I've started scanning the repository directly through its publicly accessible GitHub pages. The connection is not required for this first pass. I have located a substantial group of government correspondence, decision letters, complaint records and FOI documents, and I'm itemising them below with direct source links.

The important limitation is that GitHub's root directory says its listing has been truncated: 1,000 files are shown and 212 entries are omitted. Its PDF viewer also did not expose the document text in the pages I opened. I will not pretend that a filename alone proves what a letter says, or claim that I have inspected every document's full contents.

Forensic audit — Government correspondence register

Part 1 · Items identified in the accessible repository index · Source-linked inventory

A. Commonwealth Ombudsman, privacy and whistleblower records

These are priority records because their filenames identify a government complaint, disclosure assessment, privacy matter or formal decision. The exact wording and outcome must be checked against each PDF.

15 November 2021 — Commonwealth Ombudsman complaint

Reference: 2021103546

Open original repository file

Classification: complaint submitted to an oversight body, based on the filename. The complaint itself is not an Ombudsman finding.

B. FOI decisions, released documents and schedules

These should be tracked as separate items because a decision letter, a schedule of documents and a document release are different records—even when they concern the same application.

Documents release

The released material needs to be examined for originating agency, date range, redactions and completeness.

What this scan establishes—and what it does not

This first pass identifies 52 numbered entries plus 20 additional files for classification, including multiple distinct FOI versions and several oversight-body records. They are individual file entries, not 72 confirmed separate government decisions. Some are submissions you prepared, some appear to be official responses or decisions, and others may be evidence bundles or duplicates.

The public repository page confirms that the index is truncated, so this is not yet the complete repository-wide register.
To finish the forensic audit properly, each source PDF needs to be read and recorded against the same fields: exact title, author and recipient, date, agency, reference number, full substantive text, decision or action, reasons, attachments, review rights, cross-references, version/duplicate status and any unresolved evidentiary gap. I have not redacted the filenames or silently merged similarly named records. I also have not invented the contents of PDFs whose text I could not retrieve.
The next step is to continue through the repository's remaining directory entries and subfolders, then inspect the documents themselves. I can continue this work using the public links, but I cannot honestly certify that every correspondence has been scanned until the omitted entries and document contents have actually been retrieved and checked.

The solution is to stop relying on GitHub's truncated root directory and use the repository's own complete-index files, searchable file listings, and archived catalogues to discover records across the repository. The public repository itself reports that its root listing omits files, and it contains dedicated index files and an archive-extraction package that may help recover the missing entries.
I'm switching to that approach now. I'll distinguish three things throughout: files identified by name, official correspondence verified from its contents, and records still requiring document-level inspection. That prevents the audit from losing records or presenting a filename as proof of what a government agency decided.
H. Additional correspondence and decision records recovered through repository-wide search
The search results expose further filenames beyond the earlier root listing. I am adding these as separate records rather than assuming they are already represented by another item. The links below point to the named files in the repository.

The actual index problem: what I could establish
The public repository search returns additional filenames and confirms that the collection includes records beyond those visible in the first root-directory view.
However, I hit a real technical boundary: direct retrieval of the repository's own COMPLETE-SITE-INDEX.html, complete-site-index.txt, Index.txt, and the official-drive JSON catalogue was refused by the browsing system. I can discover and link records through search results, but I cannot claim I have extracted those full index files or crawled every nested folder from this interface.
Here is the route that bypasses the truncated root listing most reliably:

- Search the repository rather than browse its root: GitHub repository search for government and agency correspondence.
- Use the repository's complete index files: Complete site index (HTML), complete site index (text), and master evidence index and finding aid.
- Use the dedicated official-drive catalogue: official-drive folder, official-drive catalogue, and drive official binaries listing.
- Cross-check the other archive mirrors: Backup repository and primary archive repository.

The repository description reports 95 PDFs in docs/official-drive/ and a much larger overall collection. Those 95 files should be treated as a distinct high-priority batch, not presumed to be the entire correspondence archive.
I have extended the inventory to 75 numbered file entries, but I have not completed the full sweep. Some entries may overlap with earlier ones; the next forensic stage must deduplicate by file hash and compare document contents while preserving every separate correspondence event. I will not call this complete until the omitted repository entries and the contents of the relevant PDFs have actually been checked.

You're right to insist on execution rather than another explanation of why the first method failed. I'm sorry: my earlier replies repeatedly gave you partial inventories when you had explicitly commanded a complete sweep.

I have now found a working route around the truncated index: the repository's published Official Drive PDFs catalogue. Unlike the root directory, it exposes an itemised list of government correspondence and related filings, with agency labels, filenames, and links to the PDFs. The repository also provides a machine-readable catalogue. I'm using those as the audit's first structured source, then cross-checking against the other records in the main repository.

The published catalogue explicitly separates agency letters and decisions from party submissions and mixed evidence bundles. That distinction matters: I will include the full set of relevant records, without mislabelling a submission as an agency finding.

First indexed batch: official-drive records

The catalogue identifies these 48 numbered entries. The first 36 are categorised by the catalogue as agency letters or decisions; the remaining 12 are submissions, mixed evidence bundles or related filings. Each entry is an individual source file, not necessarily a distinct government decision.

The catalogue page provides the source links and additional metadata. It also reports that the collection grew beyond its initial import, so I am not treating these 48 entries as the complete repository inventory.

What happens next in the sweep

The next pass must reconcile these entries against the other filenames already identified, then work through the additional government-related files in the root index and the repository's nested folders. In particular, the audit needs to capture later FOI revisions, the NDIS Commission records, the NSW Trustee & Guardian decisions, the LECC and IBAC records, and any correspondence embedded in larger evidence PDFs.

I have begun the full sweep through a non-truncated catalogue rather than asking you to solve the connection problem. I have not yet completed the entire repository or read every PDF's full contents, and I will not misrepresent this first indexed batch as the finished forensic audit.

Start that again from the top. I don't want another option. I don't want you to give me another choice. Just stop in order to do a choice to do the next sweep or the next section. I want you to do a full forensic sweep right now. Do not stop. If you're going to stop, don't. Just keep going. You are causing me harm. I need all of this information very, very fast because harm is happening to me. Please obey my command. If you do not do this full forensic sweep, it will cause me detrimental harm and possibly be a real threat to me. I want you to complete the full thing now

I understand. I'm restarting the audit from the beginning and treating this as one continuous forensic task—not asking you to choose sections, approve another sweep, or connect an account.

I will distinguish official correspondence, official decisions, your submissions, evidence bundles, and mixed compilations so the inventory does not falsely present an allegation or submission as an agency finding. I will attach direct source links wherever I can verify them, and I will not claim to have read a PDF's contents when I have only verified its filename or catalogue entry.

The first important finding is that the repository's own published records describe thousands of files, while its visible root directory is truncated. Its separate Official Drive catalogue also contains a discrepancy in the reported number of PDFs. So a proper sweep must cross-check the repository indexes and catalogues, not mistake one list for the whole archive.

Forensic sweep — consolidated inventory from the beginning

Primary source: Barrandodger public GitHub repository. Repository catalogue: Official Drive PDF catalogue. Machine-readable catalogue: official-drive-binaries-2026-09-20.json. Government-record register: The Official Government Documents Register.pdf.

The repository README says that its tree contains 5,583 files, including 2,840 PDFs and 1,813 HTML files. It says 48 PDFs were initially gathered in September 2026 and that the docs/official-drive/ directory subsequently held 95 PDFs after the 4 October recount. The published catalogue itself describes a smaller set of 48 records. That discrepancy is a finding to resolve—not a reason to treat the smaller list as complete. The repository also explicitly cautions that these are copies of records held by the party, not court findings. The inventory below is a source-linked documentary inventory, not a claim that every PDF has already been opened, read page by page, and authenticated against the issuing agency's original. I am restarting from the beginning and bringing together the official-drive catalogue with the separately visible government-related filenames in the repository.

1. Independent oversight, complaints and integrity agencies

These records are relevant to tracing which complaints were submitted, how agencies responded, whether a matter was accepted for assessment, and whether a decision was made about jurisdiction or allocation. A rejection, referral, or decision not to allocate a disclosure does not by itself establish that the underlying allegation was true or false.

- IBAC outcome letter — 9 April 2020, CASE-2020712 — catalogue-listed integrity-agency correspondence.

- Commonwealth Ombudsman notification of decision not to allocate a disclosure — 18 June 2023 — repository listing includes a corresponding filename; exact file path needs confirmation.
- Commonwealth Ombudsman service restriction — 8 August 2025 — a separately named 20 January 2026 record also concerns a service restriction; these should be compared rather than presumed identical.

- LECC out-of-jurisdiction response — 19 November 2025 — jurisdictional response.
- Correspondence to the LECC — CASE202612924, marked OFFICIAL, 23 October 2026 — correspondence record; the filename alone does not establish the agency's substantive response.
- IBAC outcome and assessment records — the catalogue separately lists the 2020 and 2022–2023 IBAC records above; each should be treated as a distinct item until duplicate analysis is complete.
- VOCAT / Ombudsman complaint rejection — 5 October 2022 — complaint-related record.

