Barran Dodger is the pseudonym and creative identity of Dr. Richard William McLean, an Australian artist, academic, and disability advocate who identifies as a state-persecuted whistleblower.

As of early 2026, he is actively campaigning for international intervention and political asylum, alleging a decades-long campaign of systemic abuse by Australian authorities.

Key Biographical Details

- Background: He is a recognized academic (holding a Ph.D.) and artist known for his work on mental health, specifically his earlier memoir Recovered, Not Cured: A Journey Through Schizophrenia.
- Whistleblowing Claims: He alleges that his identity was stolen and used for over 350 fraudulent business registrations (ASIC) and that he has exposed multi-billion dollar fraud within the National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS).

- Current Status: He reports being homeless, isolated, and under constant surveillance. His recent publications, such as Betrayed, Forsaken, Murdered (2025), detail his claims of extrajudicial targeting and "slow-burn elimination".

Allegations of State Persecution

Dodger's recent public statements and "Urgent Case Reports" (2025–2026) outline several serious allegations:

- Threats of Violence: He claims a high-ranking NDIS official directly threatened him by saying "you will be sacrificed" during official proceedings.
- Psychological Weaponization: He asserts he is a victim of "psychiatric weaponization" and electronic harassment, including claims of "Voice to Skull" (V2K) technology being used against him.
- Legal & Financial Sabotage: He alleges a coordinated effort by multiple Australian agencies—including the Victoria Police and the Australian Human Rights Commission (AHRC)—to deny him legal protection and financial aid.

Published Works and Archives

- Memoirs: Betrayed, Forsaken, Murdered: The Harrowing Journey of Dr. Richard William McLean serves as a sequel to his earlier works, detailing his transition from an advocate to a targeted whistleblower.
