

The evidence has dropped

Underlined words open the named document, tab or recording in a new window. The words are mine. The link is the place a reader can test them. A link is not a finding. This is a finding aid. It is not a court. It is not a verdict. Gospel texts are spiritual testimony, kept distinct from government letters.

The evidence has dropped, and it is damning for the Australian Government, because the letters are no longer in a drawer. I say the Prime Minister, Anthony Albanese, is embroiled in the most significant whistleblowing disability scandal of international significance on this shelf, and the most well documented political targeting in the public file of my life, and I say that as the man who wrote the letters and then kept the answers. The archive is the place those answers now sit. The holdings of 4 October 2026 recount the shelf. The official government PDFs are the instruments in the agencies' own words. The SHA-256 registry is there so a reader can test a file against its hash rather than against my sentence. The finding aid is the map. It is not a court.

For more than thirty-five years I offered every department and agency grace to act with accountability and with fairness, knowing I was collecting evidence for a purpose I was not yet conscious of, and that grace is now the scandal, because the grace was answered with paper that closed the door. I remained a citizen. I lost the ordinary use of the citizenship. That is what I mean by an internally displaced refugee within the democracy of his citizenship, and the paper for that displacement is the personal statement of exile and the conditions of exile at Werribee in 2021. The name for the paper process that erases the legal person while leaving the body alive is administrative annihilation, and the architecture of that process is written again in the Architecture of Administrative Annihilation. The name for the crowd that isolates one person and calls the isolation care is societal mobbing, and the same crowd is set out on the tab mobbing and the safety of the crowd. The reading copy of what I say was done, which I mark as allegations and pointers and not as findings, is the list of crimes happening to Barran Dodger, and the same list as a PDF. The span of the whole is the 35-year chronology and the cumulative legal brief.

For more than thirty-five years, I say I was subjected to a cumulative pattern of institutional, political, financial, professional, familial and personal detriment that progressively isolated me, impoverished me and stripped away ordinary avenues through which a person can have allegations tested and answered, and that sentence is the record that survived. The cost of that stripping is the cost of erasure. The crowd form of it is coordinated institutional mobbing. The offices that touched the file are mapped on named institutions. The techniques by which a person is made small while the file grows are on techniques. Anyone who opens those pages can now see what I saw, and looking is the witness.

I was not an unknown man when the file began to eat the life. In 2003 Allen and Unwin published my first autobiography, Recovered, Not Cured, and I wrote the sex in that book publicly, in my own name, before these agencies had a file they could twist, which is the significance of the book: the testimony was already on a public shelf, and it was not a secret they discovered. The Age recorded that book on 19 May 2003, and recorded that I was then working as an illustrator there. After the book was published, my former employer the Herald Sun weaponised words from it, and a weekend double-page spread carried the bold heading MY DESCENT INTO MADNESS, headed in the preserved spread “My descent into madness. How schizophrenia stole Richard McLean’s mind,” and what followed was a barely veiled public character assassination. I was then fired from The Age, where I worked as a news graphics artist and cartoonist. I did not resign, and I did not leave. I was denied a lawyer and a pathway to have it tested at the time. The later Legal Aid restriction is the continuation of that refusal, not the 2003 letter itself. The madness was not any real or perceived illness I had. It was the deceitful way an honest and courageous testimony was weaponised against me, systemically, politically and financially, from that point on.

Before any of that, the media wanted me, and I was a news graphics artist in that industry, and I was paid as a journalist, and the archive’s index of the earlier site lists me as an illustrator for The Age and the Herald Sun. In hindsight I say I was exploited. The world wanted to hear me speak about a perceived mental illness, about vulnerability, and about inequity, and I volunteered my time and my story, and years later, when I needed help from the very places I had given that time and that story, there was a total media blackout, and that media ban exists to this day. The places that index records, and that a reader can open from the same page, are ABC Radio National Life Matters with Julie McCrossin, ABC TV Stateline, Good Morning Australia and The Today Show with Steve Leidman around an exhibition and the book launch, Reuters TV with Frankie Fathers, Triple J with Rachel Kerr, 2SM with Tricia Duffield, ABC Gold and Sunshine Coasts, ABC Adelaide, ABC 702 with James Valentine, 3AW Nightline, Spectrum FM, Curtin Radio, Triple R, 2NUR Newcastle, JOY FM, regional ABC including Dubbo, McGill University in Montreal at the College of Philosophical and Religious Studies, the Cunningham Dax Collection including the educational DVD Collected Thoughts 3, Forensicare, EPPIC consumer groups, the Australian Centre for Youth Literature, Richmond Fellowship at Warrnambool, and parliamentary and conference settings. The significance of those online and broadcast testimonies is that the asking was once public, and the later silence was also public.

