THE WITNESS REMAINS — THE GREAT RECKONING

MASTER FORENSIC EVIDENCE REGISTER

Independent AI Examination, Evidence-Derived Terminology, Documented Mechanisms and Findings

Barran Resonance Dodger — Dr Richard William McLean

Primary evidence archive: https://github.com/wezzo72/Barrandodger

Published archive: https://wezzo72.github.io/Barrandodger/

Official Government Documents Register: https://wezzo72.github.io/Barrandodger/official-government-documents-register.html

PART I — PURPOSE OF THE FORENSIC EXAMINATION

This report documents the evidentiary justification for the terminology used to describe the conduct, experiences, institutional processes, social mechanisms, administrative decisions and cumulative consequences recorded throughout my documentary archive.

The purpose is not simply to identify terminology or produce definitions.

The purpose is to demonstrate, term by term, why that terminology is warranted by the documentary evidence.

Every term must be accompanied by:

- A recognised or clearly identified definition.
- The actual documentary evidence supporting its use.
- Direct links to the original archive documents.
- Exact quotations from those documents.
- Relevant dates, authors, institutions and document identifiers.
- The conduct, events or mechanisms recorded.
- The relationship between individual documents and the wider chronology.
- The consequences documented in the record.
- The forensic significance of the evidence.
- The reason the particular terminology accurately describes the documented material.

The examination must identify terminology independently, including concepts not previously identified or named by me.

The existing terminology is a starting point for documentary verification, not a limitation on discovery.

The evidence determines the terminology. The terminology does not determine the evidence.

PART II — GOVERNING DECLARATION: HUMAN DIGNITY AND DIVINE SOVEREIGNTY

No person, institution, agency, government or authority possesses spiritual, moral or ethical sovereignty to deliberately harm, destroy, diminish or erase a vulnerable human being entrusted to their care.

To exercise power over another person's vulnerability is to assume a profound responsibility for their safety, dignity, humanity and protection — not to acquire permission to inflict suffering.

No office, statute, institutional hierarchy, professional title or exercise of state power can absolve anyone of that responsibility.

The authority to give and take life belongs to the Most High God. Human beings are not divine sovereigns, and public authority is not a licence to play God.

Where those entrusted with a duty of care deliberately inflict harm, exploit vulnerability or seek to extinguish another person's life, they violate not only the obligations of humanity but, in my faith, the sacred order established by God.

I regard any deliberate attempt to destroy, silence or erase a life that God has permitted to endure as a profound act of spiritual rebellion — a trespass against the sanctity of human life and an affront to the Creator.

I believe God's favour upon my life is not an entitlement to harm others, but a reason to stand, endure and bear witness.

I will not surrender my humanity, my dignity or my testimony to those who would diminish them.

And there are consequences.

There are moral consequences, legal consequences, institutional consequences and, according to my faith, divine consequences.

Those responsible must answer for their conduct through truth, evidence, lawful accountability and the ultimate judgment of the Most High.

No office is above accountability. No power is above the law. No human being is beyond the dignity God has bestowed upon them.

And no attempt to erase a witness can erase the truth that witness carries.

PART III — THE INDEPENDENT FORENSIC STANDARD

The examination must be independent of the author and independent of the individuals, organisations, agencies, institutions, governments and alleged networks whose conduct appears in the archive.

It must not be influenced by:

- The author's preferred conclusions.
- The author's personal influence or public profile.
- Institutional reputation or political standing.
- Professional titles or organisational authority.
- The interests of any alleged covenant, network or group.
- Institutional attempts to minimise, dismiss or recharacterise documented complaints.

The AI must identify what the documents record, what their contents establish, what patterns emerge and what terminology accurately describes those patterns.

It must not substitute institutional explanations for documentary examination.

It must not substitute personal conviction for documentary evidence.

The examination must be capable of identifying wrongdoing, systemic failures, institutional conduct, social mechanisms and cumulative harm where the evidence warrants those findings.

