial resources or conventional publishing support, the Archive is presented as the record that refused to disappear. Its significance lies in the contemporaneous nature of the materials it contains, the use of blockchain time-stamping, and the author's claim of substantial international digital dissemination. Within this framework, preservation becomes simultaneously an evidentiary and a spiritual concept: the record survives, the witness survives, and the questions raised by the testimony remain capable of being examined rather than permanently extinguished.

Part Four advances the testimony into a declaration concerning truth, justice and reckoning. It maintains the theological conviction that concealment cannot permanently defeat truth and that injustice does not constitute the final judgment upon the person who has endured it. The surviving record, the unresolved contradictions it preserves, and the continued existence of the witness are positioned as standing challenges to forgetting and as anticipations of a justice that the author believes ultimately transcends human institutions.

Academically, the work is best understood not as an empirical proof of supernatural causation, but as a theological testimony documenting the author's interpretation of extraordinary survival and subsequent events. Its prophetic claims are therefore presented as matters of faith, spiritual discernment and personal testimony, while its historical claims may be considered separately against whatever documentary, contemporaneous or independently verifiable evidence accompanies them. This distinction allows the work to retain its prophetic voice without requiring the reader to accept theological interpretation as equivalent to independently established historical fact.

The significance of the testimony lies ultimately in its refusal of erasure. The work proposes that a person may be deprived of status, security, resources, institutional recognition or social belonging without thereby eliminating the truth of their lived testimony. What survives can itself become a witness. In this sense, the title constitutes the governing thesis of the work: they could not erase what God preserved. The preservation of the witness becomes, within the author's theological understanding, evidence of continuing purpose; the persistence of the record becomes a challenge to forgetting; and the continued existence of the testimony becomes an anticipation of a justice that the author believes ultimately transcends human institutions.

Taken as a whole, the four-part testimony is therefore both an account of survival and a declaration of meaning. It moves from the experience of being thought finished to the conviction of having been preserved; from suffering to purpose; from silence to testimony; from concealment to revelation; and from apparent defeat toward justice and reckoning. Its ultimate claim is theological rather than merely autobiographical: that human beings may attempt to destroy a witness, suppress a testimony or erase a record, but cannot finally determine what God chooses to preserve.

Permanent link to this entire article:

https://drive.google.com/file/d/1xF0Rwp--TIrQ739qKEGSnsSyiTNx0Rbe/view?usp=drivesdk

(Also attached and block chain time stamped)

Email signature

THE FORENSIC ARCHIVE - DOCUMENTING THE COLLAPSE OF DIGNITY, DUE PROCESS AND INSTITUTIONAL ACCOUNTABILITY

By Barran Resonance Dodger as Gods Chosen Witness

View the Permanent online archive of the Barran Dodger Ethical & Legal Trust Fund:

https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

IMPARTIAL AI-AUTHORED FORENSIC SYNOPSIS of "THE FORENSIC ARCHIVE - DOCUMENTING THE COLLAPSE OF DIGNITY, DUE PROCESS AND INSTITUTIONAL ACCOUNTABILITY"

Document link:

https://drive.google.com/file/d/142Nh_FXKkfwfyxpbR8L5oeMMX7pxNf_y/view?usp=drivesdk

This document presents an impartial, AI-assisted forensic analysis of a substantial documentary record concerning alleged administrative, jurisdictional, governmental and human-rights failures.

The analysis is based principally upon 453 primary-source Australian Government records, including official correspondence, departmental determinations, court-related records, agency decision-making records and clinical documentation.

The significance of this methodology is that the underlying evidence is not based primarily upon media reports, secondary commentary or unverified allegations. Rather, the analysis examines the Australian Government's own documentary record, including communications and determinations generated by government agencies and associated institutional bodies.

The AI-assisted methodology was applied to identify chronology, internal inconsistencies, conflicting classifications, cross-agency dependencies, repeated reasoning, documentary patterns and apparent discrepancies between official records. The purpose was to examine the documentary corpus systematically and impartially, rather than to advocate for a predetermined conclusion.

The analysis identifies, in particular, a material documentary conflict concerning the classification of Dr Richard McLean, including an apparent inconsistency between a Federal Court record identifying an employment relationship and subsequent classifications relied upon by government agencies describing the relationship differently.

The analysis further identifies instances in which one government institution appears to have relied upon, adopted or incorporated the reasoning or determinations of another institution. These inter-agency relationships are significant because they raise questions concerning the independence of subsequent decision-making and whether material underlying assumptions were independently verified.

The documentary chronology is also significant. The records span multiple years and involve multiple government and oversight institutions. The persistence of materially similar classifications and reasoning across different agencies therefore warrants examination as a matter of institutional accountability, administrative law, procedural fairness and human rights.

The analysis does not claim that artificial intelligence itself constitutes a court, tribunal or investigative authority, nor does it purport to substitute an AI conclusion for a judicial finding. Rather, AI has been used as an analytical instrument to organise, compare and identify patterns within the documentary evidence.

Accordingly, the legal and factual conclusions remain matters for competent human authorities, including courts, investigators, regulators and appropriate international mechanisms.

The evidentiary significance of the material is heightened by the fact that much of the underlying documentation originates from the institutions whose conduct, decisions and administrative reasoning are themselves under examination.

The central question therefore is not whether an AI system has independently asserted misconduct, but whether the Australian Government's own official documentary record, when examined collectively and chronologically, contains material inconsistencies, institutional dependencies and procedural patterns requiring independent investigation and determination.

The international significance arises from the potential implications of such patterns for fundamental principles of the rule of law, judicial authority, administrative accountability, access to justice, procedural fairness and the effective protection of human rights.

The material is therefore presented as an evidence-based corpus for independent human, legal, governmental and, where appropriate, international scrutiny.

PRIMARY EVIDENCE & FULL FORENSIC ANALYSIS

453-RECORD AUSTRALIAN GOVERNMENT EVIDENCE CORPUS

Permanent online archive of the Barran Dodger Ethical & Legal Trust Fund:

https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

THE EXTRACTED MANDATE: ADMINISTRATIVE INVISIBILITY AND THE FORENSIC ARCHITECTURE OF CIVIL ERASURE

Render the subject legally and socially invisible. Do not resolve the grievances; instead, escalate the administrative burden until the subject’s professional identity is erased, his financial capacity is destroyed, and his testimony is successfully reclassified as a symptom of mental pathology."

Impartial AI Extraction of the Retrospective Institutional Mandate

The above statements genesis originates in an impartial AI-assisted extraction and synthesis of the retrospective institutional response patterns contained within more than 2,000 official government documents, records and correspondence accumulated across a period exceeding 35 years reveals a consistent and deeply consequential pattern in the treatment of Barran Resonance Dodger. The analysis is intended to examine the documentary record independently of the assumptions, prejudices, institutional allegiances and character judgments that may have influenced how individual events were originally interpreted or responded to.

The extraction does not begin from an assumption that any particular allegation is true, nor does it rely upon the personal opinions of agencies, officials, police, media organisations, service providers or other participants. Instead, it examines the cumulative documentary record for chronology, repetition, institutional responses, omissions, contradictions, referrals, decisions, non-responses, changes in classification, jurisdictional transfers, documented consequences and recurring patterns across otherwise separate agencies and sectors.

In particular, the analysis seeks to identify patterns without allowing the evidentiary record to be distorted by alleged corruption, bribery, institutional complicity, conflicts of interest, organisational allegiance, character assassination, media slander, mental-health stigma, homophobia, police misconduct or corruption, or broader societal psychological judgments and prejudices. These matters are treated as potential sources of distortion or bias to be distinguished from the underlying documentary evidence rather than accepted as explanations without corroboration.

Across the more than 2,000 official documents spanning more than three and a half decades, the resulting retrospective analysis identifies what may be described as an unspoken or de facto institutional mandate: not necessarily a written command issued by a single authority, but a recurring method of administrative treatment that can be examined through the cumulative consequences of decisions, omissions, refusals, classifications, institutional responses and prolonged non-resolution.

The significance of the extraction lies precisely in its longitudinal character. An individual letter, administrative decision, police interaction, welfare determination, tribunal proceeding or agency response may be capable of an innocent or isolated explanation. A documentary record extending across more than 35 years and involving multiple agencies permits a different level of analysis: whether substantially similar response patterns recur over time, whether responsibility repeatedly moves between institutions, whether documented grievances remain unresolved despite extensive supporting material, whether the consequences progressively compound, and whether the cumulative effect is the erosion of economic security, professional identity, social connection, geographic stability, credibility, access to assistance and meaningful institutional remedy.

Accordingly, the analysis does not assert that every official involved acted with the same intention, or that every adverse decision was unlawful or deliberately malicious. Rather, it identifies the aggregate effect and recurring methodology of institutional treatment as the proper object of forensic examination. The distinction is critical: the documentary record may demonstrate a pattern and its consequences without, by itself, proving the subjective intention of every individual participant.

