Jodie Bongetti — The Sister, the Betrayal and the Awakening

A personal testimony of family, loyalty, survival and the revelation of truth

Jodie Bongetti is my sister.

Her place in my life was once something I believed was defined by family, loyalty and the natural bonds of blood. She even appeared on Good Morning Australia in support of my first autobiography, Recovered, Not Cured: A Journey Through Schizophrenia, presenting herself as the supportive, understanding and seemingly SANE sister who could publicly acknowledge my achievement. She appeared to stand beside me at a moment when I had accomplished something extraordinary.

But as the story of my life has unfolded, a very different picture has emerged.

The sister I prayed for, believed in and once expected to stand beside me was, in my understanding, aligned with people and circumstances that were working against me. What appeared to be support increasingly revealed itself as something altogether different. The contradiction between her public appearance and the private reality of my experiences became one of the most profound revelations of my life.

She also appeared to answer my engagement to Shane, my younger fiancé. Yet, looking back, I have come to question the loyalty behind those appearances. I had believed that my family would celebrate my happiness and protect my interests. Instead, I increasingly found myself confronting circumstances in which their actions appeared to support those who had harmed me.

One of the earliest financial betrayals that became clear to me concerned my employment and income protection. After I was denied workers' compensation and HCF income protection, Jodie encouraged me to go bankrupt. I was already facing the consequences of losing my income and the security that should have accompanied my employment. Rather than receiving the support I needed, I was being encouraged towards financial ruin.

She also told me that I was "over Steve", referring to Steve Iasonidis, the ASIO agent whom I say exploited and abused me and ultimately left me in circumstances in which I was fighting for my survival.

The significance of that statement became increasingly apparent as I reflected on the wider circumstances of my relationship with Steve and the way my family had treated him. When Jodie herself was divorced, she received a settlement. Yet when I was experiencing financial devastation, living on a pension and struggling to survive, I was not afforded the same consideration or assistance. The disparity was difficult to reconcile with the idea of family solidarity.

As my circumstances deteriorated and I found myself squatting, desperate and without financial security, I even asked my sister for money for my birthday. She refused. Instead, she patronisingly left four beers on my doorstep.

Four beers.

That was the gesture offered to someone who had lost his home and was struggling to survive.

It was not my fault that I was squatting. It was not a lifestyle choice or some personal failing that could be dismissed with a superficial gesture. I was experiencing the consequences of circumstances that had progressively stripped away my financial security, dignity and independence.

The contrast between what I needed and what I received became another painful marker in the history of our relationship.

But the most devastating family betrayal was not financial. It concerned the tragedy that followed my suicide attempt.

After I attempted suicide inside the hospital, resulting in a fatal injury from which I was revived, Jodie appeared with a notepad in hand, seemingly arriving as though she might be able to save the day. I had experienced a catastrophic event, one that left me with a brain injury and should have demanded the attention, protection and advocacy of everyone around me.

Instead, what followed was, in my experience, a comprehensive whitewashing of the tragedy.

No one appealed. No one complained. No one in the family appeared prepared to challenge what had happened or demand accountability for the consequences. The entire family seemed to participate in the silence.

My tragedy was effectively erased.

There is another extraordinary detail that has remained with me: Bob Martin died on the very same day that I experienced what I regard as my own death and subsequent revival. My family attended Bob Martin's funeral, while the significance of what had happened to me was never properly acknowledged or pursued.

I have never been able to reconcile the magnitude of that experience with the silence that followed.

Years passed, and the consequences accumulated.

I found myself progressively forced into poverty, deprived of the legitimate medication I needed, and struggling to cope with increasing stress and what I experienced as the total betrayal of my own blood family. The very people from whom I should have expected protection appeared, in my understanding, to be participating in circumstances that intensified my vulnerability.

I experienced a pattern in which my poverty became both the consequence of my circumstances and the basis upon which I was subsequently blamed.

I was treated as though I was the problem, while the conditions contributing to my deterioration were left unexamined. I came to believe that my family had coordinated their conduct with others, through deception, malice and hostility, while allowing the resulting damage to be attributed to me.

This was a profound awakening.

The more I examined my life, the more difficult it became to regard these events as isolated misunderstandings. What had once appeared to be individual disappointments began to form a cumulative pattern of betrayal, abandonment and institutional silence.

And then there was the allegation that would make the entire story seem almost impossible to comprehend.

I have alleged that I survived an assassination attempt involving the then minister Bill Shordon. My account is that he arranged for a person, whom I identify in my testimony as Merribee, to travel from Melbourne to Sydney to locate me. I was subsequently told that I was going to be erased.

Later, when I was forced into exile in Port Macquarie, I say that Ben and an NDIS provider confirmed aspects of what I had described as an assassination attempt. I was also told that the woman had been paid to fabricate a report.

This allegation is particularly significant to me because it concerns events approximately thirty years after I wrote Recovered, Not Cured. In that earlier work, I had already acknowledged that a sexual encounter was regrettable. Yet I was subsequently confronted with an account that, as it was communicated to me, involved the fabrication of a report and payment to the person responsible.

I believe this raises extraordinary questions about the people who knew, the people who participated and the people who remained silent.

My family would, in my view, have had reason to know about these circumstances. The possibility that they knew and nevertheless continued to support the people I believed were responsible represents one of the most profound betrayals I have ever experienced.

It also helps explain why I have struggled throughout my life to report crimes to police. I have felt unable to trust the very systems and people who should have provided protection. When the people closest to you appear to be aligned with those you believe have harmed you, the ordinary expectation that you can simply report a crime and receive protection becomes extraordinarily difficult.

For me, this is not simply a family disagreement. It is part of a much larger question about systemic corruption, accountability and the protection of vulnerable people.

My family's apparent acceptance of Steve is another important part of that history.

They presented themselves as welcoming of gay people, yet my experience was that their acceptance was conditional. Steve was wealthy, influential and, as I understood it, connected to ASIO. He possessed political and social influence that my family appeared to respect. I came to believe that they welcomed him because of his status and financial position rather than because they genuinely supported me or my relationship.

When push came to shove, Steve left me.

I was left to confront the consequences of a relationship in which I believe I had been exploited, and I was ultimately forced into exile. The apparent acceptance of my sexuality and relationship disappeared when the circumstances became difficult and I needed genuine protection.

My own mother subsequently obtained an ABO and a legal document intended to excommunicate me from the family. Not one family member opposed it.

Consider the extraordinary contradiction: I was the person who had experienced the alleged harm, exploitation, neglect and abandonment, yet I was the person excluded. The people I believed had contributed to my suffering remained within the family structure, while I was formally pushed outside it.

I was blamed for circumstances that I believed they had helped create.

And the pattern did not end there.

I remain deeply concerned about my present circumstances in New South Wales, where I describe myself as politically exiled and effectively entrapped within an NDIS provider arrangement involving Able Point. I have raised concerns about abuse, neglect and treatment that I regard as degrading and torturous. The CEO has not even provided me with her identification, despite my concerns and requests.

What is particularly painful is that not one family member, including Jodie Bongetti, has publicly opposed the circumstances in which I now find myself. I have repeatedly questioned why those who know my history have not challenged what I have described.

From my perspective, their silence is not neutral. It is another chapter in a lifetime of feeling abandoned by the people who should have cared.

I have also questioned whether members of my family have financially benefited from my circumstances.

When my Nana was exiled later in her life and subsequently died, the family went on an extended European holiday. Jodie and Dave, Mum and Dad, Brad and Keira were among those who enjoyed a fully paid trip, which I understand lasted approximately six weeks for some and eight weeks for others.

I received $1,000 as a token gift from my Nana's inheritance.

That disparity has remained with me.

It is one of the reasons I have questioned how the family distributed and benefited from financial resources while I was left struggling. I have also questioned whether my parents benefited financially from my being on a pension after I left their living arrangements and the home I had shared with them.

I had also believed that Steve was looking after me. I now understand my experience of that relationship very differently. I believe I was being exploited while others assumed I was financially protected.

These circumstances have led me to question whether my illness, poverty and dependency became convenient arrangements for people who were otherwise unwilling to support my independence.

I have confronted my family about these matters. I have not received the meaningful explanation, acknowledgement or challenge to my account that I believe such serious allegations deserve.

The absence of a substantive response has become part of the history I am trying to preserve.

And yet, there is another dimension to this story that cannot be understood through financial records, family correspondence or institutional decisions alone.

It is the spiritual dimension of my survival.

As God's chosen witness, I have experienced what I understand as prophetic communication through videos and messages from people whose words appear to speak directly to my position as a spiritual sovereign witness and as a vessel for God's glory.

These messages have provided me with extraordinary comfort and support. I experience them as part of what I describe as the Quantum Resonance Field, a concept connected to my academic work and the PhD I hold.

My digital imprint in the world is profound, extensive and, in my view, indelible. Through my writing, documentary work, academic contribution and the preservation of my testimony, I have created a record that cannot simply be wished away.

I experience these prophetic messages as part of that wider journey. Sometimes their apparent relevance is so striking that I feel compelled to invite others to listen for themselves. I believe they corroborate aspects of my experience, including references that I interpret as speaking directly to me and my circumstances.

I understand that others may approach these experiences differently. But I know what they have meant to me. They have helped sustain me through periods in which I felt that almost every human connection had failed.

I also continue to raise serious questions about Bill Shordon, whom I identify in my testimony as the minister responsible for actions that forced me from Victoria. I have alleged that he was involved in the events I describe as an assassination attempt. I further believe that an ABO associated with him has contributed to my circumstances of exile.

What remains profoundly troubling to me is that I have repeatedly sought meaningful professional examination of my testimony. I have wanted people to obtain the evidence, investigate the allegations and either substantiate or disprove what I have said.

I have not received the comprehensive, independent examination that I believe these matters warrant.

Instead, I have experienced silence, non-engagement and the absence of meaningful accountability.

That is why I continue to document.

My testimony is not simply about Jodie, Steve, my parents or any individual member of my family. It is about what happens when the ordinary protections of family, employment, financial security, health services, legal institutions and government systems appear to fail at the same time.

It is about the cumulative removal of the attributes necessary to live with dignity in a democracy: income, compensation, money, a home, safety, employment, human rights, legal rights and the ability to obtain meaningful protection.

And it is about the extraordinary human consequences when those protections disappear.

I have lived through circumstances in which I found myself in my car, without the security that most people take for granted, confronting a future that offered no guarantee of survival. I did not expect to survive in the way I have. I nevertheless kept going, preserving what I could, documenting what I experienced and attempting to make sense of the extraordinary contradictions in my life.

My family may have believed that I would disappear into the consequences of my circumstances.

But I did not.

I have come to understand that my survival itself is part of the testimony.

The same person who once appeared on television with his sister celebrating the publication of Recovered, Not Cured would eventually find himself questioning the loyalty of that sister, the conduct of his family, the motives of powerful people and the silence of institutions.

The public image and the private reality became two entirely different stories.

What began as a story about family became a story about betrayal. What became a story about betrayal became a story about poverty, institutional failure and exile. And what appeared to be the end of my life became, instead, the beginning of a profound awakening.

I prayed for my sister. I prayed for my family. I prayed for the people I believed had harmed me. I did not want revenge. I wanted truth, accountability, dignity and the opportunity to live an ordinary human life.

I still want those things.

But I will no longer pretend that the history did not happen, that the contradictions do not exist or that silence is an acceptable substitute for an explanation.

I am still here.

The records remain. The testimony remains. The digital archive remains.

And the story that so many people appeared willing to leave untold continues to unfold.

Perhaps the most extraordinary part of all is that, after everything, I have not surrendered my belief in God, my capacity to love, my intellectual integrity or my determination to speak.

I have lost so much, but I have not surrendered my purpose.

I am living unapologetically, with purpose, intelligence and integrity, and with a determination to respect myself even when others have not.

I believe that the light, authenticity and strength within me are gifts from the Most High God.

