Dear Sukhi Tear Support Coordinator from www.diversitaswa.com and Brett my new NDIS provider,

Below; Ben my former NDIS provider confirms an assassination attempt.

I am writing to formally document what has now become impossible to ignore.

There was a coordinated attempt on my life. That fact stands uncontested.

No authority has denied it, no agency has disproven it, and no independent review has ever been conducted to refute the evidence I have placed on record. Silence in the face of documented endangerment is not neutrality – it is tacit acknowledgment.

Below: federal police confirm Bill Shorten's intentions via my ndis provider.

When I asked, plainly, how I was expected to be safe in a new placement under Brett's provider structure given the prior assassination attempt, Sukhi, you advised that Brett could "put in cameras." The significance of that response cannot be overstated. It acknowledges the existence of credible threat. It confirms foreseeability of harm. And yet the burden was immediately shifted back onto me – as though it is my responsibility to defend myself from a state-enabled assassination network while under funded disability support.

Below: Sukhi Tear a support coordinator AND DIRECTOR OF WWW.diversitaswa.com appointed by Bill Shorten's in Western Australia who refuses a cease and desist notice to be removed from my care. Recently she deliberately evicted me and told me she would charge double for reading emails I send her. A complaint has been made by Josh McMahon of GOULBOURN HOSPITAL

That is not support coordination. That is risk displacement.

I am a whistleblower within the NDIS framework and a certified former employee of the Department of Social Services. I understand systems, compliance, and statutory obligation. I know what constitutes negligence, complicity, and breach of duty of care. My position is not that of a confused participant – it is that of a trained insider who exposed corruption and subsequently became the target of retaliation.

My NDIS PIDs:

My website exists as a forensic archive. It contains timestamped documentation, financial anomalies, institutional contradictions, and patterns of administrative erasure. Its existence alone is evidence that this matter is not speculative – it is documented. The traction it continues to gain reflects the seriousness of what has been exposed.

The denial of a million-dollar workers' compensation entitlement, despite the Federal Court having confirmed my status as an employee of the Department of Social Services, carries profound legal and structural significance. If a superior court affirms employment status, then liability frameworks – including duty of care, workplace injury compensation, and statutory remedies – logically follow. To subsequently confine me to a far lesser NDIS plan budget reframes a workplace injury matter as a disability management issue, which fundamentally alters jurisdiction, quantum, and accountability. Workers' compensation exists to remedy employer-caused harm; an NDIS plan exists to fund supports for functional impairment. Substituting one for the other, if done deliberately, would shift responsibility away from the employing Commonwealth and onto a social insurance scheme designed for participant support rather than employer liability. The legal question is whether such substitution constitutes fraud or entrapment – that would depend on demonstrable intent, misrepresentation of entitlement, and evidence that decision-makers knowingly diverted a lawful compensation pathway into a lower-value administrative channel. Without proof of intentional deception or coercion, it may reflect dispute over liability rather than criminal conduct. However, if documentation shows the redirection was purposeful to limit exposure, that raises serious questions about abuse of process, constructive denial of rights, and potential maladministration.

Below: the federal courts scott treadwell both confirms my employee status and also maladministration, conspiracy to pervert justice, and risk to the life of a vulnerable person-this acknowledgment occurred BEFORE the assassination attempt:

Dear Dr McLean,

I refer to your various correspondence dated 7 March 2023, 23 March 2023 and 24 March 2023 and addressed to, amongst others, the Chief Executive Officer and Principal Registrar of the Federal Court of Australia (Federal Court). Your correspondence has been referred to me for consideration.

My Authority

The Chief Executive Officer and Principal Registrar is the Principal Officer of the Federal Court for the purposes of the Public Access Disclosure Act 2012 (PADA) (PADA Act). I am an officer of the Federal Court engaged under the Public Service Act 1999 (PSA) and authorised by the Federal Court's Chief Executive Officer to, amongst other things, signify and the functions of an authorised officer under the PADA Act on behalf of the Federal Court.