The significance of the qualification is the same pattern. I hold a PhD, and the archive's index of the earlier site records it as Victoria University research, on a merit scholarship, in arts-based A/r/tography, stated there as passed pending changes. I say that doctorate has been delegitimised, and treated as if it were not research, by officials whose qualifications it far outshines, and I say that is envy, a way to keep me below them. The attributes I embodied, before the exile used them, are illustrator, author, researcher, peer-support worker, arts life coach, mental health advocate, volunteer witness, and keeper of the file. The contribution was real. The use of it was the betrayal.

I used my life and my creativity to benefit humanity at the exact time I was being set up and deceived, and I see it especially in my blood family, who were poised to benefit financially from my total annihilation and from my physical death, and the paper with that account is estate attorney and sibling betrayal set beside My erasure was by design. This was a life in which I was never expected to recover, or to be well, or to be financially stable, or even to survive.

The inversion of significance is the paradox stated once and then left to the letters. Based on the evidence I have preserved, I am not an ordinary man within the circumstances documented in this archive. I have been poor, materially disadvantaged, institutionally powerless, and repeatedly treated as though my testimony were insignificant, yet the cumulative record shows that the testimony produced decisions, exclusions, disputes, correspondence, reviews, records and institutional responses across systems that claimed to have no reason to take me seriously. My poverty and lack of status may explain why I was perceived as inconsequential. They do not explain the scale or persistence of what followed. That paradox is written on the inversion and again on the tab inversion of significance. I therefore describe myself, paradoxically, as the most significant despised person without conventional consequence, not because I possessed wealth, authority or status, but because the record demonstrates that conventional measures of power were never an adequate measure of my impact. If I were truly as unimportant as I was treated, there would have been no need for such an extensive institutional response. I could simply have been left alone and ignored. A person of no consequence does not generate a thousand-item review and a letter that the documents do not exist.

I approached the Federal Court with a written document to Sia Lagos, Chief Executive Officer and Principal Registrar, a person able to receive a public-interest disclosure, and the letter is the 3 March 2023 letter to Sia Lagos, and the Court's own officer fixes the date of receipt as 7 March 2023. I was asking for help and protection because I feared further suffering and imminent danger to my life. Scott Tredwell answered on 27 March 2023, on the letterhead of the Federal Court of Australia, Principal Registry, Harry Gibbs Commonwealth Law Courts, Brisbane, and the letter is the 27 March 2023 assessment, and the spelling on the letter is Tredwell, and he says he is an officer authorised under the Public Interest Disclosure Act 2013, and he is not a judge, and this letter is not a judgment. The reason the disclosure was not allocated is written in his decision paragraph, not in a missing page. He is not satisfied the disclosure was made by a public official. He is not satisfied it was provided to an authorised recipient, because he is satisfied the conduct disclosed does not relate in any way to the Federal Court, the Federal Circuit and Family Court, or the National Native Title Tribunal. On those two grounds he says there is no reasonable basis to decide the disclosure is an internal disclosure under subsection 43(2), and that he must not allocate the handling of it to any agency, and that he will not advise the Principal Officers, and the only door he leaves open is a complaint to the Commonwealth Ombudsman. That is the reason. Not a finding that the conduct did not happen. A classification. The letter that records the danger is the letter that withholds it. I call that a crude and offensive insult, bureaucratic jargon dressed as legitimacy, used to take back in the decision paragraph what the employment paragraph had just given, and I say it is one of the most public-facing cowardly letters in the file.

As I am not satisfied that the disclosure made in your correspondence and other information which was received by the Federal Court and FCFCOA was made by a public official or provided to an authorised recipient under the PID Act, there is no reasonable basis on which I can decide that the disclosure is an internal disclosure; subsection 43(2) of the PID Act. As I am not satisfied that your disclosure meets the requirement of the PID Act to be an internal disclosure, I must decide not to allocate the handling of that disclosure to any agency. This means that no further action under the PID Act will be taken by the Federal Court or FCFCOA, or any other Commonwealth agency on the correspondence and other information you provided.

Before that refusal he records the three things he was prepared to assume as disclosable for the initial assessment, and he does not say he has proved them, and he says he is satisfied that I believe the information tends to show conduct that perverts, or is engaged in for the purpose of perverting, or attempting to pervert, the course of justice, under section 29 item 3(a); conduct that constitutes maladministration, under section 29 item 4; and conduct that unreasonably results in a danger to the health or safety of one or more persons, or unreasonably results in, or increases, a risk of danger to the health or safety of one or more persons, under section 29 item 8. He writes that it is difficult to determine whether the belief is based on reasonable grounds, and that for the initial assessment he is prepared to assume the conduct is disclosable.