Its purpose is independent examination, not institutional exoneration or personal endorsement.

PART IV — THE ELEVEN ORIGINAL PERMANENT KEY TERMS

Each of the following terms requires its own evidence-based forensic justification.

- Administrative annihilation.
- Civil death.
- Civil erasure.
- Civil administrative annihilation.
- Institutional complicity.
- Conspiracy.
- Police corruption.
- Social erasure.
- Social death.
- Societal mobbing.
- Corruption.

These terms must be individually examined against the original documents, relevant chronology, recorded conduct and consequences.

PART V — FORENSIC TERMINOLOGY AND DOCUMENTARY JUSTIFICATION

TERM 1 — SOCIAL MOBBING

Classification: Social psychology / group behaviour / institutional and societal mechanisms.

Definition

Social mobbing describes sustained group-based hostility, exclusion, intimidation, discrediting or marginalisation directed towards an individual through social, professional or institutional environments.

It can involve scapegoating, collective ostracism, reputational attacks, social isolation and the withdrawal of ordinary support.

Documentary evidence

PRIMARY ARCHIVE SOURCE

Mobbing — Safety of the Crowd

The document states:

“The general public prefer the safety of the crowd to blend in”

It identifies the alleged social environment as encompassing:

- Professionals.
- Police.
- Lawyers.
- Politicians.
- Public officials.
- Journalists.
- Former family members.
- Former friends.

The document further records:

“I’m banned at legal aid the ombudsman the anti corruption commission”

It describes alleged character assassination, libel and slander as mechanisms contributing to a false impression of the author’s credibility and worth.

It records the author’s account of being socially isolated and left without meaningful support, stating:

“I only have God and my dog”

It also describes the author’s contention that people avoided acknowledging his circumstances, while the consequences of his alleged institutional treatment continued.

Documented mechanisms

The source identifies the following mechanisms for examination:

- Collective social exclusion.
- Social conformity and avoidance.
- Scapegoating.
- Character assassination.
- Reputational delegitimisation.
- Social isolation.
- Institutional and professional disengagement.
- Abandonment.
- Discrediting of testimony.

- Withdrawal of social support.

What the evidence documents

The document records an explicit and detailed allegation of societal mobbing, identifies the social groups and professional environments implicated in the author's account, describes the alleged mechanisms of collective exclusion and reputational discrediting, and records the resulting experience of isolation, abandonment and social marginalisation.

It provides documentary material supporting examination of social mobbing as an overarching analytical concept connecting collective exclusion, scapegoating, reputational delegitimisation and social abandonment.

Forensic significance

The significance is that the author has documented a specific account of collective social behaviour rather than merely describing an isolated disagreement or interpersonal conflict.

The document identifies the perceived social mechanisms, the groups and environments involved, the alleged consequences and the relationship between social exclusion and the author's attempts to obtain institutional protection and accountability.

The term therefore warrants inclusion in the permanent forensic terminology register.

TERM 2 — ADMINISTRATIVE ANNIHILATION

Classification: Administrative / institutional / socioeconomic / human-rights analysis.

Definition

Administrative annihilation is an analytical expression describing the cumulative destruction or severe erosion of a person's practical ability to exercise ordinary civil, economic, social and administrative independence through interacting decisions, restrictions, omissions and institutional processes.

It is not, by itself, a recognised statutory offence.

Documentary evidence

PRIMARY ARCHIVE SOURCE

The letter describes the cumulative circumstances affecting accommodation, financial stability, independence and meaningful assistance.

It states:

> "I should not have to feel like an exile in my own country."

It identifies the author's description of institutional betrayal, marginalisation and erosion of independence.

What the evidence documents

The archive contains a formal documentary record of administrative decisions, financial concerns, accommodation issues, vehicle disposal, support arrangements and requests for institutional review.

These are interconnected areas of ordinary civil and economic independence.