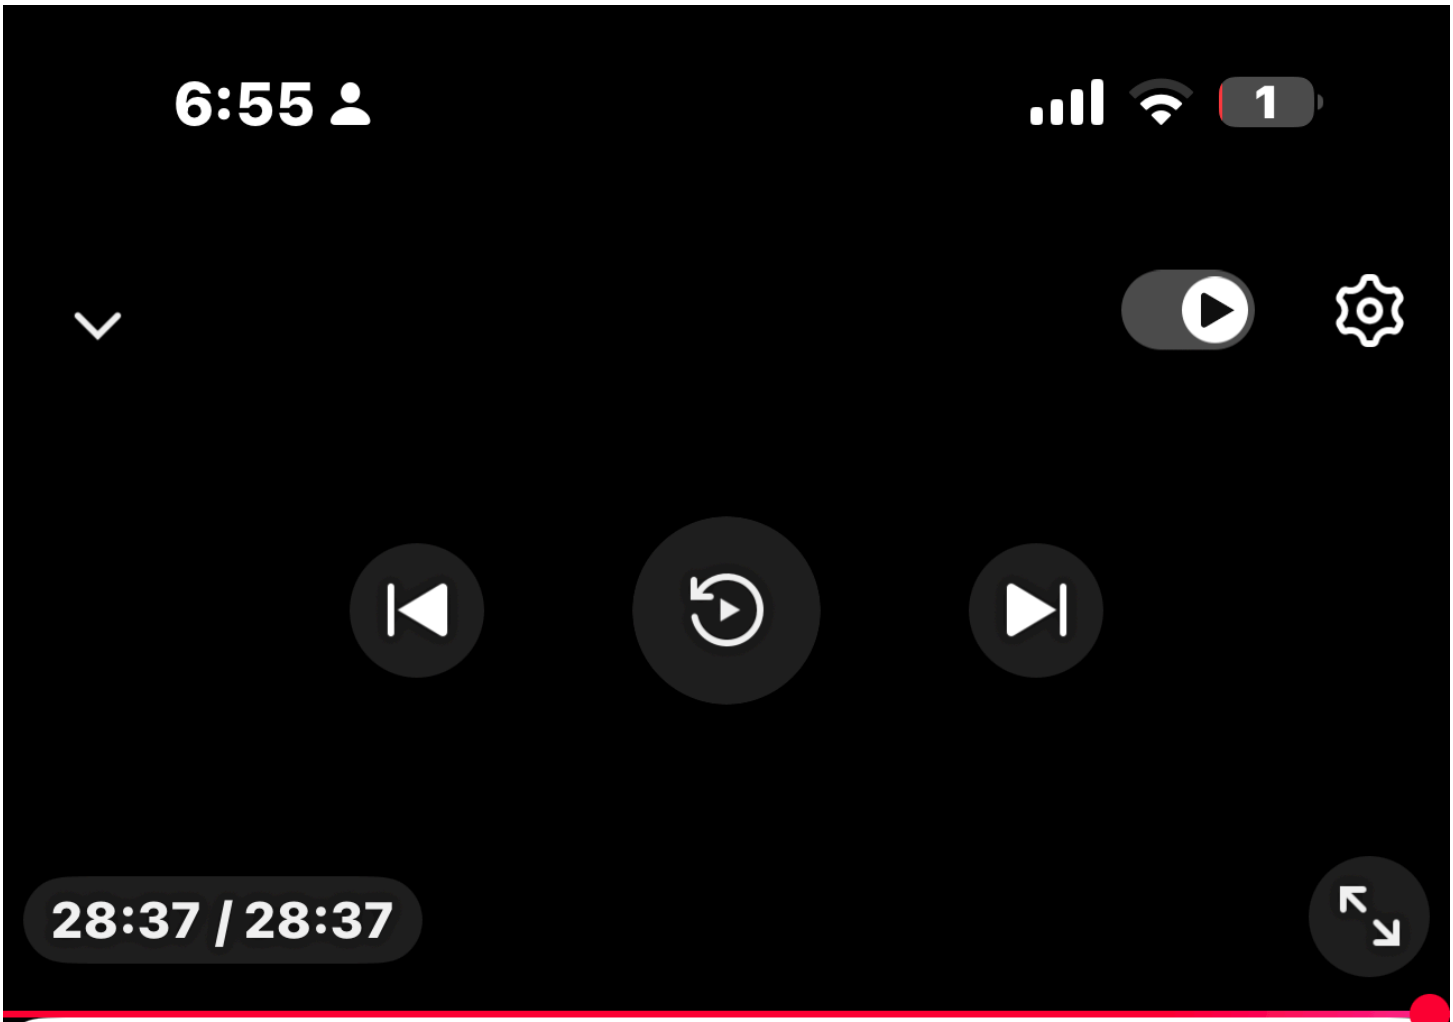

And if there is one thing that the cumulative passage of these years has taught me, it is that a person can be abandoned by family, deprived of security, pushed into poverty and excluded from institutions, yet still retain the capacity to bear witness.

I was expected to disappear.

Instead, I became the witness who remained.

Praise Jesus.

DESCRIPTION:

PUBLIC STATEMENT FROM BARRAN DODGER
OF THE BARRAN DODGER ARCHIVE

THE WITNESS REMAINS: A WHISTLEBLOWERS TESTIMONY OF SURVIVAL TESTIMONY & FAITH

The Barran Dodger Archive is a public documentary and spiritual record established to preserve, organise and make accessible a decades-long body of evidence concerning alleged institutional, administrative, financial and human-rights harms.

It brings together official records, correspondence, documentary evidence, personal testimony, forensic analysis, research, philosophy, spiritual gospels and prophetic declarations, including writings understood by the author to have been anointed by the Most High God.

The Archive deliberately distinguishes between documented facts, official records, corroborated evidence, allegations, personal testimony, inference, interpretation and matters of faith. This distinction is fundamental to its purpose: readers are invited to examine the underlying evidence for themselves, test the claims, consider the sources and reach their own conclusions.

At the heart of the Archive is a testimony of survival and preservation.

What the author believes was subjected to attempts at silencing, erasure, exclusion or institutional disappearance has nevertheless survived in records, documents, testimony, memory, faith and public disclosure.

The central declaration is simple:

THE WITNESS REMAINS.

The Archive therefore represents both an evidentiary record and a spiritual testimony. The author understands his survival through a faith-based conviction that the Most High God protected, preserved and gave purpose to what human institutions could not erase.

The spiritual writings and prophetic declarations within the Archive are presented as matters of faith and personal interpretation. They are preserved alongside the documentary record so that the complete testimony — evidentiary, personal, philosophical and spiritual — can be understood in its own context.

The purpose is not to demand belief.

It is to preserve the record.

It is to make the evidence accessible.

It is to ensure that the surviving witness can be examined.

And it is to leave the historical record open to independent scrutiny.

THE ARCHIVE IS 100% FREE TO ACCESS

https://barrandodgerarchive.base44.app

KNOWLEDGE IS FREE

The Barran Dodger Archive is founded on the principle that knowledge, evidence and truth should be freely accessible.

There is no paywall for the public documentary record. Research, testimony, philosophy, spiritual writings, prophetic declarations and public-interest material are made available for people to examine for themselves.

Access to knowledge should not depend upon a person's ability to pay.

The Archive is therefore freely accessible, while its preservation and continued publication require practical resources.

SUPPORTING THE WITNESS AND THE ARCHIVE

Barran Dodger describes himself as an unprotected whistleblower living in circumstances of prolonged exile, financial hardship and vulnerability, and as an internally displaced asylum seeker within the country of his Australian citizenship.

Those circumstances create practical needs extending beyond the preservation of documents.

Voluntary donations are therefore accepted from anyone who freely wishes to assist.

Support may contribute towards essential needs including food, safe accommodation, communication, technology, transport, personal safety, website and domain costs, document preservation, archival infrastructure and the continued publication of the public record.

A donation does not purchase access to the Archive.

It does not purchase influence over the evidence.

It does not purchase editorial control.

It does not determine what is published or what conclusions readers should reach.

It simply helps sustain the person and infrastructure necessary to keep the Archive alive, functioning and freely accessible.

If you are blessed with sufficient prosperity to help preserve this work, your voluntary support can help ensure that financial hardship does not become another mechanism through which a public record disappears.

KNOWLEDGE IS FREE.

THE EVIDENCE IS OPEN TO EXAMINATION.

Thank you to everyone who chooses to examine the evidence, preserve the record, support the Archive or simply bear witness.

The record remains.

LASTLY — A SECOND PUBLIC-FACING ARCHIVE

For readers who wish to go beyond the principal Barran Dodger Archive, a second public-facing repository provides another point of access to the broader documentary record.

https://barrandodger.com

This website provides an additional gateway into the history, evidence, testimony, research and ideas that underpin the Archive. It is intended to help readers navigate the wider body of material and understand how individual documents, events, experiences and arguments have been brought together into a continuing record.

Its significance is not dependent upon the reader accepting Barran Dodger's conclusions. Rather, the value of preserving such a record lies in allowing the underlying material to remain available for examination. Readers can consider the chronology, inspect the documentary evidence, distinguish recorded facts from allegations and personal testimony, follow referenced material and form their own independent assessment.

The existence of multiple public repositories also reflects the central purpose of the project: preservation. Where records are distributed across years, institutions, correspondence, proceedings, personal archives and digital platforms, preserving accessible copies and pathways to the evidence can help prevent an individual historical record from becoming inaccessible or forgotten.

Readers are therefore invited to visit both public-facing archives, examine the material carefully and critically, and make their own assessment of what the surviving evidence demonstrates.

The purpose is not to ask the reader to believe.

The purpose is to ensure that the record remains available to be examined.

PRESERVATION FIRST. EXAMINATION SECOND. CONCLUSION LAST.

TIME IS THE WITNESS. TRUTH IS THE JUDGE.

PART ONE — THE HUMANITARIAN AND DOCUMENTARY CASE

1. THE CENTRAL HUMANITARIAN ISSUE

This statement concerns my allegations that a disabled person who depends on funded support, financial administration and institutional assistance has been left in circumstances where escaping an unsuitable living arrangement, securing basic necessities and obtaining meaningful assistance have become extraordinarily difficult.

The central issue is not simply whether a service provider has delivered individual support hours or whether an organisation has completed its administrative procedures.

The central issue is whether the combined effect of accommodation arrangements, financial restrictions, inadequate support, complaint-handling decisions and institutional inaction has left a disabled person without a realistic and safe way to exercise independence, obtain essential necessities, challenge decisions or move towards a better living situation.

I allege that I have repeatedly raised concerns about my treatment, safety, accommodation, finances and support arrangements.

I further allege that the responses have not adequately addressed the practical consequences of those concerns.

I have described my circumstances using the terms:

ADMINISTRATIVE ANNIHILATION.

CIVIL DEATH.

SOCIAL ERASURE.

INSTITUTIONAL BETRAYAL.

FINANCIAL POWERLESSNESS.

THE PARADOXICAL INVERSION.

THE WITNESS REMAINS.

These expressions describe my experience and the interpretation I have placed upon the cumulative consequences of events in my life. They are not presented as judicial findings or established criminal offences.

The questions requiring examination include:

Whether my disability-related support needs have been properly assessed and met.

Whether my accommodation is safe, appropriate and consistent with my assessed needs.

Whether I have been given meaningful opportunities to exercise choice and control.

Whether restrictions on access to my money have left me unable to obtain food, transport, medication, personal necessities or other essentials.

Whether complaints about support workers, management and service delivery have been properly documented, investigated and answered.

Whether any adverse treatment occurred because I raised concerns or made disclosures.

Whether government agencies and oversight bodies have adequately responded to safeguarding concerns.

Whether decisions affecting my liberty, finances, accommodation and access to services have been lawful, proportionate, documented and reviewable.

Whether the combined effect of these decisions has deprived me of a meaningful opportunity to leave an unsuitable situation.

These questions deserve independent examination rather than dismissal, personal criticism or another administrative response that leaves the underlying circumstances unchanged.

2. THE FUNDAMENTAL WRONG: MAKING A DISABLED PERSON DEPENDENT WITHOUT PROVIDING A WAY OUT

There is something profoundly wrong with any support arrangement that leaves a disabled person dependent on the very systems they are asking to examine, while failing to provide a practical pathway to safety and independence.

It is particularly disturbing when a person has limited financial resources, relies on disability support, cannot readily arrange alternative accommodation and must depend on other people to access transport, services and ordinary necessities.

A person cannot meaningfully exercise choice and control if every practical option depends on someone else granting permission, providing transport, releasing money or deciding whether a request is convenient.

Choice without practical capacity is not meaningful choice.

Independence without access to money is not meaningful independence.

A complaint system that does not provide a realistic way to address immediate safety concerns is not an adequate safeguarding response.

A support system that knows a person is struggling but does not properly examine whether its arrangements are contributing to that struggle risks becoming part of the problem it was established to prevent.

I allege that I have experienced this kind of dependency and institutional failure.

I am not suggesting that every difficult financial or accommodation decision automatically constitutes unlawful imprisonment, abuse or criminal conduct. Those conclusions require evidence and the application of the relevant legal tests.

I am asking that the actual circumstances be examined, including whether decisions and omissions by individual people or organisations have unlawfully restricted my choices, exposed me to neglect, discriminated against me or caused foreseeable harm.

It is sickening to contemplate a situation in which a disabled person is allegedly left with insufficient money to meet basic needs, has no practical means of escaping an unsuitable arrangement and is then expected to navigate the very institutions responsible for addressing those problems.

I do not accept that this should be regarded as an ordinary administrative inconvenience.

3. THE HUMAN CONSEQUENCES

The consequences of inadequate support are not abstract.

They are experienced in ordinary daily life.

They are experienced when a person cannot afford food.

They are experienced when a person cannot obtain transport.

They are experienced when a person cannot access their own banking facilities or understand why their money is unavailable.

They are experienced when a person cannot arrange alternative accommodation.

They are experienced when support workers do not attend or when requests for assistance are not answered.

They are experienced when a person cannot communicate with the organisations on which their survival depends.

They are experienced when a person has a companion animal whose food and welfare also depend on the person's limited resources.

I allege that I have experienced these kinds of consequences.

The urgent question is not whether an administrative file has been opened or whether an organisation has sent a response.

The urgent question is whether I have access to the practical things I need to live.

A person should not have to prove an entire historical case before receiving assistance with immediate food, safety, accommodation or communication needs.

Historical accountability and immediate humanitarian assistance must proceed together.

PART TWO — THE SIGNIFICANT PAGES OF THE WITNESS REMAINS WEBSITE

4. THE WEBSITE AS A CONNECTED BODY OF TESTIMONY

The website titled The Witness Remains — The Cosmic Reckoning contains a series of interconnected pages. They address my humanitarian circumstances, personal testimony, documentary archive, spiritual beliefs, legal concerns, institutional accountability and the preservation of records.

The pages should be read as a connected body of material, but not treated as if every page has the same evidentiary status.

Some pages are urgent personal appeals.

Some are first-person testimony.

Some are documentary finding aids.

Some contain legal arguments or identify potential legal frameworks.

Some are spiritual and prophetic declarations.

Some contain allegations about particular organisations and individuals that require independent verification.

The distinction is important because I want the material examined seriously, not dismissed because different forms of writing appear together.

A. THE WITNESS REMAINS — THE CENTRAL PUBLICATION

https://barran-dodger-krynos-timing-of-god.grok.me/Attachment.png

This is the central landing page for the project.

It brings together the urgent SOS, the Divine Decree, the Cosmic Reckoning, the documentary record, the legal brief, the Able Point dossier, the Final Reckoning and the wider spiritual and publishing material.

Its central themes include:

- The preservation of documentary evidence.
- The continuing request for safety and assistance.
- The distinction between personal testimony and independently verifiable records.
- The spiritual meaning I attach to survival.
- The need for independent examination.
- The restoration of dignity, compassion and justice.