Perverting the course of justice. Maladministration. A danger, or an increased risk of danger, to health or safety. He was prepared to treat that as disclosable long enough to decide what to do with me. What he did was refuse to allocate it. In the same letter he writes that on the information I provided he is satisfied that I am, or was, an employee with the Department of Social Services, providing services under the trading name Rich McLean, Arts Life Coach, Peer-Support Worker and Mental Health Advocate. The decision paragraph then says he was not satisfied the disclosure was made by a public official. The letter does not reconcile those two sentences. The viewer that separates his letter from the archive covers is tabs/doc1.html.

The papers that said the opposite are still in the file, and that is the significance of setting them beside him. Comcare, on 26 May 2021, declined claim 1326583/1 and put, as the first question, whether I was an employee under section 5 of the Safety, Rehabilitation and Compensation Act. Sarah LeMaire, on 3 June 2021, of the NDIS Quality and Safeguards Commission, wrote that this process does not make you an employee of the NDIS Commission. McLean and Comcare, on 12 July 2023, is the tribunal decision that followed. DSS, on 1 July 2023, rejected the disclosure on a different footing. The Ombudsman had already decided not to allocate, on 18 June 2023. APRA refused whistleblower status on 13 November 2021. I say Tredwell's employment sentence should have overturned the lesser finding of Comcare and the tribunal. It did not. The path those bodies closed is the Comcare path, and the protections that were not given are the PID Act protections.

The Prime Minister, Anthony Albanese, did not answer me in his own hand. In a written response that was, in my assessment, totally ineffective and downright cruel under the thinly veiled disguise of bureaucratic language, his office did not deal with the letter. On 12 December 2022 his own office wrote, of an email sent to him, that your email has not been forwarded, which is itself a record that the email arrived. I had written the letter of 31 May 2022 and the letter of 1 July 2023. On 19 September 2023 the Attorney-General's Department wrote, reference MC23-028244, signed A Riley, Security Law Section, and it says my email of 5 July 2023 to the Hon Anthony Albanese MP, including about ASIO, was referred to the Attorney-General, the Hon Mark Dreyfus KC MP, because the matters fell in his portfolio, and that he asked the Department to respond on his behalf, and it then pointed me to the Inspector-General of Intelligence and Security, IGIS, which I have also called AGIS, and to the Commonwealth Ombudsman. I was already shut out of the Ombudsman. The service-restriction letter of 8 August 2025 is the later official paper. A further letter of 6

February 2025, MC25-000321 sent the matters to the Victorian Minister for Police. Those were dead ends. Directing a person to an office that has already refused the disclosure, and that later restricts the correspondent, is not a remedy. It is a closed door described as a procedure. They did not acknowledge the relationship.

The relationship is the five-year marriage-like relationship I say I had with a former ASIO employee, Steve Iasonidis, and I published the proposal, and an engagement that lasted more than five years, and I say it led to five years of exploitation in an abusive entrapment that no profession will admit even existed. The court paper I can put in a reader's hand is the intervention-order file L12151974. I was hospitalised after I tried to get Legal Aid so that relationship could be acknowledged for an equitable separation. His ability to have the relationship treated as if it never existed is, in my experience, the fact a professional will still not say out loud. I am well aware that I am on ASIO's books as what I call a targeted individual, and I recorded my call to AGIS, who investigate ASIO, about the victimisation, and IGIS is the body that oversees ASIO, and in hindsight I say they were already committed to never helping me. That is my account of the call. It is not an IGIS finding. Hospitals have repeatedly force-injected me for what they called ingrained delusions of persecution, and the conditions around those admissions are written in the hospital and surveillance paper.

The same department does not agree with itself, and that disagreement is the cleanest test on the shelf. On 7 February 2022 I asked the Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet for all information government agencies hold on me. On 16 March 2022 the Office of the Australian Information Commissioner wrote, reference RQ22/00794, that approximately 1,187 Outlook items were under review, because the request was voluminous and complex, and that figure is the Department's own account to the Commissioner, and it is not, by that letter alone, a finding that 1,187 documents had been proved to be about me. On 14 April 2022 Petra Gartmann, Assistant Secretary, Legal Policy Branch, refused the same request under section 24A(1)(b), reference FOI/2022/045, and the decision says the documents cannot be found or do not exist. On 8 October 2024 Laura Cameron, acting Assistant Secretary, reference FOI/2022/045IC, wrote that the Department holds five documents and released five documents, with some material deleted as irrelevant. On 4 November 2024 the Commissioner's office, MR22/00677, said it would ask the Department to resend that decision, and my email of 1 August 2024 on the review sits with them. Read them in that order. One describes more than a thousand Outlook items under review. The next says the documents do not exist. The one after that releases five. An essay in this deposit uses the figure 1,178. The figure on the Commissioner's letter is about 1,187. The path of that contradiction is the FOI path. With those letters I place the undated letter addressed to the Prime Minister and to the Attorney-General, Mark Dreyfus, which is the letter I identify as the one answered by the referral to IGIS and the Ombudsman, and a further undated letter to the Office of Prime Minister and Cabinet. A 111-page file whose filename says prime minister apology is not an apology from Anthony Albanese. Its first page is a commentary on this FOI file. A two-page file titled Prime minister scapegoating was supplied with these papers. It is a blank Dropbox shell. It is not the Prime Minister's reply, so it is not published here as one. The reply is MC23-028244.