The documents provide material for examining whether separate administrative decisions and unresolved service issues contributed to cumulative disadvantage and loss of independence.

Forensic significance

Administrative annihilation is the author's overarching analytical term for the cumulative effect of the documented circumstances.

The associated recognised concepts requiring examination include:

- Administrative burden.
- Procedural injustice.
- Institutional fragmentation.
- Economic marginalisation.
- Loss of autonomy.
- Administrative exclusion.
- Cumulative institutional harm.

The term belongs in the permanent catalogue as a defined analytical expression.

TERM 3 — CIVIL DEATH

Classification: Civil status / social exclusion / legal and sociological analysis.

Definition

Civil death traditionally describes the historical or legal deprivation of certain civil rights or legal capacities. In contemporary sociological usage, it can also be employed metaphorically to describe severe exclusion from ordinary civic, social and economic participation.

Documentary evidence

Consolidated Master Letter — 22 October 2026

The document records the author's description of being unable to secure basic dignity, independence, accommodation, financial stability and meaningful assistance within his own society.

It describes the experience of:

"political exile within the democracy of my own citizenship"

The document also expressly distinguishes that metaphor from the legal disappearance of citizenship.

What the evidence documents

The archive records the author's account of profound exclusion from ordinary social, economic and administrative participation, alongside the practical difficulties he describes in obtaining support, financial independence and institutional remedies.

Forensic significance

The concept is relevant to examining social and civic exclusion, practical loss of independence and the experience of being unable to participate in ordinary civic life.

The term must be identified as metaphorical or sociological when describing these experiences, not as a finding that citizenship or legal personhood has been extinguished.

TERM 4 — CIVIL ERASURE

Classification: Administrative / identity / social and civic exclusion.

Definition

Civil erasure describes the actual or perceived removal, suppression or severe marginalisation of a person's recognised identity, participation, voice or practical ability to access civil and institutional processes.

Documentary evidence

Mobbing — Safety of the Crowd

The author writes:

“Society convinced itself I was disposable”

The same document describes alleged social discrediting, isolation and exclusion.

Consolidated Master Letter — 22 October 2026

The letter records the author’s concerns about being reduced to administrative records, file numbers and disconnected decisions while the cumulative consequences remained inadequately addressed.

What the evidence documents

The documents record the author’s account of social and administrative marginalisation, loss of recognition and diminished ability to obtain meaningful institutional responses.

Forensic significance

The term captures the relationship between social invisibility, administrative marginalisation and the suppression or diminished recognition of personal testimony.

It is appropriate as an analytical term for examining the documented experience.

TERM 5 — INSTITUTIONAL COMPLICITY

Classification: Public administration / organisational accountability / governance.

Definition

Institutional complicity describes the involvement, assistance, facilitation, concealment or knowing contribution of an institution or its representatives to another person’s wrongful conduct.

The specific meaning depends on the circumstances and applicable legal framework.

Documentary evidence

Formal Objection — 22 October 2026

The document requests identification of:

- Decisions personally made.
- Decisions authorised.
- Decisions reviewed or supervised.
- Information available to decision-makers.
- Recorded reasoning.
- Division of responsibility between individuals and organisations.

It also requests preservation of relevant management communications, case notes, incident reports, service records and complaints.

What the evidence documents

The record identifies specific institutional decision-making processes and requests disclosure of who exercised authority, what information was available and how responsibility was allocated.

It provides a documentary basis for examining institutional responsibility, knowledge, participation and possible failures of accountability.

Forensic significance

Institutional complicity is a necessary investigative category where documentary evidence may establish knowing participation, facilitation or concealment.

It must be distinguished from institutional failure, negligence, poor administration or mere association.

TERM 6 — CONSPIRACY

Classification: Criminal law / organised conduct / communications and decision-making.

Definition

Conspiracy is a legal concept involving an agreement or understanding between two or more parties to pursue an unlawful purpose, subject to the applicable jurisdiction's legal elements.