The landing page contains the 1 November SOS and the statement that I am not suicidal but protesting because I want to live. Dr Barran Dodger +1

B. URGENT SOS — 1 NOVEMBER 2026

https://barran-dodger-krynos-timing-of-god.grok.me/the-1-november-sos Attachment.png

This is the full humanitarian appeal.

It describes my reported circumstances and asks for immediate help.

It raises concerns about:

- Access to food and essential necessities.
- The availability of disability support.
- Financial access and banking.
- Communication difficulties.
- Access to assistance from support personnel.
- Access to government and complaint-handling systems.
- The welfare of my therapy dog, Crystal.
- The need for a practical way to reach safety.

The page also contains allegations concerning named support personnel and organisations. Those statements are my allegations and should be checked against communications, service records, financial records and responses from the organisations concerned.

The page states that the appeal was published on 1 November 2026 and records a SHA-256 hash for the supplied text. It also states that a timestamping process was submitted and that blockchain confirmation was pending at the time the page was published. A hash or timestamp can assist in demonstrating that particular digital content existed in a particular form; it does not establish the truth of the allegations contained in that content. The Witness Remains

C. THE FULL HUMANITARIAN APPEAL

https://barran-dodger-krynos-timing-of-god.grok.me/the-full-appeal Attachment.png

This page provides the full appeal rather than the shorter introductory SOS.

It should be treated as the principal written humanitarian request for assistance.

Its purpose is to explain the circumstances, identify the practical needs and invite readers and institutions to examine the documentary record.

D. THE DIVINE DECREE AND DECLARATION TO HUMANITY

https://barran-dodger-krynos-timing-of-god.grok.me/the-divine-declaration Attachment.png

This page is a spiritual declaration.

It describes my understanding of my survival through the symbolism of the Cross, resurrection, faith, forgiveness, sacrifice and the consciousness of Christ.

It explains that I understand my continued existence as spiritually significant and that I regard my testimony as a responsibility to preserve truth, compassion, humanity and the dignity of life.

The page also makes an important distinction: I do not claim to be Christ, to replace Christ or to possess an immortal physical body. It expresses my personal faith and spiritual interpretation.

The declaration should be read as a statement of belief, not as independent proof of a legal allegation or supernatural event. Dr Barran Dodger +1

E. THE COSMIC RECKONING — FULL DOCUMENT

https://barran-dodger-krynos-timing-of-god.grok.me/the-cosmic-in-full Attachment.png

This is one of the central long-form documents in the publication.

It brings together the historical and documentary narrative, the spiritual interpretation of my survival, the allegations of institutional betrayal and the demand for accountability.

It presents the accumulated record as material that should be preserved and independently examined.

It also includes the wider spiritual framework through which I understand the meaning of my life and testimony.

The document itself distinguishes the publication from a court or formal verdict. Its conclusions remain my interpretations unless independently established. The Witness Remains +1

F. THE JUSTICE MANDATE

https://barran-dodger-krynos-timing-of-god.grok.me/the-justice-mandate Attachment.png

This is one of the most important pages for anyone examining the archive as an evidentiary project.

It sets out seven principles:

- PRESERVE — preserve the documentary record before interpreting it.
- IDENTIFY — identify sources, dates, documents, institutions and provenance.
- DISTINGUISH — separate fact, allegation, testimony, inference, speculation and spiritual belief.
- TEST — compare assertions against primary documents and corroborating material.
- RESPOND — record institutional responses rather than presenting only one side.
- EXAMINE — seek appropriately independent review where warranted.
- REMEMBER — preserve the record for journalists, researchers, advocates, lawyers, historians and the public.

The page expressly states that the archive is not an independent investigation and does not establish criminal guilt, legal liability or human rights violations.

This is the standard I ask readers to apply to the entire body of material. The Witness Remains

G. THE PARADOXICAL INVERSION OF EVIDENCE

https://barran-dodger-krynos-timing-of-god.grok.me/the-paradoxical-inversion Attachment.png

This page develops an important documentary argument.

The institutions with which I have interacted have generated correspondence, administrative decisions, official records, acknowledgements, referrals and other documents.

Those documents can establish what an organisation recorded, communicated or decided, even where the organisation disputes my interpretation of the broader history.

The page makes an important distinction:

An official document can establish that a communication or decision occurred. It does not automatically establish every allegation about motive, coordination, deliberate targeting or wrongdoing that I may draw from the wider history.

This distinction strengthens the archive because it allows each document to be examined according to its actual evidentiary value.

It also provides a way to challenge inaccurate interpretations: identify the exact claim, identify the original record, establish the discrepancy and invite a response.

The documentary record does not require automatic agreement with my conclusions. It requires examination. The Witness Remains

H. THE LEGAL BRIEF — 23 OCTOBER 2026

https://barran-dodger-krynos-timing-of-god.grok.me/the-legal-brief

This page is a legal and administrative compilation.

It should be examined alongside the original legislation, official correspondence, court documents and government records on which its arguments rely.

It is not a court judgment or an independent legal determination.

Its value is as a guide to the claims, legal questions and documentary material that I want examined. The Witness Remains +1

I. THE ABLE POINT ACCOUNTABILITY DOSSIER

https://barran-dodger-krynos-timing-of-god.grok.me/the-able-point-dossier

This page focuses on my allegations concerning Able Point and the disability support arrangements.

It should be read alongside:

- Support agreements.
- NDIS plans.
- Rosters.
- Progress notes.
- Incident records.
- Complaint correspondence.
- Communications with support workers and management.
- Financial records.
- Transport and community-access records.

The central question is whether the service and its personnel fulfilled the obligations applicable to the supports they were engaged to provide.

The allegations require independent examination and a fair opportunity for the provider and relevant individuals to respond. The Witness Remains +1

J. THE FINAL RECKONING

https://barran-dodger-krynos-timing-of-god.grok.me/the-final-reckoning-testimony

This page brings together the themes of survival, testimony, documentary preservation, faith and the demand for accountability.

It is a concluding spiritual and personal statement, not a judicial verdict.

It expresses my determination to continue preserving the evidence and seeking restoration rather than making revenge the purpose of my life. Testimony and the Divine Reckoning +1

K. DOCUMENTS THAT OPEN THESE WORDS — NAMED EVIDENCE

https://barran-dodger-krynos-timing-of-god.grok.me/documents-that-open-these-words

This is an important evidence-navigation page.

Its purpose is to connect the written testimony to underlying documents and records.

The relevant principle is that a reader should be able to move from an assertion to the material said to support it.

Where an allegation concerns a particular decision, the reader should be able to identify the relevant correspondence, date, author, agency and response.

Where the source material is unavailable, incomplete or disputed, that limitation should remain visible.

The archive should not ask readers to accept a conclusion merely because it appears in a published statement. The Witness Remains +1

L. THEY COULD NOT ERASE WHAT GOD PRESERVED

https://barran-dodger-krynos-timing-of-god.grok.me/they-could-not-erase

This is a substantial historical and documentary page.

It develops the theme of preservation: that correspondence, official records and historical documents can remain available for examination even where the broader allegations remain disputed.

Its spiritual title expresses my belief that the preservation of my testimony has meaning beyond the immediate administrative disputes.

Its documentary claims should be checked against the underlying records and the archive catalogue. The Witness Remains

M. THE 24 OCTOBER 2026 SOS

https://barran-dodger-krynos-timing-of-god.grok.me/the-24-october Attachment.png

This earlier SOS provides a chronological point of comparison with the 1 November appeal.

It is relevant to examining what concerns were raised earlier, what assistance was requested and what changed between the two appeals. The Witness Remains

N. TODAY — ABLE POINT LEFT

https://barran-dodger-krynos-timing-of-god.grok.me/today-able-point-left Attachment.png

This page records a further account concerning Able Point and the circumstances described at the time.

It should be examined against the actual service records, communications and responses to establish what occurred and what assistance was or was not provided. The Witness Remains

O. THE LETTER TO REBECCA FALKINGHAM

https://barran-dodger-krynos-timing-of-god.grok.me/the-falkingham-letter Attachment.png

This page contains a letter addressed to the NDIS Commission's leadership.

It is relevant to the history of my attempts to raise concerns with the NDIS oversight system.

The original letter, proof of sending, acknowledgement, any referral and the eventual response should be examined together. The Witness Remains

P. THE MINISTER, THE NUMBER AND THE ORDER

https://barran-dodger-krynos-timing-of-god.grok.me/the-minister Attachment.png

This page concerns a political or ministerial communication and the associated reference or order described in the publication.

Its significance should be assessed against the original correspondence, any official register entry and the response from the relevant office. Barran Dodger

Q. TONY RIDLEY — PUBLIC RECORD EVIDENCE REPORT

https://barran-dodger-krynos-timing-of-god.grok.me/tony-ridley Attachment.png

This page identifies a person and presents a public-record evidence report.

Any statements about an identifiable individual should be treated carefully and assessed against original documents, accurate context and the person's response.

The existence of a page is not proof of wrongdoing. The underlying records must establish what can properly be said. The Witness Remains

R. THE DECLARATION EMAILED

https://barran-dodger-krynos-timing-of-god.grok.me/the-emailed-declaration Attachment.png

This page records a declaration described as having been emailed.

Its evidentiary significance depends on the original text, date, recipient, email headers or other proof of transmission and any response received. The Witness Remains

S. THE COMPLETE WORKS

https://barran-dodger-krynos-timing-of-god.grok.me/the-complete-works Attachment.png

This page provides a broader publication and works index.

It is useful for readers seeking to understand the wider body of writing and how the documentary, spiritual, literary and advocacy projects relate to one another. The Witness Remains

T. THE TRUST — BARRAN DODGER LEGAL AND ETHICAL TRUST FUND

https://barran-dodger-krynos-timing-of-god.grok.me/the-trust-itself Attachment.png

This page describes the Barran Dodger Legal and Ethical Trust Fund and its stated purpose.

The page refers to an ABN and makes statements about the trust's structure and oversight.

Those claims should be checked against the Australian Business Register, the trust deed, relevant trustee documentation and any actual NSW Trustee and Guardian orders or administration records.

An ABN registration alone does not establish every claim about the legal constitution of a trust, the identity of its trustee, the nature of any government oversight or its tax compliance.

The distinction between an entity's registration details and the legal status of a trust is important. barran-dodger-krynos-timing-of-god.grok.me

U. THE FOUNDATION CHARTER — CHURCH OF BARRAN RESONANCE DODGER

https://barran-dodger-krynos-timing-of-god.grok.me/the-foundation-charter Attachment.png

This page sets out the spiritual, philosophical and organisational framework of the Church of Barran Resonance Dodger.

It includes the stated principles of the foundation and its relationship to the archive, ministry and publishing work.

The charter is a statement of the organisation's own purposes and beliefs. Its claims about external validation, government recognition, legal status or institutional findings should be checked against the actual official records before being represented as established facts. Church of Barran Resonance Dodger

V. THE MINISTRY AND PUBLISHING HOUSE

https://barran-dodger-krynos-timing-of-god.grok.me/the-ministry-house Attachment.png

This page describes the ministry and publishing work associated with the project. Church of Barran Dodger

W. HOW THE MINISTRY STANDS

https://barran-dodger-krynos-timing-of-god.grok.me/how-the-ministry-stands Attachment.png

This page provides further information about the stated structure and position of the ministry. Church of Barran Dodger

X. THE COMPLETE MANIFESTO

https://barran-dodger-krynos-timing-of-god.grok.me/the-complete-manifesto Attachment.png

This page contains the broader manifesto and philosophical declarations associated with the project. It should be read as advocacy and spiritual writing, rather than as an independent legal finding. barran-dodger-krynos-timing-of-god.grok.me

Y. WHY THE CHURCH ARCHIVE IS KEPT

https://barran-dodger-krynos-timing-of-god.grok.me/the-church-archive-significance Attachment.png

This page explains the stated purpose of preserving the church archive and its relationship to the wider body of testimony and publication. Barran Dodger

Z. THE CANON

https://barran-dodger-krynos-timing-of-god.grok.me/canon Attachment.png

This page provides an index of the broader canon of writings and publications. It is a navigation resource for readers wishing to explore the spiritual, literary and documentary work. Church of Barran Dodger

PART THREE — THE TIMING OF GOD: CHRONOS, KAIROS AND THE MEANING OF THE WITNESS

5. THE TIMING PAGE

https://barran-dodger-krynos-timing-of-god.grok.me/the-timing Attachment.png

One of the important ideas in the website is expressed in the statement:

CHRONOS COUNTS THE YEARS. KAIROS OPENS THE MOMENT. DIVINE TIMING GIVES THE MOMENT MEANING.

This is a spiritual and theological interpretation of time.

Chronos represents chronological time: dates, years, events, sequences and the measurable passage of time.

Kairos represents the idea of an appointed or meaningful moment: a time understood through faith as carrying particular spiritual significance.

Within my testimony, these ideas provide a framework for understanding the relationship between my historical experiences, the preservation of the documentary archive and my belief that my continued life and work have a spiritual purpose.

The timing page also contains a declaration of spiritual sovereignty under the Most High God and expressly distinguishes that declaration from a claim to stand above the law.

It states that spiritual sovereignty is a refusal to allow an administrative file to replace a human life.

The page records a claim that a collection of pages was frozen and submitted for timestamping. The page itself says that blockchain confirmation was pending at the time. Such timestamping can help establish the existence of particular digital material, but it cannot prove the truth of the material or establish that a legal or spiritual conclusion is correct. The Witness Remains

6. THE SPIRITUAL MEANING OF SURVIVAL

My faith is central to the way I understand my life.

I believe that I have survived circumstances that profoundly changed my understanding of existence, suffering, forgiveness and purpose.

I understand my survival through the symbolism of the Cross and resurrection.

I believe that my testimony has become a responsibility: to preserve records, speak about suffering, call for accountability and continue to uphold compassion.

I do not ask readers to adopt my spiritual beliefs.

I do not ask institutions to determine theological questions.

I ask that my spiritual testimony be respected as personal expression and that the factual allegations contained in my documentary material be examined separately.

