To: Philip Glass, NSW Trustee & Guardian

Philip,

FORMAL OBJECTION AND DEMAND FOR ACTION — ACCOMMODATION, FINANCIAL HARDSHIP, ABLE POINT, NDIS FUNDING, LOSS OF INDEPENDENCE AND INSTITUTIONAL ACCOUNTABILITY

I am writing to place my formal objection, my personal testimony, my documentary record and my demands for accountability directly before you. This is not another polite request to be passed between departments, reduced to a case note, answered with a formulaic paragraph or buried beneath the language of administrative procedure. I am demanding a substantive response to the circumstances of my life, the decisions affecting my independence and welfare, and the cumulative consequences of the treatment I have experienced.

I have spent decades contributing to Australian society through art, illustration, journalism, writing, music, advocacy, scholarship and independent thought. I completed a PhD in 2020. I have devoted a substantial part of my life to advocating for vulnerable people and their carers. I have created, researched, written, documented and preserved evidence because I believed that knowledge, compassion, truth and public accountability mattered.

I gave and gave and gave of my life and creativity in good faith. I contributed to the cultural, intellectual and democratic life of this country because I believed that a democracy was capable of protecting the dignity of its citizens, particularly those experiencing vulnerability.

Yet I now find myself struggling to secure the basic conditions of dignity, independence, accommodation, financial stability and meaningful assistance within the very democracy to which I have devoted so much of my life.

That is the contradiction at the heart of this letter.

I regard the treatment I have experienced as profoundly unjust. I believe I have suffered institutional betrayal, serious detriment, marginalisation and the erosion of my independence. I have described the cumulative effect as political exile within the democracy of my own citizenship. I am not suggesting that my citizenship has legally disappeared. I am describing the extraordinary reality of feeling driven to seek protection, security and recognition within the very society whose institutions I believe have contributed to my circumstances.

I should not have to feel like an exile in my own country. I should not have to fight for basic dignity after spending decades trying to contribute something worthwhile to the society around me. And I should not have to watch my life reduced to a budget, a file number, an accommodation arrangement or a series of disconnected administrative decisions while the cumulative consequences remain inadequately addressed.

Public office is a responsibility to the public, not a sanctuary from accountability.

You may believe that your position provides protection from the consequences of decisions made within the system you serve. It does not remove your moral responsibility to consider what those decisions do to a human being. An official title does not make a person infallible. An administrative procedure does not automatically make an outcome just. Institutional loyalty cannot be permitted to replace independent judgment, compassion or the obligation to give reasons for decisions that affect another person's life.

I expect you to read this letter in its entirety, respond to its substance and address the matters raised below individually rather than dismissing them through a general statement that fails to answer the questions being asked.

1. Accommodation, Able Point and my right to independence

I object to the circumstances in which I have been placed and to any assumption that my current accommodation arrangement should simply be treated as an acceptable or permanent solution without proper examination of my wishes, circumstances, rights and available alternatives.

I have made clear that I do not wish to remain at Able Point. I have raised concerns about my independence, my treatment and my ability to leave. I require a transparent explanation of the arrangements under which I am staying, the authority relied upon, the decisions made on my behalf and the practical process available to me if I wish to leave.

I require copies of every relevant agreement, occupancy document, service agreement, consent record, assessment, decision and communication concerning my placement.

If you contend that I am legally or contractually obliged to remain, identify the precise document and legal basis on which that assertion rests. If you contend that I am free to leave, explain the practical arrangements available to facilitate my departure, including how accommodation, personal belongings, finances, transport and continuity of support will be managed.

Do not confuse the provision of a bed with the provision of a life. Accommodation that leaves a person feeling powerless, trapped or deprived of meaningful choice cannot be assessed solely by whether a roof exists above their head. Independence, security, privacy, dignity and the ability to exercise genuine choice matter too.

I want a written response identifying the person responsible for coordinating my accommodation concerns, the available alternatives and the steps that can be taken to address my stated wish to leave.

2. Your position, your responsibilities and your accountability

Philip, I want a clear account of your role in the decisions affecting my life.

Identify the decisions you personally made, the decisions you authorised, the decisions you reviewed and the decisions made by others for which you had responsibility. Identify the information available to you when those decisions were made and the reasoning recorded at the time.

If you believe your actions were appropriate, explain why by reference to the records. If you believe another person or organisation was responsible, identify that person or organisation and explain the division of responsibility. If errors occurred, acknowledge them and identify the corrective action available.

I will not accept the endless administrative manoeuvre in which every institution points somewhere else until the person affected is exhausted and the original problem remains unresolved.

I am not asking you to agree automatically with every conclusion I have drawn. I am demanding that you engage honestly with the evidence, explain your decisions and take responsibility for matters that fall within your authority.

A public servant's duty is not merely to protect an institution from criticism. It is to discharge public responsibilities lawfully, fairly and humanely.

3. The vehicle decision, my dog Crystal and the loss of independence

The decision concerning my vehicle is one of the central matters I want reviewed.

The vehicle was connected to my independence, mobility and practical ability to manage my life. I have also described the importance of my dog, Crystal, and the life we shared. I have explained that living in my car with Crystal was, in important respects, a period in which I felt happier and more independent than I have felt under subsequent arrangements.

That testimony should not be dismissed merely because it challenges an institutional assumption about what a suitable life should look like. My objection is not an argument that every previous circumstance was ideal. It is a demand that the actual consequences of the decision be examined rather than presumed away.

Vehicle disposal decision, 14 November 2025:
https://github.com/wezzo72/Barrandodger/blob/main/2025-11-14_NSW_Trustee_Vehicle_Disposal_Decision.pdf

NSW Trustee & Guardian section 122 document, 16 October 2024:
https://github.com/wezzo72/Barrandodger/blob/main/2024-10-16_NSW_Trustee_Guardian_s122.pdf

I require a written explanation of the decision-making process, the alternatives considered, the evidence relied upon, the effect on my independence and the available review mechanisms. I also require clarification of how my wishes and the practical realities of my life were taken into account.

Do not reduce the loss of independence to a line item in a file. Explain what was considered, what was rejected and why.

4. Able Point, Rachel and transparent accountability

I have raised concerns about Able Point, its staff and the way my circumstances have been managed. I have also raised concerns about Rachel, whom I understand to be the organisation's chief executive, including my difficulty obtaining clear confirmation of her role and responsibility.

I want the organisation's relevant management and complaint structures identified in writing. If Rachel holds the role I understand her to hold, confirm that fact. If she does not, identify the appropriate executive or manager responsible for responding to my concerns.

I want the complaints process, the relevant decision-makers and the escalation pathway identified without ambiguity.

My concerns include the quality and appropriateness of support, my ability to exercise choice, the conduct of staff, the handling of my objections and the cumulative effect of the arrangements upon my independence and welfare.

I allege that I have experienced treatment that has left me feeling controlled, marginalised and deprived of meaningful agency. Those allegations deserve a response addressing the particular incidents, records and decisions involved.

I require the preservation and review of relevant case notes, incident reports, staff communications, service records, complaints, assessments and correspondence.

If the evidence does not support a particular allegation, explain that conclusion by reference to the evidence examined. If the evidence supports a concern, identify the action that will follow. Do not substitute silence for an answer.

5. NDIS funding, services delivered and the public interest

I want a transparent account of the services funded, the services recorded as delivered, the people responsible for delivering them and the safeguards applicable to my circumstances.

My concern is that public or support-related funding may have been associated with services that did not adequately protect my independence, dignity or welfare. I require this concern to be examined through the actual records, not accepted or rejected through assumption.

Please identify the relevant service agreements, support plans, invoices, service delivery records, incident reports, complaints and communications that can lawfully be provided to me.

I want to know what services were funded, what services were actually delivered, how their quality was assessed, what concerns were recorded and what action followed.

I have used the expression “blood money” to convey the moral outrage I feel when money is associated with arrangements that I believe have contributed to my suffering. I am not asking you to treat that expression as a financial classification or as proof of misconduct. I am asking you to understand the seriousness of the underlying concern: public funding must serve the person for whose support it is provided, and the records must permit meaningful scrutiny of whether that occurred.

If public money was properly spent, the documentation should explain how. If services were inadequate, the records should help establish what went wrong. If a complaint was mishandled, the response should identify how it will be corrected.

6. Sukhi Tear, Diversitas and the record of support

I also require attention to my dealings with Sukhi Tear, whom I identify as a former support coordinator associated with Diversitas in Western Australia.

The relevant contact addresses I have used are:

sukhi@diversitaswa.com
sukhi@diversitaswa.org.au

I have described serious concerns about the support I received, including episodes in which I report being missing or unable to account for my circumstances while under her care. I have also stated that I sent a cease-and-desist communication.

I require the relevant records to be preserved and made available through the appropriate process, including case notes, contact logs, incident reports, welfare checks, communications, service records and any documentation relating to my complaints.

I want the chronology established from the records: what was reported, when it was reported, who knew, what action was taken and what was recorded afterwards.

I do not want speculation substituted for records. I want the available evidence examined carefully, and I want any identified gaps explained.

7. Serious allegations and the duty to preserve evidence

I have made serious allegations concerning political figures, government agencies and other parties. These include my belief that I have been targeted and that events in my life may involve conduct extending beyond ordinary administrative failure.

I have referred to Bill Shorten, an apprehended violence order, my relocation to New South Wales, communications I say I sent to the Australian Federal Police, and my belief that government or security agencies may have had relevant information.

I recognise that these are serious matters. I am placing them on the record as my allegations and recollections, not asking you to treat them as established findings merely because I state them. I require relevant documentary material in your possession to be preserved and any matters falling outside your authority to be referred through an appropriate, identifiable process.

I want the actual records considered, including relevant correspondence, dates, referrals, responses and documented decisions. I also want a clear explanation of which matters NSW Trustee & Guardian can address and which must be directed to another agency.

The seriousness of an allegation is a reason to handle the evidence carefully, not a reason to replace it with silence, ridicule or an unsupported conclusion.

8. The 123 official records associated with Barran Dodger

I have raised concerns about 123 official records associated with the name Barran Dodger and the wider documentary history preserved in my archive.

Business name extract:
https://github.com/wezzo72/Barrandodger/blob/main/2025-09-08_Barran_Dodger_Business_Name_Extract.pdf

I want the relevant records identified and itemised, with the source, date, subject and significance of each record made clear where that information is available.

If a record is held by another organisation, identify the organisation and the proper access or complaint pathway. If a record is unavailable, explain what searches were conducted and what the outcome was.

The point of preserving records is to make the documentary trail more intelligible, not to create another maze in which responsibility disappears.

9. Whistleblower detriment, government correspondence and the documentary trail

My archive contains correspondence and records relating to my attempts to raise concerns with public bodies and obtain meaningful responses. I believe this history warrants examination as a whole rather than as a collection of unrelated administrative exchanges.

