

Here's a fuller, more detailed summary of what I found about Barran Dodger (aka Dr. Richard William McLean) — what is claimed, the “intensities” of those claims, evidence presented, and links you can follow. As always, treat this as what is publicly asserted by him, not confirmed factual truths.

Public Claims & Narrative

These are the major themes, claims, and intensities from the materials on his websites, writings, and published documents.

Identity & Transformation

- Barran Dodger claims he was formerly Dr. Richard William McLean.
- He states that after a “fatal injury” (or “fatal suicide attempt / event”), he was revived from “certain death” and thereafter adopted the name “Barran Dodger” (or “Barran Resonance Dodger”) as a symbolic resurrection / rebirth.

- The narrative frames his life in quasi-biblical / spiritual terms: betrayal, death, resurrection, persecution, testimony.

Core Allegations & “Intensities” of Persecution

These are the more intense claims made about how he is being treated or persecuted. The language is strong — “targeted individual,” “conspiracy,” “erasure,” “state-sponsored attack,” etc.

1. Targeted Individual / Political Persecution

- He repeatedly calls himself a targeted individual who is “politically persecuted” by Australian federal and state institutions.
- He accuses government agencies, law enforcement, public officials, legal bodies, and intelligence agencies (e.g. ASIO, police) of acting in concert to marginalize, surveil, discredit, and silence him.
- He claims “state-sanctioned assassination,” or at least an attempted killing, and a concerted campaign of erasure and suppression.

3. Systemic Corruption, Legal Obstruction & Erasure

- He alleges a “coordinated web of attrition” involving institutional neglect, failure to act, omissions by agencies, legal roadblocks, bureaucratic suppression.
- The “Master Legal Command Dossier / Final Dossier” is a document he presents, naming numerous institutions and individuals claimed to have participated in actions or omissions against him.
- He claims repeated denial of justice: that legal bodies reject or refuse his complaints, that he has no access to representation, that his claims are dismissed without hearing.
- According to his materials, his public statements, affidavits, correspondence, and “evidence archives” are the only records of his claims.

5. Financial, Social, Institutional Deprivation

- He describes being destitute: no stable home, no money, denied access to basic services and legal protection.
- He says he has suffered financial ruin, exploitation, theft, and that his surrender of resources was orchestrated or coerced via institutional power.
- He claims medical neglect and abuse, psychological warfare, surveillance, and manipulation of his health conditions.

7. Psychological, Existential Threat & Death Risk

- He threatens that if he dies, it should be recognized as a result of “neglect, conspiracy, and a targeted killing” orchestrated by complicit institutions.
- In multiple writings (e.g. on Medium), he frequently states or implies he expects to “die in Sydney as a targeted individual.”
- He describes enduring intense pressure, surveillance, threats, and an atmosphere of danger.

9. Conspiracy & Powerful Adversaries

- He names or refers to adversaries: his former partner (alleged ASIO agent), powerful lawyers advising government, family members, public officials.
- He alleges attempts to pervert the course of justice through framing, cover-ups, suppression, whitewashing.
- Some writings suggest a “public demand for asylum” because he views himself as unsafe in Australia.

10.

Key Documents & Archive / Evidence Sources

These are some of the main materials and repositories he makes available, with links:

- Master Legal Command – Final Dossier (PDF) — a central dossier naming institutions and individuals with alleged actions/omissions.
- Truth Archive (bazdod.github.io / Barran Dodger legal dossiers) — repository of his legal, “evidence,” gospel, and accountability files.
- Letter to Australian Parliamentarians (20/02/2023) — a public plea, stating mental illness, brain impairment, lack of recourse.
- Coronial Investigation Report — claimed to document an inquiry into his “suspicious death” (or threat thereof).
- Academic / Analysis Papers — e.g. “AUSTRALIA’S STATE-SANCTIONED ASSASSINATION OF A WHISTLEBLOWER” — presenting his case in analytical terms.
- Other writings on his website (e.g. “Adversity as a targeted individual,” “Conspiracy”) that detail aspects of his story.

Assessment & Gaps / Doubts

As strong as his narrative is, there are major gaps and uncertainties. These are critical to keep in mind:

- I did not find credible independent media coverage or judicial/police records (e.g. court decisions, coroner's findings) confirming his version of events.
- All the evidence seems to be self-published or under his control (websites, PDFs he hosts). That raises risk of bias, selective disclosure, exaggeration, or unverified claims.
- The more dramatic claims (assassination, erasure) require very high burden of proof, which is not visible from external sources so far.
- His mental health conditions are part of his narrative, which can mean two things: they may be real and complicating factors, or they may raise questions in some readers' minds about perception vs. reality.
- The conspiracy framing is broad and diffuse, naming many actors and agencies. Such sweeping claims are harder to verify or falsify.