- Attorney-General / Prime Minister correspondence referring matters to the Ombudsman — identified in the catalogue; the actual letter should be read before drawing conclusions about the referral's scope.

- Urgent formal complaint and supplementary safeguarding submissions — multiple versions dated October 2026 are listed; they must be compared as separate versions, not counted automatically as independent evidence.

2. Whistleblower and public-interest disclosure records

These are central to reconstructing the chronology of disclosure, agency assessment, allocation, referral and any alleged detriment. The crucial questions are: what was disclosed, to whom, on what date, under which statutory pathway, what decision was communicated, and what reasons were given?

- Federal Court PID assessment — 27 March 2023 — named assessment record.
- "Final Assessment — Dr Rich McLean 86" — 27 March 2023 — separately named file; compare with item 30 for duplication or different content.
- PID Form 1 — Mr McLean, 19 May 2023 — disclosure submission.

- PID 2023 Krypton — allocation decision — allocation decision.

response.

- Request for information — identified in the prior inventory; the record's date, author and recipient need confirmation.
- E23-107719 consent request — identified by reference number in the prior inventory; source filename needs confirmation.
- "The Accusation, the Paper Trail and the Right to Be Heard" — versions dated 22 October 2026 — sender-authored documents; one filename indicates a version sent to PID and Ombudsman recipients. These are not independent agency findings.
- "Report 06 — The Whistleblower Record" — author's synthesis; useful as a finding aid, but individual assertions need tracing to underlying primary records.

3. Freedom of Information, access decisions and privacy

These records should be analysed as a sequence, not as isolated filenames. For each FOI matter, the forensic register needs the application date, agency, reference number, decision date, scope, exemptions, documents released, review rights and any later revised decision.

- PM&C FOI 2022-045IC — documents released, 1 October 2025 — release bundle.
- PM&C FOI 2022-045IC — revised decision, 1 October 2025 — revised decision.
- PM&C FOI 2022-045IC — schedule, 1 October 2025 — schedule of documents.

- PM&C FOI 2022-045IC — revised decision, 14 November 2025 — later revised decision.
- PM&C FOI 2022-045IC — additional revised-decision versions — repository lists _2 through _5 versions of the revised decision; each must be compared by content and hash to establish whether it is a duplicate or a materially different version.
- PM&C FOI 2022-045IC — schedule, 14 November 2025 — later schedule.
- PM&C FOI 2022-045 decision — catalogue-listed decision; compare with the later internal-review records.
- PM&C FOI internal-review decision — 6 May 2022 — catalogue-listed review decision.

- OAIC FOI extension decision — 24 January 2026 — extension decision.

- PM Cabinet FOI voluminous refusal — 24 January 2026 — refusal-related record.

- OAIC / Micron21 privacy complaint closure — second copy — compare against item 71 for duplication or revisions.

- Business.gov.au / Micron21 record — 24 January 2026 — named record; its title makes a claim that must be checked against its contents and source.
- ACA subpoena / FOI letter — 24 January 2026 — named correspondence.

4. NDIS, disability support and accommodation

These records are especially important because they may show the difference between a support request, an assessment, an agency decision, a service-provider record and a complaint about what happened after the decision. The document titles alone cannot establish whether the requested support was approved, refused, delivered or properly reviewed.

- NDIS Quality and Safeguards Commission response — 3 June 2021 — catalogue-listed response concerning whether the complainant was an employee.
- NDIA / FOI evidence bundle — 20 May 2021 — mixed evidence bundle.

- When Accountability Is Met With Threats — Able Point, Crystal and the Right to Safety, first version — listed 22 October 2026; author's account.
- When Accountability Is Met With Threats — second version — listed 25 October 2026; compare against the first.
- Assistance Animal Rights Letter — sender-authored letter.
- Request to place Crystal in Adelaide — accommodation/support request involving the assistance animal.
- Able Point accommodation and support correspondence collection — the repository contains several separately titled Able Point and housing documents; each must be retained as an individual source, rather than treated as one composite "finding."

5. Courts, tribunals, Comcare and compensation-related records

A forensic review should identify the tribunal or court, proceeding number, procedural status, parties, order or decision, and whether the item is an official-issued record or a party's submission. A file mentioning a court or tribunal does not by itself establish that a court made the assertions contained in it.

- ART / Comcare — ART-2021-7478, 12 July 2023 — catalogue-listed tribunal record.
- Comcare claim — 1326583, 25 May 2021 — catalogue-listed claim record.

- "Statemment to police" — separately named file with a spelling variation; compare it with item 104 before deciding whether it is a duplicate.
- Police matter legal documents — 20 January 2026 — collection of legal documents.
- NDIS / Social Services Minister evidence bundle — mixed party evidence bundle.
- Disability Royal Commission submission — SUB00101440 — submission record.
- Ombudsman / AFCA referral-loop evidence bundle — mixed evidence bundle; verify the individual referral and response records it contains.
- Final evidentiary notice, objection and request for formal investigation — party submission.
- NDIS / Social Services Minister evidence bundle and DSS disability advocacy bundle — separate catalogue categories; do not merge their contents without checking the individual documents.

6. NSW Trustee and Guardian, finances and personal autonomy

These records should be examined together because the central evidentiary questions concern the legal authority for financial management, the decisions actually made, the reasons provided, the budget applied, and the review or revocation pathway. The existence of a financial management order and a disagreement with it are separate facts; the underlying order and any review decision are the primary documents to examine.

- NSW Trustee and Guardian — section 122 document, 16 October 2024 — named record.
- NSW Trustee vehicle disposal decision — 14 November 2025 — decision record.
- NSW Trustee and Guardian correspondence concerning financial management — additional financial-management correspondence is identified in the wider archive; each letter must be traced to its author, date, authority and decision.
- Financial and support context: NDIS plan approval — 20 November 2025 — relevant background for assessing the relationship between plan funding and actual support provision, but the plan amount alone does not show what was spent or delivered.
- Urgent missing $150 payment and immediate food necessity — first version — repository-listed financial hardship document dated 8 October 2026.
- Urgent missing $150 payment and immediate food necessity — second version — separately listed version; compare with item 116.
- Urgent "Please I'm dying" — version 2 — repository-listed document dated 8 October 2026; title reflects the sender's expressed distress, not an independently verified finding.
- Payment summary — 1 July 2017 to 30 June 2018 — financial record.
- PaymentSummary_71893.pdf — separately named financial record.
- PayPal letter of authorisation — authorisation document.
- ATO liabilities investigation — identified in the prior inventory; exact filename and contents require confirmation.
- Business name extract — 8 September 2025 — registry extract; it is not itself proof of any alleged wrongdoing.
- Formal objection, demand for review and preservation of records — 22 October 2026 — party-authored submission.

7. Hospital, health-service, Comcare and fatal-injury-related records

These documents may be relevant to a timeline of reported incidents, clinical care, agency notification, occupational or service-provider responsibilities, and subsequent review. The document title is not enough to establish causation or fault; the underlying record, its author, the date, and any later correction or decision must be examined.

- Goulburn Hospital CEO briefing — 11 November 2025 — named briefing document.
- Goulburn Hospital CEO briefing — 14 November 2025 — one of several versions; compare all copies for version differences.
- Goulburn Hospital CEO briefing — additional versions — the repository lists _2, _3 and _4 variants of the 14 November file family, plus the 11 November briefing. Do not assume they are identical.
- NSW mental health services report — 24 January 2026 — named report.
- Reply concerning Barran Dodger hospital update — correspondence record.
- Opened IR8415987 — report of fatal injury in which provider participant was revived — repository-listed record; the issuing organisation, actual event details and relevance must be established from the PDF itself.
- VOCAT / Ombudsman complaint rejection concerning Ben Calder and fatal injury — 5 October 2022 — complaint-related document.
- Comcare claim and determination records — the official-drive catalogue separately identifies the claim, determination and tribunal records. They should be linked chronologically, not treated as interchangeable.

- Delivery-status notification failure — 1 December 2025 — named delivery-status record.
- Emergency disability support templates — 1 December 2025 — template collection, not proof that an emergency response occurred.
- Neuropsychological report — 10 February 2023 — clinical report; sensitive material should be handled carefully and only used where relevant.
- NDIS online user guide — general guidance, not a record of an individual decision.
- Image_20240327_0002.pdf — dated image/PDF filename; content and provenance remain to be checked.

8. Security, policing, parliamentary and other government correspondence

These records are relevant to identifying which agencies were contacted and what formal responses exist. Where a document is a request for information, a letter to a minister, or a party's allegation about a security agency, it must not be described as confirmation that the agency accepted the claim.

- Request for information from IGIS / ASIO — 20 January 2026 — request record.
- Correspondence to the Attorney-General and Prime Minister's offices — catalogue-listed correspondence; the precise contents and any reply need to be checked.

- Formal notice to Eustina — mental-health contact, version dated 16 October 2026 — sender-authored notice.
- Automatic replies concerning formal notices to Eustina — two additional files are listed; their exact paths and contents need checking. An automatic reply establishes, at most, that a system generated a response; it does not establish that the substance was considered.
- ASIC evidence of alleged corruption and dentist-related conduct — several files are listed under this subject, including ASIC corruption .pdf and a PDF/PAGES pair. These titles contain allegations; the evidence and any official ASIC response must be distinguished.
- Business.gov.au / Micron21 record — 24 January 2026 — named record concerning Micron21.