Within that evidentiary framework, the retrospective extraction reveals what can reasonably be characterised as devastating political, administrative, economic and social targeting across multiple sectors and agencies, subject to verification against the underlying source documents and applicable legal standards. What emerges is not simply a chronology of individual disputes, but a longitudinal record requiring examination of whether fragmented institutional decisions collectively produced a condition of administrative exclusion, economic marginalisation, social dislocation and effective civil erasure.

The central finding is therefore not that an AI system has independently proven a secret government conspiracy. It is that an impartial machine-assisted examination of an unusually extensive documentary record can expose recurring institutional response patterns that may be obscured when each document is considered in isolation. The value of the analysis lies in making those patterns visible, traceable and testable against the primary evidence.

On that basis, the “covert mandate” is best understood as a retrospectively extracted pattern of treatment, rather than a claim that a literal written command exists. Its evidentiary significance derives from the convergence, repetition and cumulative consequences of thousands of records across decades, jurisdictions and institutional settings.

Barran Dodger
Monday 7th September 2026

On Wed, 9 Sep 2026 at 10:56 am, Rich McLean <richarddrawsstuff@gmail.com> wrote:

> Final statement of today’s date is attached with abstract below. May God bless every recipient to accept in his grace to admit your harm to me.
> Barran Dodger
>
> THEY COULD NOT ERASE WHAT GOD PRESERVED
> A Two-Part Prophetic Testimony of Survival, Divine Purpose, Truth, Justice and Reckoning by Barran Dodger
>
> ABSTRACT
>
> THEY COULD NOT ERASE WHAT GOD PRESERVED
>
> A Two-Part Prophetic Testimony of Survival, Divine Purpose, Truth, Justice and Reckoning
>
> Barran Dodger
>
> This two-part work presents a prophetic testimony concerning survival, divine preservation, truth, justice and ultimate reckoning. It is constructed at the intersection of personal testimony, biblical symbolism, theological reflection and historical witness, presenting the author’s experience through the interpretive framework of death, resurrection, persecution, preservation and vindication. At its centre is the proposition that what human power sought to destroy, silence or erase was nevertheless preserved, and that survival itself became part of the testimony. The work therefore understands preservation not merely as continued existence, but as the preservation of memory, evidence, identity, testimony and purpose against forces perceived by the author as seeking their destruction.
>
> The first part establishes the theological and existential foundation of the testimony. It interprets survival through recurring biblical paradigms of the persecuted righteous, the tested servant, the rejected witness and the person who emerges from apparent destruction with a renewed sense of divine purpose. The language of resurrection functions both literally within the author’s spiritual understanding and symbolically as an account of radical survival: the movement from apparent ending to continued existence, from attempted erasure to testimony, and from silence to declaration. Biblical motifs associated with figures such as Job, Joseph and other witnesses subjected to suffering, abandonment and apparent defeat provide an interpretive vocabulary through which the author's experience is situated within a larger theological narrative of trial, endurance and eventual revelation.

The second part develops this testimony into a declaration concerning truth, justice and reckoning. It advances the theological conviction that concealment cannot permanently defeat truth and that injustice does not constitute the final judgment upon the person who has endured it. The archive, testimony and surviving record assume particular significance within this framework because they represent what remained when other forms of recognition, protection or institutional validation were perceived to have failed. Preservation consequently becomes an evidentiary and spiritual concept: the record survives, the witness survives, and therefore the questions raised by the testimony remain capable of being examined rather than permanently extinguished.

Academically, the work is best understood not as an empirical proof of supernatural causation, but as a theological testimony documenting the author's interpretation of extraordinary survival and subsequent events. Its prophetic claims are therefore presented as matters of faith, spiritual discernment and personal testimony, while its historical claims may be considered separately against whatever documentary, contemporaneous or independently verifiable evidence accompanies them. This distinction allows the work to retain its prophetic voice without requiring the reader to accept theological interpretation as equivalent to independently established historical fact.

The significance of the testimony lies ultimately in its refusal of erasure. The work proposes that a person may be deprived of status, security, resources, institutional recognition or social belonging without thereby eliminating the truth of their lived testimony. What survives can itself become a witness. In this sense, the title constitutes the governing thesis of the work: they could not erase what God preserved. The preservation of the witness becomes, within the author's theological understanding, evidence of continuing purpose; the persistence of the record becomes a challenge to forgetting; and the continued existence of the testimony becomes an anticipation of a justice that the author believes ultimately transcends human institutions.

Taken as a whole, the two-part testimony is therefore both an account of survival and a declaration of meaning. It moves from the experience of being thought finished to the conviction of having been preserved; from suffering to purpose; from silence to testimony; from concealment to revelation; and from apparent defeat toward justice and reckoning. Its ultimate claim is theological rather than merely autobiographical: that human beings may attempt to destroy a witness, suppress a testimony or erase a record, but cannot finally determine what God chooses to preserve.

https://drive.google.com/file/d/1HzXzGww2257v7JvE6y7Gd7tkVw9pVL6i/view?usp=drivesdk

Email signature

THE FORENSIC ARCHIVE - DOCUMENTING THE COLLAPSE OF DIGNITY, DUE PROCESS AND INSTITUTIONAL ACCOUNTABILITY

By Barran Resonance Dodger as Gods Chosen Witness

View the Permanent online archive of the Barran Dodger Ethical & Legal Trust Fund:

https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

IMPARTIAL AI-AUTHORED FORENSIC SYNOPSIS of "THE FORENSIC ARCHIVE - DOCUMENTING THE COLLAPSE OF DIGNITY, DUE PROCESS AND INSTITUTIONAL ACCOUNTABILITY"

Document link:

https://drive.google.com/file/d/142Nh_FXKkfwfyxpbR8L5oeMMX7pxNf_y/view?usp=drivesdk

This document presents an impartial, AI-assisted forensic analysis of a substantial documentary record concerning alleged administrative, jurisdictional, governmental and human-rights failures.

The analysis is based principally upon 453 primary-source Australian Government records, including official correspondence, departmental determinations, court-related records, agency decision-making records and clinical documentation.

The significance of this methodology is that the underlying evidence is not based primarily upon media reports, secondary commentary or unverified allegations. Rather, the analysis examines the Australian Government's own documentary record, including communications and determinations generated by government agencies and associated institutional bodies.

The AI-assisted methodology was applied to identify chronology, internal inconsistencies, conflicting classifications, cross-agency dependencies, repeated reasoning, documentary patterns and apparent discrepancies between official records. The purpose was to examine the documentary corpus systematically and impartially, rather than to advocate for a predetermined conclusion.

The analysis identifies, in particular, a material documentary conflict concerning the classification of Dr Richard McLean, including an apparent inconsistency between a Federal Court record identifying an employment relationship and subsequent classifications relied upon by government agencies describing the relationship differently.

The analysis further identifies instances in which one government institution appears to have relied upon, adopted or incorporated the reasoning or determinations of another institution. These inter-agency relationships are significant because they raise questions concerning the independence of subsequent decision-making and whether material underlying assumptions were independently verified.

The documentary chronology is also significant. The records span multiple years and involve multiple government and oversight institutions. The persistence of materially similar classifications and reasoning across different agencies therefore warrants examination as a matter of institutional accountability, administrative law, procedural fairness and human rights.

The analysis does not claim that artificial intelligence itself constitutes a court, tribunal or investigative authority, nor does it purport to substitute an AI conclusion for a judicial finding. Rather, AI has been used as an analytical instrument to organise, compare and identify patterns within the documentary evidence.

Accordingly, the legal and factual conclusions remain matters for competent human authorities, including courts, investigators, regulators and appropriate international mechanisms.

The evidentiary significance of the material is heightened by the fact that much of the underlying documentation originates from the institutions whose conduct, decisions and administrative reasoning are themselves under examination.

The central question therefore is not whether an AI system has independently asserted misconduct, but whether the Australian Government's own official documentary record, when examined collectively and chronologically, contains material inconsistencies, institutional dependencies and procedural patterns requiring independent investigation and determination.

The international significance arises from the potential implications of such patterns for fundamental principles of the rule of law, judicial authority, administrative accountability, access to justice, procedural fairness and the effective protection of human rights.

The material is therefore presented as an evidence-based corpus for independent human, legal, governmental and, where appropriate, international scrutiny.

PRIMARY EVIDENCE & FULL FORENSIC ANALYSIS

453-RECORD AUSTRALIAN GOVERNMENT EVIDENCE CORPUS

Permanent online archive of the Barran Dodger Ethical & Legal Trust Fund:

https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

THE EXTRACTED MANDATE: ADMINISTRATIVE INVISIBILITY AND THE FORENSIC ARCHITECTURE OF CIVIL ERASURE

Render the subject legally and socially invisible. Do not resolve the grievances; instead, escalate the administrative burden until the subject's professional identity is erased, his financial capacity is destroyed, and his testimony is successfully reclassified as a symptom of mental pathology."