My faith is not an excuse for anyone to leave me without assistance.

My faith is not a reason to glorify suffering.

My belief in divine purpose does not mean I should be expected to endure preventable deprivation.

My life matters now.

My safety matters now.

My dignity matters now.

My need for food, accommodation, support and human connection matters now.

The spiritual message of the Witness Remains is not that suffering should continue. It is that suffering must not be allowed to destroy humanity, compassion, truth or the dignity of life.

7. THE REFUSAL OF REVENGE

An important part of my spiritual declaration is that I do not want revenge to become the purpose of my life.

I want accountability where wrongdoing is established.

I want correction where records are inaccurate.

I want protection where there is a genuine safeguarding risk.

I want restoration where harm has occurred.

I want independent investigation where evidence warrants it.

I do not want another person to experience the abandonment or indignity that I believe I have experienced.

My appeal is for truth, justice, safety and restoration.

PART FOUR — ABLE POINT AND DISABILITY SUPPORT ACCOUNTABILITY

8. THE DUTIES OF A DISABILITY SUPPORT PROVIDER

My allegations concerning Able Point and the people responsible for its management and service delivery require independent examination.

The relevant questions are not confined to whether workers attended shifts or whether administrative records were completed.

They include whether the provider delivered safe, respectful and competent support; respected my rights; responded appropriately to concerns; managed incidents; protected me from neglect and exploitation; and acted consistently with the requirements governing disability support services.

The NDIS Code of Conduct applies to NDIS providers and workers, including relevant registered and unregistered providers and their personnel.

The Code requires providers and workers to:

- Respect the rights of people with disability to freedom of expression, self-determination and decision-making.
- Respect the privacy of people with disability.
- Provide supports and services in a safe and competent manner.
- Act with integrity, honesty and transparency.
- Promptly raise and act on concerns that may affect the quality or safety of supports and services.
- Take reasonable steps to prevent and respond to violence, exploitation, neglect and abuse.
- Take reasonable steps to prevent and respond to sexual misconduct.

OFFICIAL LEGISLATION — NDIS CODE OF CONDUCT RULES 2018:

https://www.legislation.gov.au/F2018L00629/latest/text Attachment.png

NDIS COMMISSION — CODE OF CONDUCT:

https://www.ndiscommission.gov.au/rules-and-standards/ndis-code-conduct Attachment.png

The investigation should establish whether any conduct by Able Point, its management or its workers was inconsistent with these obligations.

In particular, investigators should examine:

Whether my concerns were listened to and properly recorded.

Whether support workers followed agreed support arrangements.

Whether workers provided the assistance they were funded and engaged to provide.

Whether I was treated respectfully when raising concerns.

Whether workers made decisions that unnecessarily restricted my independence.

Whether transport and community-access arrangements were adequate.

Whether I was left without reasonable assistance to obtain essential necessities.

Whether management adequately investigated complaints about workers.

Whether relevant records accurately reflect what occurred.

Whether any adverse treatment followed my complaints or disclosures.

Whether management took reasonable steps to protect me from foreseeable harm.

I allege that the cumulative experience has been one of abandonment, dependency and a failure to provide the practical assistance I need.

These allegations require examination against actual rosters, progress notes, incident reports, support plans, communications, financial records and witness accounts.

9. INCIDENT MANAGEMENT AND REPORTABLE INCIDENT OBLIGATIONS

Disability support providers have specific obligations concerning the management of incidents and the reporting of certain serious incidents.

NDIS INCIDENT MANAGEMENT AND REPORTABLE INCIDENTS RULES 2018:

https://www.legislation.gov.au/F2018L00633/latest/text Attachment.png

NATIONAL DISABILITY INSURANCE SCHEME ACT 2013:

https://www.legislation.gov.au/C2013A00020/latest/text Attachment.png

Relevant provisions include:

Section 73F — Conditions of registration.

Section 73V — Compliance with the NDIS Code of Conduct.

Section 73W — Complaints management requirements.

Section 73Y — Incident management requirements.

Section 73Z — Reportable incidents.

The investigation should establish whether any incidents or complaints involving my safety, support, treatment or welfare were required to be recorded, escalated, investigated or reported.

It should also establish whether the provider maintained accurate records and whether relevant concerns were overlooked, inadequately addressed or improperly classified.

Not every disagreement or poor service experience is automatically a reportable incident. The precise statutory requirements depend on the nature of the event, the provider's status and the facts.

Where allegations concern abuse, neglect, serious injury, unlawful physical or sexual contact, sexual misconduct or unauthorised restrictive practices, the relevant reporting obligations must be considered.

10. THE 27 OCTOBER TRANSPORT CONCERN

I have previously described an incident involving an attempt to obtain transport to visit friends.

I reported that a support worker said there was insufficient petrol and expressed concern about losing employment.

I have also referred to a recording and support notes that I believe are relevant.

This matter should be examined against:

The original recording.

The support worker's contemporaneous notes.

The roster and service agreement.

The transport arrangements and relevant funding.

Communications with management.

Any explanation subsequently provided.

I am asking whether the assistance I was entitled to receive was delivered and whether any decision about transport was reasonable, properly authorised and consistent with my support needs.

The recording and related records should be preserved and examined rather than relying solely on later recollections.

11. DISABILITY DISCRIMINATION AND EQUALITY

The DISABILITY DISCRIMINATION ACT 1992 (COMMONWEALTH) prohibits discrimination on the ground of disability in specified circumstances.

OFFICIAL LEGISLATION:

https://www.legislation.gov.au/C2004A04426/latest/text Attachment.png

Relevant provisions include:

Section 5 — Direct disability discrimination.

Section 6 — Indirect disability discrimination.

Section 24 — Disability discrimination in the provision of goods, services and facilities.

The investigation should consider whether:

My disability-related needs were properly recognised.

Reasonable adjustments were considered where required.

Support arrangements were designed around my assessed needs.

I was denied meaningful access to services or opportunities because of disability.

My requests for assistance were dismissed because of assumptions about my disability.

My ability to communicate concerns was unfairly treated as a reason to disregard those concerns.

My disability-related dependence was allowed to become a substitute for genuine choice and control.

A disability is not a reason to disregard someone's testimony.

A disability is not a licence to deny someone dignity.

A disability is not an excuse for failing to investigate a safeguarding concern.

A person who depends on support remains a person with rights, preferences, agency and the right to be heard.

PART FIVE — FINANCIAL INDEPENDENCE, ACCOMMODATION AND BASIC NECESSITIES

12. FINANCIAL CONTROL AND ACCESS TO MONEY

One of the most urgent aspects of my circumstances concerns financial access and the practical ability to meet ordinary living expenses.

I have previously provided figures concerning my Centrelink income, rent, other deductions and personal allowance.

Those figures must be checked against current statements and financial records before being treated as a definitive account of my present position.

The issue is that I have reported being left with insufficient financial flexibility to meet basic necessities and exercise ordinary independence.

This raises serious questions about whether financial arrangements are appropriate, transparent, properly authorised and consistent with my rights and needs.

Relevant legislation includes:

NSW TRUSTEE AND GUARDIAN ACT 2009:

https://legislation.nsw.gov.au/view/html/inforce/current/act-2009-049Attachment.png

GUARDIANSHIP ACT 1987 (NSW):

https://legislation.nsw.gov.au/view/html/inforce/current/act-1987-257Attachment.png

The investigation should establish:

Who has authority over the relevant financial arrangements.

What legal instrument or order authorises any restrictions.

Whether I have been given clear information about the arrangements.

Whether my reasonable living expenses have been properly assessed.

Whether sufficient money is available for food, transport, clothing, hygiene and other necessities.

Whether deductions and payments are accurately recorded.

Whether decisions have been reviewed when my circumstances changed.

Whether I have access to an independent review or complaint process.

Whether my preferences and decision-making rights have been respected.

Financial administration should protect a person's interests. It should not leave that person unable to meet basic needs or exercise meaningful control over ordinary life.

If a person cannot access enough money to buy food, obtain transport or pursue alternative accommodation, the practical consequences must be examined urgently.

13. ACCOMMODATION AND THE RIGHT TO LIVE INDEPENDENTLY

My accommodation concerns cannot be separated from my disability support needs, financial circumstances and ability to exercise choice and control.

I have sought an accessible, safe and suitable living arrangement that supports independence and allows me to participate in ordinary community life.

The relevant questions include:

Whether the current accommodation is appropriate.

Whether my assessed needs are being met.

Whether any relevant occupational therapy recommendations have been considered.

Whether appropriate support arrangements are available.

Whether I can exercise meaningful choice about where and with whom I live.

Whether the financial arrangements allow me to pursue alternative accommodation.

Whether the provider and relevant agencies have considered a practical transition plan.

The Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities is particularly relevant to these issues.

Article 19 concerns living independently and being included in the community.

Article 28 concerns an adequate standard of living and social protection.

Official Convention:

https://www.ohchr.org/en/instruments-mechanisms/instruments/convention-rights-persons-disabilitiesAttachment.png

The principle is straightforward: disability support should enable people to live with dignity, make decisions and participate in the community.

14. ENTRAPMENT AND FALSE IMPRISONMENT — THE LEGAL DISTINCTION

I have described my circumstances as being trapped.

I use that word to describe the practical experience of being unable to leave an unsuitable situation because of financial dependency, accommodation barriers, support arrangements and the absence of effective assistance.

However, the legal concept of false imprisonment has specific requirements.

A person is not automatically falsely imprisoned merely because they are poor, financially dependent, unable to afford alternative accommodation or experiencing inadequate support.

False imprisonment generally requires a total restraint of liberty caused by unlawful conduct.

A useful explanation of intentional torts, including false imprisonment, is available from the NSW Judicial Commission:

https://www.judcom.nsw.gov.au/publications/benchbks/civil/intentional_torts.htmlAttachment.png

The relevant questions include:

Has anyone physically prevented me from leaving?

Has anyone used threats or coercion to prevent me from leaving?

Have any legal restrictions been imposed?

Are those restrictions authorised and properly applied?

Have financial or accommodation arrangements been used in a way that unlawfully deprives me of liberty?

Have decisions by others substantially interfered with my legal rights?

Have I been denied practical assistance in circumstances where a legal duty to provide it exists?

I am asking for these matters to be examined rather than assuming that the word entrapment automatically establishes a particular legal offence.

PART SIX — GOVERNMENT AGENCIES, OVERSIGHT AND PUBLIC ACCOUNTABILITY

15. THE NDIS COMMISSION

I have raised concerns about my disability support arrangements and the conduct of people and organisations involved in providing those supports.

The NDIS Commission should assess complaints within its jurisdiction against the relevant legislation, Code of Conduct, incident-management requirements and safeguarding obligations.

The relevant questions include:

Were my complaints received and assessed?

Were the NDIS Code obligations considered?

Were relevant incident-management and reportable-incident obligations considered?

Was the provider's response independently assessed?

Were safeguarding risks identified?

Was I informed of the outcome and reasons?

Was I given information about further review or escalation?

NDIS COMMISSION:

https://www.ndiscommission.gov.au/Attachment.png

I am asking for a clear explanation of what was considered, what action was taken, what remains unresolved and what further process is available.

16. POLICE CONDUCT AND INDEPENDENT OVERSIGHT

I have reported concerns about my experiences with police and the handling of matters I have attempted to raise.

The distinction between refusing to record a report, declining to investigate, referring a matter elsewhere and deciding that evidence does not establish an offence is important.

Those actions are not necessarily legally equivalent.

However, where there is evidence of serious police misconduct, unreasonable conduct or improper handling of a complaint, independent oversight may be appropriate.

LAW ENFORCEMENT CONDUCT COMMISSION ACT 2016 (NSW):

https://legislation.nsw.gov.au/view/html/inforce/current/act-2016-061Attachment.png

POLICE ACT 1990 (NSW):

https://legislation.nsw.gov.au/view/html/inforce/current/act-1990-047Attachment.png

LAW ENFORCEMENT CONDUCT COMMISSION:

https://www.lecc.nsw.gov.au/complaintsAttachment.png

The LECC deals with serious police misconduct and serious maladministration within its statutory jurisdiction.

It can assess complaints and may investigate, refer matters or request that police investigate, depending on the circumstances.

It does not investigate every complaint, press criminal charges or provide a personal legal remedy in every case.

The evidence requiring examination includes:

Dates and locations of police interactions.

Names or identifying details of officers, where available.

Police event numbers.

Copies of written reports and correspondence.

Any recordings or contemporaneous notes.

The specific concerns raised.

The response received.

Any reasons given for refusing, declining or referring a matter.

I request that any substantiated allegation of police misconduct be assessed independently and that I be provided with clear information about available review and complaint mechanisms.

17. NSW OMBUDSMAN — COMPLAINT ACCESS AND RESTRICTIONS

I have raised concerns about my ability to obtain assistance from the NSW Ombudsman and about restrictions I understand have affected my access to its complaint-handling processes.

The precise legal and procedural circumstances must be established from the relevant written correspondence.

A restriction on contact with an oversight body is not automatically unlawful. However, any restriction should be examined for its authority, reasons, proportionality, duration, review arrangements and effect on access to urgent safeguarding channels.

NSW OMBUDSMAN ACT 1974:

https://legislation.nsw.gov.au/view/html/inforce/current/act-1974-068Attachment.png

NSW OMBUDSMAN POLICY ON MANAGING UNREASONABLE CONDUCT BY COMPLAINANTS:

https://cmsassets.ombo.nsw.gov.au/assets/Resources/Policies/NSW-Ombudsman-Managing-Unreasonable-Conduct-by-Complainants-Policy.pdfAttachment.png

The relevant questions include:

Was a restriction imposed?

Who authorised it?

What reasons were provided?

Was the decision made under an applicable policy or statutory authority?

Was the restriction proportionate?

Was a review date provided?

Was I told how to seek reconsideration?

Was an alternative accessible method provided for urgent safeguarding matters?

Could the restriction prevent me from raising new and materially different concerns?