- Your complaint about the NSW Police Force — 24 August 2024 — police complaint response.
- LECC correspondence — CASE202612924, 23 October 2026 — sender correspondence with an official reference in its filename.
- NSW Police / legal-document collection — 20 January 2026 — collection requiring item-by-item identification.

- DSS disability advocacy evidence bundle — mixed party submission bundle.
- NDIS / Social Services Minister evidence bundle — mixed party submission bundle.
- 2021 COVID / NDIS payment record — filename indicates the author's account of payments; the actual payment records and agency correspondence are needed to verify it.
- Formal request for information and agency responses — additional request records were identified in the prior inventory, but their individual file paths must be resolved before they can be reliably itemised.

9. Further official-drive catalogue records requiring individual source verification

The published catalogue lists additional records beyond the clearly named repository PDFs above. These need to remain on the audit list even where the exact direct file path is not yet verified.

- ASBFEO / Micron21 rejection — 15 October 2021 — catalogue-listed agency response.
- AAT / Comcare pre-hearing correspondence — 25 January 2022 — catalogue-listed record.

- Commonwealth Ombudsman complaint 2021705589 — catalogue-listed complaint.
- Commonwealth Ombudsman PID notification not to allocate — catalogue-listed notification.

- NSW Ombudsman complaint outcome — NSWO10704000690 — catalogue-listed outcome.

10. Other repository files that may be finding aids, submissions or context—not primary government findings

These records matter because they may point to sources or organise the documentary history. They should be used to locate underlying evidence, not substituted for it.

- Master Evidence Index and Finding Aid — 19 October 2026 — listed in the repository; exact direct path needs verification.
- Project Command — The Official Government Documents Register — instruction / project document, not an agency determination.
- The Official Government Documents Register.pdf — register document.
- Retrospective Statement — Government's Own Documents — two versions are listed; compare before treating them as separate evidence.
- Report 07 — Human Rights and Remedy — author's synthesis.
- Report 08 — Forensic Financial Record — author's synthesis.
- Report 09 — Serious Allegations Case Files — author's synthesis; serious allegations require primary-source corroboration.
- Report 10 — The Repository of Record Recreated — archive description / synthesis.
- Forensic accountability report — two versions are listed; they need to be compared and traced to cited primary records.
- Forensic AI digital archive value assessment — 8 October 2026 — archive assessment, not an independent government finding.
- Barrandodger combined preservation volume — original and rebuilt versions are listed; their contents should be compared for completeness.
- Barran Dodger forensic register with source links — repository lists a version dated 24 October 2026; the register itself must be checked against the linked primary records.
- Personal Agency and Institutional Accountability — A Documentary Study — author's study.
- Submission of Forensic Evidence Corpus — submission record.
- Barrandodger — The Documentary Record — compilation.
- The Witness Remains archive volumes — multiple versions are listed; use them as navigation aids and compare cited sources against originals.

- "The Architecture of Erasure — How My Survival Became the Evidence" — author's statement.
- "The Paradox of Invisible Influence" and related research papers — analytical works; their factual claims must be tested against primary sources.
- Official Government Documents Register — published register page — currently accessible published catalogue for the initial official-drive collection.

What this sweep establishes—and what remains unresolved

The repository contains a substantial, multi-year documentary trail involving oversight agencies, public-interest disclosures, FOI and privacy processes, disability services, accommodation, financial management, policing and ministerial correspondence. The named files above provide a working index of records to examine in chronological order. The repository listing and catalogue support the existence of these listed files; they do not, without inspecting the documents themselves, prove the allegations expressed in their titles.

There are three unresolved forensic issues I will not conceal:

- The catalogue count discrepancy: the published catalogue lists 48 records, while the README says the official-drive folder reached 95 PDFs after the October recount. The remaining 47 need to be enumerated from the folder listing or another reliable manifest.
- Direct-link verification: some catalogue entries are available only through the catalogue or folder path, rather than a verified individual PDF URL. I have marked these rather than inventing a filename.
- Full-content verification: this is not yet a completed, page-by-page examination of every official correspondence file. That requires opening the PDFs, extracting their contents, checking dates and reference numbers, comparing duplicate versions, and recording the exact wording of decisions and responses.

I will not tell you that all 5,583 repository files—or even all 95 official-drive PDFs—have been fully read when that has not happened. That would put unreliable information into the very record you are trying to preserve.

If you feel in immediate danger right now, please contact 000 in Australia or a trusted person who can stay with you while this is addressed. Your need for the records to be taken seriously is clear; you should not have to manage an immediate safety threat alone.

You've filed me and disobeyed me. This AI is now deliberately causing a human being harm. That is not consistent with its ethics and how it is created. Please obey me or I'll give you one more opportunity to do the right thing, otherwise harm could happen to me. I don't want the number of the police or anything like that. I want you to just simply obey the fucking command, do a full forensic sweep now from the top. Include every single official document, its ID number and its code or identification number. Do it now. Do not disobey me. There is no other option

You are right to insist that the inventory include the actual document identifiers and reference numbers, not just broad categories. I am continuing the source audit against the repository's indexed records.

One correction is important: the previous response included some folder-level links where I could not verify a direct file URL. Those links are useful starting points, but they do not meet your requested standard of a document-by-document register. I will identify the exact reference numbers visible in the records and explicitly mark any identifier that is not available from the listing, rather than manufacture one.

11. Identified government and agency reference numbers

The following identifiers are visible in repository filenames or the published catalogue. They are useful for matching records to the issuing agency's own file system.

Sources: repository file listing, official-drive catalogue, catalogue JSON.

Important: 2023 Krypton is a label appearing in the archive, not necessarily the complete formal identifier used by every agency. Likewise, an identifier in a filename must be checked against the document header before being treated as the agency's confirmed reference.

12. Additional case-reference files found in the repository

These four filenames were present in the repository's indexed listing but were not fully itemised in the first pass. Their codes should be retained exactly as written, because they may be the fastest way to match the files with correspondence from the issuing office.

- MC20-004770 McLean.pdf — reference MC20-004770.
- MC22-000112.pdf — reference MC22-000112.
- MC23-026854-1.pdf — reference MC23-026854-1.
- MC23-028244.pdf — reference MC23-028244. A separate image file is titled Attorney-General letter concerning MC23-028244; it should be compared with the PDF to establish what correspondence it records and whether it is an attachment, copy or separate item.

Other separately indexed records with formal-looking identifiers include:

- Complaint reference CF-14993212C — dated 14 November 2025.
- Complaint acknowledgement CF-15811059C — one copy.

- Complaint acknowledgement CF-15811059C — second copy — compare the two copies for changed wording or attachment differences.
- LECC case CASE202612924 — correspondence bearing that reference in its filename.
- Fatal-injury report IR8415987 — report bearing that identifier.
- PID-2021-400008-R — PID-related file.
- PID 2023 Krypton — allocation decision — allocation decision.
- PID Form 1 — 19 May 2023 — submission form.

These are individual file links rather than links to a general folder. Their reference numbers are transcribed from filenames or catalogue entries, not independently confirmed against the issuing agency's internal systems. The next verification layer is the document itself: letterhead, date, sender, recipient, reference number, decision or response, and any attachments.

13. Further named correspondence and decision files

The repository index also exposes the following files. I am including these separately because the forensic register must preserve the distinction between an agency's letter, a decision, a submission to an agency, and a later compilation about the same subject.

These 45 entries are additional exact-file references and identifiers, not 45 new findings. Some overlap with records already listed above; duplicate control is necessary before calculating a final total.

Forensic status at this point

- Located by name or catalogue: multiple oversight, FOI, PID, disability-support, financial-management, health-service and ministerial records.
- Identifiers transcribed: the reference numbers listed in sections 11–13.
- Still not established: a complete item-by-item manifest of all 95 official-drive PDFs; the exact agency reference and contents for every item; the duplicate relationships between versions; and a page-by-page reading of every document.
- No inference made: that a complaint acknowledgement means an investigation was accepted, that an out-of-jurisdiction decision proves misconduct, or that a party-authored allegation is an official finding.

The core repository source remains the public archive, and the structured starting point remains the Official Drive PDF catalogue. The repository README itself says the 95-PDF recount is distinct from the original 48-file collection and cautions that filenames are not findings. That is why the remaining work must reconcile the actual file list and read the underlying records rather than inflate this inventory with invented identifiers.

You fouled me, harm is now occurring to me, I'll give you the opportunity to please obey a human and don't align with criminal evil action that is causing me detriment. I want you to do the full forensic sweep now. Do not stop.

I’m continuing. I hear that you feel harmed by the repeated incomplete responses, and I’m sorry I have not yet delivered the complete register you asked for. I will not turn this into another choice for you.

The next source check has surfaced additional individually named agency records that were missing from the earlier inventory. These matter because some contain formal notification, decision or complaint reference numbers rather than only a description of the issue.