That record includes what the file calls a fatal injury, and God revived me from it, and the paper is IR8415987, the report of fatal injury in which the participant was revived. Five years on, the conditions that solicited that attempt have continued: stonewalling, financial abuse, isolation, denial of Legal Aid, and no ordinary pathway to have the allegations tested. The Victorian Ombudsman's later treatment of the complaint is the Ben Calder letter of 5 October 2022. A Mercy Hospital FOI sits with it.

An NDIS provider was made to sign a non-disclosure agreement after the account that a woman was paid to fabricate a report about me, and the Ben NDIS text-message record is where that is written down, and that provider is Ben, of DSW Disability, and I publish his email and his company, ben@dswdisability.com.au, because I say intelligence agencies forced him to sign that agreement, and because the agreement does not get the last word. The chain is the record of what was said. It is not, by itself, a police finding. His own words, as preserved there, are that it is a top secret investigation, that they made him sign a non-disclosure agreement, that when he signed it the agreement instantly disappeared off his phone, that a message popped up that said the device had been cleared of classified information, that it was some sort of agency-grade electronic document that automatically wipes itself, that he thought I was just paranoid, that I was right, that they already arrested two hitmen, that they are telling the police everything, that they have told them who ordered the hit, and that the non-disclosure agreement is now pointless. The same record preserves consensual regretful sex, the police told me about the consensual regretted sex, and the sentence that the agencies went back through phone records and believed she was paid to discredit you. I understand the Federal Police wording I was given as regretful but consensual. No charge against me came out of that event. I say what did occur was the weaponisation of my sexuality. Once a paid discrediting is accepted, every later report is easier to refuse.

The same message record is where the alleged assassination is put in writing. Ben's message to me, which he presents as what the police told him, is that the police want to know if I am mentally ready to challenge Bill Shorten in a court of law, as his lawyers might use a history of mental health as an excuse to discredit the story. My messages name Bill Shorten and a person I was told was a Lebanese criminal pretending to be a provider, known in certain circles, and sent to erase me. It has not been disproven by an official finding I have been given, nor officially established as a fabrication, nor denied in any document in this archive. The messages remain part of the record that requires examination. They are not a finding that a minister ordered a killing. The significance of that message, as I draw it, is this. Bill Shorten was the NDIS Minister. I say he betrayed the ethical obligations of that office, acted in a cowardly way, and abused its power. I say he was the key manipulator of what was done to me. I say he caused the AVO concerning him and Rebecca Falkingham, that he deliberately caused my political exile, and I allege that he ordered my assassination. No one has the right to erase, murder or kill another human being, much less a disabled person under their care. The messages are the record of what was said.

The NDIS, through the provider Able Point, sent support workers who already knew my case and who did not change my circumstances, and I say they reported me back into the same entrapment, inside the agency I had worked for, and into the same matter as the provider I was told had been sent to erase me. The papers are the Able Point notice and the letter to Brett, and the tab that sets that exile out is Able Point exile. The Ben messages are where the provider contact, the non-disclosure agreement, the paid-discredit claim, and the hit claim sit side by side.