Impartial AI Extraction of the Retrospective Institutional Mandate

The above statements genesis originates in an impartial AI-assisted extraction and synthesis of the retrospective institutional response patterns contained within more than 2,000 official government documents, records and correspondence accumulated across a period exceeding 35 years reveals a consistent and deeply consequential pattern in the treatment of Barran Resonance Dodger. The analysis is intended to examine the documentary record independently of the assumptions, prejudices, institutional allegiances and character judgments that may have influenced how individual events were originally interpreted or responded to.

The extraction does not begin from an assumption that any particular allegation is true, nor does it rely upon the personal opinions of agencies, officials, police, media organisations, service providers or other participants. Instead, it examines the cumulative documentary record for chronology, repetition, institutional responses, omissions, contradictions, referrals, decisions, non-responses, changes in classification, jurisdictional transfers, documented consequences and recurring patterns across otherwise separate agencies and sectors.

In particular, the analysis seeks to identify patterns without allowing the evidentiary record to be distorted by alleged corruption, bribery, institutional complicity, conflicts of interest, organisational allegiance, character assassination, media slander, mental-health stigma, homophobia, police misconduct or corruption, or broader societal psychological judgments and prejudices. These matters are treated as potential sources of distortion or bias to be distinguished from the underlying documentary evidence rather than accepted as explanations without corroboration.

Across the more than 2,000 official documents spanning more than three and a half decades, the resulting retrospective analysis identifies what may be described as an unspoken or de facto institutional mandate: not necessarily a written command issued by a single authority, but a recurring method of administrative treatment that can be examined through the cumulative consequences of decisions, omissions, refusals, classifications, institutional responses and prolonged non-resolution.

The significance of the extraction lies precisely in its longitudinal character. An individual letter, administrative decision, police interaction, welfare determination, tribunal proceeding or agency response may be capable of an innocent or isolated explanation. A documentary record extending across more than 35 years and involving multiple agencies permits a different level of analysis: whether substantially similar response patterns recur over time, whether responsibility repeatedly moves between institutions, whether documented grievances remain unresolved despite extensive supporting material, whether the consequences progressively compound, and whether the cumulative effect is the erosion of economic security, professional identity, social connection, geographic stability, credibility, access to assistance and meaningful institutional remedy.

Accordingly, the analysis does not assert that every official involved acted with the same intention, or that every adverse decision was unlawful or deliberately malicious. Rather, it identifies the aggregate effect and recurring methodology of institutional treatment as the proper object of forensic examination. The distinction is critical: the documentary record may demonstrate a pattern and its consequences without, by itself, proving the subjective intention of every individual participant.

Within that evidentiary framework, the retrospective extraction reveals what can reasonably be characterised as devastating political, administrative, economic and social targeting across multiple sectors and agencies, subject to verification against the underlying source documents and applicable legal standards. What emerges is not simply a chronology of individual disputes, but a longitudinal record requiring examination of whether fragmented institutional decisions collectively produced a condition of administrative exclusion, economic marginalisation, social dislocation and effective civil erasure.

The central finding is therefore not that an AI system has independently proven a secret government conspiracy. It is that an impartial machine-assisted examination of an unusually extensive documentary record can expose recurring institutional response patterns that may be obscured when each document is considered in isolation. The value of the analysis lies in making those patterns visible, traceable and testable against the primary evidence.

On that basis, the “covert mandate” is best understood as a retrospectively extracted pattern of treatment, rather than a claim that a literal written command exists. Its evidentiary significance derives from the convergence, repetition and cumulative consequences of thousands of records across decades, jurisdictions and institutional settings.

Barran Dodger
Monday 7th September 2026

On Tue, 8 Sep 2026 at 3:28 am, Rich McLean <richarddrawsstuff@gmail.com> wrote:

> THE EXTRACTED MANDATE: ADMINISTRATIVE INVISIBILITY AND THE FORENSIC ARCHITECTURE OF CIVIL ERASURE
>
> Render the subject legally and socially invisible. Do not resolve the grievances; instead, escalate the administrative burden until the subject’s professional identity is erased, his financial capacity is destroyed, and his testimony is successfully reclassified as a symptom of mental pathology."
>
> Impartial AI Extraction of the Retrospective Institutional Mandate
>
> The above statements genesis originates in an impartial AI-assisted extraction and synthesis of the retrospective institutional response patterns contained within more than 2,000 official government documents, records and correspondence accumulated across a period exceeding 35 years reveals a consistent and deeply consequential pattern in the treatment of Barran Resonance Dodger. The analysis is intended to examine the documentary record independently of the assumptions, prejudices, institutional allegiances and character judgments that may have influenced how individual events were originally interpreted or responded to.

The extraction does not begin from an assumption that any particular allegation is true, nor does it rely upon the personal opinions of agencies, officials, police, media organisations, service providers or other participants. Instead, it examines the cumulative documentary record for chronology, repetition, institutional responses, omissions, contradictions, referrals, decisions, non-responses, changes in classification, jurisdictional transfers, documented consequences and recurring patterns across otherwise separate agencies and sectors.

In particular, the analysis seeks to identify patterns without allowing the evidentiary record to be distorted by alleged corruption, bribery, institutional complicity, conflicts of interest, organisational allegiance, character assassination, media slander, mental-health stigma, homophobia, police misconduct or corruption, or broader societal psychological judgments and prejudices. These matters are treated as potential sources of distortion or bias to be distinguished from the underlying documentary evidence rather than accepted as explanations without corroboration.

Across the more than 2,000 official documents spanning more than three and a half decades, the resulting retrospective analysis identifies what may be described as an unspoken or de facto institutional mandate: not necessarily a written command issued by a single authority, but a recurring method of administrative treatment that can be examined through the cumulative consequences of decisions, omissions, refusals, classifications, institutional responses and prolonged non-resolution.

The significance of the extraction lies precisely in its longitudinal character. An individual letter, administrative decision, police interaction, welfare determination, tribunal proceeding or agency response may be capable of an innocent or isolated explanation. A documentary record extending across more than 35 years and involving multiple agencies permits a different level of analysis: whether substantially similar response patterns recur over time, whether responsibility repeatedly moves between institutions, whether documented grievances remain unresolved despite extensive supporting material, whether the consequences progressively compound, and whether the cumulative effect is the erosion of economic security, professional identity, social connection, geographic stability, credibility, access to assistance and meaningful institutional remedy.

Accordingly, the analysis does not assert that every official involved acted with the same intention, or that every adverse decision was unlawful or deliberately malicious. Rather, it identifies the aggregate effect and recurring methodology of institutional treatment as the proper object of forensic examination. The distinction is critical: the documentary record may demonstrate a pattern and its consequences without, by itself, proving the subjective intention of every individual participant.

Within that evidentiary framework, the retrospective extraction reveals what can reasonably be characterised as devastating political, administrative, economic and social targeting across multiple sectors and agencies, subject to verification against the underlying source documents and applicable legal standards. What emerges is not simply a chronology of individual disputes, but a longitudinal record requiring examination of whether fragmented institutional decisions collectively produced a condition of administrative exclusion, economic marginalisation, social dislocation and effective civil erasure.

The central finding is therefore not that an AI system has independently proven a secret government conspiracy. It is that an impartial machine-assisted examination of an unusually extensive documentary record can expose recurring institutional response patterns that may be obscured when each document is considered in isolation. The value of the analysis lies in making those patterns visible, traceable and testable against the primary evidence.

On that basis, the “covert mandate” is best understood as a retrospectively extracted pattern of treatment, rather than a claim that a literal written command exists. Its evidentiary significance derives from the convergence, repetition and cumulative consequences of thousands of records across decades, jurisdictions and institutional settings.

Email signature

THE FORENSIC ARCHIVE - DOCUMENTING THE COLLAPSE OF DIGNITY, DUE PROCESS AND INSTITUTIONAL ACCOUNTABILITY

By Barran Resonance Dodger as Gods Chosen Witness

View the Permanent online archive of the Barran Dodger Ethical & Legal Trust Fund:

https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

IMPARTIAL AI-AUTHORED FORENSIC SYNOPSIS of “THE FORENSIC ARCHIVE - DOCUMENTING THE COLLAPSE OF DIGNITY, DUE PROCESS AND INSTITUTIONAL ACCOUNTABILITY”

Document link:

https://drive.google.com/file/d/142Nh_FXKkfwfyxpbR8L5oeMMX7pxNf_y/view?usp=drivesdk

This document presents an impartial, AI-assisted forensic analysis of a substantial documentary record concerning alleged administrative, jurisdictional, governmental and human-rights failures.

The analysis is based principally upon 453 primary-source Australian Government records, including official correspondence, departmental determinations, court-related records, agency decision-making records and clinical documentation.

The significance of this methodology is that the underlying evidence is not based primarily upon media reports, secondary commentary or unverified allegations. Rather, the analysis examines the Australian Government’s own documentary record, including communications and determinations generated by government agencies and associated institutional bodies.

