My specific question is

Why has it taken nearly six years for me to get this far

And never being able to find a lawyer?

I know I am the centre of a movement to desecrate me as detailed on www.killhim.info

My former partner who you can see is an asio agent and who I blow
the whistle on on the page

Has been pivotal in his influence to ban me from litigation

Threaten a hit man on me

And prevent me gaining just equitable separation in assets

My qyiestion is

Am I batted as per this movement below suggests?

If not and I am able to take the steps myself

What are the steps to hold him to account?

Please be succinct

I am owed millions

And I am homeless

Is that taken into account in court?

Thanks

Thanks for that

But see this is the problem

I already have a letter from Michaelia Cash the attorney general

She ignored my justice issues and condoned my murder and further the desecration of my life prosperity and business and rejected healthcare as did Greg Hunt and the NDIS/a minister today

My workcover case will go to the AAT in November days

The government has already killed me

Now they have a lawyer

I just have me and my broken brain

Within two weeks I'll lose probably two million dollars

I don't even want that

Just a life free of being persecuted

What chances do you think I'll have at the AG when she has consciously Maimed me?

Good afternoon,

This sounds like a very difficult situation for you, I have provided you with some contact details for organisations that may be able to assist you below. I have also included information on court procedures so you can understand the court process.

Legal Assistance

It is advisable to obtain legal advice before making a decision about what to do or before applying to the courts. A lawyer can help you understand your legal rights and responsibilities. They can also explain how the law applies to your case. A lawyer may also be able to help you reach an agreement without going to court. The court is unable to provide legal advice to people with family relationship issues. To do so could seriously compromise the court's ability to impartially determine a case if a person then applies to the court seeking orders.

Where can I obtain free legal advice?

The Family Relationship Advice Line (FRAL) can help you with free legal advice and information about services available to assist anybody with family relationship issues - call 1800 050 321 or +61 7 3423 6878 if you are overseas. They are able to provide phone assistance from 8am-8pm Mon-Fri & 10-4pm on Saturdays. You should advise FRAL that you are seeking legal advice and they will take your details and a lawyer will call you back. They will advise you of a timeframe on the call back, you should advise if it is urgent.

Alternatively, the Australian government funds a range of legal assistance services that may be able to assist you, including Legal Aid Commissions and individual Community Legal Centres, which offer free and low cost advice. Information to assist with finding legal services is available at <https://www.ag.gov.au/LegalSystem/Legalaidprogrammes/Pages/default.aspx>

Can the court refer me to a private lawyer?

The court is unable to refer you to a private lawyer. If you are looking for a private lawyer who deals with family law matters, a law society in your state or territory may be able to help. For a list of law society's go to <https://www.lawcouncil.asn.au/>

Financial Orders

If parties cannot reach agreement about the division of property or money from their relationship they can apply to the court for a financial order. The Family Law Act 1975 sets out what the court will consider when determining how property should be divided.

Each prospective party to financial proceedings must take genuine steps to resolve the dispute before proceedings are instituted unless (if an exception applies it must be indicated in the application):

- The proceeding involves allegations of family violence or a risk of family violence.
- The application is urgent.
- The Applicant would be unduly prejudiced.
- There has been a previous application in the same cause of action in the 12 months immediately before the start of the proceeding.
- The proceeding involves a court's jurisdiction in bankruptcy under s35 or 35 of the Bankruptcy Act.

For information on how to apply for financial proceedings go to <https://www.fcfcoa.gov.au/hdi/apply-property-and-financial-orders>