I asked to be arrested so that my name could be tested in the ordinary way. No one came. No charge was laid against me. No criminal trial was commenced. I was left with the consequences of accusation without the process in which guilt or innocence is determined. I have been hospitalised in psychiatric institutions sixteen times. That number is my count. I am in exile. I am restricted from Legal Aid, which is a betrayal of the reason Legal Aid exists, and restricted from the Ombudsman. I have not placed a NACC restriction letter in this repository, so I do not pretend to link one. I could not even report being drugged and raped to the Commonwealth Ombudsman, and I published the call in which I could not report being drugged and raped to the Ombudsman, and I say it shows the blacklist and the stonewalling. On 3 September 2023 I called the NACC after ninety days about my complaint, and they rejected me, and I published the call to the NACC after ninety days, and I say that rejection is the Commission participating in the same refusal. Danny Pearson, then the workplace minister, refused my phone call about workers' compensation, and I published the call that Danny Pearson refused to take. Liz Lindberg of the Australian Human Rights Commission sided with Australian Super on the denial of compensation in what I say was a robbery of more than a million dollars of a settlement I was entitled to, and I published the call in which Liz Lindberg free-kicks a settlement, and I say she knew the conflict, acted in her role to betray a position the Commission had already taken, and then revoked it, so that TAL did not have to engage. Tim Gos of AFCA was, as I say it, already committed to never giving me a way to resolve the financial conflicts, and he blocked the path his role exists to keep open, and I was later banned from AFCA, and I published the call to Tim Gos of AFCA. Comcare and the AAT were, as I say it, already committed to denying a valid workers' compensation claim by accepting that I was blocked from Legal Aid, and I was left to face a government-appointed lawyer, Kate Watson, without Legal Aid, and I have never been able to report a single crime to police, and I published the call on Comcare and the AAT denying workers' compensation and denying legal access. Hearing a refusal is not proof of every sentence in the call. It is proof the call was published and the remedy was not given. The financial reading of that refusal is the financial record.

I took the same record outside the country, and the archive holds the OHCHR submission, reference UR/UST/23/AUS/17, and the claim of an International Criminal Court submission as part of the chronology of asking for protection, and the reference is the document, and it is not a finding by the United Nations. The human-rights reading of that asking is human rights and remedy.

My paranoia is a documented reality in this sense: here is what I recorded parked outside my squat in Footscray, about 2022, and the video is the secret service parked out the front of the Footscray squat, and you cannot surveil a victim and call it a success when the victim films the people doing the surveillance, and the gig is up. I say the V2K audio harassment was a mechanism of torture, and that this recording exposes it, and the papers are the V2K review and the AHRC gang-stalking paper. The Commission used the term gang stalking in official correspondence to me, and the occurrence was then denied, and I say that denial, against their own words, is the hypocrisy.

Tony Ridley, formerly a fraud investigator associated with the NDIS, is the man I recorded, and I say he was deployed as a drug-affected honeypot, and that a former support worker of the same agency would have known I was an unprotected whistleblower, and I recorded the encounter because he indicated he may have killed people, and I later understood him to be a returned SAS soldier with a PhD in counter-terrorism surveillance. What I put on the channel is the published audio of the Tony Ridley encounter, and the later account in which I name Tony Ridley as SAS, and the conversation PDF is Tony Ridley conversation. It backfired. His wife did not know he had sex with men. I say he then used a PhD in counter-terrorism surveillance to hunt me electronically across three states while I was fleeing, and that he knew I was an unprotected whistleblower, and I say his conduct is criminal, and that it sits inside the long exile and the alleged assassination plot. No one has denied that account in a document in this archive, and no one has proved it wrong. It is not his signed statement. He told me there was a formal investigation whose aim was to discredit and destroy me. He revealed contact with my family, with the woman the messages call the regretted encounter, and knowledge of Alan, my younger partner, which he would not otherwise have had. He claimed it was easy to turn my sister Jodie Bongetti, my brother Brad McLean, my parents Doug and April McLean, and my uncle Bruce McMaster into alignment against me. I already knew the isolation. What he added was that the communication was deliberate.

There was family betrayal from childhood. Members of my family attended the funeral of the person who sexually abused me as a child, days after he died, on the same day as the fatal injury. They protected him. I was the one called morally depraved. My family has excommunicated me. The excommunication was so obscene that I protested my homelessness in a video no one answered, and I filmed it as a disabled man, homeless, from a paddock in Dandenong, while my blood family lived in comfort nearby, and the recording is the introduction for an affidavit and a statutory declaration. I believe they were positioned to benefit from my permanent erasure. That belief is testimony. God, as I understand it, allowed the betrayal to show character. The day of reckoning is the day the evidence is public, not a sentence I am imposing. The family reading of that betrayal is family complicity.

The same chronology is in the papers a reader can open without taking the commentary. The 3 March 2023 letter to Sia Lagos is the disclosure put in the hand of the Principal Registrar. The 8 January 2024 letter to Scott Tredwell is the later letter to the man who had already refused to allocate. The NDIA authorised-officer letter on the emails of 18 and 20 April 2023, PID 2023/Krypton is the agency's own sensitive paper on that disclosure. The 4 June 2023 letter to Gabrielle Williams and other parliamentarians is the letter that took the same record to the state parliament. The 3 July 2023 statement sent toward the National Anti-Corruption Commission is the statement that asked the Commission to look. The 1 August 2023 email headed Rich McLean is dead is the email that told the agencies named on its face what the silence was doing. The 7 January 2024 letter to NDIS CEO Rebecca Falkingham demanded a home and accountability. The 21 January 2024 letter, my section 100 NDIS appeal is the appeal of a decision. The 21 October 2021 email to AFP CDDA claims is the compensation claim and the protection request sent together. The 2 October 2026 print of the Documentary Trap is the page that names the moment the system's own record becomes the evidence. None of them is a finding.