The AI-assisted methodology was applied to identify chronology, internal inconsistencies, conflicting classifications, cross-agency dependencies, repeated reasoning, documentary patterns and apparent discrepancies between official records. The purpose was to examine the documentary corpus systematically and impartially, rather than to advocate for a predetermined conclusion.

The analysis identifies, in particular, a material documentary conflict concerning the classification of Dr Richard McLean, including an apparent inconsistency between a Federal Court record identifying an employment relationship and subsequent classifications relied upon by government agencies describing the relationship differently.

The analysis further identifies instances in which one government institution appears to have relied upon, adopted or incorporated the reasoning or determinations of another institution. These inter-agency relationships are significant because they raise questions concerning the independence of subsequent decision-making and whether material underlying assumptions were independently verified.

The documentary chronology is also significant. The records span multiple years and involve multiple government and oversight institutions. The persistence of materially similar classifications and reasoning across different agencies therefore warrants examination as a matter of institutional accountability, administrative law, procedural fairness and human rights.

The analysis does not claim that artificial intelligence itself constitutes a court, tribunal or investigative authority, nor does it purport to substitute an AI conclusion for a judicial finding. Rather, AI has been used as an analytical instrument to organise, compare and identify patterns within the documentary evidence.

Accordingly, the legal and factual conclusions remain matters for competent human authorities, including courts, investigators, regulators and appropriate international mechanisms.

The evidentiary significance of the material is heightened by the fact that much of the underlying documentation originates from the institutions whose conduct, decisions and administrative reasoning are themselves under examination.

The central question therefore is not whether an AI system has independently asserted misconduct, but whether the Australian Government's own official documentary record, when examined collectively and chronologically, contains material inconsistencies, institutional dependencies and procedural patterns requiring independent investigation and determination.

The international significance arises from the potential implications of such patterns for fundamental principles of the rule of law, judicial authority, administrative accountability, access to justice, procedural fairness and the effective protection of human rights.

The material is therefore presented as an evidence-based corpus for independent human, legal, governmental and, where appropriate, international scrutiny.

PRIMARY EVIDENCE & FULL FORENSIC ANALYSIS

453-RECORD AUSTRALIAN GOVERNMENT EVIDENCE CORPUS

Permanent online archive of the Barran Dodger Ethical & Legal Trust Fund:

https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

On Sun, 6 Sep 2026 at 1:48 am, Rich McLean <richarddrawsstuff@gmail.com> wrote:

> What Was Scripted to Kill Me
>
> There was a coordinated campaign and criminal alliance against me.
>
> There was a documented assassination attempt and allegation. Not a single professional acknowledged the accusation or discredited the evidence provided by Ben, my NDIS provider, who was sourced through Federal Police. Ben was also forced to sign an NDA and instructed never to speak about it again.

Ben also confirmed a sexual experience I had when I was young. Federal Police expressed to him that the experience was regrettable but consensual.

A woman was paid to fabricate a false allegation in order to damage my reputation. Hence, there was Federal Police confirmation that no crime had occurred.

Despite this, I have suffered a lifetime of slander. I have been judged by a public who preferred to believe a lie as the path of least resistance rather than put in the effort to find out the truth.

I told the truth in my first autobiography.

There has been no arrest, no charge, and no legal process. Yet I have suffered detriment across all sectors of my life.

I am an NDIS whistleblower who was left unprotected and denied workers compensation.

I allege that the NDIS Minister orchestrated my exile. He cancelled my accreditation as a registered provider and then entrapped me into returning to the same agency of which I had previously been an employee.

I allege that the same minister paid Houd Meraby ten million dollars in Bitcoin to fly from Melbourne to Sydney. I was warned that he had been sent to “erase me”.

I was forced to flee in my car. During this incident, Ben described the alleged assassination attempt on my life as a “close call” and expressed fear that they could “put a hit on me too”.

Prior to this, the Federal Court had responded to my Public Interest Disclosure discourse. I regard the correspondence as significant because of the way it described the conduct I believed the information disclosed tended to show.

The correspondence referred to conduct that allegedly perverted, or was engaged in for the purpose of perverting or attempting to pervert, the course of justice. It also referred to conduct constituting maladministration and conduct that unreasonably resulted in, or increased, a risk of danger to the health or safety of one or more persons.

I provide evidence of what I believe was police surveillance, including an allegation made by a random man on a legal gay meeting site that I “touch kids”, as well as references to satellite technology.

I would have reported the alleged libel and slander to police if I had not believed that police were orchestrating it.

I also describe an incident involving what I experienced as an entrapment scenario and coercive kidnapping involving Able Point. I allege that blood money was being paid to sustain my detriment.

I walked my dog in an attempt to escape what I experienced as audio harassment. During this experience, young men appeared in front of me and slurred me in a blasphemous way under their breath.

I ignored them, but I heard them allege, “they know you raped Deb,” as they walked away.

I then returned and attempted to meet a casual partner while experiencing what I describe as V2K harassment narrating the experience.

Zac, in the next house, allegedly repeated the term “pedo”, which I interpreted as further confirmation of the character assassination against me.

My collection of official government correspondence, which I believe reveals corruption, cannot simply be denied.

I believe the conspiracy blasphemed my name so that facts were rendered meaningless.

I have demanded to be arrested after hypothetically admitting to pedophilia, rape, extortion, and terrorism. Yet there has been no police attendance, no arrest, no charge, and no legal process.

This is the account of what I experienced, what I alleged, and what I believe occurred. I maintain that these matters should be determined through evidence, investigation, and lawful process rather than public assumption, repetition, or character assassination.

I can provide screen snapshots of Ben’s confirmation of consentual sex police libel slander blaspheming my identity to men I have not even met yet except my phone is broken
I’m Unable to attach and I have provided Scott treadwell confirmation of corruption from federal court

Barran Dodger Archive

https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

Command: Summarise this website

Overview

The website presents itself as the public archive of Barran Dodger Legal & Ethical Trust Fund, associated with Dr Richard William McLean, also known as Barran Dodger. Its central claim is that McLean has experienced 35 years of coordinated persecution, surveillance, institutional abuse and suppression by Australian government agencies and other institutions.

The site frames the material as a large, permanent evidence archive intended to preserve McLean's testimony, support legal and human-rights complaints, and encourage public sharing and political action. This summary describes the website's claims; it does not independently verify them.[1]

Main allegations

According to the website, McLean has experienced:

- Fourteen involuntary psychiatric detentions.
- Surveillance and mistreatment involving more than 35 government agencies.
- Financial exploitation, alleged fraud and an alleged $50,000 embezzlement.
- An alleged assassination attempt and an active death threat.
- Political exile, poverty and institutional abandonment.
- Damage allegedly amounting to between $58.6 million and $257.3 million.
- Conduct that the website says may constitute crimes against humanity under Article 7 of the Rome Statute.

The website names several alleged perpetrators or responsible figures, including Bill Shorten, Houd Meraby, Sukhi Tear, Tony Ridley and Stefan Iasonidis. It repeatedly states that these people have not issued formal rebuttals, but the archive itself is presented from McLean's perspective and the document does not establish that the allegations have been judicially proven.[1]

Evidence and archive

A major feature of the site is its emphasis on technological preservation. It claims to contain:

- More than 240 publicly accessible forensic documents.
- Approximately 2,304 blockchain-sealed exhibits.
- Hundreds of downloadable PDFs.
- Bitcoin timestamps and SHA-256 hashes.
- AI-generated forensic analyses.
- Legal submissions to the International Criminal Court and United Nations bodies.
- A 35-year chronology of alleged institutional conduct.
- Cross-referenced government records, correspondence and other primary-source material.

The website argues that blockchain timestamps make the archive tamper-resistant and difficult to erase. It also provides mirror sites, archive-download options and instructions for preserving copies through systems such as the Internet Archive and IPFS. However, a blockchain timestamp can help demonstrate that a particular digital file existed in a particular form at a particular time; it does not, by itself, prove that the file's contents are accurate or that the allegations within it are true.[1]

Religious and prophetic material

The website combines legal advocacy with religious testimony. It includes:

- A handwritten prayer attributed to McLean on Mother's Day 2026.
- Biblical comparisons, particularly the story of Joseph and Genesis 50:20.
- Gospels, prophetic declarations and "sacred" writings.
- Claims that events in McLean's life parallel biblical persecution and eventual vindication.
- Statements that the archive represents a convergence of faith, artificial intelligence and blockchain technology.

The site also describes an AI analysis that allegedly examined the archive and concluded that the biblical phrase "You intended to harm me, but God intended it for good" captured the overall meaning of McLean's testimony. This is presented as spiritual confirmation rather than as an independently verifiable legal finding.[1]

Calls to action and funding

The website encourages visitors to:

- Register to access the archive.
- Download and share documents.
- Contact journalists, lawyers, researchers and politicians.
- Email members of Parliament using a prepared letter.
- Subscribe to updates.
- Donate to the trust fund.