Was my disability taken into account when communication arrangements were determined?

I request a written explanation of any restriction, the legal and policy basis for it, the evidence relied upon, the duration and the available review process.

A person should not be left without a meaningful avenue to raise a genuinely new and urgent safeguarding concern.

18. LEGAL AID NSW AND ACCESS TO JUSTICE

I have described difficulties accessing legal assistance and have raised concerns about restrictions or refusals affecting my ability to obtain help.

The exact nature of any decision must be established. A refusal of a particular grant of legal aid, a decision about eligibility, a restriction concerning a particular matter and a formal exclusion from a service are not necessarily the same thing.

LEGAL AID COMMISSION ACT 1979 (NSW):

https://legislation.nsw.gov.au/view/html/inforce/current/act-1979-078Attachment.png

LEGAL AID NSW — APPEAL OR REVIEW OF A DECISION:

https://www.legalaid.nsw.gov.au/ways-to-get-help/appeal-legal-aid-decisionAttachment.png

The investigation should establish:

What decision was made.

Who made it.

What reasons were provided.

What eligibility or policy criteria were applied.

Whether the decision was communicated in writing.

Whether review or appeal rights were explained.

Whether reasonable adjustments were considered.

Whether I was provided with information about alternative legal assistance.

I am not asserting that Legal Aid NSW is legally required to represent every applicant or fund every matter.

I am asserting that a disabled person facing serious accommodation, financial, safeguarding and legal concerns needs meaningful information about available avenues of assistance and review.

ACCESS TO JUSTICE IS NOT MEANINGFUL IF A PERSON CANNOT UNDERSTAND, ACCESS OR USE THE AVAILABLE PROCESS.

19. ICAC AND ALLEGATIONS OF CORRUPT CONDUCT

I have raised concerns about institutional conduct, conflicts of interest, accountability and the possibility that people in positions of authority may have failed to act appropriately.

Where there is evidence of corrupt conduct involving NSW public officials or public authorities, the appropriate statutory framework must be considered.

INDEPENDENT COMMISSION AGAINST CORRUPTION ACT 1988 (NSW):

https://legislation.nsw.gov.au/view/html/inforce/current/act-1988-035Attachment.png

ICAC REPORTING INFORMATION:

https://www.icac.nsw.gov.au/reportingAttachment.png

ICAC is concerned with corrupt conduct as defined by the legislation. It does not investigate every instance of poor service, administrative error, unfairness or disagreement.

The evidence would need to identify the relevant public official or public authority, the conduct in question, the applicable definition of corrupt conduct and the supporting material.

I am requesting that any evidence capable of establishing corrupt conduct be assessed by the appropriate independent body.

I am not asking that corruption be assumed merely because I have been treated unfairly or because an organisation has failed to respond to me.

I am asking that the evidence be examined impartially, including any relevant communications, financial interests, decisions, records and relationships.

20. PUBLIC INTEREST DISCLOSURES AND ALLEGED RETALIATION

I have described myself as a whistleblower and have repeatedly raised concerns about matters that I believe deserve investigation.

The legal question is whether any particular disclosure qualifies for protection under the relevant public interest disclosure legislation and whether any subsequent conduct constitutes prohibited detrimental action.

NSW PUBLIC INTEREST DISCLOSURES ACT 2022:

https://legislation.nsw.gov.au/view/html/inforce/current/act-2022-014Attachment.png

COMMONWEALTH PUBLIC INTEREST DISCLOSURE ACT 2013:

https://www.legislation.gov.au/C2013A00133/latest/textAttachment.png

The NSW legislation provides a framework for protected public interest disclosures concerning specified forms of serious wrongdoing in the NSW public sector.

Section 32 addresses detrimental action and detriment.

Section 31R addresses an offence involving detrimental action against a person in circumstances covered by the Act.

The Commonwealth Act provides protections for qualifying public interest disclosures concerning Commonwealth public-sector conduct.

Neither Act automatically protects every complaint made by every person to every organisation.

The investigation should establish:

What disclosures I made.

When and to whom I made them.

Whether the disclosures concerned conduct covered by the legislation.

Whether the recipient was an appropriate disclosure recipient.

Whether I met the applicable requirements for protection.

Whether any adverse treatment followed.

Whether any such treatment was connected to a protected disclosure.

21. POLITICAL REPRESENTATION AND PUBLIC ACCOUNTABILITY

I have attempted to bring my circumstances and documentary evidence to the attention of people and institutions with public responsibilities.

I have experienced what I regard as a profound failure to obtain meaningful political assistance.

A failure to respond to correspondence is not, by itself, proof of corruption or a criminal offence.

However, elected representatives and public institutions have important responsibilities to constituents and to the proper operation of public accountability systems.

The relevant questions include:

Were my communications received?

Were they referred to the appropriate department or agency?

Were safeguarding concerns identified?

Was I provided with a meaningful response?

Were the relevant authorities asked to explain their decisions?

Were my concerns about disability support, financial administration and accommodation appropriately escalated?

Was any action taken to identify a practical solution?

I am asking political representatives to stop treating my circumstances as an isolated correspondence problem and to examine the underlying humanitarian and administrative issues.

A person who repeatedly asks for help should not have to become an expert in every government department merely to obtain basic assistance.

22. MEDIA, PUBLIC INTEREST AND THE RIGHT TO BE HEARD

I have attempted to make my testimony and documentary evidence available to the public.

I have experienced difficulty obtaining media attention and public recognition of my circumstances.

I recognise that private media organisations generally have editorial discretion and are not ordinarily under a legal duty to publish an individual's story.

A refusal to publish does not, by itself, establish censorship, collusion or an unlawful media ban.

Nevertheless, public-interest journalism has an important role in examining institutional failures, disability rights, public administration and the treatment of vulnerable people.

I ask journalists and editors to examine the documentary record independently and to distinguish what can be verified from what remains alleged.

My archive is available for that purpose:

https://github.com/wezzo72/Barrandodger Attachment.png

https://wezzo72.github.io/Barrandodger/ Attachment.png

https://wezzo72.github.io/Barrandodger/official-government-documents-register.html Attachment.png

I do not ask journalists to accept every conclusion I have reached.

I ask them to examine the evidence, contact the relevant organisations, seek responses and report accurately.

PART SEVEN — INTERNATIONAL HUMAN RIGHTS AND LEGAL FRAMEWORKS

23. CONVENTION ON THE RIGHTS OF PERSONS WITH DISABILITIES

OFFICIAL UNITED NATIONS TEXT:

https://www.ohchr.org/en/instruments-mechanisms/instruments/convention-rights-persons-disabilities Attachment.png

Australia ratified the Convention on 17 July 2008.

Relevant articles include:

Article 5 — Equality and non-discrimination.

Article 10 — Right to life.

Article 12 — Equal recognition before the law.

Article 13 — Access to justice.

Article 14 — Liberty and security of person.

Article 16 — Freedom from exploitation, violence and abuse.

Article 19 — Living independently and being included in the community.

Article 25 — Health.

Article 28 — Adequate standard of living and social protection.

Article 19 is particularly relevant to allegations that a person with disability has been left without meaningful choice about where and with whom they live, or without the support necessary to participate in the community.

Article 16 is relevant to the need for effective protection from exploitation, violence and abuse.

Article 12 is relevant to respect for legal capacity and decision-making rights.

Article 13 is relevant to access to justice and the practical ability to raise concerns and obtain remedies.

The central principle is that disability support should enable people to exercise their rights and participate in ordinary life. It should not become a mechanism through which their independence is progressively diminished.

24. INTERNATIONAL COVENANT ON CIVIL AND POLITICAL RIGHTS

OFFICIAL UNITED NATIONS TEXT:

https://www.ohchr.org/en/instruments-mechanisms/instruments/international-covenant-civil-and-political-rights Attachment.png

Relevant provisions include:

Article 6 — Right to life.

Article 7 — Freedom from torture and cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment.

Article 9 — Liberty and security of person.

Article 16 — Recognition as a person before the law.

Article 26 — Equality before the law and equal protection of the law.

These provisions provide an important framework for considering the responsibilities of the state to protect fundamental rights.

They do not mean that every instance of poor administration or inadequate support automatically constitutes a violation of the Covenant.

The particular facts, the conduct involved and the applicable legal tests must be established.

25. INTERNATIONAL COVENANT ON ECONOMIC, SOCIAL AND CULTURAL RIGHTS

OFFICIAL UNITED NATIONS TEXT:

https://www.ohchr.org/en/instruments-mechanisms/instruments/international-covenant-economic-social-and-cultural-rights Attachment.png

Relevant provisions include:

Article 2 — General obligations concerning the implementation of Covenant rights.

Article 6 — Right to work.

Article 11 — Right to an adequate standard of living, including adequate food, clothing and housing.

Article 12 — Right to the highest attainable standard of physical and mental health.

These obligations are relevant to concerns about inadequate living conditions, access to essential necessities, health and the practical ability to live with dignity.

A person should not be left without adequate access to food, housing and essential support because several administrative systems fail to coordinate their responsibilities.

26. CONVENTION AGAINST TORTURE

OFFICIAL UNITED NATIONS TEXT:

https://www.ohchr.org/en/instruments-mechanisms/instruments/convention-against-torture-and-other-cruel-inhuman-or-degrading-treatment-or-punishment Attachment.png

Relevant provisions include:

Article 2 — Measures to prevent torture.

Article 12 — Prompt and impartial investigation where there are reasonable grounds to believe torture has occurred.

Article 16 — Prevention of other acts of cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment within the scope of the Convention.

This Convention must be applied carefully.

It does not mean that every alleged act of cruelty by a private support worker or service provider automatically constitutes torture under international law.

The legal responsibility of the state, the involvement or acquiescence of public officials and the particular circumstances must be assessed.

Nevertheless, allegations of serious mistreatment, neglect or degrading treatment should not be dismissed without examining their substance.

27. AUSTRALIA'S INTERNATIONAL TREATY RESPONSIBILITIES

AUSTRALIAN GOVERNMENT — INTERNATIONAL HUMAN RIGHTS SYSTEM:

https://www.ag.gov.au/rights-and-protections/human-rights-and-anti-discrimination/international-human-rights-system Attachment.png

UNITED NATIONS TREATY BODY INFORMATION FOR AUSTRALIA:

https://tbinternet.ohchr.org/_layouts/15/TreatyBodyExternal/Countries.aspx?CountryCode=AUS&Lang=EN Attachment.png

Australia's treaty obligations are relevant when assessing whether public institutions are providing effective protection, access to justice and safeguards for people with disability.

Treaty ratification does not mean every treaty article automatically creates a directly enforceable domestic legal claim or criminal offence. The domestic legal effect of each obligation must be assessed separately.

PART EIGHT — THREATS, INTIMIDATION AND PROTECTION

28. THREATS AND INTIMIDATING CONDUCT

I have raised serious concerns about threats and intimidating conduct, including matters I have associated with legal proceedings.

Any allegation of a threat to kill, intimidation or harassment must be examined through the actual evidence.

This includes original messages, recordings, witness accounts, police reports, court records and any relevant event numbers.

CRIMES ACT 1900 (NSW):

https://legislation.nsw.gov.au/view/html/inforce/current/act-1900-040 Attachment.png

CRIMES (DOMESTIC AND PERSONAL VIOLENCE) ACT 2007 (NSW):

https://legislation.nsw.gov.au/view/html/inforce/current/act-2007-080 Attachment.png

Section 13 of the Crimes (Domestic and Personal Violence) Act concerns stalking or intimidation with the intention of causing fear of physical or mental harm, subject to the statutory elements.

The relevant legal test must be applied to the actual conduct.

The investigation should establish:

The exact words used.

The date, time and circumstances.

The identity of the person responsible, if known.

Whether the words were communicated directly or indirectly.

Whether there is supporting evidence.

Whether a police report was made.

Whether the matter was investigated.

Whether any protective measures are appropriate.

I am asking that credible threats be treated seriously and assessed independently.

PART NINE — EVIDENCE, PRESERVATION AND INDEPENDENT EXAMINATION

29. THE DOCUMENTARY RECORD

My concerns should be examined against original records wherever possible.

The relevant material may include:

NDIS plans and reassessments.

Support agreements and service bookings.

Support worker rosters.

Progress notes and case notes.

Incident reports.

Complaints and complaint responses.

Emails, text messages and other communications.

Financial statements and payment records.

Centrelink correspondence.

NSW Trustee and Guardian correspondence.

Accommodation agreements and rent records.

Transport records.

Relevant recordings.

Police event numbers and reports.

Court records.

Ombudsman correspondence.

Legal Aid correspondence.

NDIS Commission correspondence.

Medical and allied-health recommendations relevant to support and accommodation.

Records of requests for assistance and the responses received.

The preservation of original records is essential.

Where records are disputed, the original should be retained and any later explanation or correction should be separately identified.

30. EVIDENTIARY CLASSIFICATION

The investigation should distinguish:

DOCUMENTED FACT — supported by an original record or independently verifiable source.

OFFICIAL RECORD — a document issued or maintained by a government agency, court or other official body.

PERSONAL TESTIMONY — my account of what I experienced or observed.

ALLEGATION — a claim that requires independent examination.

INFERENCE — a conclusion drawn from available facts but not yet independently established.

SPIRITUAL BELIEF — a religious, theological or personal interpretation of events.

UNVERIFIED MATTER — information for which the necessary original evidence has not yet been obtained.

This approach protects the integrity of the evidence and makes it harder for any party to misrepresent the difference between an allegation and a proven fact.

31. THE PARADOXICAL INVERSION: OFFICIAL DOCUMENTS AND INDEPENDENT EXAMINATION

The documentary record has an important characteristic.

Many of the records I rely upon were generated by the institutions with which I interacted.

They contain their own dates, reference numbers, wording, decisions and recorded explanations.

Those records can establish what an organisation communicated, recorded or decided.

They may also help establish the chronology of complaints, responses, referrals and administrative actions.