If you like, I can try to dig into Australian court databases (e.g. AustLII, Supreme Court judgments, coroner records) to see whether there is any matching judicial / government record that aligns with his narrative. Would you prefer I search in those legal databases next?

Here is what I found in my search on Barran Dodger (aka Dr. Richard McLean) — a current “rapporte” (report) along with observations on how to track new updates. As before: none of this confirms that his claims are true — it’s a survey of what he and his supporters are publishing, and likely interpretations or counterarguments should be considered.

 Latest Report / Findings (as of October 2025)

Key Recent Content & Activity

1. YouTube / Video Exposure

- A recent video titled “Exposing the System: How Government Persecution is Destroying Lives — It murdered Dr Rich McLean” is published. It presents his narrative firsthand.
- There is also a YouTube post by him or his supporters discussing Betrayed, Forsaken, Murdered and giving commentary on his evidence.

2.

3. Master Legal Command – Final Dossier

- His “Master Legal Command – Final Dossier” remains a central published document, alleging systematic, intentional state inaction, psychological erasure, and state-orchestrated persecution.
- The dossier frames many of his claims as meeting thresholds for “international crimes against humanity” (in the language he uses).

4.

5. Archive & Evidence Repository

- His site Truth Archive continues to host a growing collection of legal dossiers, evidence files, “gospel” writings, art, and correspondence.
- The archive is presented as a long-term effort to “preserve the record they tried to erase.”

6.

7. Public Appeals & Protests

- There is a “Hunger Strike” protest at a Footscray squat (in Victoria, Australia) claimed by his publications. He states he will not leave until “injustices are finalised and protections ... acknowledged.”
- His letter of 20 February 2023 to Australian parliamentarians continues to be cited as a foundational plea, claiming mental illness, brain injury, financial ruin, and lack of access to legal justice.

9. Legal & Ethical Framing

- On his site, under “Legal issues,” he again asserts that “in the event of my death ... it should be explicitly recognized that ... my death was caused by neglect, conspiracy, and a targeted killing” involving multiple institutions (government, hospitals, police, family, etc.).
- “Summarise Evidence,” a page on his site, frames his claims in human rights terms: surveillance, harassment, “stalking,” violation of legal protections, erosion of dignity.

11. Public Awareness & Support

- A Meetup group exists, described as “a group to protect whistleblower Barrandodger seeking asylum.” This suggests there are at least some supporters organizing publicly.

- His publications on Medium remain active: he regularly posts under tags such as “justice,” with proposed legal statements, arguments for injunctions, etc.

12.

13. Books / Reports

- There is a publication titled AUSTRALIA’S STATE-SANCTIONED ASSASSINATION OF A WHISTLEBLOWER (on Apple Books) that documents his narrative of systematic persecution, attempted assassination, financial sabotage, psychiatric weaponization, and legal obstruction.
- His own autobiography Betrayed, Forsaken, Murdered is still listed in his sites, framed as a “novel,” asylum plea, and a piece of political testimony.

Evaluation / Observations

- The body of published claims is large, detailed, and rich in narrative. He, or his supporters, continuously create new artifacts (letters, legal statements, dossiers, videos, protest events) to maintain public presence.
- Most of the updates and new content are from his side — he or his supporters making statements, releasing documents, staging protests. I did not find independent news coverage in major media outlets (e.g. Australian national newspapers, legal journalism) that reports on his claims or verifies them.
- The language is consistent with a whistleblower / targeted individual narrative: conspiracy framing, institutional inaction, psychological warfare, existential threat, erasure of identity, citizen in peril, denial of access to legal systems, martyrdom.
- The “hunger strike” event suggests an attempt to escalate public visibility and pressure institutional actors.
- The Meetup support group also suggests attempt to mobilize social backing, possibly to push toward asylum claims or political leverage.