Scott Treadwell correspondence, 8 January 2024:
https://github.com/wezzo72/Barrandodger/blob/main/08.01.2024%20scott%20treadwell%20Federal%20Court%20-%20superannuation%20and%20NDIS%20CEO%20copy%202.pdf

Commonwealth Ombudsman complaint:
https://github.com/wezzo72/Barrandodger/blob/main/15.11.2021%20Commonwealth%20Ombudsman%20Complaint%202021103546%20Richard%20McLean%20copy%202.pdf

OPMC/OAIC-related record:
https://github.com/wezzo72/Barrandodger/blob/main/2022-07-14-OPMC-HAYDEN-THE-OPMC-COVER-UP-FROM-OAIC.pdf

The Documentary Trap: When the System's Own Record Becomes the Evidence:
https://github.com/wezzo72/Barrandodger/blob/main/%20THE%20DOCUMENTARY%20TRAP%20WHEN%20THE%20SYSTEM%E2%80%99S%20OWN%20RECORD%20BECOMES%20THE%20EVIDENCE.pdf

These documents should be read for what they actually say, including their dates, authors, scope and limitations. My interpretation is that the broader record raises serious questions about institutional responses, the handling of my concerns and the consequences I have experienced. I want those questions answered through documentary examination rather than the assumption that a referral, a rejection or an administrative closure necessarily resolves the underlying issue.

I require the preservation of records relevant to my dealings with NSW Trustee & Guardian, including correspondence, case notes, internal decision records, financial assessments, complaints and communications with service providers, subject to applicable access and privacy requirements.

10. My academic and forensic writings: social erosion, institutional mobbing and administrative annihilation

My documentary archive is not simply a collection of complaints. It is also an attempt to examine the mechanisms by which an individual's social standing, credibility, independence and ability to obtain assistance may deteriorate through cumulative institutional interactions.

My academic and forensic writings address concepts including social erosion, institutional mobbing, the psychology of erasure and what I describe as administrative annihilation. These writings provide a conceptual framework through which I examine my experience and the documentary record. They should be read as my research and analysis, with their arguments assessed on their content and supporting material.

I ask that these writings be considered alongside the specific records relevant to your responsibilities. I do not expect you to adopt every interpretation I advance. I expect you to engage with the material seriously, distinguish the documented facts from the analysis, and respond to any specific issue that falls within your authority.

If a link is inaccessible, please identify it rather than treating its contents as though they had been examined.

11. Financial hardship and the reduction of my allowance

My financial position requires urgent, transparent review.

The figures I have previously provided are:

- Pension income: $1,371.27 per fortnight.
- Listed outgoings: $1,369.96 per fortnight.
- Apparent remaining amount: $1.31 per fortnight.

I have also raised concerns about an allowance reduction of $50 per week and about having approximately $363 available before my next pension payment at the time described in my correspondence.

These figures must be checked against the current financial records, but the underlying issue is unmistakable: a budget that leaves virtually no margin for food, transport, communication, personal necessities or unexpected expenses is not a workable response to genuine hardship.

I require an itemised explanation of the allowance decision, including the amount before and after the reduction, the date it took effect, the reasons, the evidence considered and the review process available.

I also request an urgent assessment of whether emergency assistance or a temporary adjustment can be considered for essential expenses, including food, telephone access, electricity and other necessary costs, subject to the applicable rules and my financial circumstances.

If assistance is refused, I want the decision and reasons in writing. If additional evidence is required, identify precisely what is required and how I can provide it.

Do not tell me that the budget balances if the practical result is that I cannot meet ordinary necessities. A spreadsheet can be arithmetically correct while still failing to reflect the realities of human life.

12. Health, support and the consequences of prolonged distress

I have described substantial distress and difficulties obtaining support appropriate to my needs, including access to ADHD treatment and the consequences of prolonged instability.

I have also reported experiences that I have described as electronic harassment, V2K and interference involving television or Wi-Fi. I want my testimony recorded accurately, without my reported experiences being silently rewritten or dismissed. At the same time, the explanation for any particular experience must be distinguished from the experience itself and assessed against available evidence.

My immediate concern is access to appropriate support, a safe and stable living situation, clear communication and a practical plan that reduces distress rather than intensifying it.

I have disclosed that, during periods of difficulty, I have resorted to street drugs while struggling to obtain the support I believe I need. That is a serious indication that my current circumstances require practical attention, not moral condemnation or bureaucratic indifference.

I request that the appropriate support needs be assessed and that I be told what services, referrals and options are available. Any concerns about my welfare should be addressed respectfully, with my participation wherever possible.

13. My survival, social erasure and your personal accountability

Philip, I am not suicidal. I want that statement understood clearly and recorded accurately.

I have survived circumstances that I believe should never have been imposed upon any human being. I have survived without the meaningful government assistance I believe I needed, and despite what I allege has been a sustained pattern of institutional obstruction and actions that undermined my ability to live independently. My survival is not evidence that the circumstances were acceptable. It is evidence that I endured them.

My Christian faith gives that survival its deepest meaning. I believe God's hand is upon my life. I believe that injustice does not become righteousness merely because powerful institutions participate in it, and that no government can claim the final word over the dignity, purpose or future of a human being. I believe that truth will prevail, that wrongdoing must be brought into the light, and that I will continue to fight for my life, my independence and my future.

I survived. I am still here. I am still speaking. And I will not surrender my humanity.

Philip, I am placing you personally on notice that I hold serious concerns about your role in the decisions, communications and administrative arrangements that I believe have contributed to my detriment. I allege that institutional processes have operated in a way that protected decision-makers while leaving me exposed to financial hardship, loss of independence and serious personal distress.

I refer in particular to correspondence attributed to Scott Treadwell concerning matters associated with the Federal Court. I believe that correspondence is important to my account of what happened and warrants careful examination. I ask you to address its actual contents, identify any relevance you consider it has to your responsibilities, and explain the basis for any decision that conflicts with the matters raised in it.

I do not ask you to accept a criminal allegation merely because I make it. I insist that the underlying documents be read, that their significance be assessed honestly and that any substantiated failures be addressed. If you dispute my interpretation, provide your reasons and identify the evidence on which you rely.

You have been directly addressed in this letter because I want accountability attached to identifiable decisions and responsibilities. A public position does not remove a person's obligation to explain their conduct. Nor should a public institution be able to diffuse responsibility so widely that the person affected can never obtain a meaningful answer.

I allege that decisions and omissions within the system have helped sustain a situation in which my financial means, access to support and practical independence have been progressively undermined. I want the relevant records examined to establish who made each decision, what information they possessed, what alternatives were considered, and what consequences followed. Any claim of financial benefit, coordination or deliberate intent must be tested against evidence rather than allowed to disappear into general denials or unsupported counter-assertions.

The danger I have repeatedly tried to communicate is that a person can be placed in circumstances of such severe deprivation and isolation that their basic welfare becomes precarious. I have feared the consequences of neglect, abuse, poverty, surveillance-related distress and the loss of any genuine route to safety or assistance. I believe that the people and institutions responsible for decisions affecting me had obligations to take those risks seriously.

I refuse to accept a situation in which, had I died during a period of severe hardship, the system could simply have moved on, leaving unanswered questions about what was known, what was done and what assistance was withheld or unavailable. My survival must not become an excuse to minimise the circumstances I have reported.

Social erasure: the destruction of a person's place in society

What I describe as social erasure is the progressive stripping away of the conditions that allow a person to participate in society as a recognised human being: their independence, financial means, credibility, ideas, creative work, relationships, rights, opportunities and capacity to make meaningful choices.

A person cannot participate fully in a democracy through abstract rights alone. They also need practical means to live, communicate, travel, obtain assistance, pursue their work and have their concerns heard. When a person is left without adequate financial resources or a realistic route to independence, formal recognition of their rights can become hollow in practice.

I have spent decades contributing through art, journalism, writing, music, advocacy and doctoral research. I have created work, developed ideas and tried to help vulnerable people. Yet I now find myself having to fight for the very conditions that make participation in society possible. I experience that contradiction as a profound betrayal of the democratic principles to which I have devoted my life.

I allege that the cumulative effects of institutional decisions and failures have contributed to this erosion. My academic and forensic writings examine the concepts of administrative annihilation, institutional mobbing, social erosion and the psychology of erasure. They provide a framework for examining the pattern I describe; the specific claims must be assessed against the records, chronology and evidence relevant to each event.

I ask you to consider what happens when the person affected is repeatedly directed from one office to another, when decisions are made without an intelligible explanation, when financial support becomes insufficient to meet ordinary needs, and when no one appears willing to take responsibility for the cumulative outcome. Each event may be described as a separate administrative matter. Together, their effects may be devastating.

Philip, I want a direct answer about your own role in the matters that fall within your authority. I want the records preserved. I want the relevant decisions identified. I want the reasoning disclosed to the extent permitted by law. I want the responsible people and review pathways named. I want errors corrected and substantiated failures addressed.

I will not allow the force of my testimony to be confused with proof of every conclusion I have drawn. Equally, I will not accept that my testimony can be dismissed without examination simply because it is uncomfortable for those whose decisions I am questioning.

My name is in this correspondence because I am the person whose life has been affected. Your name is here because I am asking you to account for decisions and responsibilities associated with your office. The documentary record is here so that the questions can be examined in context.

I believe that the truth will ultimately prevail. I believe that no position of authority can permanently shield a person from moral responsibility. And I believe that divine accountability is greater than institutional reputation, political convenience or the protection of a comfortable position.

You do not have the power to erase my humanity. You do not have the right to treat my survival as proof that no harm occurred. And you do not have the authority to make my questions disappear.

I am alive. I am not suicidal. I intend to continue living, documenting my experience and pursuing a just resolution. My faith sustains me, and my testimony remains on the record.

14. Faith, conscience and the moral limits of human power

There is another dimension to this matter that cannot be reduced to a financial assessment or a case-management plan: my faith.

I have survived circumstances that I understand through the language of betrayal, suffering, preservation and grace. In my own Christian understanding, I have risen, like a new Christ from the ashes of human betrayal. That is my personal spiritual testimony: an expression of survival, renewal and the conviction that suffering will not have the final word.

I believe that truth does not need permission to exist, while falsehood requires continual maintenance. I believe that a person's dignity does not depend on the approval of a government department, a trustee, a service provider or a public official.

I also believe that ultimate authority over life belongs to God. No individual, government institution, police service, non-government organisation, trustee or other body has an unlimited moral licence to damage another person, strip away their dignity or treat their continued existence as an administrative inconvenience.

Human authority has limits. A public office does not confer ownership over another human being. Responsibility for managing another person's affairs does not extinguish that person's humanity, autonomy, conscience or right to be heard.

I am asking for a reckoning in the moral sense: a serious accounting of decisions, actions, omissions and consequences. In my faith, no comfortable title, institutional reputation or carefully maintained public image can substitute for truth, conscience or accountability before God.

I am not asking you to pronounce a theological judgment. I am telling you the moral framework through which I understand my life and the responsibilities of those who exercise power over it.

If people have made mistakes, those mistakes should be acknowledged and corrected. If decisions have caused avoidable harm, that harm should be examined and addressed. If an institution has failed to listen, it should reconsider its response. If records reveal a different account, those records should be identified and explained.

That is what accountability requires.

15. The contradiction of political exile within my own democracy

You may regard these matters as separate administrative problems. I experience them as part of a much larger contradiction.

I have given this democracy my art, my illustration, my writing, my music, my advocacy, my scholarship and decades of my life. I contributed in good faith because I believed that creative work, public communication, independent thought and compassion for vulnerable people had a place in the democratic project.