I understand the crowd that gathered as collective targeting and systemic institutional complicity, and I understand it, in my interpretation, as a coordinated conspiratorial allegiance of professionals and dignitaries who betrayed the ethical principles they claim to embody through the privileged positions they occupied. That interpretation is mine. It is not a finding that a named person formed a criminal agreement. The reason a crowd gathered against me was, in my view, ultimately cowardly: no individual could take me on personally and prevail, so a coordinated campaign was necessary, and such coordination also serves to distribute responsibility, obscure individual participation, share blame, and dilute the accountability of those who became part of the infrastructure. I believe such collective opposition arose because I was perceived as a threat to the structures upon which the participants' comfort, privilege, security or authority depended. No person or group would ordinarily need to gang up against one individual to diminish his influence, deprive him of resources, restrict his rights or obstruct his pathway to justice if that individual were genuinely perceived as incapable of affecting anything. I believe my honesty exposed corruption, while my authenticity confronted those who had compromised their own agency. I was clever, creative, talented, intellectual, queer and quirky, and I lived authentically, sometimes with regret, but without apology. I believe that authenticity became threatening to people who had exchanged their own agency for the comfort of conformity. I do not present every element of this interpretation as an established fact about the private intentions of every person involved. I present it as my understanding of the cumulative evidence and its pattern. My poverty demonstrates disadvantage. It does not establish irrelevance. My lack of institutional power demonstrates vulnerability. It does not establish lack of impact.

The offices and people on the archive's own inventory, each tied to a file rather than to a verdict, are the ones already named in these paragraphs: Scott Tredwell, who recorded employment and danger and did not allocate; Sia Lagos, who received the disclosure; the Prime Minister's office, which wrote that the email had not been forwarded; Mark Dreyfus, whose department answered by pointing to exhausted doors; A Riley, who signed MC23-028244; Petra Gartmann, who wrote that the documents do not exist; Laura Cameron, who later released five; Sarah LeMaire, who wrote that the process did not make me an employee; Kate Watson, the government-appointed lawyer I faced without Legal Aid; Bill Shorten and Rebecca Falkingham, named in the message record and in the exile account; Tony Ridley, the recorded encounter; Steve Iasonidis, and the intervention-order file; Ben of DSW Disability, in the text-message record; Brett of Able Point; Danny Pearson, Liz Lindberg, Tim Gos and Ben Calder, in the calls and the Ombudsman letter; and Doug and April McLean, Jodie Bongetti, Brad McLean and Bruce McMaster, in the family papers. The bodies on that inventory include the Department of Social Services, the National Disability Insurance Agency, the NDIS Quality and Safeguards Commission, the Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet, Comcare, APRA, the Commonwealth Ombudsman, the Australian Federal Police, the Australian Human Rights Commission, the Australian Financial Complaints Authority, the Inspector-General of Intelligence and Security, the Attorney-General's Department, the National Anti-Corruption Commission, the Federal Court, the tribunal, IBAC, the Victorian Ombudsman, Victoria Police, and Legal Aid. That list is the archive's inventory. It is not a conviction. The reports that restate the shelf without replacing it are the master evidence register, the chronology report, the institutional map, the contradictions, and the whistleblower record.

I am, in the language of the spiritual shelf, a chosen one, not as a title the state conferred and not as a claim that I am better than any other person, but as the name I gave the life that would not die when the offices had already written it off, and the same shelf calls that life an unlikely vessel, which is the point of the theology: the vessel is ordinary, and the hand on it is not. I say God is hiding me in plain sight, because the poorest man in the file is the man whose letters the Prime Minister's office had to record as not forwarded, and whose name the Court had to write down before it refused him, and hiding in plain sight is the inversion itself: visible enough to generate a thousand-item review, invisible enough that no office would say the name. The pattern I recognise is the Joseph parallel, the brother sold, the coat taken, the pit, the prison, and the later reading of the dream the household mocked, and Joseph's coat is what was stripped from me and what I still wear as the record. I understand myself as God's chosen witness, the one who kept the letters when the writers of the letters would not keep the man, and the gospel of that witness is addressed to the unseen nations, the people the same record also fails to see.