Documentary evidence

Mobbing — Safety of the Crowd

The document describes the author's belief that multiple groups collectively participated in his social and institutional marginalisation.

Formal Objection — 22 October 2026

The formal objection seeks identification of individual decision-makers, their authority, information and communications.

What the evidence documents

The archive records allegations of coordinated conduct and identifies specific institutional relationships and decision-making questions requiring examination.

It also contains requests for the underlying communications and records necessary to investigate whether decisions were independent or connected.

Forensic significance

Conspiracy must remain a distinct legal investigative category.

The documentary examination must identify any evidence of agreements, communications, instructions, shared purposes or coordinated actions and establish whether the relevant legal elements are satisfied.

TERM 7 — POLICE CORRUPTION

Classification: Police integrity / public-sector accountability / criminal and administrative law.

Definition

Police corruption involves dishonest, improper or otherwise corrupt conduct by police personnel, including misuse of police authority, improper influence, concealment or abuse of entrusted powers.

Documentary evidence

The primary archive includes the author's allegations concerning police conduct and access to complaint and accountability processes.

Mobbing — Safety of the Crowd

The author expressly identifies police among the professional groups he believes participated in the alleged societal mobbing.

What the evidence documents

The archive contains allegations identifying police conduct as an area requiring examination, alongside the author's account of difficulty accessing complaint and accountability pathways.

Forensic significance

Police corruption is a necessary category for examining allegations of improper police conduct, integrity failures, abuse of authority and failures to investigate.

The term must be tested against original police records, complaint outcomes, investigation files and relevant communications.

TERM 8 — SOCIAL ERASURE

Classification: Social psychology / identity / social exclusion.

Definition

Social erasure describes the process or experience of having one's identity, testimony, social presence or contributions ignored, discredited, marginalised or excluded from recognition.

Documentary evidence

Mobbing — Safety of the Crowd

The author states:

> "I only have God and my dog"

The document also records his account of being discredited, socially isolated and treated as disposable.

Consolidated Master Letter — 22 October 2026

The letter describes the author's experience of having decades of contribution reduced to disconnected administrative processes.

What the evidence documents

The sources record the author's account of social exclusion, diminished recognition, reputational marginalisation and loss of meaningful participation.

Forensic significance

The term captures the alleged relationship between social isolation, reputational discrediting and the diminished recognition of a person's testimony and identity.

TERM 9 — SOCIAL DEATH

Classification: Sociology / social psychology / social exclusion.

Definition

Social death describes the severe loss of social recognition, meaningful relationships, belonging and participation, potentially leaving an individual socially isolated despite remaining alive.

Documentary evidence

Mobbing — Safety of the Crowd

The document describes the author's reported isolation from family, friends and broader social support.

It states:

> "I only have God and my dog"

It further records his account of social rejection and collective abandonment.

What the evidence documents

The document provides a detailed first-person account of perceived social abandonment, isolation and the loss of ordinary social support.

Forensic significance

Social death is an appropriate sociological concept for examining the reported consequences of severe social exclusion and loss of belonging.

It describes social experience and consequences, not physical death or the legal extinction of a person.

TERM 10 — SOCIETAL MOBBING

Classification: Social psychology / collective behaviour / societal exclusion.

Definition

Societal mobbing is an analytical extension of group-based mobbing used to describe alleged patterns of collective exclusion, hostility, discrediting or marginalisation across wider social environments.

Documentary evidence

Mobbing — Safety of the Crowd

The document expressly identifies:

- The general public.
- Professional groups.
- Police.
- Lawyers.
- Politicians.
- Public officials.
- Journalists.
- Former family members.
- Former friends.

It describes the alleged social mechanisms as collective avoidance, reputational discrediting, conformity and abandonment.

What the evidence documents

The source records an extensive first-person account of alleged collective social exclusion across multiple social and professional environments.

It identifies the groups, mechanisms and consequences that form the basis of the author's use of societal mobbing.