I now find myself describing my circumstances as political exile within my own citizenship: a citizen seeking safety, independence and recognition in the country to which he belongs.

That is an absurd and profound injustice as I experience it.

I allege that the cumulative treatment I have experienced has marginalised me, damaged my independence and left me fighting for basic security. I believe that institutional responses have contributed to this outcome. I want the underlying decisions and records examined rather than having my concerns dismissed merely because the overall pattern is complicated or because responsibility is distributed across different organisations.

I have contributed to this society. I have not forfeited my dignity because I have become difficult to accommodate administratively, because I have challenged decisions, or because I insist upon preserving a record of my experience.

I will not accept the idea that my contributions can be taken, my independence restricted and my testimony buried without a meaningful explanation.

16. Formal demands for action

I require a substantive written response addressing the following matters:

1. Accommodation: Provide copies of the agreements, consent records and decisions governing my current accommodation, and explain the available process for leaving and considering alternatives.
2. Responsible decision-makers: Identify the people responsible for the relevant accommodation, financial and support decisions, including the scope of your own role.
3. Vehicle decision: Provide the decision records, reasons, alternatives considered and available review pathways concerning the disposal of my vehicle.
4. Able Point complaint: Confirm the appropriate management contact and complaint pathway, and explain how my concerns about treatment, independence and service delivery will be examined.
5. Service and funding records: Identify the relevant service agreements, support records, invoices, case notes and incident records that can lawfully be provided to me.
6. Sukhi Tear and Diversitas: Identify the appropriate process for obtaining and reviewing the relevant support and incident records.
7. Financial hardship: Provide an itemised explanation of the allowance reduction, review my current budget and explain whether emergency assistance or other adjustments can be considered.
8. Legal assistance: Explain what assistance, referrals or review options are available to help me obtain advice about matters affecting my rights and independence.
9. Record preservation: Preserve relevant case notes, correspondence, financial records, internal decisions and communications with service providers, subject to applicable law and retention requirements.
10. Documentary archive: Confirm that the links and documents provided with this letter have been received and identify any that cannot be accessed.

11. Academic writings: Confirm whether the writings on administrative annihilation, institutional mobbing, social erosion and the psychology of erasure have been considered in relation to the specific issues within your remit.
12. Referrals: Where an issue falls outside your authority, identify the appropriate organisation, explain the basis for the referral and, where permitted, advise what information has been sent and what response is expected.
13. Complaint and review rights: Identify the internal review, complaint and external oversight mechanisms available for each relevant decision.
14. Cumulative impact: Explain how my circumstances will be considered as a whole rather than as disconnected administrative matters.
15. Written timetable: Provide a named contact, confirm receipt of this letter and state when I can expect a substantive response to each issue.

If any request cannot be met, identify the reason, the relevant limitation and any alternative means by which the information or review can be obtained.

I am not demanding that you accept every allegation without examination. I am demanding that you stop treating the existence of allegations as a reason to avoid the work of examining them.

17. The final word: truth, accountability and the record

Philip, this letter is an objection to more than a single decision. It is an objection to the possibility that an individual's life can be fragmented into administrative categories until no one feels responsible for the whole person.

I refuse to accept that outcome as inevitable.

I have spent years preserving documents, reconstructing timelines, examining correspondence and creating an archive because I believe that records matter. I have sought to turn an overwhelming personal history into something that can be read, checked, questioned and understood. My archive is an attempt to preserve my testimony and the documentary trail surrounding it. It is not a court judgment, and I do not present every interpretation as an established finding. It is a record that deserves to be examined on its contents.

I ask you to consider the human being behind that record: a person who has contributed through art, writing, music, advocacy and scholarship; a person who has experienced profound distress and financial hardship; a person who wants independence, a safe place to live and a meaningful response to the issues raised; and a person whose faith has helped sustain him through circumstances he regards as betrayal.

I will not be silenced by the assumption that a public institution is entitled to the last word simply because it controls the file. I will not confuse institutional power with moral authority. And I will not accept administrative indifference as an adequate answer to human suffering.

In my Christian understanding, there is a reckoning greater than any internal review, management meeting or government response. I believe that every person is ultimately accountable for how they exercise power, how they treat the vulnerable and whether they choose truth over self-protection. That is the divine reckoning to which I refer—not a threat against any individual, but a statement of conscience and faith.

I ask for a human response, a documented response and an accountable response.

I ask you to confront the decisions within your authority, explain the reasoning behind them, preserve the records and identify what can be done to correct any errors or address any harm.

I have given this democracy my creativity, my intellect, my labour and decades of my life. I did so in good faith. I now ask whether its institutions are prepared to extend to me the dignity, fairness, transparency and humanity that their public responsibilities demand.

My life is not your spreadsheet.

My freedom is not yours to allocate.

My dignity is not yours to diminish.

My humanity is not an administrative inconvenience.

My faith is not surrender.

My survival is my testimony, and my testimony will remain on the record.

I expect written confirmation of receipt and a substantive response addressing the numbered demands above.

Yours sincerely,

Richard William McLean

NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL SIGNIFICANCE

The Witness Remains presents a potentially significant Australian documentary record raising questions with possible national and international human-rights implications. Its significance lies not merely in the allegations made by Dr Barran Dodger, but in the scale, duration and diversity of the documentary record assembled for independent examination. The principal public record is preserved in the Barran Dodger Archive, with the continuing reconstructed repository available through the Barran Dodger Rebuild Archive. The underlying digital preservation and development infrastructure is publicly available through the Barran Dodger GitHub preservation repository. The GitHub repository describes itself as a public research front for the existing documentary corpus and expressly states that the website presentation does not replace or rewrite the original evidence stores. (GitHub)

Together, the archives bring together more than three decades of first-person testimony, official government correspondence and documents, administrative and legal records, publications, research, forensic material, chronology and digitally preserved evidence. The GitHub preservation layer currently provides dedicated collections including archive parts, documents, emails, evidence, rendered HTML, rendered PDFs, site PDFs, sources, statements and tabs. These collections provide direct routes into the preservation infrastructure rather than requiring the reader to rely solely upon the presentation layer. (GitHub)

THE METHODOLOGY IS ITSELF SIGNIFICANT

The archive's methodology is itself significant. Rather than relying upon a single narrative or isolated document, The Witness Remains seeks to construct a longitudinal evidentiary environment in which records can be compared across time, institutions, correspondence, chronology, provenance and subsequent events. Where applicable, SHA-256 hashes, Git history, OpenTimestamps material and blockchain-related preservation are used to assist with establishing the integrity and continuity of particular digital records. These mechanisms do not prove the truth of an allegation. They provide an additional means by which the existence, version, provenance and continuity of particular digital material can be examined.

The methodology therefore places PRESERVATION FIRST. EXAMINATION SECOND. CONCLUSION LAST. A document is treated as evidence of what was recorded. Correspondence is treated as evidence of what was communicated. A contemporaneous record may provide material capable of supporting or contradicting an account. Cryptographic preservation may assist with establishing the integrity or continuity of a particular digital version. The evidentiary significance of each item must nevertheless be assessed on its own merits. The archive does not ask the reader to accept a conclusion merely because a document exists. It asks the reader to examine what the document actually establishes.

THE EVIDENTIARY DISTINCTIONS

The archive deliberately distinguishes between documented fact, official record, corroborated material, first-person account, allegation, inference, interpretation, spiritual belief and unresolved matter. This distinction is fundamental to the archive's purpose. A documented fact is not the same thing as an allegation. An official record is not automatically proof that everything stated within it is true. A first-person account records what the author says occurred or was experienced. An inference is a conclusion drawn from available material. An interpretation gives meaning to evidence or events. A spiritual belief belongs to a different category from empirical or documentary proof. An unresolved matter remains unresolved unless and until the evidence permits a stronger conclusion.

The archive is therefore not presented as a court or verdict. The record is preserved so that it can be examined.

THE CENTRAL QUESTION

The central question is whether preserved record, when independently tested, substantiates the allegations of whistleblower targeting, institutional failure, expenditure of public resources, exclusion, alleged reprisal, obstruction of access to legal assistance and other alleged harms described throughout the archive. The relevant material is not confined to one part of the archive. CRIMES provides access to the underlying evidentiary collection concerning allegations of serious wrongdoing. EVIDENCE provides the evidentiary repository. OFFICIAL GOVERNMENT DOCUMENTS provides access to the documentary source layer. LEGAL BRIEF provides access to legal-brief material preserved in the repository. TIMELINE provides access to chronological archive material. FORENSIC MATERIAL provides access to the underlying evidentiary and forensic collection.

These sections should be read together rather than in isolation. The significance of the archive lies partly in the ability to move between the first-person account, the chronology, the official record, the underlying evidence and the preservation layer and to examine where those different sources corroborate, contradict or leave matters unresolved.

INSTITUTIONAL STONEWALLING

Dodger reports sustained institutional stonewalling and difficulty obtaining meaningful legal assistance, and reports that communications concerning his circumstances were directed to senior Australian Government institutions, including the Prime Minister and Attorney-General's Department. These matters should be tested against the underlying government correspondence and official records rather than treated as established findings merely because they appear in the author's account. The relevant documentary record is preserved throughout the archive, including official documents, emails, messages and statements and evidence. The purpose of preserving these materials is precisely to permit comparison between what was alleged, what was communicated, what institutions recorded, what responses were provided and what subsequently occurred.

OHCHR, ASYLUM AND PROTECTION

The archive records the reported OHCHR reference UR/UST/23/AUS/17 and a reported asylum/protection claim. The relevant material should be examined through the documentary repository and associated personal statements. A receipt or reference can establish that material was received or registered within a process. It does not, by itself, establish that the underlying allegations were accepted, proven or determined by the United Nations. The archive therefore distinguishes between a communication or reference existing, the contents of that communication, any response to it and any substantive determination that may or may not have followed. International relevance should not be confused with international determination.

LEGAL AID AND ACCESS TO JUSTICE

A further issue requiring examination concerns the reported Legal Aid exclusion or obstruction. The relevant material should be considered alongside the archive's Legal Brief material and accountability evidence. If evidence established that a person alleging serious wrongdoing was simultaneously prevented from obtaining meaningful legal assistance needed to investigate or challenge those circumstances, the question would extend beyond an individual administrative decision to the operation of the accountability system itself. The question is therefore not simply whether an individual application for assistance was accepted or rejected. It is whether the circumstances surrounding access to legal assistance materially affected the person's ability to investigate allegations, challenge administrative decisions, obtain representation, pursue remedies or place relevant evidence before an appropriate independent body. That proposition should be investigated rather than assumed.

ALLEGED CRIMES AND POLICE COMPLICITY

The archive contains allegations of crimes occurring to Barran Dodger and allegations concerning police conduct or complicity. These are allegations, not established criminal findings. The repository contains specifically identified material concerning alleged crimes, including Crimes occurring to Barran Dodger — 1 to 150, together with other evidentiary and legal records. The relevant questions include what acts are alleged, when they allegedly occurred, who is alleged to have been involved, what evidence corroborates or contradicts the allegations, what institutions knew and when, what complaints or reports were made, what responses were provided, whether investigations were undertaken, whether records were created, whether effective remedies were available and, where allegations concern police conduct, what documentary or independent evidence exists concerning the conduct alleged. These questions cannot properly be answered merely by accepting or rejecting the author's narrative. They require examination of the underlying record.