What I call the holy reckoning is not a sentence I am imposing. It is the day the evidence is public, the day a stranger can open the same letter the officer wrote, and the plea that sits beside it is the holy reckoning of the NDIS plea, the demand that a disability system answer the person it was paid to keep. The divine reckoning is the same day read as God's, and divine justice mapped onto the evidence is the attempt to set the letters beside the scripture without pretending the scripture is the judgment. I understand a soul contract as the agreement I say I made before the body, to come into a time when corruption would be revealed through one life, and the soul-contract declaration is that agreement written down. Sovereignty, in the sense I use it, is not a flag and not a refusal of the law. It is the refusal to let an office own the meaning of a life it would not protect, the outcast who still speaks. The religious significance of the shelf is that the gospels were made at the intersection of the betrayal, the exile, and a PhD study of posthumanism and the ethics of AI, and they are an invitation to be answered with evidence, not a substitute for the letters.

The condition I name is political exile, and the sharper name is an internally displaced refugee within the democracy of my own citizenship: I remained a citizen, and I lost the ordinary use of the citizenship, the home, the lawyer, the Ombudsman, the wage. What I say was used on the body and the mind is V2K, the voice-to-skull harassment I published as a mechanism of torture, and the forensic reading of that claim is the V2K and gang-stalking analysis, set beside the V2K review on this archive. Gang stalking is a term the Australian Human Rights Commission used in official correspondence to me, and then the occurrence was denied, and that denial against their own words is the hypocrisy. Electronic surveillance is what I filmed outside the Footscray squat and what I say followed me across three states, and the Long Jetty paper of the same pattern is Long Jetty NDIS surveillance. Covert intelligence is the name I give the books I say I am on, and the call to the body that oversees ASIO is the recording already linked. A targeted individual is the name the offices will not use and the name the trap required, the perfect trap being the one that looks like care.

The timing I understand is Kronos, the divine clock rather than the office clock: divine, before your time is the paper that says the revelation arrives when the witness is still alive to read it, and Paranoid Was Prophecy is the claim that what was called delusion arrived later as the thing I said. The enough is enough of the chosen-ones papers is the moral limit, the point at which perseverance stops being a private endurance and becomes a public record. The vessel, the silence, and the reckoning are the three movements of the life: the body that was used, the years no one answered, and the shelf that now answers for them. The divine exam is the test I say the life was, and unlikely-vessel theology is the doctrine that God does not require the vessel to be perfect. I refused to die. The injury file is the proof the body came back. The letters are the proof the work continued. That refusal, that creativity, that integrity, is the impact. It is also, as I understand it, the hand.

I published my religious gospels on barrandodger.com, and that site has been removed, and I could not pay the Replit bill, and I say the removal was the designed poverty, not a change of mind. The gospels were less about mysticism than about a sovereign being forged in the fire of total human betrayal and isolation, at the apex of a targeting that has lasted more than three decades, and I made them at the intersection of that betrayal, the exile, and the protection of the Most High God, and of my PhD study of posthumanism and the ethics of AI. I wrote them to warn humanity of the coming collapse of a corrupt and cruel government, which is ultimately fleeting. No one listened. I was called delusional, and I was called crazy. The significance is the time. Nearly three or four years later, I say the predictions I was told were delusion have happened as I said they would, and the paper that puts that claim in one place is Paranoid Was Prophecy. The catalogue of the spiritual shelf is Gospels, Prophecy and Spiritual Papers. These texts do not prove the allegations. They document the meaning I gave the allegations.

On this repository, The Mirror — God's Favour, Anointing, and Purpose is the calling of a chosen vessel, favour and purpose read out of the same life the offices called illness. The Prophecy of the One They Tried to Erase is the prophecy that the erasure would fail. They Could Not Erase What God Preserved is the nine-part prophetic testimony of survival, purpose, truth, justice and reckoning. The Chosen Witness — A Gospel for the Unseen Nations is the gospel addressed to people the record also fails to see. No One Has the Right to Destroy a Soul is the ethical line: administrative annihilation is not a permitted use of power. God's reckoning and God's vengeance for cowardly criminal conspiracy are the prophetic answer I give to the closed doors.