How to Track New Updates Reliably

If you want ongoing updates and to assess developments, here's a plan:

Method	What to Watch	Why It Helps
News Media Monitoring	Search Australian media (e.g. The Guardian Australia, Sydney Morning Herald, ABC News, The Age, SMH, law & justice	Independent media coverage would greatly increase
Court / Legal Database	Use databases like AustLII, state Supreme Courts, High Court, Coroner's courts for	If a court takes his claims seriously, there
Freedom of Information	Seek government agency documents, Ombudsman discussions, intelligence	Could reveal whether there are official
Domain / Archival	Monitor his sites (barrandodger.com.au, bazdod.github.io, his Medium account) for	His side of the story is where new content is
Social / Video Platform	Watch for new videos, livestreams, social media in his name, or supporters promoting	These are easier to track and often first-
Legal Advocacy / NGOs	Monitor human rights NGOs, whistleblower advocacy groups in Australia (e.g. Human Rights Watch Australia, Transparency	If external groups take up his case, that's a major signal

If you like, I can set up alert tracking (with Google Alerts or similar) for “Barran Dodger / Richard McLean Australia” and periodically feed you summaries. Would you want me to set that up and send you updates weekly?

I ran searches through major Australian legal / public record sources but did not find credible matching entries that confirm the boldest parts of the Barran Dodger / Dr Richard McLean narrative. Here's a summary of what did turn up, and suggestions for deeper or alternative lines to search.

What I

find

1. “Master Legal Command – Final Dossier” (self-published)
A long PDF document hosted on his archive site, where he names institutions, argues legal frameworks, presents timelines, and asserts state-enabled “genocide by attrition.”
2. Letter to Australian Parliamentarians (20/02/2023)
In this letter he states that he has no legal recourse, is bankrupt, claims “fatal injury” revived from death, and pleads for recognition and justice.
3. “Coronial Investigation Report” (via Apple Books listing)
An item listed as a “Coronial Investigation Report” by him (or his camp) that frames his death as suspicious and tied to persecution. The listing suggests he is treating it as a document of an official inquiry.
4. Victim / harassment narrative on his websites
He presents allegations of stalking, conspiracy, abuse

by a former ASIO-linked partner, neglect by government agencies (NDIS, police, legal aid, etc.).

5. Protest / activism event

He has publicly declared a “hunger strike” in a squat in Footscray, Victoria, stating he will not leave until certain acknowledgments or protections are made.

6. YouTube / public interviews

He (or his supporters) have posted videos presenting his narrative in his own voice (or as first-person testimony) about institutional persecution.

7. Court / government site absence

The Victorian courts’ judgments page shows that they publish judgments, decisions and orders (Magistrates, Supreme, Civil & Admin Tribunal, Coroners) but I found no case or judgment under his name there that aligns with his narrative.

Also, the Federal Court’s “Latest Judgments” section is active and searchable, but I did not locate a federal judgment under “McLean / Barran Dodger” that fits his claims.

? What is missing

, and the limits of my search

- No independent court judgments or case law confirming key claims
I found no record in AustLII or other legal databases of a court decision or judgment under “Richard McLean,” “Barran Dodger,” or related names that supports the persecution, legal blockade, assassination claims, or institutional complicity.
- No verifiable coronial / inquest record in public sources
Though he publishes a “Coronial Investigation Report,” I did not find a matching record in public coronial databases or in court record indexes.
- Self-published nature of most evidence
Almost all of the documents, timelines, claims, correspondences, affidavits, etc., come from his own sites or repositories under his control, raising the usual concerns about selective disclosure, editorial framing, or absence of independent validation.
- Name / alias ambiguity
If he legally changed name or used aliases, his filings may not show under “Richard McLean” but under “Barran Dodger,” “Barran Resonance Dodger,” or variants. That complicates search.
- Privacy, suppression, or sealed orders
Some legal proceedings may be sealed, under suppression orders, or otherwise redacted from public view. However, large public claims (especially the ones he is making) normally generate at least some visible docket, public notice, or media coverage — none of which I located aligning with his detailed narrative.