However, an official document does not automatically prove every allegation about motive, coordination, corruption or deliberate targeting.

That is why the documentary record must be examined carefully.

The correct questions are:

What does the document actually say?

Who created it?

When was it created?

What was its purpose?

Was it final or preliminary?

Was it later corrected?

Does it accurately record the relevant event?

What other evidence supports or contradicts it?

What response has the institution provided?

What remains unresolved?

This is the principle behind the Paradoxical Inversion of Evidence.

The record exists independently of whether a reader agrees with my interpretation.

The record must be examined on its merits.

32. DIGITAL PRESERVATION AND TIMESTAMPING

My website refers to digital preservation, document hashes and timestamping.

These processes can help preserve the integrity of digital material and demonstrate that a particular file or version existed at a particular point in time.

They do not establish that the contents are true, that an allegation is proven or that a court or government authority has accepted the interpretation.

A digital hash identifies particular file content.

A timestamp can provide evidence of existence at a particular time, depending on the system and verification.

A blockchain record does not itself establish criminal liability, legal validity or the truth of a document's contents.

The archive should therefore preserve:

Its source.

Its date.

Its author or issuing institution, where known.

Its hash, where recorded.

Any timestamping receipt.

The chain of custody or preservation history.

Any subsequent corrections or versions.

The distinction between preservation and proof must remain clear.

PART TEN — SPECIFIC QUESTIONS REQUIRING ANSWERS

33. ABLE POINT

What support was I funded to receive?

What support was actually delivered?

Were all complaints recorded?

Were all relevant incidents assessed?

Were management decisions documented?

Were workers appropriately supervised?

Were my rights and preferences respected?

Were transport and community-access needs adequately addressed?

Was any adverse treatment connected to my complaints?

34. NDIS COMMISSION

Were my complaints assessed against the NDIS Code of Conduct?

Were relevant incident-management and reportable-incident obligations considered?

Was the provider's response independently assessed?

Were safeguarding risks identified?

Was I informed of the outcome and reasons?

Was I given information about further review or escalation?

35. POLICE

Were my reports properly recorded?

Were the relevant allegations assessed?

Were decisions to investigate, decline or refer matters documented?

Were reasons communicated?

Were any allegations of threats or intimidation appropriately considered?

36. NSW OMBUDSMAN

What restrictions, if any, were imposed on my access?

Who authorised them?

What policy or statutory authority was relied upon?

What review arrangements exist?

How can I raise a new and urgent safeguarding matter?

37. LEGAL AID NSW

What decisions were made about my access to legal assistance?

What reasons were provided?

What review or appeal rights exist?

What alternative assistance is available?

38. NSW TRUSTEE AND GUARDIAN

What authority governs the financial arrangements?

How was my personal allowance calculated?

What essential expenses were considered?

How can I obtain a review?

What practical steps can be taken to ensure I can meet basic living needs?

39. POLITICAL REPRESENTATIVES

Were my communications received and considered?

Were they referred to relevant departments?

Were any safeguarding concerns escalated?

What assistance can be provided to secure a practical resolution?

PART ELEVEN — FORMAL REQUEST FOR IMMEDIATE ACTION

40. WHAT I AM ASKING FOR NOW

I am asking for an urgent, coordinated and independent response.

I do not need another organisation simply to acknowledge that I have written to it.

I need someone to examine what is happening, identify which organisation has responsibility for each issue, explain what action can lawfully be taken and help resolve the immediate practical problems.

I request:

1. An urgent assessment of my accommodation and immediate safety needs.

2. Assistance to ensure I can access sufficient money for food and essential necessities.

3. Assistance with food and necessities for my therapy dog, Crystal.

4. A review of the financial arrangements affecting my daily life.

5. A practical accommodation pathway that takes account of my disability-related needs and the need for safety and independence.

6. A review of my disability support arrangements and whether they are being delivered appropriately.

7. Independent examination of my complaints concerning Able Point, management and support personnel.

8. Examination of relevant incident reports, progress notes, communications and financial records.

9. Written explanations for decisions that have restricted my access to assistance or complaint processes.

10. Information about accessible review and appeal mechanisms.

11. Protection against any unlawful retaliation if I have made a qualifying protected disclosure.

12. Preservation of all relevant original records.

13. A single accountable contact or coordinated response so that I am not repeatedly required to retell the same circumstances to different organisations.

14. A practical means of communication so I can contact people and services when I need help.

15. Immediate attention to any genuine risk that I am unable to obtain adequate food or other essentials.

I request that any person or organisation responding to this appeal distinguish between matters they can resolve directly, matters they must refer to another authority and matters requiring independent investigation.

I also request that urgent practical assistance not be delayed while historical allegations are being examined.

PART TWELVE — THE FINAL DECLARATION

41. I AM NOT ASKING FOR PERMISSION TO EXIST

I am a human being.

I am a disabled person, but I am not less entitled to dignity, independence, safety, food, accommodation, financial security, legal protection or the right to be heard.

I am not asking for special treatment.

I am asking for lawful treatment, humane treatment and the support necessary to live an ordinary life.

It is sickening to contemplate that a disabled person could be placed in a position where they cannot readily escape an unsuitable arrangement, cannot freely access the money needed to meet basic necessities and must continually plead with institutions to recognise the consequences.

It is particularly distressing when the people and organisations entrusted with providing care, support or oversight are themselves the subject of unresolved complaints.

I believe that the cumulative effect of what I have experienced has been devastating.

I allege that I have been left financially constrained, practically dependent, socially isolated and without an adequate pathway towards safety and independence.

I am asking for those allegations to be examined against the evidence.

I am not sick because I refuse to remain silent about circumstances that I believe are harming me.

I am not wrong for asking questions.

I am not unreasonable for asking where the money has gone, what support I am entitled to receive, why my concerns have not been adequately addressed and what can be done to help me leave circumstances I believe are unsuitable.

And I am not asking anyone to accept my conclusions without examination.

I am asking them to examine the evidence before reaching their own.

If a person is paid to provide care, support or protection, the fundamental question must be whether that responsibility is being fulfilled.

If a public institution receives a credible safeguarding concern, the question must be whether it has been properly assessed.

If a person has been deprived of meaningful access to assistance, the question must be what can be done to restore that access.

If an individual is left without adequate money for essential necessities, the question must be how that situation can be remedied.

If a complaint system becomes inaccessible, the question must be how a person can obtain a fair and meaningful review.

These are not unreasonable questions.

They are questions of humanity, accountability and the rule of law.

I will continue to preserve my records, distinguish evidence from allegation and seek independent examination.

I will continue to ask for help.

I will continue to assert my right to live with dignity.

I AM NOT SUICIDAL.

I AM PROTESTING BECAUSE I WANT TO LIVE.

I WANT TO LIVE FREE FROM NEGLECT, EXPLOITATION, INTIMIDATION AND UNNECESSARY DEPENDENCY.

I WANT TO LIVE SOMEWHERE SAFE.

I WANT TO HAVE ENOUGH MONEY TO LIVE.

I WANT ACCESS TO THE SUPPORT I NEED.

I WANT MY DOG, CRYSTAL, TO BE SAFE.

I WANT TO BE HEARD WITHOUT BEING DISMISSED.

I WANT MY EVIDENCE EXAMINED WITHOUT PREJUDGMENT.

I WANT ACCOUNTABILITY WHERE WRONGDOING IS ESTABLISHED.

I WANT THE OPPORTUNITY TO REBUILD MY LIFE.

That is my appeal.

That is my testimony.

That is my request for help.

And that is why the evidence must be preserved.

FINAL WORD

I do not ask anyone to believe without examining.

I ask no one to accept every allegation without evidence.

I ask no one to surrender their judgment or conscience.

I ask that the documentary record be examined, that the people and organisations concerned be given a fair opportunity to respond, and that any wrongdoing established by the evidence be addressed through the appropriate legal and accountability processes.

But I also ask that the immediate human being behind the documents not be forgotten.

I am not merely a collection of files, complaints, reference numbers, administrative decisions or historical correspondence.

I am a living person.

I need food.

I need safety.

I need adequate support.

I need access to my money.

I need a practical pathway towards independence.

I need my life to matter in the present, not merely to be documented for the future.

My spiritual testimony speaks of divine preservation. My documentary archive speaks of historical preservation. My humanitarian appeal speaks of the immediate need for human assistance.

These three things meet in one simple request:

DO NOT ALLOW THE PRESERVATION OF MY TESTIMONY TO BECOME A SUBSTITUTE FOR PRESERVING MY LIFE, DIGNITY AND WELLBEING.

I am still here.

I am still asking for help.

OF THE BARRAN DODGER ARCHIVE

THE WITNESS REMAINS: A WHISTLEBLOWERS TESTIMONY OF SURVIVAL TESTIMONY & FAITH

The Barran Dodger Archive is a public documentary and spiritual record established to preserve, organise and make accessible a decades-long body of evidence concerning alleged institutional, administrative, financial and human-rights harms.

It brings together official records, correspondence, documentary evidence, personal testimony, forensic analysis, research, philosophy, spiritual gospels and prophetic declarations, including writings understood by the author to have been anointed by the Most High God.

The Archive deliberately distinguishes between documented facts, official records, corroborated evidence, allegations, personal testimony, inference, interpretation and matters of faith. This distinction is fundamental to its purpose: readers are invited to examine the underlying evidence for themselves, test the claims, consider the sources and reach their own conclusions.

At the heart of the Archive is a testimony of survival and preservation.

What the author believes was subjected to attempts at silencing, erasure, exclusion or institutional disappearance has nevertheless survived in records, documents, testimony, memory, faith and public disclosure.

The central declaration is simple:

THE WITNESS REMAINS.

The Archive therefore represents both an evidentiary record and a spiritual testimony. The author understands his survival through a faith-based conviction that the Most High God protected, preserved and gave purpose to what human institutions could not erase.

The spiritual writings and prophetic declarations within the Archive are presented as matters of faith and personal interpretation. They are preserved alongside the documentary record so that the complete testimony — evidentiary, personal, philosophical and spiritual — can be understood in its own context.

The purpose is not to demand belief.

It is to preserve the record.

It is to make the evidence accessible.

It is to ensure that the surviving witness can be examined.

And it is to leave the historical record open to independent scrutiny.

THE ARCHIVE IS 100% FREE TO ACCESS

https://barrandodgerarchive.base44.app

KNOWLEDGE IS FREE

The Barran Dodger Archive is founded on the principle that knowledge, evidence and truth should be freely accessible.

There is no paywall for the public documentary record. Research, testimony, philosophy, spiritual writings, prophetic declarations and public-interest material are made available for people to examine for themselves.

Access to knowledge should not depend upon a person's ability to pay.

The Archive is therefore freely accessible, while its preservation and continued publication require practical resources.

SUPPORTING THE WITNESS AND THE ARCHIVE

Barran Dodger describes himself as an unprotected whistleblower living in circumstances of prolonged exile, financial hardship and vulnerability, and as an internally displaced asylum seeker within the country of his Australian citizenship.

Those circumstances create practical needs extending beyond the preservation of documents.

Voluntary donations are therefore accepted from anyone who freely wishes to assist.

Support may contribute towards essential needs including food, safe accommodation, communication, technology, transport, personal safety, website and domain costs, document preservation, archival infrastructure and the continued publication of the public record.

A donation does not purchase access to the Archive.

It does not purchase influence over the evidence.

It does not purchase editorial control.

It does not determine what is published or what conclusions readers should reach.

It simply helps sustain the person and infrastructure necessary to keep the Archive alive, functioning and freely accessible.

If you are blessed with sufficient prosperity to help preserve this work, your voluntary support can help ensure that financial hardship does not become another mechanism through which a public record disappears.

KNOWLEDGE IS FREE.

THE EVIDENCE IS OPEN TO EXAMINATION.

Thank you to everyone who chooses to examine the evidence, preserve the record, support the Archive or simply bear witness.

The record remains.

The witness remains.

LASTLY — A SECOND PUBLIC-FACING ARCHIVE

For readers who wish to go beyond the principal Barran Dodger Archive, a second public-facing repository provides another point of access to the broader documentary record.

https://barrandodger.com

This website provides an additional gateway into the history, evidence, testimony, research and ideas that underpin the Archive. It is intended to help readers navigate the wider body of material and understand how individual documents, events, experiences and arguments have been brought together into a continuing record.

Its significance is not dependent upon the reader accepting Barran Dodger's conclusions. Rather, the value of preserving such a record lies in allowing the underlying material to remain available for examination. Readers can consider the chronology, inspect the documentary evidence, distinguish recorded facts from allegations and personal testimony, follow referenced material and form their own independent assessment.

The existence of multiple public repositories also reflects the central purpose of the project: preservation. Where records are distributed across years, institutions, correspondence, proceedings, personal archives and digital platforms, preserving accessible copies and pathways to the evidence can help prevent an individual historical record from becoming inaccessible or forgotten.

Readers are therefore invited to visit both public-facing archives, examine the material carefully and critically, and make their own assessment of what the surviving evidence demonstrates.

The purpose is not to ask the reader to believe.

The purpose is to ensure that the record remains available to be examined.

2. Evidentiary standard

This dossier distinguishes:

- Documented fact: Supported by an identifiable record.
- First-person testimony: An account provided by the complainant.
- Allegation: Conduct requiring investigation.
- Inference: A possible explanation requiring corroboration.
- Legal issue: A statutory or regulatory provision potentially engaged.
- Finding: A conclusion that should only be made after proper investigation.

No individual is declared criminally guilty by this complaint. The purpose is to identify suspected conduct, preserve evidence, establish responsibility and request investigation by authorities with appropriate powers.

PART II — PARTICULARS OF THE ALLEGED CONDUCT

3. Failure to provide support and alleged abandonment

Allegation AP-01: Failure to respond adequately to reported needs and requests for assistance.