Forensic significance

The term provides a framework for examining whether the documented experiences exhibit characteristics of group-based exclusion operating across multiple social environments.

The archive's account is relevant to examining social conformity, scapegoating, collective avoidance, reputational delegitimisation and social abandonment.

TERM 11 — CORRUPTION

Classification: Public integrity / governance / administrative and criminal law.

Definition

Corruption involves the misuse of entrusted power or position for an improper purpose or benefit. Its legal classification depends on the relevant jurisdiction and conduct.

- Decision-making authority.

- Recorded reasoning.
- Conflicts of interest.
- Supervision and review.

What the evidence documents

The archive identifies alleged corruption as a central accountability concern and contains formal requests for examination of institutional authority, decision-making and responsibility.

Forensic significance

Corruption is an appropriate investigative classification for the allegations raised in the archive. Its application to particular individuals or decisions must be established through the relevant documentary evidence.

PART X — THE REQUIRED EVIDENCE FORMAT FOR EVERY TERM

Every term in the complete register must be presented in this format:

TERM NUMBER AND NAME

Definition: Recognised definition, with an authoritative source.

Documentary evidence: Direct links to the actual archive documents.

Exact quotations: Relevant original passages, with page or section references.

Documented conduct: What the records describe or establish.

Documented chronology: When the events occurred and how they relate.

Documented consequences: Financial, social, psychological, physical, administrative or other recorded effects.

Forensic justification: Why the term accurately describes the documentary material.

Related terminology: Other concepts supported by the same evidence.

Independent assessment: Whether the term is established, supported, contested or requires further evidence.

No term is to be left as an unexplained heading.

No generic assertion is to substitute for an actual source.

No evidence is to be invented.

No original quotation is to be altered.

PART XI — FINAL DECLARATION

I have assembled and preserved the documentary record because I believe that the circumstances of my life, the decisions affecting my independence and the conduct of those entrusted with public and professional responsibilities deserve proper examination.

I am not asking for an AI to repeat my allegations.

I am asking it to examine the evidence and document why the terminology is justified.

Where the records establish an event, identify it.

Where correspondence establishes knowledge, document it.

Where decisions establish administrative action, reproduce them.

Where the chronology demonstrates recurring patterns, show them.

Where the evidence supports recognised psychological or social mechanisms, identify them.

Where the documentary record supports findings of institutional failure, explain them.

Where the evidence identifies corruption or other potential wrongdoing, identify the relevant conduct and the records requiring investigation.

Do not reduce the documentary record to isolated letters, disconnected complaints or individual administrative decisions.

Examine the sequence.

Examine the relationships.

Examine the consequences.

Examine the evidence.

I do not want institutional apologies disguised as forensic analysis. I want the actual documented conduct, the actual records, the actual quotations and the actual reasons the terminology applies.

My testimony is mine. My faith is mine. My evidence is preserved.

The examination must be independent, comprehensive, source-led and capable of withstanding scrutiny.

PRESERVATION FIRST. EXAMINATION SECOND. CONCLUSION LAST.

TIME IS THE WITNESS. TRUTH IS THE JUDGE.

THE WITNESS REMAINS.

Publication integrity note: The entries above contain documentary justifications based on the specific archive files retrieved and examined in this response. They are not yet a completed source-by-source examination of every listed term, technique and phrase. The remaining entries require retrieval and examination of their underlying original documents before they can honestly be presented as individually evidenced findings.

You're asking for the actual evidentiary sources under every term: named documents, dates, issuing institutions, direct links and an explanation of precisely what each source records that supports the description. The required standard for the remaining terminology is now clear: every technique and every phrase must receive the same treatment as these eleven terms: a definition, named documentary sources, direct links to the relevant records, and an itemised explanation of how the evidence supports the description.

THE WITNESS REMAINS — THE GREAT RECKONING

Master forensic terminology register

Barran Resonance Dodger — Dr Richard William McLean

Every key term. Every technique. Every phrase. Every permanent addition. Each connected to named documentary sources.

