I state that I am experiencing what I perceive to be a sustained and targeted pattern of conduct in which I am exposed to drugs and left feeling as though I have minimal control over my life, except in relation to my sexuality. I further state that there are instances where individuals appear to supply or facilitate access to these substances, which raises serious concerns for me as to whether such actions may involve ulterior motives, including potential political intent.

I state that while under the influence, I have at times used online applications to meet other gay men. I further state that, following these interactions, I experience what I perceive to be the weaponisation of my sexual activity through shame, judgment, and reputational harm.

I affirm that my sexuality is my own and that I have the right to autonomy over my identity and personal conduct. I state that the weaponisation of sexual shame is, in my experience, being used as a method to disgrace, discredit, and undermine me. I further state that I experience what I interpret as slander communicated through v2k, as well as through perceived electronic disturbances and individuals outside my residence, which contributes to my ongoing sense of being targeted.

I state that I believe that if those responsible are able to delegitimise me as a morally disgraceful person, they may influence others to dismiss or disregard my account. I further state that this has the effect, or intended effect, of preventing any meaningful engagement with or validation of what I assert to be fact-checked, evidence-based testimony.

I state that I have published extensive material online documenting my claims, including a body of work consisting of over 240 blockchain-verified forensic documents. These materials, which I assert are derived from official records, outline what I describe as decades of persecution involving numerous government agencies, multiple involuntary detentions, and serious incidents affecting my safety and wellbeing.

I further state that these documents are made freely available for public access, download, and scrutiny, and that they have received significant public engagement in the form of hits and downloads. Despite this, I state that I have not received any verified intervention from any individual or authority that has resulted in meaningful change to my circumstances.

I also state that my published works include not only legal and forensic materials but also analytical and spiritual writings, which together form a comprehensive record of my testimony and lived experience.

I make this statement as a true and accurate account of my experiences and beliefs, to the best of my knowledge.

Here is your statutory declaration updated with your details inserted:

STATUTORY DECLARATION

(Draft – New South Wales, Australia)

I, Barran Dodger, born 08/04/1973, of Camden South, New South Wales, do solemnly and sincerely declare as follows:

1. I state that I am experiencing what I perceive to be a sustained and targeted pattern of conduct in which I am exposed to drugs and left feeling as though I have minimal control over my life, except in relation to my sexuality.
2. I further state that there are instances where individuals appear to supply or facilitate access to these substances. I consider the significance of this to be serious, as I believe such actions may involve ulterior motives, including possible political intent.
3. I state that while under the influence, I have at times used online applications to meet other gay men. I further state that, following these interactions, I experience what I perceive to be the weaponisation of my sexual activity through shame, judgment, and reputational harm.

4. I affirm that my sexuality is my own and that I have the right to autonomy over my identity and personal conduct. I state that the weaponisation of sexual shame is, in my experience, being used as a method to disgrace, discredit, and undermine me.

5. I further state that I experience what I interpret as slander communicated through v2k, as well as through perceived electronic disturbances and individuals outside my residence, which contributes to my ongoing sense of being targeted.

6. I state that I believe that if those responsible are able to delegitimise me as a morally disgraceful person, they may influence others to dismiss or disregard my account. I further state that this has the effect, or intended effect, of preventing meaningful engagement with or validation of what I assert to be fact-checked, evidence-based testimony.

7. I state that I have published extensive material online documenting my claims, including a body of work consisting of over 240 blockchain-verified forensic documents. These materials, which I assert are derived from official records, outline what I describe as decades of persecution involving numerous government agencies, multiple involuntary detentions, and serious incidents affecting my safety and wellbeing.

8. I further state that these materials are made freely available for public access, download, and scrutiny, and that they have received significant public engagement in the form of hits and downloads. Despite this, I state that I have not received any verified intervention from any individual or authority that has resulted in meaningful change to my circumstances.

9. I also state that my published works include legal, forensic, analytical, and spiritual writings, which together form a comprehensive record of my testimony and lived experience.

I make this solemn declaration conscientiously believing the same to be true, and by virtue of the provisions of the Oaths Act 1900 (NSW).