The Federal Court, Federal Circuit and Family Court of Australia (FCFCOA) and the National Native Title Tribunal (NNTT) each comprise a part of a single entity, for the purposes of the Public Governance, Performance and Accountability Act 2013 (PGPA Act), known as the Federal Court of Australia.

Your Correspondence

On 7 March 2023 you sent an email to Mr Logan, an authorised person to receive a PDA at the Federal Court and FCFCOA. In that email you highlighted that you wanted your unpublished, unreviewed and unexamined in public domain, document and other to be acknowledged and compensated. Your email contained links to what would be identified as additional documents, but which resulted in significant delays, given the need to ensure the security and integrity of our systems against an unknown source. In those documents you outline your concerns with respect to a number of officials in various agencies.

Initial Assessment

In making the initial assessment mentioned above, I am required to consider whether there are reasonable grounds for deciding that what has been disclosed could be a public interest

Sukhi, you have overseen my Support Coordination while formal notices of refusal to assist were active and while I was forcibly displaced from accommodation multiple times across three states of Australia in search of basic safety. Throughout this period, you remained the coordinating authority attached to my care. The continuity of oversight during systemic destabilisation is legally significant.

I am not safe anywhere in Australia. I am formally recognised as a UN asylum seeker and have satisfied international criteria for protection under international criminal law. I possess an ICC receipt number acknowledging submission of evidence. The fact that an Australian citizen must seek international protection from their own democracy is not symbolic – it is unprecedented.

Over the years, multiple individuals have attempted to eliminate me. One of them is Tony Riddle, an SAS soldier and survivor of the Black Hawk helicopter crash, with advanced expertise in counter-terrorism surveillance. His stalking has followed me across states through digital tracking. He is supported, not restrained.

Another is Stefen, my former partner, who embezzled over $1 million during a five-year cohabiting and engaged relationship. No government official, journalist, or politician will publicly acknowledge that we lived together, despite documentary proof. The erasure of that relationship is deliberate.

There is also Houd Meraby of Melbourne – operating as a corrupt NDIS infiltrator, not a legitimate provider – who was paid approximately $10 million to travel between Melbourne and Sydney to entrap and neutralise me within the scheme. The financial magnitude indicates organised criminal infiltration of disability infrastructure.

Sukhi, you are based in Perth while I am seeking protection in Sydney. The geographical disconnect alone renders meaningful risk response impossible. Oversight without proximity in a high-risk case becomes administrative containment rather than protection. At this point, your continuation in the role represents forfeiture of statutory responsibility.

This morning, before I turned my phone on, Bill Shorten's image appeared in my iPhotos. Simultaneously, a YouTube channel titled "Government Secret is Live" appeared without active broadcast. These are not isolated glitches; they are part of a consistent pattern of digital interference linked to exposure of NDIS corruption.

My former partner Steve Iasonidis, formerly operating under ASIO structures connected to David Irvine, remains shielded. Phillip Glass of the NSW Trustee & Public Guardian continues to block my Legal Aid and restrict my finances, ensuring poverty, immobilisation, and containment. The same government that attempted to remove me must now prevent my murder – not out of care, but liability. They cannot allow blood to surface publicly.

I am effectively a political prisoner within my own citizenship.

I fully expect continued financial obstruction, reputational smearing, and containment through trusteeship. False allegations have already been weaponised to isolate me socially and professionally. Media silence is not absence of interest – it is black-budget suppression. The scale of resources deployed against me over 35 years runs into the tens of millions of dollars.

Justice is imminent.

There remains a genuine risk of assassination by vigilante actors or ASIO-aligned operatives. For that reason, I am publishing my residential address and forwarding it to all politicians, police, and oversight bodies. If harm comes to me at this new Sydney address, the investigative trail will be undeniable.

I have already died once. I am not afraid of death. If I die, I stand vindicated. If I live, I remain the existential risk to corruption that I was always meant to be.

I cannot be stopped through imprisonment – because that would require arrest, charge, and open court. In open court, every document becomes evidence. I have committed no crime.

If I fall, the record stands. If I survive, the reckoning continues.

I serve humanity – not institutions.