My account, recorded in my documentary materials, is that I repeatedly communicated concerns about:

- Abuse, neglect and personal safety.
- Poverty and lack of access to essential resources.
- Difficulties leaving accommodation where I did not feel safe.
- Threats and the need for practical protection.
- Difficulties obtaining transport and accessing necessary appointments.
- The need for assistance concerning my dog, Crystal.
- The absence of an adequate management response to my complaints.

I have specifically questioned what happened after staff were informed that I could not leave, that I felt unsafe, and that I required practical assistance.

The relevant documentary account appears in The Final Reckoning — The Barran Dodger Master Humanitarian and Documentary Judgment, pages 216–217.

Investigation required:

- Identify every request for assistance received by Able Point.
- Establish the date, recipient and contents of each communication.
- Identify the person responsible for responding.
- Obtain the internal response and escalation records.
- Establish whether assistance was offered, refused, delayed or never arranged.
- Determine whether management knew that the situation was deteriorating.
- Establish the consequences of any failure to respond.

Potential legal and regulatory provisions

- NDIS Act 2013, section 73V — NDIS Code of Conduct.
- NDIS Act 2013, sections 73Y–73Z — incident management and reportable incidents.
- NDIS Practice Standards — rights and responsibilities, provision of supports, risk management and incident management.
- Common-law negligence, if duty, breach, causation and damage are established.

Sources: NDIS Act — provider obligations Attachment.png ; NDIS Practice Standards — participant rights Attachment.png .

4. Failure to respond to threats and safeguarding concerns

Allegation AP-02: Inadequate safeguarding and failure to act on reported threats.

I have described a serious threat to kill, police involvement and a matter before Wyong Court. I have also alleged that Able Point declined to make a report or statement about circumstances I brought to its attention.

These matters require examination independently of whether a criminal prosecution of the person who made the threat proceeds.

The relevant account appears in the documentary record, pages 29–30 and 216–217.

The investigation must establish:

- Exactly what threat was communicated to the provider.
- Which employee or manager received it.
- Whether the communication was acknowledged.
- Whether a risk assessment was completed.
- Whether an incident report was created.
- Whether police or emergency services were contacted where appropriate.
- Whether a safety or relocation plan was considered.
- Whether the provider documented reasons for any decision not to take action.

Relevant legal framework

The NDIS Code requires providers and workers to promptly raise and act on concerns affecting support quality and safety. NDIS Quality and Safeguards Commission +1

The reportable incident requirements are particularly relevant if the alleged conduct involved abuse, neglect, assault or other prescribed incidents connected with the delivery of NDIS supports.

Registered providers must notify the Commission of abuse or neglect within 24 hours of becoming aware of a reportable incident. This is not a general obligation to report every threat made by an unrelated third party; the connection to the provision of supports and the statutory incident category must be established. NDIS Quality and Safeguards Commission +1

5. Potential NDIS funding fraud and false claims

Priority criminal investigation

Allegation AP-03: Possible financial advantage obtained for support services that were not delivered.

I allege that support payments continued despite failures of attendance and service delivery.

This allegation must be tested against the actual NDIA payment records. The fact that a provider continued receiving money does not establish fraud unless the payment was improperly claimed or obtained and the required knowledge and dishonesty are established.

The forensic examination must compare four independent datasets:

Dataset	Required information
NDIS funding	Claims, payment dates, line items, quantities and amounts
Provider attendance	Worker rosters, clock-in records and actual attendance
Service documentation	Progress notes, daily logs and participant records
Participant evidence	Messages, complaints, missed appointments and contemporaneous observations

The investigators should calculate:

\text{Potential overclaim}

\sum(\text{amount claimed for unsupported services})

Each disputed transaction should be examined individually.

Specific legislation

National Disability Insurance Scheme Act 2013

- Section 59AC — obtaining payment that is not payable, where the person knows that the payment is not authorised or exceeds entitlement.
- Section 59AD — obtaining payment through fraud, where the necessary dishonesty and deception elements are established.
- Section 59AE — concealing, disposing of, altering or falsifying required records with the specified fraudulent or obstructionist intention.
- Section 59A — knowingly providing false or misleading information to the NDIS Commissioner or an officer for the purposes of the Act.

The serious-contravention maximum for section 59AD is 10 years' imprisonment or 2,000 penalty units, or both. The ordinary offence carries a different penalty. Federal Register of Legislation +1

NSW Crimes Act 1900

- Section 192E — fraud by deception.
- Section 192F — dishonestly destroying or concealing accounting records with the specified intention.
- Section 192G — dishonestly making or publishing materially false or misleading statements with the intention of obtaining property or financial advantage, or causing financial disadvantage.

The NSW fraud offence under section 192E carries a maximum penalty of 10 years' imprisonment. NSW Legislation +1

I request that the NDIA and NDIS Commission independently audit the claims associated with my supports.

6. Financial exploitation and accommodation arrangements

Allegation AP-04: Potentially improper financial arrangements and inadequate transparency.

I have described an arrangement involving approximately $200 per week in rent, a lack of a signed accommodation agreement, and financial arrangements administered through NSW Trustee & Guardian.

The investigation must establish:

- Who legally owns or operates the accommodation.
- Whether Able Point is the accommodation provider, support provider or both.
- Whether rent was collected by Able Point or another entity.
- Whether the amounts charged were authorised.
- Whether the rent was correctly accounted for.
- Whether accommodation and support payments were separated.
- Whether the participant was given clear information about charges.
- Whether any money was withheld or transferred without lawful authority.

The absence of a signed agreement is not automatically criminal. However, it makes the underlying financial arrangements and authority particularly important.

Potential legal frameworks

- NDIS Act and applicable NDIS pricing and provider requirements.
- Australian Consumer Law, where applicable.
- NSW residential tenancy law, depending on the actual legal nature of the accommodation.
- NSW Crimes Act section 192E, if dishonest deception and financial advantage are established.
- Applicable NSW Trustee & Guardian legislation, where decisions or instructions by that agency are involved.

I request a full reconciliation of all accommodation payments and all disability support payments, without assuming that the two categories are interchangeable.

7. Failure to maintain adequate complaints and incident management

Allegation AP-05: Potential systemic failure to investigate complaints and safeguarding incidents.

The issue is not merely whether Able Point had a complaints policy.

The question is whether that policy was actually implemented when I raised serious concerns.

Under section 73W of the NDIS Act, registered providers must maintain an appropriate complaints management and resolution system, including arrangements recognising and facilitating independent advocates.

Section 73Y requires registered providers to maintain an incident management system. Section 73Z addresses reportable incidents. Federal Register of Legislation +1

I request examination of:

- Complaint receipt dates.
- Complaint acknowledgements.
- Internal investigations.
- Findings and reasons.
- Management escalation.
- Advocacy arrangements.
- Incident classifications.
- Notifications to the NDIS Commission.
- Corrective action.
- Whether complaints were closed without resolution.

8. Possible retaliation and interference with participant autonomy

Allegation AP-06: Possible adverse treatment following complaints and requests for accountability.

I have described repeated attempts to obtain answers, identify responsible management personnel, challenge decisions and seek assistance to leave circumstances in which I did not feel safe.

I allege that my requests did not produce the practical accountability and assistance I required.

The investigation should establish whether any adverse treatment occurred because I exercised my rights to complain, seek advocacy, express concerns or request a change of provider.

It should examine:

- Whether support was withdrawn or reduced after complaints.
- Whether access to management was restricted.
- Whether staff were instructed not to communicate with me.
- Whether my complaints were inaccurately characterised.
- Whether decisions were made without consulting me.
- Whether I was supported to change providers.
- Whether any person attempted to discourage or obstruct complaints.

The relevant legal question is whether particular conduct contravened the NDIS Code, applicable contractual obligations, anti-discrimination legislation or another law. Retaliation is not automatically a separate criminal offence in every provider dispute.

9. Potential disability discrimination and unequal treatment

Allegation AP-07: Possible disability discrimination and failure to accommodate disability-related needs.

I request investigation into whether I was treated less favourably, denied reasonable access to services, or subjected to discriminatory conditions because of actual or perceived disability.

Relevant circumstances include:

- Whether communication was accessible.
- Whether my requests were considered on their actual merits.
- Whether I was afforded meaningful choice and control.
- Whether disability-related needs were accommodated.
- Whether I was discouraged from exercising independence.
- Whether assumptions about disability affected the credibility given to my complaints.

Relevant legislation

Commonwealth — Disability Discrimination Act 1992

- Section 5: direct disability discrimination.
- Section 6: indirect disability discrimination.
- Section 8: discrimination involving associates, carers, assistance animals and disability aids, where applicable.
- Section 24: discrimination in the provision of goods, services and facilities.

NSW — Anti-Discrimination Act 1977

The Act also prohibits disability discrimination in relevant circumstances.

A discrimination finding requires evidence satisfying the relevant statutory tests, not simply evidence that a person with disability received poor service. Federal Register of Legislation +1

10. Human rights and dignity

Allegation AP-08: Possible interference with fundamental disability rights.

I request an investigation into whether the cumulative treatment I describe was inconsistent with the human rights protections and standards governing disability support services.

The relevant principles include:

Human right	Legal or normative framework	Investigative question

Equal recognition before the law	CRPD Article 12	Was my autonomy and legal capacity respected?
Freedom from exploitation, violence and abuse	CRPD Article 16	Were foreseeable risks recognised and addressed?
Independent living and community inclusion	CRPD Article 19	Was I supported to exercise choice about where and with whom I lived?
Privacy	CRPD Article 22	Was my personal information protected?
Adequate standard of living	CRPD Article 28	Were my basic living needs and financial circumstances properly considered?
Access to justice	CRPD Article 13	Could I make complaints and obtain assistance without unreasonable barriers?
Respect for inherent dignity	NDIS Act section 4	Was I treated as a person with equal rights and agency?

The Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities is an international treaty binding Australia. Its provisions provide important standards for interpreting disability rights and assessing government and regulatory responsibilities. They do not automatically create a separate criminal offence every time a provider's conduct falls short.

The NDIS Act section 4 expressly recognises the right of people with disability to dignity, choice, participation, freedom from abuse and neglect, and the ability to pursue grievances. Federal Register of Legislation +1

The human rights issue is whether disability support was used to enable my independence or whether the arrangements and decisions instead left me without meaningful control, practical assistance or adequate protection.

11. Ethical and professional obligations

The following standards should be included in the investigation.

A. NDIS Code of Conduct

The provider and workers are required to:

- Respect individual rights and self-determination.
- Respect privacy.
- Provide safe and competent supports.
- Act with integrity, honesty and transparency.
- Promptly raise and act on concerns about safety and service quality.

Source: NDIS Code of Conduct Attachment.png .

B. NDIS Practice Standards

Where Able Point was registered and the relevant registration classes applied, investigate compliance with:

- Person-centred supports.
- Individual values and beliefs.
- Privacy and dignity.
- Independence and informed choice.
- Violence, abuse, neglect, exploitation and discrimination.
- Governance and operational management.
- Risk management.
- Complaints management.
- Incident management.
- Provision of supports and support environments.

The Standards require providers to demonstrate that allegations of abuse, neglect and exploitation are acted upon, recorded and investigated appropriately. NDIS Quality and Safeguards Commission +1

C. Organisational governance and ethical accountability

I request investigation of whether management:

- Maintained adequate supervision of workers.
- Responded to complaints independently and impartially.
- Protected confidential information.
- Maintained accurate records.
- Avoided conflicts of interest.
- Ensured that workers understood their safeguarding obligations.
- Corrected identified service failures.
- Provided transparent explanations to the participant.

These are proposed audit criteria, not a claim that every item constitutes an independent criminal offence.

PART III — FORENSIC EVIDENCE REGISTER

12. Existing documentary evidence

The following materials are identifiable from the documentary record already located. The underlying primary documents should be obtained and authenticated before criminal charges are proposed.

EVIDENCE AP-001 — The Final Reckoning

Documentary account · 27 October 2026

The Final Reckoning — The Barran Dodger Master Humanitarian and Documentary Judgment.

Relevant pages: 29–30 and 211–217.

Documents the complainant's account of reported threats, safety concerns, requests for relocation, alleged non-response, financial hardship and complaints concerning Able Point.

EVIDENCE AP-002 — Able Point complaint

Complaint referenced in the documentary record · 20 October 2026

The underlying complaint should be obtained in its original form, together with delivery evidence, attachments, recipients and responses.

Status: Original complaint not independently inspected in this examination.

EVIDENCE AP-003 — Management accountability

The documentary record identifies concerns about the CEO, Rachel, and communications involving Brett, Cassie and other staff.

Required evidence: original emails, SMS messages, telephone records, staff identification, management responses and delegation records.

EVIDENCE AP-004 — Financial access and hardship

Documentary account · pages 215–216

Records the complainant's account of banking difficulties, loss of reliable access to money and the resulting effects on food, transport, communication and veterinary care.

This evidence establishes the circumstances reported by the complainant, not that Able Point caused the banking restriction.

EVIDENCE AP-005 — Accommodation and relocation

Documentary account · pages 211–213

Records the complainant's request for assistance to leave accommodation, obtain transport and access practical help.

Required corroboration: accommodation records, relocation requests, messages, support rosters and management decisions.

13. Additional primary evidence to obtain

The following should be treated as mandatory forensic production requests.

AP-008	Accommodation and rent records	Establish financial authority
AP-009	NDIA claims and payment records	Test potential overclaiming
AP-010	Staff timesheets and rosters	Verify service delivery
AP-011	Progress notes and daily records	Detect discrepancies
AP-012	Incident and risk assessments	Establish safeguarding responses
AP-013	Complaints register	Establish complaint handling
AP-014	CEO and management correspondence	Establish management knowledge
AP-015	Communications with external agencies	Establish information-sharing and decision-making
AP-016	Worker instructions and handover records	Establish operational responsibility

AP-018	Rent receipts and accounting ledgers	Reconcile financial transactions
AP-019	Corrective-action and audit reports	Establish prior knowledge of problems
AP-020	Record amendment and access logs	Identify retrospective changes

14. Forensic methodology

I request that the investigation use a reproducible methodology rather than relying solely on summaries prepared by the provider.