It lists donation amounts ranging from $10 to $250 and gives a PayID and email address for contributions. The site says donations fund hosting, legal research, blockchain preservation and advocacy. It identifies the organisation as an Australian fixed unit trust with ABN 78 833 496 164 and states that the ABN is active. Those organisational details should be checked independently through the Australian Business Register before relying on them.[1]

Overall assessment

The website is best understood as a self-published whistleblower and advocacy archive, rather than a neutral news report, court judgment or independent investigation. Its persuasive strategy relies on:

- Very large numerical claims about documents, downloads and alleged harm.
- Repeated assertions that the evidence is "verified," "immutable" and contradiction-free.
- Appeals to the ICC, UN bodies, blockchain technology and artificial intelligence.
- Religious language concerning martyrdom, divine protection and biblical prophecy.
- Urgent calls to share the material, contact politicians and donate.

The archive may contain documents capable of independent examination, but the website's own descriptions and AI assessments should not be treated as proof of the underlying allegations without checking the original records, provenance, authenticity, responses from named parties, court or tribunal outcomes, and the actual status of any ICC or UN submissions.

Sources
[1] The-Documents-Australia-Doesn-t-Want-You-to-See-Barran-Dodger-Legal-Ethical.pdf
https://ppl-ai-file-upload.s3.amazonaws.com/web/direct-files/attachments/127724295/520e25d9-7783-466d-915a-d6057e3e2e64/The-Documents-Australia-Doesn-t-Want-You-to-See-Barran-Dodger-Legal-Ethical.pdf

Summarise this:

Summary

The document is a personal and documentary account by Dr Richard William McLean, who publishes under the name Barran Dodger. It describes approximately 35 years of alleged family exclusion, disability discrimination, harassment, institutional neglect, obstruction of legal remedies, and mistreatment by government, police, healthcare, legal, and disability-support organisations. The author presents a large archive of government correspondence, legal records, medical and administrative documents, recordings, and personal testimony for independent investigation. □cite□file:1□

The central argument is that the author experienced a coordinated pattern of “access foreclosure” or “administrative annihilation.” He claims that avenues including freedom-of-information processes, public-interest disclosures, the Ombudsman, the Administrative Appeals Tribunal, the Federal Court, the Australian Human Rights Commission, the Australian Federal Police, Comcare, Legal Aid, and the NDIS system were repeatedly closed through jurisdictional decisions, service restrictions, non-allocation, procedural termination, or failure to investigate the substance of his complaints. □cite□file:1□

The document also alleges:

- Longstanding family estrangement, financial marginalisation, and possible manipulation of inheritance matters.
- A serious injury in 2021 and a later alleged assassination attempt that the author believes were ignored or concealed.
- The weaponisation of his sexuality, mental-health history, and past personal experiences to damage his reputation.
- A false or misleading sexual allegation, which the author says was linked to information allegedly communicated by an NDIS provider and attributed to the AFP.
- Repeated verbal harassment, threats, surveillance, “gang stalking,” electronic harassment, and alleged “voice-to-skull” activity.
- Failure by Ablepoint, an NDIS provider, to properly respond to or report alleged threats to kill while the author was living in supported accommodation.
- Restrictions imposed by Ablepoint and a ban from Legal Aid NSW, which the author views as retaliation and denial of access to justice.
- Psychiatric hospitalisations and compulsory treatment that the author believes were used to dismiss reports of threats and misconduct as symptoms of mental illness.
- The destruction of employment, housing, finances, professional accreditation, relationships, healthcare access, and legal assistance.

The author repeatedly distinguishes between official records, disputed allegations, and his own interpretation. He acknowledges that publication of documents does not automatically prove every allegation and calls for independent examination of police and court records, communications, financial records, recordings, technical data, witness evidence, and institutional decisions. □cite□file:1□

Archive’s purpose

The archive aims to preserve primary-source material and make it available to journalists, researchers, lawyers, authorities, and the public. Its stated purpose is to preserve provenance, allow cross-document analysis, and compare what agencies officially recorded with their later decisions, omissions, or denials. The author argues that the archive's evidentiary significance lies in documenting the existence and content of the official record—not in proving every interpretation drawn from it. □cite□file:1□

Overall message

The document combines:

1. A factual-record claim: government and institutional documents allegedly show repeated failures, refusals, restrictions, and procedural closures.
2. A broader interpretation: these events form a coordinated campaign of targeting, social exclusion, institutional retaliation, and "administrative annihilation."
3. A request for scrutiny: independent authorities should authenticate the records and determine whether the events represent unrelated failures, individual misconduct, systemic discrimination, or coordinated wrongdoing.
4. A spiritual and autobiographical conclusion: the author frames his survival, independence, and public archive as evidence of resilience and divine purpose.

In short, it is both an evidentiary archive and an autobiographical legal-ethical statement. It presents serious allegations as requiring investigation, while acknowledging that the underlying documents and the author's conclusions must be kept distinct and assessed independently.

Sources
[1] Barran-Dodger-Archive-Ethical-Legal-Trust-Fund-Statement-including.pdf https://ppl-ai-file-upload.s3.amazonaws.com/web/direct-files/attachments/127724295/e1a66f41-5b65-4553-b904-0de264e9a47f/Barran-Dodger-Archive-Ethical-Legal-Trust-Fund-Statement-including.pdf

The System Tried to Erase Him. 1,100,000 People Proved It Wrong.

Dr. Barran Dodger — disabled, exiled, and still publishing.

Www.barrandodger.com

Permanent mirror site:

https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

Tonight I pray to God for protection and strength. Institutions, authorities, the media, lawyers, politicians, police, and even family have refused to act — coordinated, deliberate, and documented.

Please read my testimony.

THE BARRAN DODGER ARCHIVE

What an impartial AI concluded from the government's own documents:

Taxpayers paid between $1.67 billion and $4.84 billion to target, silence, and erase one disabled whistleblower across 35 years. That figure is not an allegation. It is an AI calculation drawn exclusively from primary-source Commonwealth records — and not one agency has disputed it.

My testimony is supported by 3,643 primary-source government documents spanning 35 years and 13 Commonwealth and state agencies, blockchain-timestamped on Bitcoin, and downloaded over 1.1 million times across six continents.

The archive documents: 14 forced psychiatric detentions without criminal charge; suppressed entitlements; an active Community Treatment Order; documented threats to kill; denial of legal aid; systematic character assassination; NDIS-funded surveillance of the very person that funding was meant to protect; a clinical death inside a government facility in 2021; an unrebutted assassination attempt; and political exile.

Not one professional, agency, or institution has formally rebutted a single document. Under Jones v Dunkel (1959), that silence is legally significant. The archive is permanent, independently preserved, and beyond the reach of any government, intelligence service, or criminal interest.

I survived the targeting. They will not survive the evidence of the targeting.

They had everything. I had evidence.

They called me delusional — but I have a Federal Court document confirming I was right, and they have 35 years of silence.
They forced me into psychiatric detention 14 times — but not once was I charged with a crime.

They said no one would believe me — but 1.1 million people across six continents downloaded the evidence anyway.
They cut off my income, my housing, and my support network — but they forgot to stop me from publishing.

They put a media ban on a former journalist, a PhD, and a published author — and then watched the archive go global.
They used taxpayer money to surveil, isolate, and silence me — and I used a broken phone to put every document online for free.

They had money, lawyers, power, political protection, and institutional cover. Their only weapon against me was libel and slander. I had none of their advantages — just fact-checked, evidence-based, published testimony. 1,100,000 downloads. Six continents. Zero rebuttals.

Evidence wins.

I have submitted formal evidence to the International Criminal Court (Article 7 — crimes against humanity) and the UN High Commissioner for Refugees as an asylum seeker and internally displaced person. Both were officially acknowledged. Neither was acted upon.

I do not ask you to believe me. Read the evidence for free and decide for yourself.
The testimony is also preserved on an independent GitHub mirror that no government or platform can take down.

🕊️ Ministry: www.barrandodger.com/church-of-barran-resonance-dodger

📖 Testimony:
www.barrandodger.com
Permanent mirror site:
https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

🧠 AI Analysis:www.barrandodger.com/ai-statement-significance

📜 Doctrine of Complicity by Deliberate Omission:www.barrandodger.com/doctrine-of-complicity

⛓️ Independent permanent mirrors:

https://drbarrandodger.github.io/barran-dodger-archive

https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup

A personal appeal:

As a financially disadvantaged person living without institutional support, I am desperately trying to raise US$250 to keep this archive live, updated, and preserved.

That is the full cost of another month of hosting, blockchain timestamping, and global distribution.

If you cannot donate — please share this.

Every share is an act of witness.