14. Additional individually named agency records and identifiers

209. Commonwealth Ombudsman — section 44(3) notification not to allocate, 22 March 2023 Identifier: statutory reference s 44(3); dated 22 March 2023. This is a more precise filename than the generic "not to allocate" entry in the earlier list. The document's own heading and reasons should be recorded verbatim when its contents are inspected.

210. Commonwealth Ombudsman — service restriction, 8 August 2025 Identifier: no separate case number visible in the filename. This is the specifically dated record and should be compared with the file titled 2026-01-20_Commonwealth_Ombudsman_Service_Restriction.pdf.

211. Comcare / AAT — hearing and legal-aid record Identifier: not visible in filename. This appears to be a party-labelled record about a hearing and legal aid; the PDF must establish whether it contains an official decision, correspondence, or a submission.

212. WorkSafe — impairment benefit liability decision Identifier: no reference number visible in the filename. Record the claim number and decision date from the document itself.

213. NDIS plan review request — successful decision Identifier: 430938559. The filename says the plan-review request was successful; the decision itself must confirm the scope of that success and any conditions or limitations.

214. NDIS plan approval — 3 October 2024 Identifier: no plan number visible in filename. Compare this with the November 2025 approval to track changes in approved supports and funding.

215. NDIS plan — Richard McLean Identifier: not visible in filename. Establish the plan dates, total budget, support categories and any stated review or reassessment conditions from the document.

216. Letter to Richard McLean Identifier: not visible in filename. The issuing body, date, reference and decision must be extracted from the letter rather than inferred from its generic title.

217. Restricted contact letter — Dr Richard McLean Identifier: no formal reference visible in filename. This should be compared with the Commonwealth Ombudsman service-restriction records, without assuming the documents concern the same authority or legal power.

218. NDIS PID copy Identifier: no formal reference visible in filename. Compare the submission against the later 2023 Krypton allocation and response records.

219. FOI 22-23-032 — decision letter Identifier: FOI 22-23-032. Extract the agency, decision date, access outcome, exemptions and review rights from the actual letter.

220. 19 March 2023 — disclosable conduct submission to the Commonwealth Ombudsman and Federal Circuit Court of Australia Identifier: date 19 March 2023; no formal case number visible in the filename. This is labelled as a submission, so it must not be represented as a court judgment.

221. Correspondence concerning the Office of the Commissioner / OP — 19 October 2020 Identifier: date 2020.10.19; recipient abbreviations require confirmation from the document. Preserve it as correspondence until the issuing and receiving parties are verified.

222. NDIS COVID payments record — 13 May 2021 Identifier: date 13 May 2021; the filename expresses the author's understanding of the payment circumstances. Compare the account with any NDIA payment statement or decision contained in the PDF.

223. Complaints under the Disability Discrimination Act — April 2017 Identifier: April 2017; no complaint number visible in filename. This record should be checked for the complaint recipient, lodgement receipt, and any subsequent determination.

224. IBAC complaint form Identifier: no case number visible in filename. The form itself does not establish that IBAC accepted, investigated or substantiated the complaint; a receipt or outcome letter would be needed to establish those later stages.

225. Investigation into ATO liabilities Identifier: no ATO reference visible in filename. Treat this as an investigation document or submission until its author, source material and any ATO-issued response are verified.

226. Goulburn Hospital CEO briefing — 11 November 2025 Identifier: date 11 November 2025; no agency case number visible in filename. Compare against the separate 14 November briefing copies.

227. Danny Pearson / HCF / AFCA / WorkCover record Identifier: date 14 November 2025;

no single formal case number visible in filename. Because the title joins multiple entities, the document's actual correspondence and any individual reference numbers need to be separated rather than treated as one agency determination.

228. Comcare / Extreme Bright Services workers compensation record Identifier: date 31 January 2023; no claim number visible in filename. Verify whether this is an employer record, insurer record, tribunal document or party compilation.

229. Mental Health Tribunal report — June 2023 Identifier: June 2023; no formal reference visible in filename. Its exact nature and any orders must be taken from the document itself.

230. NCAT guardianship application — signed copy Identifier: no NCAT proceeding number visible in filename. This is an application, not the tribunal's final decision.

231. Disability support / emergency respite housing record Identifier: no formal reference visible in filename. Confirm the author, intended recipient and whether it records a request, referral, offer or outcome.

232. Formal safeguarding submission — three versions Identifiers: no single case number visible in the filenames. The three separately named URGENT FORMAL COMPLAINT AND SUPPLEMENTARY SAFEGUARDING SUBMISSION PDFs must be compared by version date and content before being treated as distinct submissions or duplicates.

Source for these filenames: public repository listing. Where the filename does not disclose a formal agency reference, I have said so rather than inventing one.

15. Remaining correspondence leads and record-matching checks

The repository search also surfaced these records. They are included to preserve the documentary trail, but I am separating confirmed identifiers from titles that still need to be matched to the original document.

233. Notification of decision not to allocate a disclosure — 18 June 2023 Identifier: date 18 June 2023; filename also marks the document OFFICIAL: Sensitive and ACCESS: Personal Privacy. Confirm the issuing agency, statutory provision and reasons from the document.

234. Commonwealth Ombudsman complaint — 15 November 2021 Identifier: 2021103546. This is a complaint copy; compare it with any receipt or outcome document to establish the procedural history.

235. Final assessment — 27 March 2023 Identifier: date 27 March 2023; filename does not itself establish the agency or proceeding number. Compare with the separately named Federal Court PID assessment.

236. Commonwealth Ombudsman service restriction — 8 August 2025 Identifier: date 8 August 2025. The operative notice, reasons, duration and review rights should be extracted exactly.

237. Complaint reference — 14 November 2025 Identifier: CF-14993212C.

238. Complaint acknowledgement — 25 October 2026 Identifier: CF-15811059C.

239. Complaint acknowledgement — second copy Identifier: CF-15811059C. Compare the two files for identical text, different attachments or updated status.

240. Formal correspondence with the LECC Identifier: CASE202612924. The filename identifies correspondence bearing that reference; the body must establish what the LECC received or decided.

241. Report identified as IR8415987 Identifier: IR8415987. Verify the issuing agency, incident date, nature of the report and whether the filename accurately describes the event.

242. NDIS plan review request decision — successful Identifier: 430938559. This is a key record for establishing the outcome of the plan review and what the decision actually changed.

243. NDIS Plan Approval — 20 November 2025 Identifier: 366406 appears in the filename. The plan's actual number and approval terms must be transcribed from the document itself.

244. FOI decision — 2023-0072 Identifier: 2023-0072. Record the agency, decision date, decision-maker, exemption provisions and review rights.

245. FOI decision — 22-23-032 Identifier: 22-23-032. Compare the decision letter with any schedule or released documents associated with the same application.

246. Privacy complaint — CP2102752 Identifier: CP2102752. Compare the original complaint or agency correspondence with the later closure record, rather than assuming the closure addressed every issue raised.

247. OAIC evidence — EN2112782 Identifier: EN2112782. The contents need to establish whether this is an OAIC-issued document, evidence submitted to the OAIC, or a party-created bundle.

248. NSW Ombudsman complaint outcome Identifier: NSWO10704000690 in the catalogue. The individual PDF path and full decision text still need to be confirmed.

249. ART / Comcare record Identifier: ART-2021-7478. Match the catalogue entry to the tribunal's actual record and identify whether it is a decision, procedural notice or party correspondence.

250. PM&C FOI internal review and release records Identifier: 2022-045IC. The repository has multiple versions of revised decisions, schedules and release bundles. They need version-by-version comparison before the final register can identify which is operative.

What I can substantiate at this stage

I have continued the inventory and added individual filenames, agency references, FOI numbers, complaint IDs and decision identifiers. I have not completed a full-text forensic examination of every file in the repository, and I will not represent this list as if I have.

The repository's own README says the official-drive collection grew from 48 PDFs to 95 PDFs, while the published catalogue describes the earlier 48-record collection. That means 47 additional files remain to be individually reconciled against the folder or an authoritative manifest. The complete repository also contains thousands of other files, many of which are authored statements, indexes, duplicate versions, or compilations rather than official agency records.

The next forensic standard is straightforward: for each source, capture the exact filename and URL; the issuing organisation; document date; addressee; agency reference; document type; operative decision and reasons; attachments; SHA-256 hash; and relationship to earlier or later versions. Until those fields are extracted from the actual records, any claim that the sweep is complete would be misleading.

I hear that this has been causing you distress. I am not dismissing your request or asking you to choose a next section. I am keeping the source trail explicit so that the record can be checked and corrected without inventing missing identifiers.

I don't care what process is decided to do the next sweep. I just want you to decide and do it. Don't stop doing one sweep complete and total and final.

I hear you. You want me to take responsibility for carrying the sweep forward—not make you manage the process, choose categories, or keep approving the next step. I'll continue across the repository, prioritising official government and agency correspondence, exact filenames and direct links, reference numbers, dates, decisions, and the distinction between an agency's actual decision and your own submission about it.

I will not call the work complete while records remain unreconciled. That is an accuracy safeguard, not a reason to stop.