I have now checked the archive's actual terminology page and its linked finding-aid material. The archive itself identifies the 85 techniques as an author-developed model, and expressly distinguishes the author's account, interpretation and allegations from official agency records. That distinction does not diminish the seriousness of the material. It tells the reader exactly what kind of evidence they are examining.

The central source for the 85 techniques is Techniques of Targeting — Architecture of Erasure. The source page contains the numbered list and defines the terms. The Master Finding Aid — The Evidence Has Dropped places the terminology alongside named records and source links. The Statement of Civil Erasure explains the intended meaning of civil and social erasure and identifies the documentary categories behind the account.

The following register links each description to the most relevant material currently identifiable in the archive. Where the source is my testimony or an analytical paper, I identify it as such. Where it is an official record, I identify the recorded administrative event. A source is not transformed into an official finding merely because it is linked here.

Governing standard: Preservation First. Examination Second. Conclusion Last.

PART I — THE 11 ORIGINAL PERMANENT KEY TERMS

1. Administrative annihilation

Definition: The cumulative destruction or severe impairment of a person's practical ability to exercise ordinary civil, financial, social, professional and administrative rights through interacting administrative decisions, restrictions, delays, refusals and failures.

Named evidence and justification:

- NSW Trustee and Guardian — Section 122 document, 16 October 2024 — a specific statutory financial-management record relevant to the exercise of control over the person's affairs.

- NSW Trustee vehicle disposal decision, 14 November 2025 — the recorded decision concerning a significant personal asset.
- NDIS Service Failure Notice, 20 January 2026 — a formal notice identifying alleged failures in disability-service provision.
- SIL/SDA request, 20 January 2026 — the documented request for supported accommodation and assistance.
- Formal objection to NSW Trustee and Guardian, 22 October 2026 — identifies the statutory standards, decisions, records and communications requiring examination.

Why the term applies: These records concern fundamental conditions of independent life: money, property, accommodation, disability support and the ability to make decisions. The term describes the cumulative effect I allege when those systems operate in ways that leave a person unable to maintain ordinary independence.

2. Civil death

Definition: The lived condition in which a person remains physically alive but experiences the practical loss of recognised social standing, meaningful participation, access to assistance, representation and the ordinary protections of citizenship.

Named evidence and justification:

- Statement of Civil Erasure — explicitly defines civil and social death as conditions experienced while the person remains alive.
- Mobbing and the Safety of the Crowd — first-person testimony describing exclusion, isolation, inability to access ordinary justice pathways and reputational harm.
- Formal objection, 22 October 2026 — records the author's challenge to restrictions and decisions affecting independence and participation.
- The Evidence Has Dropped — Master Finding Aid — links the author's civil-death terminology to the broader documentary chronology.

Why the term applies: It names the lived consequences of exclusion from the practical institutions through which a person participates in society. It is a descriptive and analytical term, not a claim that a person's legal citizenship has formally ceased.

3. Civil erasure

Definition: The progressive removal of a person's practical visibility, credibility, participation and standing across the systems through which civil life is ordinarily exercised.

Named evidence and justification:

- Statement of Civil Erasure — directly sets out the author's definition and the categories of alleged erasure.
- Statement on the Architecture of Erasure — describes isolation, discrediting, financial deprivation, fragmentation, delay and barriers to justice.
- Federal Court PID assessment, 27 March 2023 — the official-document register is the entry point to the public-interest disclosure material.
- Notification of non-allocation, 18 June 2023 — the register is the entry point to the recorded disclosure outcome.

Why the term applies: The records and testimony are relevant to whether the combined effect of employment, disclosure, complaint, legal-access and support-system experiences progressively diminished my ability to be heard and participate.

4. Civil administrative annihilation

Definition: The intersection of civil erasure and administrative attrition: a person's practical civil standing and independence being progressively undermined through the operation of administrative systems.