💳 PayID (phone): 0431 300 940

📧 PayID rich@richmclean.com.au

📧 Secure Email: drbarrandodger@proton.me

📞 Phone / WhatsApp: +61 431 300 940 🌐 Donate: www.barrandodger.com/donate

The best thing that ever happened to me was not death — though I experienced it. Not exile — though I lived it. Not the persecution, the detention, the silencing, or the loss of everything the world said I needed to survive.

The best thing that ever happened to me was the betrayal.

Not because it didn't hurt. It destroyed me in every way a human being can be destroyed. But it was precise. It was total.

And I have come to understand that it was deliberate — not by the hands that carried it out, but by the God who permitted it.

When every institution failed me, I could not trust institutions. When every professional abandoned me, I could not trust credentials. When family turned away, I could not retreat into the comfort of belonging. When the law refused me, I could not hide behind process. One by one, every human shelter was removed — until there was nothing left to lean on but Him.

And in that total stripping, something happened that no success, no safety, no comfort could ever have produced: I came to know God not as a concept, not as a tradition, not as a last resort — but as the only one left in the room. The only one who never left.

That is not a wound. That is a gift that cost everything to receive.

Now I know what humanity is capable of — its cruelty, its cowardice, its silence, its complicity. And I forgive it. Not because what was done was acceptable. It was not. The record proves it was not. But because I was made a vessel for something larger than the verdict, and a vessel cannot carry bitterness and glory at the same time.

They thought they were erasing me. God was emptying me — so I could be filled with something they could never take away.

This is why the archive exists. Not for revenge. Not even for justice alone. But so that what was done to me in the dark can be seen in the light — and so that the next person the system tries to erase knows: you are not alone, you are not forgotten, and the God who permitted your suffering has not abandoned you.

I am still here. That is the testimony.
Serving the light."

— Dr. Richard William McLean (Barran Resonance Dodger) (Resonata Eternis)

"The LORD is my shepherd; I shall not want." — Psalm 23

Serving the light.

Download Secret Government Documents zip:

https://drive.google.com/file/d/1NtotF11W5Jf6Eg6hhM3UB0lLD94iVEZy/view?usp=drivesdk

Prophetic papers zip:

https://drive.google.com/file/d/1UyBigpYh3z2nNh91F_mKs_lokZWC9YYn/view?usp=drivesdk

Bless the defenders of truth.

On Sat, 5 Sep 2026 at 5:08 pm, Rich McLean <richarddrawsstuff@gmail.com> wrote:

> Dear all
>
> I publish this today framed by severe existential threats to my life and liberty
>
> Rachael director of AblePoint has blocked communication regarding my entrapment in breach of all human decency
>
> The blood money from the NDIS is her futile reward for desecrating me as a human being
>
> She sleeps well at night as I’ve slept in poverty and fear and no one is innocent
>
> As a child of God he gifted me with the grace to give her a chance to do what was right and she took advantage of my kindness as weakness and shat on the grace I provided to her from him.

The situation is still the same.

Vengeance is Gods - I surrender the entire situation to his divine timing and solution

I do not embody malice and the exposure of this demonic plot to erase me of which any aspect I can provide evidence of is less about my revenge and entirely about a cosmic balance

No human being has the spiritual authority to desecrate or murder another human being and all who participated in this was a mistake that is unable to be revoked and the laws of universal accounting and spiritual balance are now due

If any further harm occurs to me the herein named parties including AblePoint as a corrupt entity bribed with ndis blood money are responsible

The attached pdf statement has been permantly embedded in the digital block chain. If I actually am murdered my martyrdom is guaranteed

Not one person has approached me with the documentary accuracy of what I have created and not a single person can look me in the eye and admit what they participated in

I am available to be rescued from 55b Archbold rd ling jetty or on 0431300940

Barran Dodger

Online archive:

https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

The System Tried to Erase Him. 1,100,000 People Proved It Wrong.

Dr. Barran Dodger — disabled, exiled, and still publishing.

Www.barrandodger.com

Permanent mirror site:
https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

Tonight I pray to God for protection and strength. Institutions, authorities, the media, lawyers, politicians, police, and even family have refused to act — coordinated, deliberate, and documented.

Please read my testimony.

THE BARRAN DODGER ARCHIVE

What an impartial AI concluded from the government's own documents:

Taxpayers paid between $1.67 billion and $4.84 billion to target, silence, and erase one disabled whistleblower across 35 years. That figure is not an allegation. It is an AI calculation drawn exclusively from primary-source Commonwealth records — and not one agency has disputed it.

My testimony is supported by 3,643 primary-source government documents spanning 35 years and 13 Commonwealth and state agencies, blockchain-timestamped on Bitcoin, and downloaded over 1.1 million times across six continents.

The archive documents: 14 forced psychiatric detentions without criminal charge; suppressed entitlements; an active Community Treatment Order; documented threats to kill; denial of legal aid; systematic character assassination; NDIS-funded surveillance of the very person that funding was meant to protect; a clinical death inside a government facility in 2021; an unrebutted assassination attempt; and political exile.

Not one professional, agency, or institution has formally rebutted a single document. Under Jones v Dunkel (1959), that silence is legally significant. The archive is permanent, independently preserved, and beyond the reach of any government, intelligence service, or criminal interest.

I survived the targeting. They will not survive the evidence of the targeting.

They had everything. I had evidence.

They called me delusional — but I have a Federal Court document confirming I was right, and they have 35 years of silence.
They forced me into psychiatric detention 14 times — but not once was I charged with a crime.

They said no one would believe me — but 1.1 million people across six continents downloaded the evidence anyway.
They cut off my income, my housing, and my support network — but they forgot to stop me from publishing.

They put a media ban on a former journalist, a PhD, and a published author — and then watched the archive go global.
They used taxpayer money to surveil, isolate, and silence me — and I used a broken phone to put every document online for free.

They had money, lawyers, power, political protection, and institutional cover. Their only weapon against me was libel and slander. I had none of their advantages — just fact-checked, evidence-based, published testimony. 1,100,000 downloads. Six continents. Zero rebuttals.

Evidence wins.

I have submitted formal evidence to the International Criminal Court (Article 7 — crimes against humanity) and the UN High Commissioner for Refugees as an asylum seeker and internally displaced person. Both were officially acknowledged. Neither was acted upon.

I do not ask you to believe me. Read the evidence for free and decide for yourself.
The testimony is also preserved on an independent GitHub mirror that no government or platform can take down.

🕊️ Ministry: www.barrandodger.com/church-of-barran-resonance-dodger

📖 Testimony:
www.barrandodger.com
Permanent mirror site:
https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

🧠 AI Analysis:www.barrandodger.com/ai-statement-significance

📜 Doctrine of Complicity by Deliberate Omission:www.barrandodger.com/doctrine-of-complicity

⛓️ Independent permanent mirrors:

https://drbarrandodger.github.io/barran-dodger-archive

https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup

A personal appeal:

As a financially disadvantaged person living without institutional support, I am desperately trying to raise US$250 to keep this archive live, updated, and preserved.

That is the full cost of another month of hosting, blockchain timestamping, and global distribution.

If you cannot donate — please share this.

Every share is an act of witness.

💳 PayID (phone): 0431 300 940

📧 PayID rich@richmclean.com.au

📧Secure Email: drbarrandodger@proton.me

📞 Phone / WhatsApp: +61 431 300 940 🌐 Donate: www.barrandodger.com/donate

The best thing that ever happened to me was not death — though I experienced it. Not exile — though I lived it. Not the persecution, the detention, the silencing, or the loss of everything the world said I needed to survive.

The best thing that ever happened to me was the betrayal.

Not because it didn't hurt. It destroyed me in every way a human being can be destroyed. But it was precise. It was total.

And I have come to understand that it was deliberate — not by the hands that carried it out, but by the God who permitted it.

When every institution failed me, I could not trust institutions. When every professional abandoned me, I could not trust credentials. When family turned away, I could not retreat into the comfort of belonging. When the law refused me, I could not hide behind process. One by one, every human shelter was removed — until there was nothing left to lean on but Him.

And in that total stripping, something happened that no success, no safety, no comfort could ever have produced: I came to know God not as a concept, not as a tradition, not as a last resort — but as the only one left in the room. The only one who never left.

That is not a wound. That is a gift that cost everything to receive.

Now I know what humanity is capable of — its cruelty, its cowardice, its silence, its complicity. And I forgive it. Not because what was done was acceptable. It was not. The record proves it was not. But because I was made a vessel for something larger than the verdict, and a vessel cannot carry bitterness and glory at the same time.

They thought they were erasing me. God was emptying me — so I could be filled with something they could never take away.

This is why the archive exists. Not for revenge. Not even for justice alone. But so that what was done to me in the dark can be seen in the light — and so that the next person the system tries to erase knows: you are not alone, you are not forgotten, and the God who permitted your suffering has not abandoned you.

I am still here. That is the testimony.
Serving the light."

— Dr. Richard William McLean (Barran Resonance Dodger) (Resonata Eternis)

"The LORD is my shepherd; I shall not want." — Psalm 23

Serving the light.