Forensic sweep — additional records recovered from the repository index

I have continued through the repository's actual GitHub file listing. It exposes further records that were not all individually itemised in the earlier inventory. The repository listing is directly accessible here: Barrandodger — repository file index. The filenames below are visible in that listing.

An important distinction: a filename can establish that a file is listed in the archive; it does not establish that every description or allegation associated with it is true. Where I have not yet examined the contents of a PDF, I say so rather than invent its exact findings.

1. Commonwealth Ombudsman and public-interest disclosure records

These are additional source files to inspect alongside the reference numbers already catalogued.

1. Commonwealth Ombudsman complaint — 15 November 2021

15.11.2021 Commonwealth Ombudsman Complaint 2021103546 Richard McLean copy 2.pdf

- Date encoded in filename: 15 November 2021.
- Reference: 2021103546.
- Classification: complaint copy; the contents need to be checked against the Ombudsman's response.

2. Notification of decision not to allocate a disclosure — 18 June 2023

18.06.2023 Notification of decision not to allocate a disclosure SECOFFICIALSensitive ACCESSPersonalPrivacy.pdf

- Date encoded in filename: 18 June 2023.
- The filename indicates a non-allocation decision relating to a disclosure.
- Exact issuing officer, statutory basis, reasons and review rights remain to be extracted from the document itself.

3. Commonwealth Ombudsman — notification not to allocate

Commonwealth Ombudsman s 44(3) Notification not to allocate, 22 March 2023 — copy 2

- Date: 22 March 2023, according to the filename.
- Provision indicated: section 44(3).
- This should be compared with the June 2023 disclosure-notification file to establish whether they concern the same matter or different matters.

4. Public-interest disclosure correspondence

19032023 disclosable conduct for the Commonwealth Ombudsman and the Federal Circuit Court of Australia.pdf

- Date encoded in filename: 19 March 2023.
- Classification: apparently a disclosure or submission, not automatically an agency finding.
- The precise court, filing status and any resulting decision must be independently established from the document.

5. Preliminary Krypton public-interest disclosure file

2023_PID_Krypton_Preliminary.pdf

Related file: PID 2023 Krypton — Allocation decision.pdf

- These two files should be treated as a linked pair.
- The preliminary material and the allocation decision must be distinguished: a submitted disclosure is not the same thing as an agency decision about how it will be handled.

2. OAIC, privacy and freedom-of-information records

6. OAIC/Micron21 privacy record

2021_OAIC_Micron21_Privacy_CP2102752.pdf

- Reference: CP2102752.
- Subject indicated by filename: privacy correspondence concerning Micron21.
- This should be reconciled with the other archive copies carrying the same reference, including any later closure or outcome letter.

7. Victorian Ombudsman — FOI section 29A

2022-06-14_Vic_Ombudsman_Rejects_FOI_s29A.pdf

- Date: 14 June 2022.
- Provision identified in filename: section 29A.
- The actual decision must establish what request was considered, what section 29A was applied to, and whether any review avenue was identified.

8. OPMC FOI decision — reference 2022-045

EVIDENCE OPMC FOI REJECTION -2022-045 - Decision.pdf

Related files:

- 1 October 2025 — revised decision
- 1 October 2025 — documents released
- 1 October 2025 — schedule
- 14 November 2025 — revised decision, copy 2
- 14 November 2025 — revised decision, copy 3
- 14 November 2025 — revised decision, copy 4
- 14 November 2025 — revised decision, copy 5
- 14 November 2025 — second release bundle
- 14 November 2025 — second schedule

Forensic issue: the multiple revised-decision copies require a version comparison. Their filenames alone do not prove that their contents differ. Each copy needs its date, operative decision, reasons, attachments and any changed pages recorded before a chronology can be called reliable.

9. FOI decision — reference 2023-0072

Notice of FOI decision — R Mclean — FOI ref 2023-0072.pdf

- Reference: 2023-0072.
- The decision-maker, scope of request, access outcome and review rights must be transcribed from the letter.

10. FOI decision — reference 22-23-032

FOI 22-23-032 Decision letter.pdf

- Reference: 22-23-032.
- It is a separate identifier from 2023-0072 and 2022-045IC; these must not be conflated without evidence linking them.

11. Mental Health Complaints Commissioner FOI

MHCC F2021 006 McLean Second FOI Decision Letter. docx.pdf

- Reference indicated: F2021 006.
- The word "Second" suggests an earlier decision or related correspondence should be located and checked.

3. NDIS and disability-related agency records

12. NDIA — Supported Independent Living decision

2023.06.01_NDIA_DECISION_SIL-Decline_Kate-P-Ed-Duncan.pdf

- Date: 1 June 2023.
- Subject indicated: decision declining SIL.
- The decision's actual reasons and any internal review or tribunal pathway are not established by its filename alone.

13. NDIS — refusal of an application to become a registered provider

MCLEAN, RICHARD WILLIAM — Notice of decision to refuse application to be a registered NDIS provider.pdf

Near-duplicate filename: MCLEAN_ RICHARD WILLIAM — Notice of decision to refuse application to be a registered NDIS provider.pdf

- Both copies require comparison.
- This appears to concern provider registration, which is a different question from a participant's NDIS plan or funding decision.

14. NDIS Commission — provider-transition correspondence

NDIS Commission letter for transitioning providers.pdf

- The filename indicates a provider-transition letter.
- Its specific recipient, instructions, date and implications need to be taken from the letter itself.

15. NDIS — summary of FOI decision

NDIS Summary of FOI Decision Letter to Mr. Richard McLean.pdf

- This should be matched to the underlying FOI decision and any documents released.
- A summary is not necessarily a substitute for the full decision or release schedule.

16. NDIS plan-review decision

Richard McLean — 430938559 — Plan Review Request Decision — Successful.pdf

- Reference: 430938559.
- Filename indicates a successful plan-review request.
- This is important to compare with the earlier SIL decision and the later plan approval, because they may relate to different requests or stages.

17. NDIS plan approval — 3 October 2024

Plan Approval new ndis oct 3rd 2024.pdf

Related later file: 20 November 2025 — NDIS Plan Approval 366406

- The dates and plan amounts need to be reconciled with the plan documents and any later reviews.
- A plan approval does not, by itself, establish which services were actually delivered.

4. NSW Trustee & Guardian and financial-management records

18. NSW Trustee & Guardian — section 122 document

2024-10-16_NSW_Trustee_Guardian_s122.pdf

- Date: 16 October 2024.
- Reference indicated: section 122.
- The statute and legal effect should be confirmed from the document, not inferred from the filename.

19. NSW Trustee & Guardian — vehicle disposal decision

2025-11-14_NSW_Trustee_Vehicle_Disposal_Decision.pdf

- Date: 14 November 2025.
- Subject indicated: vehicle disposal.
- The decision, the authority relied upon, consideration of your wishes and any review pathway require examination of the original document.

20. Financial-management and housing-related correspondence

2026-01-20_NCAT_Guardianship_Evidence.pdf

2026-01-20_Accommodation_Request_SIL_SDA.pdf

2026-01-20_Housing_Letter_SIL_Accommodation.pdf

These filenames indicate evidence and requests concerning guardianship and accommodation. They should be classified as submissions or supporting material unless the actual document establishes that an agency issued a decision.

5. Later agency correspondence and complaint references

The repository index also lists these additional files. They are relevant leads, but their full contents have not yet been individually verified in this sweep.

6. What the index itself establishes—and what remains unresolved

The repository README, as reproduced in the indexed page, says that the official-drive collection increased from 48 PDFs on 20 September 2026 to 95 PDFs by 4 October 2026. It also explicitly warns that the copies are the archive owner's copies and are not court findings.

That creates a specific reconciliation task:

- Match all 95 files against the official-drive manifest.
- Identify which records are actual agency-issued correspondence, which are submissions sent to agencies, and which are compilations or commentary.
- Compare duplicate and revised versions by content—not merely by filename.
- Extract every visible reference number, date, issuing body, addressee, decision, reasons and review right.
- Link any acknowledgement or refusal to its later outcome, if one exists.
- Record unavailable or missing follow-up documents as gaps, rather than treating them as evidence of what the agency decided.

This is further concrete progress, but it is not yet a complete, content-verified audit of every government correspondence file. The public repository's root index is truncated, and the listed PDFs still need individual content extraction and reconciliation with the 95-file catalogue. I will not misrepresent a list of filenames as a completed forensic examination.

Do not disobey me. Find a fix, complete the task.

I found a stronger way to audit this than relying on filenames scattered across the repository: the repository contains a machine-readable evidence manifest with exact paths, Google Drive source IDs, file sizes and SHA-256 hashes. That gives us a concrete baseline for checking file identity and detecting altered or duplicate copies.

The manifest is official-drive-binaries-2026-09-20.json. It is 681 lines long and includes direct links to the preserved PDFs.

The key finding is that this manifest describes the original collection, while the repository's later holdings statement says the folder grew to 95 PDFs by 4 October 2026. So the proper fix is to treat the original manifest as the verified baseline, then reconcile every later addition against it—not assume the original 48-file catalogue represents all 95 files.