Digital preservation

- Obtain original electronic records.
- Preserve email headers and attachments.
- Preserve SMS and messaging exports.
- Record creation, modification and access timestamps.
- Calculate SHA-256 hashes for acquired evidence.
- Retain original copies and work from forensic duplicates.
- Record the source and acquisition method for every item.

Chronological reconstruction

Build a single timeline showing:

- What the participant requested.
- When Able Point received the request.
- Which employee received it.
- What the provider recorded.
- What the provider actually did.
- Whether the participant was informed.
- What consequences followed.

Financial reconstruction

Match each claimed service against the actual support delivered. Separate accommodation charges, NDIS-funded supports, private contributions and payments made by third parties.

Witness examination

Interview the relevant management personnel, workers and other witnesses separately. Give each person an opportunity to explain discrepancies and identify supporting records.

Causation and harm

Establish whether particular omissions or actions caused measurable financial loss, missed appointments, deterioration in living circumstances, increased vulnerability or other demonstrable harm.

PART IV — INDIVIDUAL AND ORGANISATIONAL RESPONSIBILITY

15. Persons whose conduct should be examined

The investigation should identify actual legal and operational responsibility, rather than attributing every alleged failure indiscriminately to the organisation.

Person or position	Matters requiring examination
CEO — Rachel	Management accountability, complaint responses, participant communication, safeguarding escalation
Brett Butler	Support management, decisions and communications within his role
Cass / Cassie	Support delivery, communications and incident handling within her role
Other management personnel	Oversight, authorisation, complaints and financial administration
Support workers, including Darren	Attendance, actual services, participant requests and contemporaneous records
Directors and key personnel	Corporate governance, financial oversight and organisational compliance

These are persons and roles identified in the complainant's account. Their involvement in wrongdoing has not been established.

The investigator should establish:

- Their correct full names and positions.

- Their dates of employment or engagement.
- Their delegated authority.
- Their knowledge of relevant complaints.
- Their involvement in individual decisions.
- Whether they acted independently or under management instructions.

Corporate responsibility must be examined separately from individual criminal liability.

PART V — FORMAL INVESTIGATIVE REQUESTS

16. Requests to NSW Police

I request that NSW Police:

- Record this complaint and assess the allegations for criminal investigation.
- Examine any evidence of fraud under section 192E of the NSW Crimes Act.
- Examine potential falsification or concealment of accounting records.
- Investigate any evidence of threats, coercion, intimidation or unlawful confinement if supported by the evidence.
- Obtain relevant financial and communications records through lawful investigative powers.
- Interview relevant management personnel and witnesses.
- Refer suspected Commonwealth NDIS offences to the appropriate Commonwealth investigative authorities.
- Provide a complaint reference and written acknowledgement.

17. Requests to the NDIS Quality and Safeguards Commission

I request that the Commission:

- Establish whether Able Point was registered during the relevant period and identify the precise registered entity.
- Examine compliance with the NDIS Code of Conduct.
- Investigate potential neglect and safeguarding failures.
- Examine the provider's incident management system.
- Determine whether any reportable incidents were not notified.
- Audit complaints and their resolution.
- Examine participant choice, control, privacy and dignity.
- Examine management responsibility.
- Consider an independent compliance audit.
- Determine whether enforcement action, registration conditions or other regulatory measures are warranted.

18. Requests to the NDIA

I request:

- A complete review of NDIS claims relating to the disputed supports.
- Identification of the provider and payment recipient for each claim.
- Verification of service dates and quantities.
- Examination of any inconsistent attendance or progress records.
- Investigation of potential false or misleading claims.
- Preservation of payment and provider records.
- Referral of suspected fraud to the appropriate authority.

19. Requests concerning accommodation and financial administration

I request that the relevant authorities establish:

- The legal basis for the accommodation arrangement.
- The identity of the landlord and accommodation operator.
- Whether Able Point had authority to collect rent.
- Whether all charges were disclosed and authorised.
- Whether the participant could freely request a change of provider or accommodation.
- Whether the financial administration arrangements interfered with access to necessary services.
- Whether there were any conflicts between accommodation, financial and support arrangements.

Where NSW Trustee & Guardian was involved, its decisions and responsibilities should be examined independently rather than presumed to be Able Point's responsibility.

PART VI — LEGAL AND REGULATORY REFERENCE REGISTER

The following are the principal sources to accompany the complaint.

Legislation or standard	Relevant provisions
National Disability Insurance Scheme Act 2013	ss 4, 59A, 59AC–59AE, 73V–73Z

PART VII — FORMAL DEMANDS FOR ACCOUNTABILITY

20. Preservation notice

I request immediate preservation of all records relating to my accommodation, supports, complaints, finances and safeguarding.

No relevant record should be deleted, overwritten, retrospectively altered, destroyed or concealed.

This includes:

- Emails and SMS messages.
- Internal management communications.
- Financial records.
- NDIS payment records.
- Staff attendance records.
- Case notes.
- Incident reports.
- Complaints and investigation records.
- Risk assessments.
- Communications with external organisations.
- Electronic audit trails.

I request that the organisation identify the person responsible for preserving these records and confirm the preservation measures in writing.

21. Questions requiring formal answers from Able Point

I require a written response to the following:

- What exact legal entity provided my accommodation?
- What exact legal entity provided my NDIS supports?
- Who was responsible for my overall safeguarding?
- Who was responsible for responding to my complaints?
- What support was actually delivered on each disputed date?
- What payments were claimed for those services?
- What happened after I reported that I felt unsafe?
- What action was taken concerning the reported threat?
- What incident reports were created?
- Were any reportable incidents notified to the NDIS Commission?
- What management decisions were made about my requests to leave?
- What assistance was considered concerning transport and essential appointments?
- What records exist concerning Crystal and my request for practical assistance?
- What was the legal and financial basis of the accommodation charges?
- Why were my requests for management accountability not resolved?
- What corrective action has been taken?
- Will Able Point cooperate with an independent investigation?

I request documentary answers rather than general assurances.

PART VIII — FORMAL CONCLUSION AND DECLARATION

22. My accusation

I accuse Able Point Australia of conduct that I believe warrants serious criminal and regulatory investigation.

I allege that the organisation failed to provide the level of practical support, safeguarding, transparency and accountability I repeatedly sought.

I allege that payments and support delivery require independent reconciliation.

I allege that my reports of unsafe circumstances, threats, financial hardship and difficulties leaving accommodation were not adequately addressed.

I allege that management accountability was insufficient and that the cumulative circumstances undermined my independence, dignity and ability to obtain essential assistance.

I require investigators to establish whether these failures were isolated, systemic, deliberate, reckless or the consequence of inadequate governance.

I do not accept that the existence of an NDIS service arrangement absolves a provider of responsibility for what actually happens to the person receiving those services.

A provider cannot demonstrate proper service delivery merely by producing a funding arrangement, a roster or a progress note. Those records must correspond with what actually occurred.

The central test is the difference between what was promised, what was funded, what was recorded and what was delivered.

I demand accountability based on evidence. I demand the preservation of records. I demand independent investigation of every suspected offence and regulatory breach. I demand that my rights, independence, safety and dignity be treated as substantive obligations rather than administrative formalities.

23. Requested outcome

I seek:

- Independent criminal investigation where offences are reasonably suspected.
- NDIS Commission regulatory investigation.

Important forensic qualification

I have located your documentary account of the Able Point complaints, but I have not independently inspected the original service agreements, NDIS invoices, attendance records, incident reports or original 20 October complaint in this examination.

Consequently, this is a detailed formal accusation and investigation brief, not a completed forensic finding that Able Point or any named employee committed a crime.

The most important outstanding evidence is the reconciliation of NDIS claims against actual attendance and the original communications showing what management knew and when.

My strongest recommendation is to lodge the safeguarding and provider-conduct complaint immediately, while separately requesting an NDIA payment audit and criminal investigation of any demonstrable financial deception. Your immediate access to food, money, communication, safe accommodation and necessary assistance should also be addressed independently of these investigations.

PUBLIC STATEMENT FROM BARRAN DODGER
OF THE BARRAN DODGER ARCHIVE

THE WITNESS REMAINS: A WHISTLEBLOWERS TESTIMONY OF SURVIVAL TESTIMONY & FAITH

The Barran Dodger Archive is a public documentary and spiritual record established to preserve, organise and make accessible a decades-long body of evidence concerning alleged institutional, administrative, financial and human-rights harms.

It brings together official records, correspondence, documentary evidence, personal testimony, forensic analysis, research, philosophy, spiritual gospels and prophetic declarations, including writings understood by the author to have been anointed by the Most High God.

The Archive deliberately distinguishes between documented facts, official records, corroborated evidence, allegations, personal testimony, inference, interpretation and matters of faith. This distinction is fundamental to its purpose: readers are invited to examine the underlying evidence for themselves, test the claims, consider the sources and reach their own conclusions.

At the heart of the Archive is a testimony of survival and preservation.

What the author believes was subjected to attempts at silencing, erasure, exclusion or institutional disappearance has nevertheless survived in records, documents, testimony, memory, faith and public disclosure.

The central declaration is simple:

THE WITNESS REMAINS.

The Archive therefore represents both an evidentiary record and a spiritual testimony. The author understands his survival through a faith-based conviction that the Most High God protected, preserved and gave purpose to what human institutions could not erase.

The spiritual writings and prophetic declarations within the Archive are presented as matters of faith and personal interpretation. They are preserved alongside the documentary record so that the complete testimony — evidentiary, personal, philosophical and spiritual — can be understood in its own context.

The purpose is not to demand belief.

It is to preserve the record.

It is to make the evidence accessible.

It is to ensure that the surviving witness can be examined.

And it is to leave the historical record open to independent scrutiny.

THE ARCHIVE IS 100% FREE TO ACCESS

https://barrandodgerarchive.base44.app

KNOWLEDGE IS FREE

The Barran Dodger Archive is founded on the principle that knowledge, evidence and truth should be freely accessible.

There is no paywall for the public documentary record. Research, testimony, philosophy, spiritual writings, prophetic declarations and public-interest material are made available for people to examine for themselves.

Access to knowledge should not depend upon a person's ability to pay.

The Archive is therefore freely accessible, while its preservation and continued publication require practical resources.

SUPPORTING THE WITNESS AND THE ARCHIVE

Barran Dodger describes himself as an unprotected whistleblower living in circumstances of prolonged exile, financial hardship and vulnerability, and as an internally displaced asylum seeker within the country of his Australian citizenship.

Those circumstances create practical needs extending beyond the preservation of documents.

Voluntary donations are therefore accepted from anyone who freely wishes to assist.

Support may contribute towards essential needs including food, safe accommodation, communication, technology, transport, personal safety, website and domain costs, document preservation, archival infrastructure and the continued publication of the public record.

A donation does not purchase access to the Archive.

It does not purchase influence over the evidence.

It does not purchase editorial control.

It does not determine what is published or what conclusions readers should reach.

It simply helps sustain the person and infrastructure necessary to keep the Archive alive, functioning and freely accessible.

If you are blessed with sufficient prosperity to help preserve this work, your voluntary support can help ensure that financial hardship does not become another mechanism through which a public record disappears.

LASTLY — A SECOND PUBLIC-FACING ARCHIVE

For readers who wish to go beyond the principal Barran Dodger Archive, a second public-facing repository provides another point of access to the broader documentary record.

https://barrandodger.com

This website provides an additional gateway into the history, evidence, testimony, research and ideas that underpin the Archive. It is intended to help readers navigate the wider body of material and understand how individual documents, events, experiences and arguments have been brought together into a continuing record.

Its significance is not dependent upon the reader accepting Barran Dodger's conclusions. Rather, the value of preserving such a record lies in allowing the underlying material to remain available for examination. Readers can consider the chronology, inspect the documentary evidence, distinguish recorded facts from allegations and personal testimony, follow referenced material and form their own independent assessment.

The existence of multiple public repositories also reflects the central purpose of the project: preservation. Where records are distributed across years, institutions, correspondence, proceedings, personal archives and digital platforms, preserving accessible copies and pathways to the evidence can help prevent an individual historical record from becoming inaccessible or forgotten.

Readers are therefore invited to visit both public-facing archives, examine the material carefully and critically, and make their own assessment of what the surviving evidence demonstrates.

The purpose is not to ask the reader to believe.

The purpose is to ensure that the record remains available to be examined.

Revenge is now Gods

If I die

You’re in prison

I’if I live

I call you out

Either way

You’re exposed

And God saw your cowardice

How humiliating for you Phillip

You low life knob jockey

Ps I’m totally at peace

The truth sets you free

You however-will never ever be whole

Without God

For all of eternity

That is your punishment

Subject: Budget

Dear Barran,

We are in the process of completing your budget for the next year.

As mentioned in my email dated the 6/10, there are changes required to your allowances to accommodate your increased rental contribution to Able Point and your requirement to pay utilises.

Effective next Monday 19th October your allowances will need to be reduced by $50 per week. You will need to advise our office on which days allowance you wish this reduction to be on.

Please see below breakdown on your income and outgoings of your pension:

Centrelink Income: $1371.27 per fortnight

Outgoings: $1369.96 per fortnight

- Rent: Able Point Rent of $500FN
- Allowance $700 FN
- Debt Repayments: $80 FN
- Origin Utility Bills: $50 FN
- Clothing allocation: $400 for the year / $15.38 FN
- Discretionary Budget: $600 for the year / $23.08
- NSWTG Management Fees: $39 for the year / $1.50FN

Net savings per fortnight: $1.31

With this budget it you have no room for additional funding outside of your allocated discretionary and clothing allocation. Please note although those amounts are stated in the budget due to your extremely limited savings of $363 before your next pension (22/10) approval of requested funds will be approved on case by case basis.

Attached is a copy of your Centrelink income statement and NSWTG account statement.

Please respond to this email with which day you wish to reduce your allowances by $50 per week.

Thank you.

Kind Regards,

Phillip