Download Secret Government Documents zip:

https://drive.google.com/file/d/1NtotF11W5Jf6Eg6hhM3UB0lLD94iVEZy/view?usp=drivesdk

Prophetic papers zip:

https://drive.google.com/file/d/1UyBigpYh3z2nNh91F_mKs_lokZWC9YYn/view?usp=drivesdk

Bless the defenders of truth.

On Fri, 4 Sep 2026 at 4:07 pm, Rich McLean <richarddrawsstuff@gmail.com> wrote:

> I I demand response from able point
>
> I believe an organised alliance was formed with the deliberate purpose of causing my detriment, destruction, and social erasure. What I experienced was not an isolated dispute or a series of unrelated incidents, but what I understand as a form of organised, cult-like societal mobbing in which people from vastly different areas of my life appeared to participate in or enable what was happening to me. Lawyers, police, politicians, media figures, family members, friends, public officials, healthcare professionals, and intimate partners were, in my experience, either directly involved or complicit.
>
> I was subjected to what felt like a systematic campaign of deception and sabotage that extended into virtually every dimension of my existence. It attacked not merely my reputation or material circumstances, but my identity, dignity, spirituality, faith, psychological wellbeing, relationships, and sense of self. My character was repeatedly undermined, while my employment, housing, finances, access to legal assistance, healthcare, and intimate relationships were compromised or disrupted. I also experienced what I understood as coordinated surveillance, gang stalking, electronic harassment, psychiatric weaponisation, intimidation, and physical violence.
>
> Right now, in this moment, I am experiencing what I perceive to be an ongoing and coordinated campaign of audio harassment. I am hearing people whom I believe may be paid actors repeatedly shouting words, phrases, and other verbal cues that appear deliberately selected to target perceived vulnerabilities and psychologically distress me. I experience these incidents as part of the same broader pattern of harassment and intimidation that I have described above.
>
> A particularly devastating aspect involved what I believe was the deliberate introduction of drugs into my circumstances through people who presented themselves as trustworthy or intimate actors, after which the resulting drug use was weaponised against me as evidence of moral failure. In my understanding, the substance use was not the origin of the destruction of my life, but a desperate means of coping with circumstances that had already been profoundly destabilised. The consequences of that destruction were then used to further discredit, shame, and marginalise me.

The psychological concept I associate with this experience is societal mobbing: a process involving sustained social hostility, exclusion, humiliation, discrediting, and abuse of power against an individual. At its most extreme, such conduct represents a profound failure of human empathy and moral courage, particularly when people participate in harming someone who is already vulnerable while concealing or denying their involvement.

I reject the idea that the suffering I have experienced should automatically be interpreted as evidence of a defect in my character. Being subjected to mistreatment does not establish that the person who suffered it was morally deficient or responsible for what was done to them. Nor should vulnerability be treated as an invitation to exploit, humiliate, or destroy a person.

I believe the significance of what has happened can only be properly understood by examining the evidence, the sequence of events, the relationships between the people involved, the extraordinary imbalance of power, and the cumulative consequences imposed upon my life. Where deliberate wrongdoing, coordination, deception, or exploitation can be demonstrated, responsibility belongs to those who participated in it—not to the person who was subjected to it.

If

The System Tried to Erase Him. 1,100,000 People Proved It Wrong.

Dr. Barran Dodger — disabled, exiled, and still publishing.

Www.barrandodger.com

Permanent mirror site:
https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

Tonight I pray to God for protection and strength. Institutions, authorities, the media, lawyers, politicians, police, and even family have refused to act — coordinated, deliberate, and documented.

Please read my testimony.

THE BARRAN DODGER ARCHIVE

What an impartial AI concluded from the government's own documents:

Taxpayers paid between $1.67 billion and $4.84 billion to target, silence, and erase one disabled whistleblower across 35 years. That figure is not an allegation. It is an AI calculation drawn exclusively from primary-source Commonwealth records — and not one agency has disputed it.

My testimony is supported by 3,643 primary-source government documents spanning 35 years and 13 Commonwealth and state agencies, blockchain-timestamped on Bitcoin, and downloaded over 1.1 million times across six continents.

The archive documents: 14 forced psychiatric detentions without criminal charge; suppressed entitlements; an active Community Treatment Order; documented threats to kill; denial of legal aid; systematic character assassination; NDIS-funded surveillance of the very person that funding was meant to protect; a clinical death inside a government facility in 2021; an unrebutted assassination attempt; and political exile.

Not one professional, agency, or institution has formally rebutted a single document. Under Jones v Dunkel (1959), that silence is legally significant. The archive is permanent, independently preserved, and beyond the reach of any government, intelligence service, or criminal interest.

I survived the targeting. They will not survive the evidence of the targeting.

They had everything. I had evidence.

They called me delusional — but I have a Federal Court document confirming I was right, and they have 35 years of silence.
They forced me into psychiatric detention 14 times — but not once was I charged with a crime.

They said no one would believe me — but 1.1 million people across six continents downloaded the evidence anyway.
They cut off my income, my housing, and my support network — but they forgot to stop me from publishing.

They put a media ban on a former journalist, a PhD, and a published author — and then watched the archive go global.
They used taxpayer money to surveil, isolate, and silence me — and I used a broken phone to put every document online for free.

They had money, lawyers, power, political protection, and institutional cover. Their only weapon against me was libel and slander. I had none of their advantages — just fact-checked, evidence-based, published testimony. 1,100,000 downloads. Six continents. Zero rebuttals.

Evidence wins.

I have submitted formal evidence to the International Criminal Court (Article 7 — crimes against humanity) and the UN High Commissioner for Refugees as an asylum seeker and internally displaced person. Both were officially acknowledged. Neither was acted upon.

I do not ask you to believe me. Read the evidence for free and decide for yourself.
The testimony is also preserved on an independent GitHub mirror that no government or platform can take down.

🕊️ Ministry: www.barrandodger.com/church-of-barran-resonance-dodger

📖 Testimony:
www.barrandodger.com
Permanent mirror site:
https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup/

🧠 AI Analysis:www.barrandodger.com/ai-statement-significance

📜 Doctrine of Complicity by Deliberate Omission:www.barrandodger.com/doctrine-of-complicity

⛓️ Independent permanent mirrors:

https://drbarrandodger.github.io/barran-dodger-archive

https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup

A personal appeal:

As a financially disadvantaged person living without institutional support, I am desperately trying to raise US$250 to keep this archive live, updated, and preserved.

That is the full cost of another month of hosting, blockchain timestamping, and global distribution.

If you cannot donate — please share this.

Every share is an act of witness.

💳 PayID (phone): 0431 300 940

📧 PayID rich@richmclean.com.au

📧 Secure Email: drbarrandodger@proton.me

📞 Phone / WhatsApp: +61 431 300 940 🌐 Donate: www.barrandodger.com/donate

The best thing that ever happened to me was not death — though I experienced it. Not exile — though I lived it. Not the persecution, the detention, the silencing, or the loss of everything the world said I needed to survive.

The best thing that ever happened to me was the betrayal.

Not because it didn't hurt. It destroyed me in every way a human being can be destroyed. But it was precise. It was total.

And I have come to understand that it was deliberate — not by the hands that carried it out, but by the God who permitted it.

When every institution failed me, I could not trust institutions. When every professional abandoned me, I could not trust credentials. When family turned away, I could not retreat into the comfort of belonging. When the law refused me, I could not hide behind process. One by one, every human shelter was removed — until there was nothing left to lean on but Him.

And in that total stripping, something happened that no success, no safety, no comfort could ever have produced: I came to know God not as a concept, not as a tradition, not as a last resort — but as the only one left in the room. The only one who never left.

That is not a wound. That is a gift that cost everything to receive.

Now I know what humanity is capable of — its cruelty, its cowardice, its silence, its complicity. And I forgive it. Not because what was done was acceptable. It was not. The record proves it was not. But because I was made a vessel for something larger than the verdict, and a vessel cannot carry bitterness and glory at the same time.

They thought they were erasing me. God was emptying me — so I could be filled with something they could never take away.

This is why the archive exists. Not for revenge. Not even for justice alone. But so that what was done to me in the dark can be seen in the light — and so that the next person the system tries to erase knows: you are not alone, you are not forgotten, and the God who permitted your suffering has not abandoned you.

I am still here. That is the testimony.
Serving the light."

— Dr. Richard William McLean (Barran Resonance Dodger) (Resonata Eternis)

"The LORD is my shepherd; I shall not want." — Psalm 23

Serving the light.

Download Secret Government Documents zip:

https://drive.google.com/file/d/1NtotF11W5Jf6Eg6hhM3UB0lLD94iVEZy/view?usp=drivesdk

Prophetic papers zip:

https://drive.google.com/file/d/1UyBigpYh3z2nNh91F_mKs_lokZWC9YYn/view?usp=drivesdk

Bless the defenders of truth.