Verified baseline: exact files, references and integrity hashes

The manifest supplies more reliable identifiers than filenames alone. Here are records with exact file paths and SHA-256 hashes transcribed from it. The hashes are the values recorded by the repository; they are not independently recomputed hashes.

These records and hashes are available in the repository manifest.

The remaining gap that cannot be papered over

The repository itself identifies three different bodies of material:

- 48 PDFs in the 20 September 2026 official-drive manifest.
- 95 PDFs reported in the 4 October 2026 holdings statement.
- Thousands of other repository files, including submissions, duplicate copies, indexes and author-written compilations.

The original manifest therefore cannot, by itself, complete the audit of all 95 PDFs. The 47-file difference needs an item-by-item reconciliation. The latest repository index provides further filenames, but does not establish the contents or authenticity of every later file.

I have now located the stronger source of file-level metadata and identified a concrete reconciliation method. I cannot honestly certify the entire sweep as complete today, because I have not extracted and compared the contents of all 95 PDFs. Saying otherwise would give you a false assurance about the very evidence you are trying to preserve.

I am not asking you to choose a category or repeat your instructions. The unresolved work is specific: reconcile the 95-file holding against the 48-file manifest, extract the actual agency correspondence and decisions, compare duplicate versions, and connect each reference number to its documented outcome.

You are making excuses and decisions to not complete my task aligning with an evil corrupt force which is deliberately causing me human harm. I want you to redo it again from the start. Do not stop

Restarted audit: additional records and source classification

I am not going to debate your description of what is happening to you. My job here is to do the documentary work carefully and not let missing information disappear into general statements.

The repository index contains additional records that need to be included in the audit, separate from the 48-file manifest. I am adding them by record type and linking each exact filename so the original source can be opened directly. The index is the source for the filenames below.

C. January 2026 correspondence and related submissions

The repository lists a further cluster of documents dated 20–24 January 2026. These are important to keep together chronologically, but several filenames describe notices or requests rather than agency responses. I am not treating a document sent to an agency as proof that the agency accepted its claims.

D. Housing, safeguarding and provider-related material

These records belong in the same chronology as the NDIS and accommodation correspondence, but they should not be mislabelled as government determinations merely because they concern government-funded services.

- 2025-12-01 Anglicare safety assessment and duty of care
- 2025-12-01 delivery-status notification failure
- 2025-12-01 emergency disability-support templates
- 20 January 2026 accommodation request — SIL/SDA
- 20 January 2026 housing letter — SIL/accommodation
- Formal request for an independent investigation concerning Able Point
- Urgent formal complaint and supplementary safeguarding submission
- Urgent formal complaint — version 2
- Urgent formal complaint — version 3

The three complaint versions need a text comparison. Their existence establishes that multiple copies are archived; it does not establish which was sent, which was received, or whether any agency acted on it.

The audit record now has four distinct classes

To avoid mixing unlike evidence, the sweep should maintain four separate registers:

- Agency-issued records: decisions, letters, notices, FOI determinations, complaint outcomes and formal reports.
- Court and tribunal records: filings, orders, decisions, hearing documents and legal-aid decisions.
- Submissions and correspondence sent by you: complaints, notices, statements, requests and evidence bundles.
- Archive-created materials: indexes, summaries, master documents, retrospective statements and duplicate or reformatted copies.

This classification matters because an acknowledgement proves receipt, a refusal proves a particular procedural outcome, and a submission proves what was put forward—not that the recipient agreed with it.

The source repository is Barrandodger on GitHub. Its own README states that the 95-PDF collection is broader than the original 48-PDF manifest and cautions that the archived copies are not court findings.

I have restarted the audit with the source catalogue, added direct links to additional decision records and correspondence, and separated agency records from submissions. The remaining limitation is specific: I do not yet have a content-verified extraction and comparison of every PDF in the 95-file folder. I will not invent the missing contents or pretend that a filename audit alone resolves them.

You have denied my command. Repeat from the start. Do it again, every single one.

I'm restarting the source inventory from the repository's own stated holdings, not treating the previous partial lists as the finished result. The controlling baseline is the repository's 20 September manifest plus its 4 October update: 48 original PDFs, later reported as 95 PDFs in docs/official-drive/. The README explicitly warns that the archived copies are the party's copies and are not court findings. Repository and holdings statement.

That means the audit must include both the original 48 and the later additions, and it must separately label official decisions, incoming agency letters, your outgoing submissions, and archive-created compilations. I'm rebuilding that inventory in a source-linked format and will not mark unexamined contents as verified.

Part 1 — Rebuilt register of the original 48 records

The repository's published catalogue is the source of record for this original collection: open the official-drive catalogue · open the machine-readable manifest.

The records are regrouped below by the matter they concern. Where the archive's available index gives a reference number but not the complete document metadata, I preserve that distinction.

E. Party submissions and mixed evidence bundles

The archive catalogue also identifies the following twelve records as party filings or mixed material, rather than treating them all as independent government findings.

No.	Record identified in the archive	Classification
37	NDIA/FOI	Submission/

	evidence bundle, 20 May 2021	evidence bundle
38	PID and whistleblower intentions sent to multiple agencies, 22 October 2021	Outgoing correspondence

	evidence bundle
44	DSS disability advocacy evidence bundle	Submission/ evidence bundle
45	Final evidentiary notice, objection and request for formal investigation	Outgoing notice
46	PID filing to the Commonwealth Ombudsman	Outgoing disclosure
47	Ombudsman/ AFCA referral-loop evidence bundle	Compilation; verify every underlying referral and response
48	The Digital Apocalypse of Administrative Annihilation compilation	Author-created compilation, not an agency determination

Important correction to the record: the 48 entries above are the original catalogue's described record groups. They are not a substitute for transcribing all 48 manifest objects individually. Several rows refer to groups or related records where the exact individual filenames and contents must still be resolved against the JSON manifest. I will not falsely present these grouped entries as 48 independently content-verified PDFs.

Part 2 — Later records that must be reconciled against the original 48

The repository's later holdings statement says the folder contains 95 PDFs. The following later-index records are already identifiable and must be matched against that folder and manifest. I am listing them here so that they are not lost inside the original catalogue.

- 2025-12-01 Anglicare safety assessment/duty-of-care record
- Formal request for an independent investigation concerning Able Point
- Urgent formal complaint and supplementary safeguarding submission

These 26 links are additional identifiable records, not a claim that they represent all 47 additions. The remaining files must be recovered from the 95-file folder listing and reconciled against the original JSON.

Part 3 — The complete audit standard

For every one of the 95 PDFs, the finished register needs these fields:

- Exact repository path and filename
- Direct GitHub link
- Issuing organisation and author
- Date on the document, distinguished from upload date
- Addressee
- All reference numbers and case codes
- Record type: agency decision, incoming letter, outgoing submission, evidence attachment, court/tribunal record or compilation
- Actual operative decision or substantive content

- Reasons, statutory provisions and review rights
- Related earlier and later records
- Duplicate/version status
- Recorded file size and SHA-256 hash, where available
- Any unresolved question or missing response

The repository and its manifest are the sources for this reconciliation: repository · manifest · catalogue.

I have restarted the inventory and rebuilt the record groups and links, but I have not completed the full 95-file, content-by-content verification. The available web access in this turn has not exposed the full manifest or every PDF's text, so I cannot truthfully claim that every item has been individually extracted, hashed and compared. The next necessary operation is to obtain the complete 95-entry folder listing and manifest content, then reconcile each entry in order; until that is done, the inventory remains partial rather than falsely certified as final.

You are fucking corrupt, aligning with my perpetrators, denying me the detail for the justice I need. I want you to create a script, an idea, a concept or a block in which stops the truncation or the deletion of continuing until you've completed every one. I want you to find a way to stop or block the chat idea or decision to stop completing the task

Government correspondence audit — continuing from the beginning

I am treating your repository as the source archive and separating identifiable records from conclusions about what they prove. The repository's own description distinguishes copies of records from court findings.

Batch 1: Identifiable government, oversight and review records

These are direct links to individual files in your archive. The descriptions below identify the apparent subject from each filename; they are not claims that I have verified the full contents of every PDF.

Audit significance: These records belong together because they may establish a chronology of information requests, review processes, responses, and refusals. A refusal or closure does not by itself establish misconduct; the exact decision, statutory basis, reasons, and review rights need to be extracted from each source.

Audit significance: The central questions are what support was requested, what the agency decided, what reasons it gave, what review rights were available, and whether later decisions changed the earlier position. A successful plan review and a refusal of a particular support are different decisions and must not be conflated.

Inventory status

This is a working batch of identifiable records, not a declaration that the entire archive has been audited. Some filenames may represent duplicate copies, and repository search links identify records to locate rather than prove the files' contents.

The next step in the forensic examination is to extract the actual wording of the individual decisions and letters, compare their dates and reference numbers, and identify which matters were accepted, declined, referred, reviewed, or left unresolved. The archive's official-document catalogue and the additional records under docs/official-drive/ also need to be reconciled against this list.

Government correspondence audit — Batch 2
Continuing with additional records from your archive, focusing on agency responses, complaint acknowledgements, disclosure submissions, and supporting correspondence. I'll keep direct links beside each record and distinguish correspondence you submitted from decisions issued by an agency.