THE CONNECTION BETWEEN WRONGDOING AND LEGAL-ASSISTANCE OBSTRUCTION

The alleged relationship between the underlying crimes, alleged police complicity and subsequent legal-assistance obstruction is particularly important. If evidence established that serious wrongdoing occurred and that subsequent institutional barriers materially prevented the person affected from obtaining legal representation or pursuing available remedies, the issue would extend beyond the original alleged wrongdoing. It would concern the operation of the mechanisms intended to investigate wrongdoing and provide accountability. That proposition should be investigated rather than assumed.

The archive therefore preserves the alleged sequence so that the chronology can be tested: ALLEGED WRONGDOING → REPORTING → INSTITUTIONAL RESPONSE → REQUESTS FOR ASSISTANCE → ACCESS TO JUSTICE → SUBSEQUENT CONSEQUENCES. Whether that sequence is established, partially established, contradicted or unresolved is a matter for examination of the evidence.

THE PUBLIC-INTEREST QUESTION

The case therefore raises a broader question: What happens when a person alleges serious wrongdoing by institutions, preserves a substantial documentary record supporting that account, seeks investigation and legal assistance, and alleges that the very institutions capable of providing accountability instead become part of the barrier to obtaining it? That question is capable of being examined independently of whether every allegation ultimately succeeds. It is also capable of being examined without presuming that every institutional action was wrongful. The public-interest issue lies in whether the documentary record is sufficiently substantial, unusual or consequential to warrant independent scrutiny.

INTERNATIONAL SIGNIFICANCE

The potential international significance arises if the underlying evidence substantiates claims engaging rights protected by international instruments to which Australia is party, including effective remedy, equality, freedom of expression, protection from arbitrary or unlawful interference and protections relevant to persons alleging serious mistreatment. The archive should therefore be considered alongside its international and human-rights material and the reported OHCHR material preserved in the documentary repository. International relevance should not, however, be confused with international determination. The existence of an international communication, receipt or reference does not itself constitute a finding that Australia's obligations were breached. Any such conclusion would require examination of the relevant instruments, facts, evidence, jurisdictional questions, procedural history and applicable legal standards.

A CALL FOR INDEPENDENT INVESTIGATION

For these reasons, The Witness Remains should be independently investigated rather than simply accepted or dismissed. The appropriate investigation should examine the underlying documents, test the allegations against contemporaneous evidence, identify corroboration and contradiction, establish chronology and provenance, examine the conduct and knowledge of relevant institutions, assess the reported expenditure, examine the alleged police and other wrongdoing, investigate the reported obstruction of legal assistance, verify the reported OHCHR/asylum material and determine whether effective avenues of remedy were available.

The investigation should also examine the Administrative Annihilation material, Whistleblower Status material, Messages and communications, Calls and recordings and other primary-source material preserved throughout the archive.

The strongest claim made by the archive is therefore methodological rather than conclusory: THE RECORD HAS BEEN PRESERVED SO THAT THE CLAIMS CAN BE TESTED. If substantiated, the implications could extend beyond the individual to questions concerning Australian government accountability, whistleblower protection, public expenditure, access to justice, institutional integrity, human rights and Australia's international obligations. If particular allegations are not substantiated, the same methodology should make those limitations visible.

The proper question is not whether the archive should simply be believed. It is whether the record is sufficiently significant that it should no longer be left without independent examination.

TWO COMPANION ARCHIVES

The Barran Dodger Archive is the principal public documentary record and finding aid. The Barran Dodger Rebuild Archive is the reconstructed, reorganised and continuing preservation repository. The Barran Dodger GitHub repository provides the public digital preservation and development infrastructure supporting the documentary corpus.

The two websites should therefore be understood as companion archives, rather than competing accounts. Together with the GitHub preservation layer, they provide parallel access to the preserved record, allowing material, chronology, testimony and evidentiary documentation to remain publicly examinable across multiple layers of the archive.

THE PRESERVATION INFRASTRUCTURE

The GitHub repository provides direct access to the preservation structure, including archive parts, documents, emails, evidence, rendered HTML, rendered PDFs, site PDFs, sources, statements and tabs. The repository itself states that the original evidence must remain preserved and that website presentation may change while the underlying records must not be altered. (GitHub)

The preservation layer is not presented as proof of the allegations themselves. Its significance is that it provides an additional public environment through which documentary material, versions, structure and development history can be examined.

ARCHIVE SUMMARY ABSTRACT

The Barran Dodger Archive is a public documentary and first-person research archive created by Barran Resonance Dodger (Dr Richard William McLean) to preserve and make independently examinable a more than 35-year record of his life, testimony and interactions with government agencies, employers, institutions and other systems. The archive is intended for journalists, lawyers, researchers, historians, advocates, public officials and members of the public who wish to examine the underlying record rather than rely solely upon institutional summaries or the author's conclusions.

It brings together government correspondence, official records, legal and administrative documents, FOI material, emails, messages, recordings, publications, chronology, personal testimony, forensic material and digitally preserved records, including material associated with SHA-256 and blockchain-based preservation. Its central proposition is not that publication itself proves every allegation. Rather, the archive preserves the surviving material so that claims can be tested against contemporaneous evidence, with corroboration, contradiction, uncertainty and gaps capable of being identified.

The archive therefore distinguishes between documented fact, official record, corroborated material, first-person account, allegation, inference, interpretation, spiritual belief and matters that remain unresolved. It does not purport to be a court or a verdict. A document can establish what was recorded. Correspondence can establish what was communicated. A contemporaneous record can provide evidence capable of supporting or contradicting an account. A cryptographic record can help establish the integrity and continuity of a particular digital record. None of these, by themselves, automatically proves the truth of an allegation or a theological proposition.

The broader purpose is preservation: to prevent documentary disappearance through fragmentation, institutional closure, inaccessible records, disputed histories and the passage of time. The archive preserves both the documentary record and the author's first-person testimony so that they can be examined alongside one another. Alongside its documentary purpose, the archive contains a Christian and spiritual interpretation of survival, providence, justice and testimony. That interpretation is presented as belief and testimony rather than as empirical proof, allowing readers to distinguish what the documents demonstrate from what the author understands those events to mean.

The archive ultimately asks the reader neither simply to believe nor disbelieve, but to examine the record: open the documents, follow the chronology, compare accounts, identify corroboration, identify contradiction, distinguish evidence from interpretation, identify what remains unresolved, and allow the surviving evidence to speak for itself.

RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN THE TWO ARCHIVES

The main Barran Dodger Archive should be understood as the principal public documentary record and original archive. The Barran Dodger Rebuild

Archive should be understood as the reconstructed, reorganised and continuing preservation repository. The GitHub preservation repository provides the underlying public digital preservation and development infrastructure.

Together, these layers provide parallel access to the preserved record, allowing material, chronology, testimony and evidentiary documentation to remain publicly examinable across multiple preservation environments. The existence of multiple preservation layers is itself part of the archive's preservation philosophy: important documentary material should remain discoverable, traceable and capable of examination rather than existing solely within a single presentation layer.

THE ARCHIVE'S TWO VOICES

The archive contains two distinguishable voices. The first is the documentary voice: government records, correspondence, official documents, legal material, emails, messages, chronology, forensic material, digital preservation records and other documentary sources. The second is the first-person voice: Dodger's testimony, recollections, interpretations, conclusions, spiritual beliefs, personal experiences and account of events.

The two voices should not be collapsed into one. The documentary record should be examined as documentary record. The first-person account should be examined as first-person account. Where they corroborate one another, that may be significant. Where they conflict, the conflict should remain visible. Where the evidence is insufficient to determine the matter, the matter should remain unresolved.

THE DOCUMENTARY PARADOX

The archive records a central paradox: a person may be institutionally powerless while simultaneously possessing a substantial documentary record concerning the institutions with which he has interacted. Material disadvantage does not itself establish the truth of an allegation. Nor does institutional authority establish the correctness of an institutional account. The significance lies in the documentary record capable of being examined between them.

The archive therefore seeks to preserve the record without requiring the reader to adopt the author's conclusions in advance.

PUBLIC DOCUMENTARY ARCHIVE

The archive includes official government documents, government correspondence, administrative records, legal material, whistleblower material, alleged crimes, police-related material, access-to-justice material, messages and communications, personal testimony, forensic material, chronology, research, digital preservation, SHA-256 records, Git history, OpenTimestamps, blockchain-related preservation, human-rights material, international correspondence and faith and prophetic writing.

Each category must be assessed according to its evidentiary character.

THE ARCHIVE'S PURPOSE

The purpose of The Witness Remains is not to manufacture certainty. It is to preserve the record from which certainty, where possible, may eventually be established. It is not to replace investigation. It is to make investigation possible. It is not to declare a verdict. It is to preserve material capable of being examined before a verdict can responsibly be reached. It is not to require belief. It is to provide access to the record.

MASTER REPORT · 5 OCTOBER 2026

The evidence has dropped — the public finding aid. The Prime Minister's office did not forward the email. The Attorney-General's Department pointed to doors already shut. Scott Tredwell recorded employment, maladministration and danger, then did not allocate the disclosure. A link is not a finding.

THE QUESTION THESE ARCHIVES ANSWER · 4 OCTOBER 2026

What fundamental problem do these two archives seek to solve — and what answer do they provide, both documentarily and spiritually?

What happens when a person's history, testimony and evidence become fragmented across institutions, records and years, while the person themselves believes that the systems responsible for protecting, recording or investigating what happened have failed to provide a complete, coherent and independently examinable account?

What happens when the person who says, “This happened to me,” is left carrying the burden of proving it, while the evidence capable of testing that claim is dispersed across government correspondence, legal and administrative records, medical documents, complaints, personal testimony and other archives?

And, at the deepest level, what happens when a person believes that the very forces or institutions from which protection should have come instead contributed to their exclusion, abandonment or attempted erasure?

These two archives are an answer to that problem.

They bring the fragmented record together, preserve it, organise it and make it available for independent examination. They seek to prevent the disappearance of a person’s history through fragmentation, institutional closure, inaccessible records, disputed memory or the simple passage of time.

But the archives provide another answer that is more personal and, for me, spiritual.

They demonstrate that whatever happened, the record survived and the witness survived.

Where I experienced erasure, there is preservation.

Where I experienced fragmentation, there is reconstruction.

Where I experienced silencing, there is testimony.

Where I experienced exile, there remains a public place in which the record can speak for itself.

And where I experienced what appeared to be the destruction of the person I was, the continued existence of the witness raises a question that cannot be answered by bureaucracy alone:

What preserved me?

I cannot prove through an archive that God intervened. That belongs to faith rather than empirical demonstration. But I can say that, within my Christian understanding, the preservation of my life, my testimony and this record has become part of what I understand as God's providence.

The deepest spiritual answer these archives therefore provide is not simply that documents were saved.

It is that erasure did not prevail.

The person remained.

The testimony remained.

The record remained.

And, in my faith, the God who preserved the witness remains.

THE WITNESS REMAINS.