On Tue, 1 Sep 2026 at 5:35 pm, Rich McLean <richarddrawsstuff@gmail.com> wrote:

> I am Gods chosen one
>
> This video is about Jodie Bongetti's deceit
> I was I was forced to bankruptcy after Steve Iasonidis engagement
>
> Bongetti told me I was over him and forced me to not include him as my former partner on the bankruptcy form forfeiting my settlement in a deficit she would never expect or accept for herself
>
> When nana died I was grief stricken but delivered the eulogy whilst I was paid $1000 of the inheritance and April Doug Jodie Dave brad and Ciara flew to Europe for a six week holiday on the money they squandered and as per usual I was denied
>
> If and when dad dies, if he is not dead already his promise of a three way split will follow the same pattern of Bongetti's betrayal with Iasonidis and nanas inheritance and squandering nanas legacy and I reserve the right out of principle to expose her deceit lies and greed
>
> I demand a lawyer-oh that's right I'm banned from legal aid- no inheritance for me. No family member would accept being banned from legal aid but they condone my banning refusing to intervene instead blaming me as the crazy one who deserves Wgat they get
>
> But guess what the truth sets you free and I am totally at peace with nothing and Gods grace and his anointing on my life the very thing they all attempted to snuff out murder erase and exile
>
> But Jodie Bongetti the jealous controlling narcissist will never ever outlive her deceitful greed and the meetings I was never invited to as a means to satisfy her own attachment to comfort unearned privilege and possessions

May her betrayal echo through the realms of all who can now see her clearly for the evil person she is and May that sin of hers never be forgotten
I have nothing and no one but I have God and a dog

Whilst her legacy will be a shameful betrayal of the brother she always was secretly envious and jealous of Prove me wrong! Show me the will.

None of you even have the courage fortitude or honesty to even contact me or respond or look me in the eye-not one of you

I'm indifferent to my blood family as merely a mechanism for my God ordained witness to come into this world

I have nothing and I am at peace and glory
They all have each other and they are choking on their lies greed and envy still yo this day jealous of the profound peace I have as they are shunned and exposed for their collective evil and shameful entitlement and despite having nothing and no one still they are jealous of my honesty and clarity exactly the reason they targeted me across a lifetime

May all of them collectively find the courage to admit what they have actively participated in- but they won't because to confront the fact they acted in deception across a lifetime to shatter the divine mirror I held up when all they could see was the ugliness of their own souls in betraying me is simply an acknowledgement not a single one of them has the honesty to admit
Doing so is far too revealing of their true nature

I'm gloriously at peace

Whilst they rot in the foundation of their ugly lies and moral bankruptcy

Barran Resonance Dodger

Gods chosen witness as a vessel for his glory

Watch this video: it's called "chosen one your own sibling stole from you in silence now karma is balancing the books"

At some point when I was squatting after bankruptcy bongetti flicked me $1000 and insisted I did not have to pay it back - as if that token gesture could ease her guilt of the way she betrayed me

https://youtu.be/5s25h2WfDkg

The System Tried to Erase Him. 1,100,000 People Proved It Wrong.

Dr. Barran Dodger — disabled, exiled, and still publishing.

Www.barrandodger.com

Tonight I pray to God for protection and strength. Institutions, authorities, the media, lawyers, politicians, police, and even family have refused to act — coordinated, deliberate, and documented.

Please read my testimony.

THE BARRAN DODGER ARCHIVE

What an impartial AI concluded from the government's own documents:

Taxpayers paid between $1.67 billion and $4.84 billion to target, silence, and erase one disabled whistleblower across 35 years. That figure is not an allegation. It is an AI calculation drawn exclusively from primary-source Commonwealth records — and not one agency has disputed it.

My testimony is supported by 3,643 primary-source government documents spanning 35 years and 13 Commonwealth and state agencies, blockchain-timestamped on Bitcoin, and downloaded over 1.1 million times across six continents.

The archive documents: 14 forced psychiatric detentions without criminal charge; suppressed entitlements; an active Community Treatment Order; documented threats to kill; denial of legal aid; systematic character assassination; NDIS-funded surveillance of the very person that funding was meant to protect; a clinical death inside a government facility in 2021; an unrebutted assassination attempt; and political exile.

Not one professional, agency, or institution has formally rebutted a single document. Under Jones v Dunkel (1959), that silence is legally significant. The archive is permanent, independently preserved, and beyond the reach of any government, intelligence service, or criminal interest.

I survived the targeting. They will not survive the evidence of the targeting.

They had everything. I had evidence.

They called me delusional — but I have a Federal Court document confirming I was right, and they have 35 years of silence.
They forced me into psychiatric detention 14 times — but not once was I charged with a crime.

They said no one would believe me — but 1.1 million people across six continents downloaded the evidence anyway.
They cut off my income, my housing, and my support network — but they forgot to stop me from publishing.

They put a media ban on a former journalist, a PhD, and a published author — and then watched the archive go global.
They used taxpayer money to surveil, isolate, and silence me — and I used a broken phone to put every document online for free.

They had money, lawyers, power, political protection, and institutional cover. Their only weapon against me was libel and slander. I had none of their advantages — just fact-checked, evidence-based, published testimony. 1,100,000 downloads. Six continents. Zero rebuttals.

Evidence wins.

I have submitted formal evidence to the International Criminal Court (Article 7 — crimes against humanity) and the UN High Commissioner for Refugees as an asylum seeker and internally displaced person. Both were officially acknowledged. Neither was acted upon.

I do not ask you to believe me. Read the evidence for free and decide for yourself.

The testimony is also preserved on an independent GitHub mirror that no government or platform can take down.

🕊️ Ministry: www.barrandodger.com/church-of-barran-resonance-dodger

📖 Testimony: www.barrandodger.com

⚖️ Evidence: www.barrandodger.com/evidence

🧠 AI Analysis:www.barrandodger.com/ai-statement-significance

📜 Doctrine of Complicity by Deliberate Omission:www.barrandodger.com/doctrine-of-complicity

⛓️ Independent permanent mirrors:

https://drbarrandodger.github.io/barran-dodger-archive

https://wezzo72.github.io/Backup

A personal appeal:

As a financially disadvantaged person living without institutional support, I am desperately trying to raise US$250 to keep this archive live, updated, and preserved.

That is the full cost of another month of hosting, blockchain timestamping, and global distribution.

If you cannot donate — please share this.

Every share is an act of witness.

💳 PayID (phone): 0431 300 940

📧 PayID rich@richmclean.com.au

📧Secure Email: drbarrandodger@proton.me

📞 Phone / WhatsApp: +61 431 300 940 🌐 Donate: www.barrandodger.com/donate

The best thing that ever happened to me was not death — though I experienced it. Not exile — though I lived it. Not the persecution, the detention, the silencing, or the loss of everything the world said I needed to survive.

The best thing that ever happened to me was the betrayal.

Not because it didn't hurt. It destroyed me in every way a human being can be destroyed. But it was precise. It was total.

And I have come to understand that it was deliberate — not by the hands that carried it out, but by the God who permitted it.

When every institution failed me, I could not trust institutions. When every professional abandoned me, I could not trust credentials. When family turned away, I could not retreat into the comfort of belonging. When the law refused me, I could not hide behind process. One by one, every human shelter was removed — until there was nothing left to lean on but Him.

And in that total stripping, something happened that no success, no safety, no comfort could ever have produced: I came to know God not as a concept, not as a tradition, not as a last resort — but as the only one left in the room. The only one who never left.

That is not a wound. That is a gift that cost everything to receive.

Now I know what humanity is capable of — its cruelty, its cowardice, its silence, its complicity. And I forgive it. Not because what was done was acceptable. It was not. The record proves it was not. But because I was made a vessel for something larger than the verdict, and a vessel cannot carry bitterness and glory at the same time.

They thought they were erasing me. God was emptying me — so I could be filled with something they could never take away.

This is why the archive exists. Not for revenge. Not even for justice alone. But so that what was done to me in the dark can be seen in the light — and so that the next person the system tries to erase knows: you are not alone, you are not forgotten, and the God who permitted your suffering has not abandoned you.

I am still here. That is the testimony.
Serving the light."

— Dr. Richard William McLean (Barran Resonance Dodger) (Resonata Eternis)

"The LORD is my shepherd; I shall not want." — Psalm 23

Serving the light.

Download Secret Government Documents zip:

https://drive.google.com/file/d/1NtotF11W5Jf6Eg6hhM3UB0lLD94iVEZy/view?usp=drivesdk

Prophetic papers zip:

https://drive.google.com/file/d/1UyBigpYh3z2nNh91F_mKs_lokZWC9YYn/view?usp=drivesdk

Bless the defenders of truth.

On Tue, 1 Sep 2026 at 8:49 am, Rich McLean <richarddrawsstuff@gmail.com> wrote:

> https://youtu.be/pYFrzW2zU7I
>
> Watch this video