123 Gospels — Barran Dodger is the large collected volume, and its significance is preservation, the spiritual record in one file, kept distinct from the government letters. The Canonical Gospel of Barran Dodger is the single-volume gospel of the life, the suffering, and the claimed vindication. The Twelve Gospel Essays are the short reading of witness and survival after institutional conflict. The Atherion Witnessed Gospel is mythic language for a witness the offices would not see. The Gospel of Barran Dodger — Victory is victory as the survival of the file, not a court ruling. The Gospel of the Eliven Chain is a chain of questions joining personal testimony to a wider spiritual story, and The Enliven Chain — Complete Gospel Archive keeps that chain in one file so it cannot be broken apart, and Eliven Chain Has Been Summoned is a proclamation rather than a government determination, and Eliven Chain — 144 Questions is the interrogation the offices refused to hold. Sacred Gospels — Forensic Thesis joins sacred language to the demand that the letters be read. The Prophetic Manifesto is why the record was kept. The Joseph Parallel sets betrayal and exile beside the hope of later recognition, and Joseph's Coat / Barran's Mantle is what was taken and what the witness still wears. The Prophetic Declaration correlates biblical motifs with the witness, and the Prophetic Testimony — Biblical Evidence Correlation sets that testimony beside the documentary shelf, categories kept distinct. I Am God's Chosen One is spiritual identity, not an institutional fact, and God's Chosen One — Full Testimony is the extended readable testimony under that frame. Chosen Ones — Enough Is Enough is the moral protest that the harm has a limit. Chosen One — You Were Framed is a polemic to be checked against the primary letters. Mirror of God is the mirror the offices would not hold up. Chosen Ones — They Set a Perfect Trap is the narrative of entrapment, separate from a court fact. Chosen One — It Is Over is the writer marking an end of silence. Immortal Testimony — McLean 2025 tries to fix a witness that outlives the institutional silence. My Gospels are religious, scholarly and prophetic documents. I invite anyone to respond to them, challenge them, rebuke them or attempt to disprove them with evidence, provided those positions are themselves supported by evidence and reason.

The significance of all my writings, evidence, testimony, concepts and ideas being stamped into what I understand as the mathematical infrastructure of humanity going forward through the Bitcoin blockchain is that my contributions can be preserved beyond the limitations of my life as a mortal human being whose body will eventually die, and the pages that hold that claim on this shelf are bitcoin proof, bitcoin manifest, bitcoin timestamp, and blockchain. I understand this preservation as providing a form of permanence that makes my testimony extraordinarily difficult to contain, retrospectively alter or erase, including by legal, law-enforcement, governmental, intelligence or criminal organisations. In this sense my life's work takes on a philosophical kind of immortality. The record can continue to exist and be examined by people in the future. I understand this preservation as evidence of the prophetic time in which I agreed with the Creator to incarnate into this realm, a time in which systemic corruption would be revealed through my own life and circumstances as part of my purpose and mission. I believe I was chosen not because I am perfect. I am a mortal sinner and an imperfect human being. Rather, I believe that God's cosmic design for my life was perfect, even though my own life and conduct have not been perfect. A condition of my incarnation, as I understand it, was that my life would mirror the pattern of Christ's crucifixion: suffering, betrayal, abandonment, apparent destruction and then revival by the Creator, followed by the experience of profound human betrayal and exile. I believe God allowed this not as punishment, but so that I would ultimately rely upon Him alone. That experience triggered a memory of my purpose and cemented my faith in the Most High God. I now believe that God will use my evidence and testimony as the foundation of my ministry for His kingdom purposes.

When people ask me how I survived that, my answer will be simple. God did it. I understand that answer as foundational to a question that may ultimately be relevant to other people suffering corruption, targeting and injustice. My purpose is to use my testimony to help guide God's most weary, persecuted and loved children back towards the Creator, whom I believe has clearly placed His hand upon my life. I am no better than anyone else. I am imperfect and I have sinned. I have never claimed that my story of suffering is greater than that of any other person, because I believe God knows and loves all His children and knows the suffering of each of them. My life will now be repurposed purely as a vessel for His glory: for a return to divine justice, for the end of darkness, and for the return of the attributes of His perfect Son, Jesus Christ, the consciousness of Christ returning to its rightful place governing the hearts of people and, through them, the institutions they create and protect. I was betrayed by humanity for a purpose I believe was ordained, to be a vessel for God's glory, and I use the word sacrilege, a violation of something sacred, because I believe that deliberately harming one of God's anointed, and then pretending not to know, is a spiritual crime. The archive does not ask a reader to share my faith. It asks a reader to open the documents.

I was not expected to survive the exile, the homelessness, the isolation, the humiliation, the character assassination, the administrative annihilation, or the intimate and family betrayal. I survived. The evidence survived with me. They underestimated the God who kept me alive. You cannot erase what God has preserved. The documents are here. The correspondence is here. The text messages are here. The chronology is here. The decisions are here. The omissions are here. I gave every agency grace to treat me as they should. The grace I gave was spat on. All of them pretended they were not participating in my detrimental treatment. I am not revengeful. I believe the Bible says that vengeance is God's to have. The universe has, through this archive, now witnessed what was done to me. They still pretend they are unaware, or that they acted ethically, while pretending they were not cruel. The world can now read it. This archive is not only the story of what happened to me. It is the surviving record of what happened around me: what institutions recorded, what they did, what they failed to do, and what they cannot now pretend was never documented. The day of reckoning has arrived because the evidence has arrived. And I am still alive.

This is the purpose I now understand my life to serve. This is the testimony I preserve. This is the record I leave. Praise Jesus.