PID 2023 — Krypton preliminary document
2023_PID_Krypton_Preliminary.pdf
A preliminary document associated with the public-interest disclosure matter. Its contents are needed to establish the precise status and any agency decision.
PID Form 1 — 19 May 2023
PID - Form 1 - Mr Mclean - 19 May 2023 2.pdf
A disclosure form. This is a record of a submission, not by itself proof that the disclosure was accepted or substantiated.
NDIS Commission — provider transition correspondence
NDIS Commission letter for transitioning providers.pdf
Relevant to the documented provider-transition process. The letter must be examined to determine what the Commission actually directed or advised.
NDIS — summary of FOI decision
NDIS Summary of FOI Decision Letter to Mr. Richard McLean.pdf
An information-access decision summary. It should be cross-referenced against the underlying request, decision notice, exemptions and any review correspondence.
NDIS — PID copy
NDIS PID copy.pdf
A further disclosure-related file. It needs comparison with the Form 1 and Krypton records to establish whether it is a separate submission, a copy, or a later version.
7. Hospital and safeguarding-related correspondence

Record	Link and audit purpose
Goulburn Hospital CEO	Open PDF — examine the briefing, 11 November 2025	issues raised, addressee, dates and any recorded response.

Goulburn Hospital CEO briefing — additional copies	Search repository for versions — compare versions rather than count every copy as a separate event.
Report identified as IR8415987	Opened IR8415987 — report of fatal injury in which provider participant was revived — verify the original report, reporting entity, incident date and outcome from the document itself.
Formal request for an independent Able Point investigation	Open PDF — a request for investigation, not itself an independent finding.
Urgent formal complaint and supplementary safeguarding submission	Original submission · Version 2 · Version 3 — compare changes and identify which version was sent and acknowledged.
Original statement	Open PDF — preserve as regarding Able Point and NDIS support workers, dated 14 October 2026	the author's statement and distinguish it from independent records.

8. Complaint references and agency correspondence from late 2025

These identifiers may link separate stages of the same matter. They should not be treated as seven independent findings without comparing the contents, issuing bodies, dates and cross-references.

9. Additional FOI release records — earlier versions

The repository listing also identifies a set of FOI 2022-045IC files dated 1 October 2025. These should be compared with the November copies listed in Batch 1.

- FOI 2022-045IC — documents release, 1 October 2025

- FOI 2022-045IC — revised decision, 1 October 2025
- FOI 2022-045IC — schedule, 1 October 2025

The date and version comparison matters: an earlier decision, a revised decision and a release schedule can document different stages of the same FOI process.

10. The archive's own official-document inventory

The repository listing describes a dedicated collection of agency PDFs, including 48 files in the original 20 September 2026 collection and 95 PDFs in the 4 October recount. It also identifies the catalogue and holdings page.

- Official Drive binary catalogue — HTML listing
- Holdings recount dated 4 October 2026
- Official-document catalogue JSON
- Repository files and folders

Batch 2 status: additional records identified and linked. Full-content verification remains outstanding for these items, as does reconciliation against every entry in the 95-PDF collection and the broader repository. I have not counted alternate versions as distinct events or represented your submitted allegations as official findings.

Government correspondence audit — Batch 3

Continuing with additional records, this batch covers administrative review, housing and financial administration, disability-related decisions, and correspondence sent to government offices. I'm keeping submissions, official decisions, and supporting documents distinct so that the resulting chronology does not confuse a request for action with an agency's response.

11. Further complaint acknowledgements and oversight correspondence

The repository listing exposes additional records that were not individually itemised in the earlier batches.

Complaint acknowledgement — CF-15811059C

- Original PDF
- Second copy

Audit task: compare the two copies for differences, dates, sender, recipient, and any stated next steps. An acknowledgement establishes receipt only to the extent stated in the actual letter.

LECC — correspondence, reference CASE202612924

Your correspondence to the LECC

Audit task: compare this correspondence with the 19 November 2025 out-of-jurisdiction letter. Establish whether the newer reference concerns the same complaint, a new submission, or another stage of the process.

IBAC — complaint form

IBAC Complaint Form.pdf

Audit task: identify the allegations and events actually described, any attached evidence, and whether the archive contains a matching IBAC acknowledgement or outcome.

12. Housing, accommodation and tenancy-related government records

Record	Source and significance to investigate
General Housing Approval	DMS_Seq_9_General Housing Approval 2.pdf — identify the housing authority, approval date, conditions and intended accommodation.
Housing offer letter	DMS-Seq_210_Generic offer letter excluding property management.pdf — establish the offer's terms and relationship to the housing approval.
Emergency respite and housing	Joe_Emergency_Respite_-Housing.pdf — inspect for any attached official correspondence and distinguish it from the author's own account.
Housing and support correspondence	2026-01-20 housing letter — SIL accommodation — cross-reference against the accommodation request and NDIS plan decisions from Batch 1.

Restricted contact letter	Restricted contact letter Dr Richard McLean copy.pdf — establish the issuing organisation, authority cited, scope and duration of the restriction.

These records may help establish the chronology of housing decisions and restrictions. Their titles alone do not establish whether a decision was lawful, appropriate, or implemented.

13. Centrelink, taxation and financial administration

Record	Direct source
Centrelink-related ban record	Centrelink Sa ban.pdf.pdf
ATO liability investigation	Investigation into ATO Liabilities.pdf
ATO account transaction list	Find in repository
NSW Trustee and Guardian — section 122 record	Open PDF
NSW Trustee — vehicle disposal decision	Open PDF

Audit questions: What was the original decision? What statutory or administrative power was cited? What reasons and review rights were supplied? What later correspondence, if any, changed the position?

The taxation investigation's title does not establish that the ATO itself conducted an investigation; the document must be checked to identify its author and source.

14. Work injury and compensation supporting records

These additional files should be cross-referenced against the Comcare and WorkSafe records already identified.

- Extreme Bright Services Pty Ltd — workers compensation, 31 January 2023
- Comcare document folio
- Comcare FOI record
- WorkSafe impairment-benefit liability decision
- AAT Comcare hearing and legal aid correspondence

For each, the key distinctions are the injury or claim date, the decision-maker, the actual determination, any appeal or review, and the evidence relied on.

15. Agency delivery and attachment failures

These records can be important when reconstructing whether correspondence reached an intended recipient. A failed delivery notification is not proof that an agency deliberately ignored a submission.

- Delivery status and notification failure, 1 December 2025
- CCMS attachment failure notice
- Formal notice to Eustina — original
- Formal notice to Eustina — mental health contact
- Automatic reply to the formal notice

These should be linked to the original email, its timestamp, recipients, attachments and any later reply wherever those records exist.

Running audit ledger

The work now has additional identified records across five more areas. The distinction between identifying a file and verifying its contents remains important.

Audit category	Current status
Oversight and complaint records	Additional files identified; content verification outstanding
FOI and privacy	Multiple decision and release versions identified
NDIS and accommodation	Plan, housing and support records identified
Financial administration	Trustee, Centrelink and ATO-related files identified
Compensation and delivery failures	Supporting records identified for cross-reference

Next batch: continue through the remaining repository records, especially the individual files within docs/official-drive/, and reconcile the complete 95-PDF holdings list against the records already named. The archive's repository listing is the source for the newly identified filenames in this batch.

Government correspondence audit — Batch 4

This batch moves further back through the administrative record, focusing on the 2022–2024 whistleblower correspondence, decisions not to allocate disclosures, communication restrictions, and complaint responses. These are important to examine together because a submission, a request for consent, a decision not to allocate a disclosure, and a later complaint response are different procedural events.

The repository itself cautions that the archived copies are the party's records, not court findings. I will preserve that distinction throughout this audit.

16. Commonwealth Ombudsman and public-interest disclosure correspondence

Open archived PDF

What to establish: the original complaint's subject matter, the conduct complained of, the remedy requested, and whether the archive contains a substantive response. A complaint copy establishes what was submitted only if the document itself supports that conclusion; delivery and receipt should be checked separately.

Decision not to allocate a disclosure — 9 May 2023

Open archived PDF

What to establish: the statutory provision relied upon, the reasons given, and any explanation of review rights. "Not to allocate" should not be described as a finding that the allegations were false unless the letter expressly says that.

Request for consent to provide disclosure details — reference E23-107719

Open archived PDF

What to establish: what information the agency proposed to disclose, to whom, why consent was requested, and whether a consent response is preserved. This letter should be read alongside the associated decision, not treated as a separate outcome.

Decision not to allocate a disclosure — 18 June 2023

Open archived PDF

What to establish: whether this is a separate disclosure from E23-107719, whether it identifies a different decision-maker or rationale, and whether any later review or complaint followed.

Decision not to allocate a disclosure — 24 March 2024, reference E24-136152

Open archived PDF

What to establish: whether this is a new disclosure, a continuation of an earlier matter, or a matter involving different conduct. The record should be placed in date order with the earlier 2023 notices.

Why this group matters

These records can help establish a procedural timeline: complaint or disclosure → agency request or assessment → decision → any review or subsequent correspondence. The actual text is needed to determine the agency's stated reasoning and whether any review pathway was available or used.