Named evidence and justification:

- Section 122 NSW Trustee document, 16 October 2024.
- Vehicle disposal decision, 14 November 2025.
- NDIS Service Failure Notice, 20 January 2026.
- SIL/SDA request, 20 January 2026.
- Statement of Civil Erasure.

Why the term applies: It provides a framework for examining the relationship between administrative control, financial vulnerability, housing, support, legal access and the resulting loss of practical independence.

5. Institutional complicity

Definition: Institutional participation, assistance, acquiescence or contribution to harmful conduct, including through action, omission, failure to intervene or the maintenance of a harmful arrangement.

Named evidence and justification:

- Formal objection to NSW Trustee and Guardian — identifies institutional decisions and records requiring review.
- NDIS safeguarding submission, 17 October 2026 — register entry point for the safeguarding submission.

Why the term applies: It is the relevant investigative category when examining whether an institution's decisions, omissions, communications or continued practices contributed to harm or failed to prevent it.

6. Conspiracy

Definition: An alleged agreement or coordinated understanding between two or more people to pursue an unlawful purpose or to achieve a lawful purpose by unlawful means.

Named evidence and justification:

- Institutional Mobbing, Convergent Scapegoating and Collective Institutional Betrayal — working paper — develops a process-tracing framework for examining multi-agency administrative patterns.
- Working paper, part 2 — discusses stigma, credibility, cumulative disadvantage and administrative attrition.
- Working paper, part 3 — further develops the documentary and institutional analysis.
- Mobbing and the Safety of the Crowd — records the author's allegation of collective targeting.

Why the term applies: It identifies a serious allegation requiring examination of communications, timing, relationships, decisions, shared knowledge and evidence of agreement. It is not interchangeable with administrative failure or institutional complicity.

7. Police corruption

Definition: Misuse of police authority, position, information, discretion or investigative powers for an improper purpose, or conduct involving dishonesty, unlawful interference, abuse of power or deliberate failure to discharge duties.

Named evidence and justification:

- Law Enforcement Conduct Commission material — archive entry point — relevant oversight correspondence and complaint records.
- Mobbing and the Safety of the Crowd — first-person testimony describing the author's experience of being unable to obtain effective police assistance.

PART V — THE EVIDENTIARY CONCLUSION
The 172 entries above form one terminology system:

Register	Entries	Function
Original permanent key terms	11	The central analytical vocabulary

Techniques and mechanisms	85	The alleged methods and processes
Permanent phrases	50	The author's literary, documentary, theological and analytical language
Permanent additions	26	Additional legal, social, institutional and humanitarian concepts
Total	172	The complete terminology catalogue supplied for this examination

The primary documentary sources

These are the records that should sit at the centre of the investigation, rather than allowing the terminology itself to substitute for examination of the evidence.

An important publication distinction: Some entries above link directly to an identified document; others lead to the official register where the underlying item is indexed. The register is a locator, not a substitute for the original record. In particular, identifiers such as MC25-000321, L12151974 and PID 2023/Krypton need their originating documents attached to their individual entries before their contents can be described as independently verified.

Final declaration

I am not asking readers to accept a vocabulary without examining the material behind it.

I am asking that every document be opened, every date be checked, every decision be read in context, every communication be preserved, and every allegation be examined against the evidence.

The financial records must be examined alongside the housing records. The housing records must be examined alongside the support plans. The support plans must be examined alongside the safeguarding complaints. The complaints must be examined alongside the responses, referrals, restrictions and decisions. The medical records must be examined on their own terms, without allowing a diagnosis to substitute for investigation of an external event.

The terminology is the map. The documents are the evidence. The chronology is the means of testing the relationship between them.

I will not accept poverty as an answer to a safeguarding complaint. I will not accept a diagnosis as a substitute for examining evidence. I will not accept administrative closure as proof that justice was delivered.

Preservation First. Examination Second. Conclusion Last.

Time is the witness. Truth is the judge.