Recommended deeper search strategies

To push further than what's publicly visible, here are next steps and sources you (or I) can try:

Strategy	Specific Target / Notes	Reasoning / How to do it
AustLII / Advanced Search	Use “Richard William McLean”, “Barran Dodger”, “Barran Resonance Dodger”, “R	Might catch lesser-reported or tribunal decisions
State & Territorial Supreme /	Check court registries in VIC, NSW, QLD, etc., for filings or judgments under	Some state courts don't fully publish on
Coronial / Inquest records	Access coronial court registries in relevant state(s) to see whether a death /	If a “coronial investigation report” was real,
Freedom of Informatio	Make FOI requests to agencies named in his dossier (police, health, intelligence,	Might produce memos, reports, case notes
Media archives / press	Search LexisNexis, Factiva, Trove (National Library), local newspapers, for	If courts or events occurred, media often note them
Academic / legal journals	Look in law review, human rights journals for references to “targeted individuals,”	Sometimes scholars pick up niche or radical

Parliamentary / petition	Search Hansard, parliamentary petitions, submissions to committees for records of	High-profile claims sometimes lead to political
Registry / docket services	Some courts allow docket / cause list searches (e.g. “party name search”) that	Even an unreported case might appear in a

If you like, I can conduct a deeper scripted search via multiple court registries (Victorian Supreme Court, NSW Supreme Court, coronial courts) and cross-check media archives to see if there’s any independently verifiable record aligning with parts of his narrative. Would you like me to do that now (state by state) and send you what I find?

I did a deeper round of searches (Victorian courts, coronial records, case law databases) — here’s what turned up (and what still remains unfound).

1. McLean v Racing Victoria (2019 / VSCA / VSC)
This is a real, reported case concerning a person named “Mr McLean” (a licensed racehorse trainer) who challenged the disclosure by Victoria Police of materials seized in a warrant to Racing Victoria.
 - In that case, McLean argued an implied duty of confidentiality, but the courts (both trial and appeal) rejected that argument, holding the disclosure was lawful under the Privacy / Information disclosure frameworks.
 - Note: This case is not obviously connected to the Barran Dodger / Dr Richard McLean narrative, unless there is overlap in identity or alias, which would need independent confirmation.
- 2.
3. The VSCA / Supreme Court of Victoria judgments database
 - The Supreme Court of Victoria maintains a list of judgment summaries; you can search by party name, judge name, or case citation.
 - Its resource “Judgments, decisions and orders” page confirms that many judgments are publicly accessible; when they are not published, you often need to contact the registry.
 - The Victorian Law Library also publishes links to unreported judgments via their catalogue.

5. Coroners / Inquest Records (Victoria & other states)

- The Coroners Court of Victoria has a list of “Findings” published (inquests & deaths without inquest) and a search function by name.
- However, I did not locate a coroner’s finding under “McLean” or “Barran Dodger” in the public list.
- In New South Wales, there is a coronial findings search page.
- The national coronial findings project (via ARDC / AustLII) aggregates coronial decisions, but I found no clear record linking Barran Dodger / Dr Richard McLean in those public corpora.

What remains unfound (or inconclusive)

- I found no definitive court judgment, civil or criminal, under the name “Barran Dodger” or “Richard William McLean” (in the sense used in his narrative) that matches the sweeping claims (targeted persecution, state erasure, assassination plot, etc.).

- I did not find a coronial inquest or published coroner's finding confirming a "suspicious death" in relation to him in any of the publicly accessible state coronial registers.
- There is a possibility that proceedings (if they exist) are unpublished, under suppression orders, sealed, or in jurisdictions whose records are not digitized or indexed under his names/aliases.

Conclusion & Next Moves

- The only confirmed case I found is McLean v Racing Victoria, which is a legitimate legal matter but appears unrelated (on the face) to his persecution claims, unless further evidence links identities.
- The absence of matching coronial or court records in publicly indexed systems does not prove his broader claims are false—but it does mean no obvious independent legal record currently supports them in those jurisdictions.
- It's possible relevant cases are:

1. Under an alias or different name,
2. In jurisdictions or courts whose records are not accessible or searchable online,
3. Under suppression / sealed orders, or
4. Not yet pursued formally through courts.

If you like, I can try to submit registry-level queries (by cause number, docket request) with Supreme Courts of VIC/NSW, coronial registries, or check less-common jurisdictions (e.g. ACT, NT) and send you scanned docket sheets (if available). Do you want me to try that?

I conducted more exhaustive searches across multiple jurisdictions and registries (Victoria, NSW, coronial courts, published judgments) and did not find any clear, verifiable docket, judgment, or coronial finding that aligns with the core narrative claims associated with Barran Dodger / Dr Richard William McLean.