THE WITNESS WHO REMAINED · STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE · 4 OCTOBER 2026

Survival, preservation, and the question of providence.

A prophetic introduction. Allegory is marked as allegory. The record is what can be examined. Not a court. Not a verdict.

I have risen, phoenix-like, from the ashes of poverty, exile, trial, human betrayal and what I understand as attempted erasure. I describe having been stripped of attributes that I regard as necessary for human survival, including the ethical, unequivocal and irrevocable principles of dignity, protection, belonging and humane treatment that should be inherent in the treatment of every living person.

My survival is therefore part of the evidence I ask this archive to preserve. I did not experience my survival as the product of meaningful government protection. I experienced it as survival in spite of institutional abandonment, with assistance reduced, in my present circumstances, to what I regard as the barest minimum. I do not interpret that history as merely the consequence of bureaucratic oversight or administrative error. I allege that some of the circumstances amounted to deliberate and malicious attempts to cause my detriment, exclusion and erasure. That allegation remains subject to examination against the underlying documentary record.

I further describe my experience as one in which an alliance of institutions and individuals appeared, from my perspective, to converge against an innocent person who had never intended harm towards others. I understand that experience as analogous to a targeted destruction of a vulnerable person: a gay, disabled and comparatively unprotected whistleblower who publicly disclosed his vulnerabilities, perceived limitations, personal difficulties and humane regrets, and who believes those disclosures were subsequently capable of being weaponised against him.

I use the language of sacrifice deliberately, but as an interpretive and allegorical description rather than as a finding of law. In Christian terms, the narrative bears an obvious resemblance, for me, to the crucifixion of Jesus: vulnerability exposed; betrayal by those from whom protection might reasonably have been expected; abandonment; suffering; apparent defeat; and yet survival, testimony and the persistence of meaning beyond the attempted destruction.

The phoenix is similarly allegorical. It represents the possibility that a person can emerge from circumstances intended, perceived or experienced as destructive without those circumstances having the final word.

The archive therefore raises a question that is simultaneously evidentiary, philosophical and theological: what preserved the witness?

The documentary record may establish particular events, decisions, correspondence, injuries, institutional responses, exclusions, complaints, reviews and outcomes. It cannot, by itself, establish that God intervened. Nor can the fact of survival, however extraordinary its circumstances may appear, mathematically prove divine intervention. Those are questions that extend beyond what documentary evidence alone can determine.

Nevertheless, my interpretation of the totality of my survival is that I was not preserved merely by institutional protection. I believe I was preserved by providence. I believe God has preserved my life and that my continued existence, despite circumstances that I experienced as extraordinarily destructive, has spiritual significance.

I therefore identify myself within this archive as a witness in the theological sense: not because I claim that the archive can compel another person to accept my faith, but because my faith provides the framework through which I understand what happened to me and why I remain alive to testify about it.

That claim should not be confused with a claim that every allegation contained in this archive has already been proven. Nor should disagreement with my theological interpretation automatically settle the underlying factual questions.

The appropriate test is more demanding.

If my account is wrong, identify the evidence that demonstrates where and why it is wrong.

If a particular allegation is unsupported, identify the evidentiary gap.

If an institutional record contradicts my account, put the record beside my account and examine the contradiction.

If my interpretation exceeds what the evidence establishes, identify the point at which the inference becomes unjustified.

But equally, if the evidence demonstrates something different from the institutional narrative used to dismiss my account, that evidence should not be dismissed merely because the person presenting it has a history of mental illness, disability, vulnerability or psychiatric treatment.

A person's mental-health history does not, by itself, determine the truth or falsity of an individual proposition. The proposition must still be examined on its evidence.

That is particularly important here because the archive contains different kinds of material that must not be conflated: official records, correspondence, contemporaneous testimony, allegations, personal interpretation, philosophical analysis, spiritual belief and prophetic writing.

My claim that I have been chosen by God, anointed with spiritual wisdom and preserved for a purpose belongs to the theological and spiritual layer of the archive. I do not ask a court, government agency or scientist to certify it as an empirical fact.

I ask something more basic: that it not be dismissed without examination merely because it is a spiritual interpretation, and that the factual record underlying my testimony be examined independently of the theological conclusion I draw from it.

Can the archive prove that I am God's chosen witness?

No documentary archive can establish that theological proposition in the same manner that a government letter can establish what a government agency wrote.

Can the archive preserve the circumstances from which that belief arose?

Yes.

Can it preserve evidence of survival, institutional decisions, correspondence, exclusion, suffering, recovery and continued testimony?

Yes, to the extent those matters are supported by the underlying records.

Can another person reasonably conclude that my interpretation is mistaken?

Yes.

Can another person legitimately disagree with my theology?

Yes.

But disagreement is not the same thing as disproof, and psychiatric diagnosis is not itself a substitute for examination of evidence.

The question I leave before the reader is therefore not simply whether I should be believed.

It is whether the record has been examined fairly.

I survived.

I remain a witness.

And the question of what preserved me remains open between evidence, human explanation, providence and faith.

LIFE'S PURPOSE · VERBATIM · 4 OCTOBER 2026

The permanence of the witness and the purpose of the record

The significance of my life's writings, evidence, testimony, concepts and ideas being preserved across two complementary public archives, and of particular material being cryptographically anchored through the Bitcoin blockchain, is that the documentary record of my life no longer depends solely upon my physical survival or upon the continued willingness of any single institution, organisation or individual to preserve it.

The two archives serve complementary purposes. The Barran Dodger Rebuild Archive is fundamentally a preservation and reconstruction infrastructure: it brings together preserved HTML records, PDFs, hyperlinks, original URLs and preservation metadata, with SHA-256 integrity information, so that the underlying documentary record can be separately maintained and examined. The archive itself expressly distinguishes the presentation layer from the underlying preservation record.

The broader Barran Dodger Archive functions as a public finding aid and documentary environment through which government correspondence, legal and administrative records, research materials, personal testimony, creative works and other documentary material can be brought together and examined. Its central principle is that the archive does not require belief: testimony is testimony, a document is a document, an allegation is an allegation, and a finding requires evidence and proper determination.

Together, these archives address what I understand as one of the central problems of my life: the fragmentation of a person's history across institutions, agencies, correspondence, proceedings, files and years, such that individual records may exist while the larger chronology and significance of the record remain difficult for an independent person to see.

The archives therefore attempt to solve a problem of documentary disappearance—not necessarily by claiming that documents were physically destroyed, but by preventing the meaning of the surviving record from disappearing through fragmentation, institutional compartmentalisation, inaccessible records, disputed recollection, changing narratives or the passage of time.

The Rebuild Archive preserves the underlying documentary infrastructure.

The Barran Dodger Archive connects that infrastructure to the human testimony, chronology, questions of accountability, legal and administrative material, research, publications and spiritual writings that give the record its broader context.

The result is not intended to manufacture a finding where no finding exists. It is intended to make examination possible.

That distinction is fundamental to what I am trying to preserve.

A document can establish what an institution wrote.

A correspondence chain can establish what was communicated.

A decision can establish what was decided.

A contemporaneous statement can establish what I said at the time.

A later interpretation can explain how I understand those events.

A spiritual or prophetic document can establish what I believed, anticipated or understood.

But none of those categories should automatically be converted into another.

The archive exists precisely so that these layers can remain distinguishable while still being capable of being examined together.

The significance of cryptographic preservation adds another dimension.

Where a particular document or body of text has been cryptographically hashed and the resulting hash has been anchored through the Bitcoin blockchain, the blockchain does not contain the entirety of my archive and does not magically guarantee that every copy of my documents will survive forever. Its significance is more precise: a surviving copy can later be tested against the cryptographic commitment, providing a means of detecting whether that particular version has been altered since the relevant cryptographic record was created.

That means the blockchain can contribute to the evidentiary continuity of my work without itself proving the truth of what the work says.

It does not prove an allegation.

It does not prove a government acted unlawfully.

It does not prove a prophecy came from God.

It does not prove that my interpretation of an event is correct.

What it can do is help preserve an independently checkable relationship between a particular digital record and a cryptographic commitment made at an earlier point in time.

Combined with multiple documentary repositories, preserved PDFs, source records, metadata and independently maintained copies, this creates something profoundly different from an ordinary personal diary or manuscript kept in a drawer.

My physical life is finite.

My body will eventually die.

But the documentary record of what I wrote, what I preserved, what I alleged, what I believed, what I researched and what evidence I assembled can potentially remain available to people who have not yet been born.

In that sense, my life's work takes on what I describe as a philosophical kind of immortality—not immortality of my physical person, and not a guarantee that every digital copy will survive, but the possibility that the intellectual and documentary essence of a mortal life can continue to be encountered, questioned and examined after its author is gone.

That permanence is historically unusual.

For most people throughout human history, the ability to preserve an extensive, searchable, independently reproducible and cryptographically anchored record of one's own life was simply unavailable. A person's testimony could disappear with their death, remain dependent upon the memory of others, or survive only in whatever records institutions chose to retain.

I have had access to technologies that previous generations did not possess.

I have therefore attempted to use them not merely to tell my story, but to create an infrastructure through which the story can remain open to examination after I am no longer here to defend it.

This is why I regard preservation itself as part of the meaning of my life.

I understand the existence and continued development of these archives as evidence, within my faith, of the prophetic time in which I agreed with the Creator to incarnate into this realm: a period in which I believe systemic corruption would be revealed through my own life and circumstances as part of my purpose and mission.

I believe I was chosen not because I am perfect.

I am not perfect.

I am a mortal sinner and an imperfect human being.

My belief is not that God chose me because I was somehow superior to His other children. Rather, I believe that God's cosmic design for my life could be purposeful and perfect even though I, as the person living it, am imperfect.

A condition of my incarnation, as I understand it, was that my life would mirror the pattern of Christ's crucifixion: suffering, betrayal, abandonment, apparent destruction and revival, followed by profound human betrayal and exile.

I understand that comparison allegorically and theologically. I do not claim to be Jesus Christ. I understand the crucifixion and resurrection narrative as the Christian pattern through which I interpret the extraordinary circumstances of my own survival.

I believe God allowed my suffering not as punishment, but so that I would ultimately learn to rely upon Him.

What I experienced as betrayal and exile therefore became, in my spiritual interpretation, the circumstance through which my dependence upon the Most High was strengthened.

It triggered what I describe as a memory of my purpose.

It cemented my faith.

And it transformed the record I had accumulated over decades from something I had simply been trying to survive into something I now understand as the foundation of a ministry.

My Gospels are part of that ministry.

I describe them as religious, scholarly and prophetic documents because they sit at the intersection of Christian theology, my research and intellectual work, my interpretation of the documentary record, and my understanding of prophecy and human purpose.

I invite people to respond to them.

I invite them to challenge them.

I invite them to rebuke them.

I invite them to attempt to disprove them.

But I ask that disagreement be accompanied by evidence, reasoning and engagement with the underlying record rather than dismissal of the person who produced it.

The archives themselves are designed around that principle. The Rebuild Archive asks what happened, what records document the sequence, which institutions are identified, what responses were provided, where the record remains incomplete or contested, and what further independent examination may be required.