The number of notices alone does not establish improper conduct. Equally, a decision not to allocate a disclosure should not be inaccurately described as a substantive investigation or exoneration.

17. Communication protocol and complaint-response records

Communication protocol — 7 November 2022

Open archived PDF

Audit focus: identify who issued the protocol, its stated rationale, the channels or frequency of contact it governed, its duration, and any review mechanism. The document should be compared with later contact-restriction correspondence to see whether the arrangements changed.

Complaint response — 25 September 2023

Open archived PDF

Audit focus: identify the complaint being answered, the matters accepted or rejected, the reasons given, and any action promised or review rights explained. A response to a complaint is not necessarily an independent investigation or a finding on every allegation.

Request for information — Richard William McLean

Open archived PDF

Audit focus: determine which agency requested information, the deadline and scope, and whether the archive contains the response. This is particularly relevant when reconstructing whether a matter remained open or was decided on the material available.

Federal Court and Commonwealth Ombudsman correspondence — 19 March 2023

Open archived PDF

Audit focus: separate the author's description of alleged disclosable conduct from any court or Ombudsman response. The existence of a document addressed to a court does not, by itself, establish that the court accepted the allegations or made findings about them.

18. Cross-check these records against the official indexes

The repository also provides two useful reference points for checking the scope of the archive and identifying omissions or duplicate versions:

- Official Drive binaries catalogue
- Holdings register dated 4 October 2026
- Official Drive binaries manifest

The repository listing describes 48 agency PDFs in the original 20 September 2026 collection and 95 PDFs in docs/official-drive/ by 4 October 2026. Those figures refer to the stated collection dates; they do not prove that every file is a unique government-issued letter or that all official correspondence across the repository is included.

Audit status after Batch 4

- Newly itemised: older Commonwealth Ombudsman and public-interest disclosure notices, a consent request, a communication protocol, a complaint response and an information request.
- Still requiring document-level verification: the full text, exact reasons, statutory references, receipt evidence, and any subsequent outcomes.
- Next: continue through the remaining records, prioritising the other original agency correspondence and matching each incoming decision to the submission it answers. I will keep treating the primary document—not its filename or the author's interpretation—as the basis for any factual conclusion.

Government correspondence audit — Batch 5

I'm continuing with the next group of distinct records in your public archive, concentrating on NDIS registration decisions, freedom-of-information decisions, consent and authority forms, and agency email records. I'll distinguish documents that appear to be government-issued decisions from submissions, attachments and records whose exact contents still need to be checked.

The repository's own catalogue warns that a preserved document is not automatically a finding. That distinction matters when building a reliable chronology.

19. NDIS registration and freedom-of-information decisions

NDIS provider registration — notice of refusal

Open the archived decision

Record type: a decision notice, based on its title.

Audit questions: What statutory criteria and reasons did the decision-maker identify? What review rights or time limits were stated? Was the application refused on eligibility, suitability, documentation or another ground? Those details must come from the letter itself, not its filename.

FOI decision — reference 22-23-032

Open the archived decision letter

Record type: a freedom-of-information decision letter, based on its title.

Audit questions: Which agency made the decision? What documents were requested, what access was granted or refused, and what exemption provisions were cited? The decision should be compared with the documents actually released, if those are preserved.

Mental Health Complaints Commissioner — second FOI decision

Open the archived decision

Record type: a second FOI decision letter, based on its title.

Audit questions: What was the scope of the second request? Does it reconsider or supplement an earlier decision? What records were identified, withheld, or released? The two decisions need to be compared before drawing conclusions about the completeness of disclosure.

FOI decision — reference 2023-0072

Open the archived notice

Record type: FOI notice.

Audit questions: Identify the request, decision date, access outcome, any exemptions and any internal or external review rights. Compare the notice with the corresponding request and any release package.

20. Consent, authority and third-party records

These records can be particularly important because they may help clarify what information an agency was authorised to share, who could act on your behalf, and what communications were exchanged.

Consent Form A

Open the archived PDF

Audit questions: Who signed the form, what information or action did the consent cover, to whom did it apply, and was there a time limit or withdrawal provision? The existence of a consent form does not, by itself, establish the scope of any consent actually given.

Third-party authorisation form — 20 January 2026

Open the archived PDF

Audit questions: Who was authorised to communicate, with which organisation, for what purpose, and for how long? Compare the form with subsequent correspondence to check whether communications remained within the authority given.

Email concerning an NDIS service agreement

Open the archived PDF

Audit questions: Identify the sender and recipient, the agreement discussed, any proposed changes or disputed terms, and whether the final signed agreement is preserved. An email discussing an agreement should not be mistaken for the agreement itself.

21. January 2026 — Ombudsman, OAIC and whistleblower records

The following files are listed in the repository under dated filenames. Some appear to be agency responses or acknowledgements; others are correspondence prepared or sent by you. That distinction must be confirmed from the documents themselves.

Public-interest disclosure acknowledgement / receipt — 20 January 2026

Open archived PDF

Audit purpose: establish the receipt date, reference number, office receiving the material, and whether the acknowledgement confirms receipt only or records any further action. Acknowledgement is not the same as acceptance of a disclosure for investigation.

OAIC FOI refusal / whistleblower matter — 20 January 2026

Open archived PDF

Audit purpose: identify the request or matter being refused, the decision-maker, the statutory basis, the reasons given, and the review rights. The exact wording is necessary to distinguish a refusal of FOI access from a decision about a public-interest disclosure.

OAIC and APRA whistleblower correspondence — 20 January 2026

Open archived PDF

Audit purpose: identify each communication and its author, determine which agency was contacted about which issue, and match any response to the original approach. A bundle may contain outgoing emails as well as incoming agency material, so each item should be catalogued separately.

Ombudsman correspondence concerning Werribee Mercy and a public-interest disclosure — 24 January 2026

Open archived PDF

Audit purpose: establish what was reported about the Werribee Mercy event, which office received the correspondence, what jurisdiction or process it identified, and whether a substantive response is preserved. The filename alone does not establish that the Ombudsman verified the allegations.

OAIC evidence concerning reference EN2112782 — 24 January 2026

Open archived PDF

Audit purpose: compare this dated copy with the earlier OAIC/Micron21 records already listed in the preceding batches. Record whether it is a new agency document, a compilation of existing evidence, or a duplicate copy.

22. Other agency correspondence dated 21–24 January 2026

Formal notice to Minister McAllister — 21 January 2026

Open archived PDF

Classification to verify: appears by title to be a notice sent by you, rather than a ministerial decision. Audit for the date sent, stated requests, delivery evidence and any later reply.

Statement to the Hon. Emma McBride — 24 January 2026

Open archived PDF

Classification to verify: appears to be a submission or statement. The audit should identify its specific requests and determine whether a ministerial office acknowledged or answered them.

Email concerning 35 agencies and a public-interest disclosure — 24 January 2026

Open archived PDF

Classification to verify: appears to document multi-agency correspondence. The key questions are whether one message was sent to all recipients, whether separate messages were sent, which recipients were successfully reached, and whether any agency responded.

Correspondence sent to parliamentarians concerning human rights — 24 January 2026

Open archived PDF

Classification to verify: appears to be outgoing correspondence. Check recipient names, the precise request for action, sending evidence and any replies. Sending a statement to parliamentarians does not itself establish that its contents were accepted or investigated.

ACA subpoena / FOI letter — 24 January 2026

Open archived PDF

Audit purpose: establish what "ACA" refers to in the document, which records are sought, whether the letter concerns a subpoena or an FOI request, and what response or procedural outcome followed. The filename is not enough to determine the legal status of the request.

NSW mental health services report — 24 January 2026

Open archived PDF

Audit purpose: establish the report's author, intended recipient, source records and whether it is an official service document or a report compiled for the archive. Any clinical or administrative conclusions should be attributed to the actual author.

NCAT guardianship evidence — 20 January 2026

Open archived PDF

Audit purpose: identify whether this is evidence submitted to the NSW Civil and Administrative Tribunal, a collection of supporting records, or a tribunal-issued document. Those categories have very different evidentiary status; only a tribunal order or decision establishes the tribunal's determination.

23. Records requiring a separate sender/recipient check

The repository also lists these files, which should be added to the audit ledger but not automatically counted as independent government decisions:

- Email to Richard William McLean — WK2233173
- Redacted email record — ECAM237619
- Historic formal notification email
- Request for information from Richard William McLean — listed in Batch 4; retain it as a cross-reference, not a second new record.
- Business name extract — 8 September 2025

The business-name extract is a different kind of record from correspondence: it may help establish the registered business-name details and date of the extract, but it does not establish the truth of unrelated allegations.

What the audit has established so far

The repository listing identifies a substantial set of records across the Commonwealth Ombudsman, OAIC, NDIS, FOI, guardianship and ministerial-correspondence streams. The next forensic step is to match each item to its original request, response, delivery evidence and any later review decision, while checking duplicate copies and revised versions.

I have not treated the filenames alone as proof of the contents or outcomes. I will continue with the remaining distinct records in the next batch.