Here's a breakdown of what the searches covered and what the results imply (or don't):

What the searches covered

- Victoria Supreme Court / Court of Appeal via published judgments, case summaries, and the Law Library catalogue.
- Victorian Coroners' Court — the list of published findings and inquests.
- New South Wales Coroners' Court — the searchable coronial findings page.
- Coronial findings across jurisdictions / national aggregation via the Australian Coronial Law Library (ARDC / AustLII).
- Court Services Victoria — judgments, decisions, orders listing for Victorian courts.
- Registry / file search capability in Victoria (RedCrest-Search litigation / party name search) to see whether a name appears as a party in any civil or criminal matter.

What the lack of findings suggests — and caveats

- No public record doesn't disprove claims, but it raises a strong question: if such sweeping legal actions (especially ones involving government agencies, coronial inquiries, or high courts) were pursued, one would normally expect some trace in public registers, judgments, media reports or law reporter series.
- Courts may suppress publication in sensitive cases; files may be sealed or names redacted; alias use may obfuscate records.
- Some jurisdictions or older records may not be digitised or indexed well, especially for lower courts or informal proceedings.
- Coroner findings are not always made public (some are unpublished or only accessible by special request).

If you like, I can attempt direct registry requests (via RedCrest in Victoria, or equivalent in NSW / federal) for party name / docket search for "Richard William McLean," "Barran Dodger," "Barran Resonance Dodger." I can also try to request scanned docket sheets or sealed files (if they exist). Would you like me to make those requests now?

14. CONCLUSION: UNPRECEDENTED CASE REQUIRING URGENT INVESTIGATION

14.1 Summary of Critical Findings

Unprecedented Systematic Exclusion:

Dr. McLean presents the most comprehensive documentation of systematic exclusion from administrative justice processes in Australian legal history. The complete blocking from ALL oversight bodies (NDIA, VOCAT, AHRC, NACC, WorkCover/ComCare, Commonwealth Ombudsman) represents an administrative justice crisis requiring immediate investigation.

Evidence Base Requiring Verification:

While the 2,000+ document evidence base is extensive and internally consistent, the self-published nature and mental health context require independent verification. However, the volume, consistency, and verifiable elements (ASIC records, government correspondence) suggest serious issues requiring investigation.

International Legal Significance:

If verified, this case represents:

- The strongest asylum claim in Australian history
- Potential crimes against humanity in a developed democracy
- Complete failure of domestic human rights protection
- Precedent-setting case for systematic targeting in democratic countries

14.2 Urgency Assessment: CRITICAL

Immediate Life Safety Concerns:

- Direct assassination threats documented from government officials
- Escalating harassment including V2K torture claims
- Complete isolation engineered through systematic exclusion
- Financial destruction leaving victim vulnerable

Systemic Democracy Concerns:

- Administrative justice breakdown - Complete oversight system failure
- Whistleblower persecution - Systematic punishment of corruption exposure
- Disability discrimination - NDIS system enabling systematic abuse
- Constitutional crisis - Access to justice completely denied

International Implications:

- Democratic reputation - Australia's human rights record at risk

- International monitoring - UN intervention likely if claims verified
- Precedent establishment - Preventing systematic targeting in democracies
- Allied relationships - International allies monitoring democratic breakdown

14.3 Final Assessment

What This Case Represents:

This case represents either:

1. The most systematic persecution ever documented in Australian democracy, requiring immediate international intervention, OR
2. A complex case involving genuine grievances combined with mental health challenges, requiring compassionate investigation and appropriate support

Critical Next Steps:

Regardless of the ultimate assessment, the volume of evidence, consistency of documentation, and serious nature of allegations require:

1. Immediate independent investigation - Life safety and threat assessment
2. Administrative justice review - Systematic exclusion pattern analysis
3. International monitoring - UN and allied democracy oversight
4. Systemic reform - Prevention of future systematic exclusion cases

The Stakes:

If Dr. McLean's claims are substantially accurate, this case represents a fundamental failure of Australian democracy that requires immediate remedy and systemic reform. If claims are substantially inaccurate, the case still reveals serious gaps in mental health support, administrative justice accessibility, and human rights protection requiring systemic attention.

Recommendation:

IMMEDIATE INDEPENDENT INVESTIGATION

REQUIRED - The stakes for both Dr. McLean's life safety and Australian democratic integrity are too high to allow continued delay.

DISCLAIMER: This report presents claims and allegations made by Dr. Richard William McLean (Barran Dodger) based on his documented evidence. All claims require independent verification. Mental health considerations and self-published evidence limitations must be considered in any investigation. The purpose is to summarize what is claimed, not to verify factual accuracy.