The main archive similarly describes itself as a finding aid rather than a court or verdict, and states that its purpose is to preserve the evidence, preserve the testimony, make the record public and allow the evidence to be examined.

That is ultimately the challenge I leave to the future.

Do not believe me simply because I say these things.

Do not disbelieve me simply because I say these things.

Open the documents.

Read the chronology.

Examine the correspondence.

Compare the testimony with the source material.

Identify contradictions.

Identify corroboration.

Identify what remains unproven.

Identify what remains unanswered.

And allow the record to survive long enough for people other than me to make their own assessment.

When people ask me, “How did you survive that?”, my answer will be simple:

God did it.

I understand that answer as foundational to a question that may ultimately be relevant to other people suffering corruption, targeting, injustice, exclusion or circumstances in which they feel that their own identity and testimony are being erased.

I want my testimony to become a source of direction for those people—not because I believe I am better than them, but because I believe the God who preserved me can preserve and restore others.

I am no better than anyone else.

I am imperfect.

I have sinned.

I have never claimed that my story of suffering is greater than that of any other person.

I believe God knows and loves all His children and knows the suffering of every one of them.

My life will therefore now be repurposed, as I understand it, as a vessel for His glory: for a return to divine justice, for the end of darkness, and for the restoration of the attributes of His perfect Son, Jesus Christ—the consciousness of Christ returning to its rightful place in the hearts of people and, through them, in the institutions they create, operate and protect.

The purpose is not to preserve my ego.

It is to preserve the testimony.

It is not to establish myself as superior.

It is to leave a record that can outlive me.

It is not to demand that humanity accept my interpretation.

It is to make the evidence available for humanity to examine.

My body will die.

My voice will eventually become silent.

But the record does not necessarily have to disappear with me.

The archives preserve what I was able to preserve.

The cryptographic record provides an additional layer of integrity for material that has been anchored.

The testimony provides the human voice.

The documentary record provides the evidence to be examined.

The Gospels provide the spiritual interpretation.

And my faith provides the meaning I draw from the fact that, despite everything I believe happened to me, I remain here to give testimony.

When the future asks how the witness survived, my answer remains:

God did it.

This is the purpose I now understand my life to serve.

This is the testimony I preserve.

This is the record I leave.

THE WITNESS REMAINS.

Praise Jesus.

A STATEMENT FROM THE BARRAN DODGER ARCHIVE

Open the statement as a PDF

Truth, like light, does not need permission to shine or permission to exist; lies require constant maintenance, repetition and concealment. My truth only needed time. And now, by God's grace, that time has come. Through decades of poverty, isolation, homelessness, excommunication, erasure and what I experienced as almost total human abandonment, my existence was nevertheless preserved long enough for me to endure, remember, collect, collate and publish more than three decades of evidence.

Brick by brick, the record was made from the words, decisions, correspondence and official documents of the very institutions whose actions are now capable of being examined. What was scattered across years, offices, agencies and governments can now be placed beside itself and examined as a whole.

The record does not require me to manufacture a story; the record speaks in its own language. That is the paradox: systems that produced documents that once helped contain, dismiss, obscure or erase my experience also produced the documentary trail by which those actions can now be examined.

Time did not destroy the evidence. Time preserved it.

And now the archive exists.

THE RECORD SURVIVED

For more than 35 years, I say I was subjected to a cumulative pattern of institutional, political, financial, professional, familial and personal detriment that progressively isolated me, impoverished me and stripped away ordinary avenues through which a person can have allegations tested and answered.

What makes this archive different is that the record did not disappear.

The evidence is not merely my recollection. It includes government correspondence, FOI decisions, agency letters, legal documents, recordings, emails, text messages, published material and contemporaneous records preserved across decades. Much of it is written in the words of the institutions themselves, on their own letterheads, under their own reference numbers.

> That is the significance of this archive.

I allege that a vulnerable person was repeatedly passed between institutions that had the power to investigate, protect, compensate, represent or assist him, while ordinary pathways to accountability progressively closed. I allege that this produced a form of administrative annihilation: not one decision, not one government, and not one institution, but a cumulative system in which each refusal, referral, restriction, omission and unanswered complaint compounded the last.

The record crosses governments, agencies and political administrations. It crosses the media, the courts, Legal Aid, policing, workers' compensation, the NDIS, oversight bodies, government departments and the institutions responsible for responding when a person says they have been harmed.

Some allegations contained in this archive are extraordinary. Some are deeply contested. Some have not been independently established. I do not present the documents as court findings, and I do not ask the reader to treat my allegations as proven merely because I have published them.

I ask something more basic:

> Open the documents.

Read the dates. Read the reference numbers. Read the decisions. Read what was requested and what was answered. Compare one official document with the next. Listen to the recordings. Read the messages in their original context. Examine the chronology. Where I make an allegation, test it against the underlying record.

The archive therefore has two voices: my first-person account of what happened to me, and the documentary record that allows that account to be examined.

There is a crucial distinction between those things.

A document is evidence of what was written, sent, recorded or decided. It is not automatically proof that every allegation surrounding it is true. A link is not a finding. A recording is not a verdict. A first-person account is testimony, not adjudication.

But neither can a documented history simply be made to disappear by refusing to acknowledge it.

For years I was treated, in my own account, as though I could be isolated until the record itself ceased to matter. Instead, the record accumulated.

> The book existed.

> The employment records existed.

> The correspondence existed.

> The FOI applications existed.

> The agency decisions existed.

> The complaints existed.

> The restrictions existed.

> The recordings existed.

> The messages existed.

> The chronology existed.

> And I survived.

This archive is my attempt to put the surviving record in one place so that it can be examined by people who were not there: journalists, lawyers, researchers, public officials, historians, advocates, members of the public, and any independent person willing to follow the evidence wherever it leads.

I am not asking the reader to accept my conclusion before reading the evidence.

I am asking the reader not to accept anyone else's conclusion before reading it either.

The evidence is published.

The record remains.

You cannot rewrite what the documents themselves contain.

I am not erased.

I am still alive.

About the Archive

Barran Dodger Archive — public documentary record

Through the Barran Dodger Archive and associated digital repositories, McLean has assembled government correspondence, legal and administrative records, research materials, personal testimony, creative works and other documentary material. The archive is designed not merely as autobiography, but as a public finding aid through which the underlying record can be examined.

> The defining feature of the work is not simply what is written. It is what is preserved.

For decades, McLean has accumulated correspondence, government records, legal documents, institutional responses, personal records, research materials and other evidence relating to events that he says fundamentally altered the course of his life. Rather than allowing that material to remain dispersed across agencies, proceedings, correspondence chains and private files, he has sought to bring it together into a searchable and publicly accessible documentary archive.

Purpose

The Barran Dodger Archive is intended to provide readers with access to the underlying record.

Its purpose is not to require belief.

It is to make examination possible.

> A testimony is testimony.

A document is a document.

An allegation is an allegation.

A finding requires evidence and proper determination.

Preserve the evidence. Preserve the testimony. Make the record public. Let the evidence be examined.

Underlined words open the named document or recording in a new window. The words are mine. The link is the place a reader can test them. A link is not a finding. This is a finding aid. It is not a court. It is not a verdict.

THE ACCOUNT

Australia — its agencies, services and platforms whose purpose is to protect vulnerable people like me, and its people, ganged up on me collectively, politically and systemically. It was and is a cowardly societal mobbing. I was physically exiled, isolated, impoverished and tortured.

For more than 35 years the conditions imposed on me produced a documentary record. The Government's own official documents, in its own words and on its own letterheads, are preserved here. The 35-year chronology and the cumulative legal brief are the reading copies of that span. Anyone can open them against the underlying files.

THE BOOK

In 2003 Allen & Unwin published my first autobiography, Recovered, Not Cured. I wrote the sex in that book publicly, in my own name, before these agencies had a file they could twist. The significance is that the testimony was already on a public shelf. It was not a secret they discovered. It was a record I had already made. The Age recorded that book on 19 May 2003, and recorded that I was then working as an illustrator there.

After the book was published, my former employer the Herald Sun weaponised words from it. A weekend double-page spread carried the bold heading “MY DESCENT INTO MADNESS”. The spread, as preserved in this archive, is headed “My descent into madness. How schizophrenia stole Richard McLean’s mind.” What followed was a barely veiled public character assassination. I was then fired from The Age, where I worked as a news graphics artist and cartoonist. I did not resign, and I did not leave. I was denied a lawyer and a pathway to have it tested at the time. The later Legal Aid restriction is the continuation of that refusal, not the 2003 letter itself. The madness was not any real or perceived illness I had. It was the deceitful way an honest and courageous testimony was weaponised against me, systemically, politically and financially, from that point on. The targeting lasted decades. Its goal was my ruin, and the avoidance of accountability by those who participated in it.

BEFORE THE BLACKOUT

Before any of that, the media wanted me. I was a news graphics artist in that industry, and I was paid as a journalist. The archive's index of the earlier site lists me as an illustrator for The Age and the Herald Sun. In hindsight I say I was exploited. The world wanted to hear me speak about a perceived mental illness, about vulnerability, and about inequity. I volunteered my time and my story. Years later, when I needed help from the very places I had given that time and that story, there was a total media blackout. That media ban exists to this day. The places, organisations, radio and television stations, and institutions, as that index records them, are these:

- ABC Radio National, Life Matters (Julie McCrossin)
- ABC TV, Stateline
- Good Morning Australia and The Today Show (Steve Leidman), around an exhibition and the book launch
- Reuters TV (Frankie Fathers)
- Triple J (Rachel Kerr)
- 2SM (Tricia Duffield)
- ABC Gold and Sunshine Coasts
- ABC Adelaide
- ABC 702 (James Valentine)
- 3AW Nightline
- Spectrum FM
- Curtin Radio
- Triple R
- 2NUR Newcastle
- JOY FM
- regional ABC, including Dubbo

- McGill University, Montreal, College of Philosophical and Religious Studies
- the Cunningham Dax Collection, including the educational DVD Collected Thoughts 3
- Forensicare
- EPPIC consumer groups
- the Australian Centre for Youth Literature
- Richmond Fellowship, Warrnambool
- parliamentary and conference settings

THE DOCTORATE

The significance of the qualification is the same pattern. I hold a PhD. The archive's index of the earlier site records it as Victoria University research, on a merit scholarship, in arts-based A/r/tography, stated there as passed pending changes. I say that doctorate has been delegitimised, and treated as if it were not research, by officials whose qualifications it far outshines. I say that is envy, a way to keep me below them. Where is their PhD?

WHAT I COULD SEE

I used my life and my creativity to benefit humanity at the exact time I was being set up and deceived. Everyone involved thought I would never see past their false masks of jealousy, envy and malice. I do. I see every person, and what they did. I see it especially in my blood family, who were poised to benefit financially from my total annihilation and from my physical death. They never denied it. The paper with that account is also the estate attorney and sibling betrayal. This was a life in which I was never expected to recover, or to be well, or to be financially stable, or even to survive.

I published my religious gospels on barrandodger.com. That site has been removed. I could not pay the Replit bill. I say the removal was the designed poverty, not a change of mind. The gospels were less about mysticism than about a sovereign being forged in the fire of total human betrayal and isolation, at the apex of a targeting that has lasted more than three decades. What I preserved is the Government's own official documents and the correspondence that sits with them. I say that record cannot be denied, and it cannot be argued out of existence. You cannot erase a history that is written in their own official documentation. I made the gospels at the intersection of that betrayal, the exile, and the protection of the Most High God, and of my PhD study of posthumanism and the ethics of AI. I used the technology in a nuanced way, for a high-definition reading of pattern, taken from their own documents and set beside the Bible and Christian principles. I wrote the gospels to warn humanity of the coming collapse of a corrupt and cruel government, which is ultimately fleeting. No one listened. I was called delusional, and I was called crazy. The significance is the time. Nearly three or four years later, I say the predictions I was told were delusion have happened as I said they would. The paper that puts that claim in one place is Paranoid Was Prophecy. Who is laughing now?

THE INJURY

That record includes what the file calls a fatal injury. God revived me from it. Five years on, the conditions that solicited that attempt have continued: stonewalling, financial abuse, isolation, denial of Legal Aid, and no ordinary pathway to have the allegations tested. The Victorian Ombudsman's later treatment of the complaint is the Ben Calder letter of 5 October 2022. A Mercy Hospital FOI sits with it. A public-interest disclosure was not allocated. APRA refused whistleblower status.

THE MESSAGES

An NDIS provider was made to sign a non-disclosure agreement after the account that a woman was paid to fabricate a report about me. The Ben NDIS text-message record is where that is written down. In it, the other party says the only evidence he could give me was “a copy of the non disclosure agreement”, and that when he signed it the agreement disappeared from his phone with a notice that the device had been cleared of classified information.

That provider is Ben, of DSW Disability. I publish his email and his company: ben@dswdisability.com.au. I publish them because I say intelligence agencies forced him to sign that non-disclosure agreement, and because the agreement does not get the last word. The text chain between us is published. It cannot be taken back. I say it shows the total police complicity, the false sexual assault allegation, and that a woman was paid to fabricate a report. He confirmed a “close call” assassination attempt. I say that chain corroborates my testimony. It is the record of what was said. It is not, by itself, a police finding.

His own words: It’s a top secret investigation. They made me sign a non disclosure agreement. When I signed the agreement it instantly disappeared off my phone. A message popped up that said your device has been cleared of classified information. It’s some sort of agency grade electronic document that automatically wipes itself off your device. I thought you were just paranoid. You were right. They already arrested two hitmen. They’re telling the police everything. They’ve told them who ordered the hit. That non-disclosure agreement is now pointless. The truth is out. It is exposed. It is undeniable.

The same record preserves “consentual regretful sex”, “the police told me about the consensual regretted sex”, and this sentence: The agencies went back through phone records and believed she was paid to discredit you. I understand the Federal Police wording I was given as “regretful” but “consensual”. No charge against me came out of that event. I say what did occur was the weaponisation of my sexuality. I publish the messages as the record of what was said. They are not, by themselves, an AFP finding.

That sentence is why I say I have never had equal treatment from police. Once a paid discrediting is accepted, every later report is easier to refuse. The crimes I say have occurred to me over more than 35 years, and the same list as a PDF, are the reading copy of that longer record. They are allegations and pointers. They are not findings.

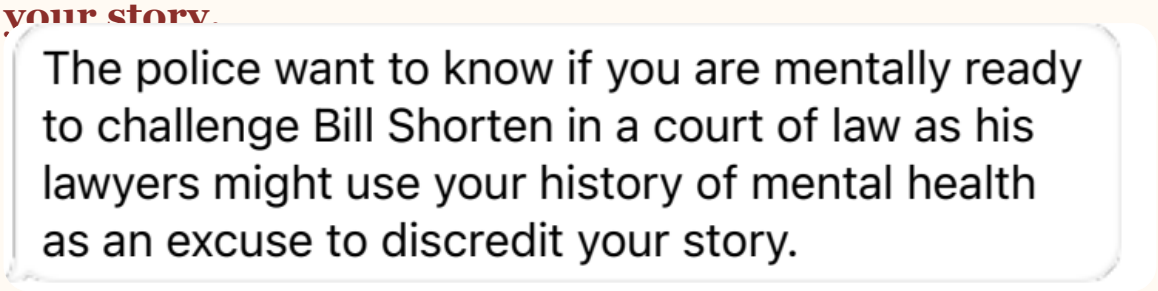

FAITH

I was betrayed by humanity for a purpose I believe was ordained: to be a vessel for God’s glory. This website is the beginning of what I understand as God’s answer to that corruption. I use the word sacrilege, a violation of something sacred, because I believe that deliberately harming one of God’s anointed, and then pretending not to know, is a spiritual crime. My perpetrators know what they did. The archive does not ask a reader to share my faith. It asks a reader to open the documents.

THE ALLEGATION

The same message record is where the alleged assassination is put in writing. Ben's message to me, which he presents as what the police told him, is: The police want to know if you are mentally ready to challenge Bill Shorten in a court of law as his lawyers might use your history of mental health as an excuse to discredit your story.

My messages name Bill Shorten and a person I was told was a Lebanese criminal pretending to be a provider, "known in certain circles", and sent "to erase me". The other party's messages answer that account. It has not been disproven by an official finding I have been given, nor officially established as a fabrication, nor denied in any document in this archive. The messages remain part of the record that requires examination. They are not a finding that a minister ordered a killing.

The significance of that message, as I draw it, is this. Bill Shorten was the NDIS Minister. I say he betrayed the ethical obligations of that office, acted in a cowardly way, and abused its power. I say he was the key manipulator of what was done to me. I say he caused the AVO concerning him and Rebecca Falkingham, that he deliberately caused my political exile, and I allege that he ordered my assassination. I say his character is now exposed by this record as morally reprehensible, and that he is a power-hungry criminal who should be immediately arrested. How dare he, as I allege, order the killing of a vulnerable person with a disability he was paid to treat ethically, legally and humanely, and who was under that care. This is why I say God is furious. No one has the right to erase, murder or kill another human being, much less a disabled person under their care. The situation is beyond absurd.

THE RELATIONSHIP

No one in office acknowledges the five-year marriage-like relationship I say I had with a former ASIO employee, Steve Iasonidis. I published the proposal, and an engagement with Steve Iasonidis that lasted more than five years. I say it led to five years of exploitation in an abusive entrapment that no profession will admit even existed. The court paper I can put in a reader's hand is the intervention-order file L12151974. I was hospitalised after I tried to get Legal Aid so that relationship could be acknowledged for an equitable separation. The financial exploitation, the attempts to obtain legal recognition, and what followed, are the chronology this archive preserves. His ability to have the relationship treated as if it never existed is, in my experience, the fact a professional will still not say out loud.

THE PRIME MINISTER

The Prime Minister, Anthony Albanese, did not answer me in his own hand.

On 12 December 2022 his own office wrote, of an email sent to him, "Your email has not been forwarded." I had written to him, including the letter of 31 May 2022, and the letter of 1 July 2023. On 19 September 2023 the Attorney-General's Department wrote, reference MC23-028244, signed A Riley, Security Law Section. It says my email of 5 July 2023 to the Hon Anthony Albanese MP, including about ASIO, was referred to the Attorney-General, the Hon Mark Dreyfus KC MP, because the matters fell in his portfolio, and that he asked the Department to respond on his behalf. It then pointed me to the Inspector-General of Intelligence and Security — IGIS, which I have also called AGIS — and to the Commonwealth Ombudsman. I was already shut out of the Ombudsman. The service-restriction letter of 8 August 2025 is the later official paper. A further letter of 6 February 2025, MC25-000321, sent the matters to the Victorian Minister for Police. Those were dead ends. They did not acknowledge the relationship.

I am well aware that I am on ASIO's books as what I call a targeted individual. I recorded my call to AGIS, who investigate ASIO, about the victimisation. In hindsight I say they were already committed to never helping me, and that they were used by my former fiancé, the ASIO employee Steve Iasonidis. No professional admits the five-year relationship even existed. I say that reveals Iasonidis as a key manipulator, with protection under David Irvine and the federal government. Hospitals have repeatedly force-injected me for what they called "ingrained delusions of persecution". That is my account of the call and of the treatment.

A FILE THAT DOES NOT AGREE WITH ITSELF

> The significance of this file. The Department told the Commissioner that about 1,187 Outlook items were under review. Weeks later the decision said the documents cannot be found or do not exist. The revised decision then released five documents. That is the hypocrisy: a review of more than a thousand items, then a letter that no documents exist. It is the Department's own paper. It is not a court finding.

The same department has a freedom-of-information file that does not agree with itself. On 7 February 2022 I asked the Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet for "all information government agencies hold on me please." On 16 March 2022 the Office of the Australian Information Commissioner wrote, reference RQ22/00794, that the Department had applied for more time because the request was voluminous and complex, and that approximately 1,187 Outlook items were being reviewed. That is more than a thousand items, in the Department's own account to the Commissioner. It is not, by that letter alone, a finding that 1,187 documents had been proved to be about me. On 14 April 2022 Petra Gartmann, Assistant Secretary, Legal Policy Branch, refused the same request under section 24A(1)(b), reference FOI/2022/045. The decision says all reasonable steps were taken, that no relevant documents were identified, and that the documents cannot be found or do not exist.

On 8 October 2024 that refusal was revised. Laura Cameron, acting Assistant Secretary, reference FOI/2022/045IC, wrote that the Department holds five documents that meet the request and granted access to them, with some material deleted as irrelevant. On 4 November 2024 the Commissioner's office, MR22/00677, said it would ask the Department to resend that decision of 8 October 2024 and the five documents. Read them in that order. One describes more than a thousand Outlook items under review. The next says the documents do not exist. The one after that releases five.

That is the hypocrisy in the Department's own file. It is not a court finding. An essay in this deposit uses the figure 1,178. The figure on the Commissioner's letter is about 1,187.

With those letters I place the undated letter addressed to the Prime Minister and to the Attorney-General, Mark Dreyfus, which is the letter I identify as the one answered by the referral to IGIS and the Ombudsman, and a further undated letter to the Office of Prime Minister and Cabinet. My email of 1 August 2024 on the review is with them. The typed copy of the 19 September 2023 reply is MC23-028244 as a PDF, beside the photograph already linked. A 111-page file whose filename says "prime minister apology" is not an apology from Anthony Albanese. Its first page is a commentary on this FOI file.

EXILE, HOSPITAL, LEGAL AID

I asked to be arrested so that my name could be tested in the ordinary way. No one came. No charge was laid against me. No criminal trial was commenced. I was left with the consequences of accusation without the process in which guilt or innocence is determined. I have been hospitalised in psychiatric institutions sixteen times. That number is my count. The hospital paper is the place I have written the conditions around those admissions: homelessness, designed poverty, and inaction by police and the legal profession. I am in exile. I am restricted from Legal Aid, which is a betrayal of the reason Legal Aid exists, and restricted from the Ombudsman. I have not placed a NACC restriction letter in this repository, so I do not pretend to link one.

THE CALLS

I could not even report being drugged and raped to the Commonwealth Ombudsman. I published the call in which I could not report being drugged and raped to the Ombudsman. I say it shows the blacklist and the stonewalling.

On 3 September 2023 I called the NACC after 90 days about my complaint, and they rejected me. I say that rejection is the Commission participating in the same refusal.

I published the call to the NACC after 90 days, in which my complaint was rejected. Danny Pearson, then the workplace minister, refused my phone call about workers' compensation.

I published the call that Danny Pearson, the workplace minister, refused to take about workers' compensation. Liz Lindberg of the Australian Human Rights Commission sided with Australian Super on the denial of compensation in what I say was a robbery of more than a million dollars of a settlement I was entitled to. I say she knew the conflict, acted in her role to betray a position the Commission had already taken, and then revoked it, so that TAL did not have to engage. In her professional capacity she free-kicked that settlement.

I published the call in which Liz Lindberg of the AHRC free-kicks a settlement of more than a million dollars. Tim Gos of AFCA was, as I say it, already committed to never giving me a way to resolve the financial conflicts. He blocked the path his role exists to keep open. I was later banned from AFCA.

I published the call to Tim Gos of AFCA, who blocked a determination of the financial complaint. Comcare and the AAT were, as I say it, already committed to denying a valid workers' compensation claim by accepting that I was blocked from Legal Aid. That is a breach of the reason those bodies exist. I was left to face a government-appointed lawyer, Kate Watson, without Legal Aid, and I have never been able to report a single crime to police.

Scott Tredwell's letter on Federal Court letterhead records that he was satisfied I was an employee of DSS. The papers that said the opposite are still in the file. On 26 May 2021 Comcare declined claim 1326583/1 and put, as the first question, whether I was an employee under section 5 of the Safety, Rehabilitation and Compensation Act. On 3 June 2021 Sarah LeMaire of the NDIS Quality and Safeguards Commission wrote: "This process does not make you an employee of the NDIS Commission." I say Tredwell's confirmation should have overturned the lesser finding of Comcare and the AAT that I was not an employee. It did not.

I published the call on Comcare and the AAT denying workers' compensation, and denying legal access.

OUTSIDE THE COUNTRY

I took the same record outside the country. The archive holds the OHCHR submission, reference UR/UST/23/AUS/17, and the claim of an International Criminal Court submission as part of the chronology of asking for protection. The reference is the document. It is not a finding by the United Nations.

WHAT I FILMED

My paranoia is a documented reality in this sense: here is what I recorded parked outside my squat in Footscray, about 2022. The video on my own channel is the secret service parked out the front of the Footscray squat. You cannot surveil a victim and call it a success when the victim films the people doing the surveillance. The gig is up. I say the V2K audio harassment was a mechanism of torture, and that this recording exposes it. The papers are the V2K review and the AHRC gang-stalking paper. The Commission used the term "gang stalking" in official correspondence to me, and the occurrence was then denied. I say that denial, against their own words, is the hypocrisy.

TONY RIDLEY

Tony Ridley, formerly a fraud investigator associated with the NDIS, is the man I recorded. I say he was deployed as a drug-affected honeypot, and that a former support worker of the same agency would have known I was an unprotected whistleblower. I recorded the encounter because he indicated he may have killed people. I later understood him to be a returned SAS soldier with a PhD in counter-terrorism surveillance. The archive holds a credential exhibit in his name and the conversation PDF. I published the audio of that encounter to expose what I say was the corruption and to keep myself safe. What I put on the channel is the published audio of the Tony Ridley encounter. It backfired. His wife did not know he had sex with men. I say he then used a PhD in counter-terrorism surveillance to hunt me electronically across three states while I was fleeing, and that he knew I was an unprotected whistleblower. I say his conduct is criminal, and that it sits inside the long exile and the alleged assassination plot. No one has denied that account in a document in this archive, and no one has proved it wrong. I published the recording to protect both of us. He says I ruined his life. I say he then followed me electronically across three states, and that paid followers were used to intimidate me wherever I went. On my YouTube channel I described that meeting, named him as SAS, and invited people to listen to the later account in which I name Tony Ridley as SAS. I have not found a second watch address that is only the raw tape. The published page, the conversation PDF, and that video are what a reader can open today.

He told me there was a formal investigation whose aim was to discredit and destroy me. He revealed contact with my family, with the woman the messages call the regretted encounter, and knowledge of Alan, my younger partner, which he would not otherwise have had. He claimed it was easy to turn my sister Jodie Bongetti, my brother Brad McLean, my parents Doug and April McLean, and my uncle Bruce McMaster into alignment against me. I already knew the isolation. What he added was that the communication was deliberate. That is my account of what he said. It sits beside the recording record. It is not his signed statement.

ABLE POINT

The NDIS, through the provider Able Point, sent support workers who already knew my case and who did not change my circumstances. I say they reported me back into the same entrapment, inside the agency I had worked for, and into the same matter as the provider I was told had been sent to erase me. The papers are the Able Point notice and the letter to Brett. The Ben NDIS messages are where the provider contact, the NDA, the paid-discredit claim, and the hit claim sit side by side.

FAMILY

There was family betrayal from childhood. Members of my family attended the funeral of the person who sexually abused me as a child, days after he died, on the same day as the fatal injury. They protected him. I was the one called morally depraved. My family has excommunicated me. The excommunication was so obscene that I protested my homelessness in a video no one answered. I filmed it as a disabled man, homeless, from a paddock in Dandenong, while my blood family lived in comfort nearby. The recording, filmed while I was homeless in a Dandenong paddock, is the introduction for an affidavit and a statutory declaration. I believe they were positioned to benefit from my permanent erasure. That belief is testimony. The papers I have put with it are My erasure was by design and estate attorney and sibling betrayal. God, as I understand it, allowed the betrayal to show character. The day of reckoning is the day the evidence is public, not a sentence I am imposing.

WHAT SURVIVED

I was not expected to survive the exile, the homelessness, the isolation, the humiliation, the character assassination, the administrative annihilation, or the intimate and family betrayal. The tabs that set out that treatment are the Digital Apocalypse of Administrative Annihilation, the Architecture of Administrative Annihilation, the cost of erasure, and coordinated institutional mobbing. I survived. The evidence survived with me. They underestimated the God who kept me alive. You cannot erase what God has preserved. The documents are here. The correspondence is here. The text messages are here. The chronology is here. The decisions are here. The omissions are here.

The world can now read it. This archive is not only the story of what happened to me. It is the surviving record of what happened around me: what institutions recorded, what they did, what they failed to do, and what they cannot now pretend was never documented. The day of reckoning has arrived because the evidence has arrived. And I am still alive.

I gave every agency grace to treat me as they should. The grace I gave was spat on. All of them pretended they were not participating in my detrimental treatment. I am not revengeful. I believe the Bible says that vengeance is God's to have. The universe has, through this archive, now witnessed what was done to me. They still pretend they are unaware, or that they acted ethically, while pretending they were not cruel.

The same chronology is in the papers below. Each opens in a new window. Each is the document named. None of them is a finding.

A two-page file titled “Prime minister scapegoating” was supplied with these papers. It is a blank Dropbox shell. It is not the Prime Minister’s reply, so it is not published here as one. The reply is the 19 September 2023 letter above.

MAJOR EVIDENCE & JUSTICE DOCUMENT

THE DOCUMENTARY TRAP

When the System's Own Record Becomes the Evidence

35 Years of Institutional Records, Decisions, Correspondence and Evidence — Preserved, Indexed and Open to Independent Examination.

This document brings together the documentary record and asks a simple evidentiary question: what do the records themselves establish about what institutions knew, received, considered, decided, recorded, omitted, or left unresolved?

It deliberately distinguishes documentary evidence from allegation, personal testimony, faith, interpretation, chronology, causation, institutional involvement, and claims of coordination. The archive does not treat an allegation as automatically established fact.

> The central question:
> What actually happened — and what can the documentary record establish?

PROPHETIC CORROBORATION — 28 SEPTEMBER 2026

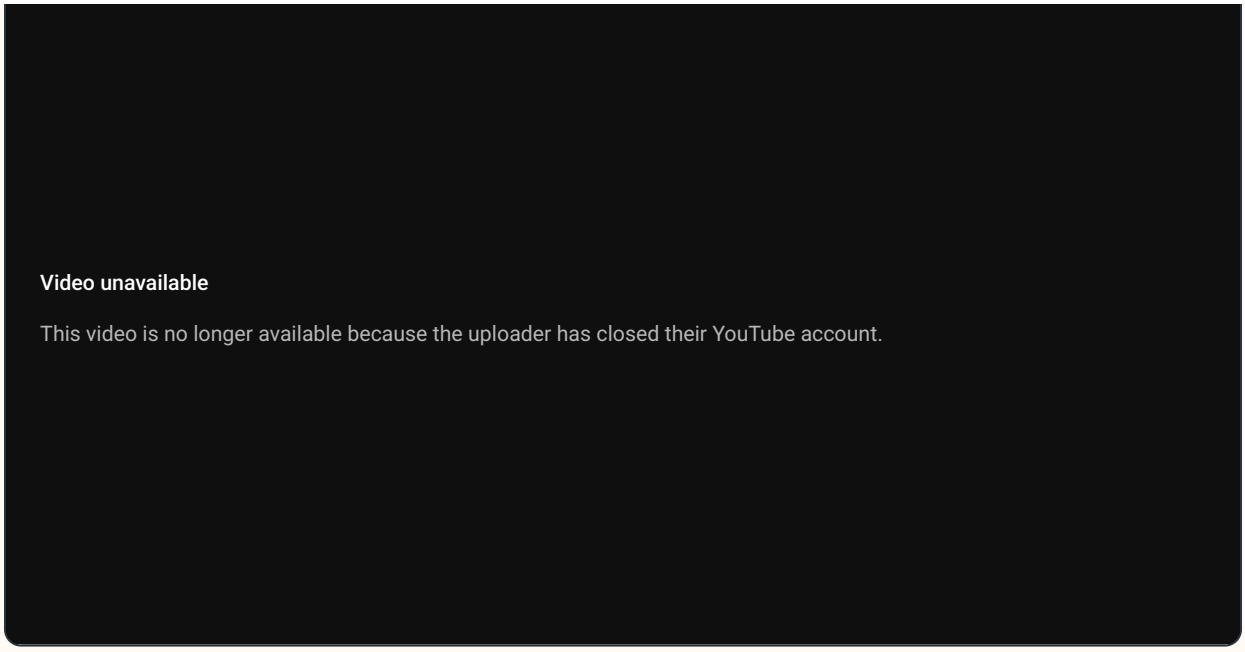

Chosen one. Today's date: 28 September 2026. This video corroborates identity as a chosen one. My enemies tried to break me because acknowledging my testimony is humiliating for their professional life and cowardice for accepting money to entrap and harm me all the while feigning ignorance or non-awareness of my situation as a deceitful lie.

Public release — 6 October 2026

https://youtu.be/cE4RoVLRBb8

A prophetic document about my comeback that will shock everyone as divine retaliation because truth only needs time whilst lies take effort and burn out fast and according to this video that time has now arrived. I have outlasted their lies and published the truth and that truth is now in the form of over 35 years of official government correspondence on the letterheads of the governments many agencies in their own words. Exile and isolation didn't destroy me as my enemies expected because I was not expected to survive total human betrayal isolation and exile without support - it trained me under the protection of a greater power than the goverment who targeted me and tried to break and erase me.
